THE ANDOVER ADVERTISER

The whole reduction of the debt in the seven months of President Grant's administration amounts now to $138,104,690. There is also in the Treasury a coin balance of over $78,000,000.

The latest election returns from Illinois make it certain that the new constitution has been adopted by about 100,000 majority. Each clause was submitted to the people separately, and all adopted, including that for the minority representation.

The Darien expedition has again failed, and the surveys have been abandoned for the season. The only fact established is that the Isthmus cannot be passed except by tunneling, and the question revolves itself into a consideration of the feasibility of a tunneled canal.

The Democrats of Maine, from all reports, have been unnecessarily excited at their State Convention held at Portland last week, and after a quarrelsome and very stormy session, adjourned in the utmost confusion without making a nomination for Governor. The Convention adjourned to meet at Bangor on the 16th of August.

The Albany Evening Journal, one of the ablest Republican organs in the State, speaks of Mr. Murphy's nomination as follows:

"Thomas Murphy, if confirmed by the Senate, will make a good collector. He is intelligent, energetic and conscientious, and thoroughly acquainted with the commercial interests of the metropolis. He is, withal, an experienced and sagacious politician, and will make the best use possible of the large patronage of the office, without hazarding the interests of the government or the public."

The Journal is an exponent of the views of a large portion of the party in our State.

A FIGHT WITH THE INDIANS.

This morning's papers states that information has been received at headquarters that Lieutenant Young, with thirty-five men, attacked two hundred hostile Indians on the 26th of June, 38 miles from Rawlins on the Union Pacific R. R. and killed fifteen besides wounding a number of them, with no loss to our soldiers and with but one wounded. After fighting for four hours Lieut Young sent for reinforcements, but before any of them reached him the Indians had fled to the mountains. The Indians, it is said, had a strong position in the bush and mountain gorge.

THE COLLECTORSHIP.

The war upon Mr. Murphy, and against Mr. Conkling has become intensely bitter. Charges of every character, which would tend to make capital against him with the Senators who have not his acquaintance, and circulated by Governor Fenton and his friends. There are but two reasons really, why Fenton should take this course of warfare against Murphy.—For he certainty cannot oppose him on the ground that he has not the ability to conduct the business of the office, nor can he oppose him on account of his political history. Mr. Murphy has been identified with the Democratic party since its organization, and has always supported its nominees as liberally as has his opponents. But here is the difficulty; there has existed for a long time a feud between Fenton and Murphy, which the former seems determined not to let pass, no matter what may become of the party, or even his best friends. Then, again, we find him arrayed against the Administration in almost an abusive manner, because the President see fit to send in to the Senate the name of Mr. Murphy for the office of Collector. It would seem that he was determined to make a breach between the Administration and the Republican Party. We are in hopes that Fenton will, under the existing circumstances, give up to the wishes of a majority of the leading Republicans of the State.

THE CARNIVAL.

Some things are so unmitigatedly evil in effects that it is a wonder that men can be tempted to touch, taste or handle them, or allow them to be ranked among the commodities that may be bought and sold. High on the list of those must alcoholic preparations for drinking purposes be placed.

To-day we chronicle the case of another victim of the murderous power of alcoholic drinks. If this were a solitary instance, if a case of this kind happened but once or twice in the course of a year, it might be overlooked; but when, as is estimated by well-informed men, in the course of each year, in our country, nicohol lays as hundred thousand men in dishonored graves, and is the source of untold misery, crime and pauperism besides, the evil assumes a magnitude too great to be ignored by any one who wishes well to man, or remanded to the shades of indifference or non-observance.

Yesterday, in Ellsworth, Maine, a young man named Hiram Lord, while in a state of intoxication, fell from a bridge upon the rocks below and was killed in consequence of drunkenness. Some have stretched themselves in drunken sleep upon the railroad track, and the rushing train has crushed and mangled their bodies—sending their souls in shocking haste into the eternal world! Teams guided by reins in drunken hands have run away and killed their drivers. A drunken man dies while traveling in a railway car.

And so, day by day, all over our land, the carnival goes on. Alcoholic drink is manufactured: it is sold; men drink it; and sorrow and death, and, the moral debasement and the cruel anguish that is worse than death, are the unavoidable result.

Our village, otherwise so peaceable, is disgraced by drunken brawls and fights, leading to lawsuits and "fines and costs." Drunken women, even, fill the air with maudlin cries, and run yelling and screaming through the streets, in the crazy anger begotten of alcohol!

We ask our citizens.—How do you like the entertainment? And if such are the scenes in the midst of the drama, what must the finale be?

What can be done? This much we can do: we can give our voice and influence to induce men to forego the deceptive and hurtful pleasures of drink. We can labor to reform the drinking usages of society. We can show men that it is far better to shun intoxicating beverages; that they should avoid alcohol—which is the product of decay and death and leads to death—and partake only of those beverages that quench thirst and hurt neither mind nor body.

Liquor sold by a man of "a good moral character" hurts all the same as if sold by the vilest of men. Poison will kill, by whomsoever administered.

Looking at the traffic in its length and breadth, its inception and its results, we are thoroughly, finally and eternally opposed to liquor-drinking and liquor selling. Too long and too terribly has Alcohol held its carnival
