Right Methods Make Prosperity.

It does us good when we hear our tradesmen report business as "first-class," and note the satisfied look on their faces. Let us tell you that it is not so everywhere we go. It is the right kind of business men with the right kind of push and energy that has made Andover one of the most progressive towns in this part of the state.

Principal Bartlett and the teachers of the High School attended the banquet and Teachers' Association in Wellsville, Thursday evening and Friday, and report a fine time. It was decided to hold the Association in Wellsville again next February.

Plain Facts.

After you get angry and stop your paper, just poke your finger into water, pull it out and look at the hole. Then you know how sadly you are missed. A man who thinks a paper cannot live without his support ought to go off and stay a while. When he comes back half his friends will not know he had gone and the other half not care, while the world at large kept no account of his movements. You will find things you cannot endorse in every paper. The "book of books" is often very plain and hits some hard raps, but if you were to get mad and burn your bible the hundreds of presses would go on printing it, so when you stop your paper and call the editor names, the paper will be published still, and what is more you will read it on the sly.—Ex.

SHORT COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

Opposes Searchers Who Came to Remove the Body

The short course in Agriculture occurs at the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, Feb. 22 to 27. The problems of country life will be presented ably in the strong programs.

The state is urging granges and other organizations to send a delegate who can report the work of the course and furnish valuable information for many meetings.

Special rates have been granted by railroads and the Ithaca Business Men's Association are arranging to secure places so that all can find places to stay.

A housekeepers' conference will also be one of the features of the week. A course in cereal foods and their preparation will be given by Miss Margaret Mitchell of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia.

Taft's Induction Into Office to Be Most Imposing.

SUPERB MILITARY DISPLAY.

General Bell Planning to Make a Fine Showing of Former Inaugural Troops—Famous Sixth Cavalry Horse Troop to Escort Incoming President.

If the plans now under way for the inauguration at Washington of William H. Taft on March 4 are all realized, the new president will be inducted into office with ceremonies such as have never been eclipsed on a like occasion. Indeed, it is probable that the forthcoming inauguration will be the most attractive that Washington has ever witnessed.

The inaugural of four years ago was marked by striking and conspicuous military features, but the Taft inauguration promises to excel it in that regard as well as in some other features.

General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the army and grand marshal of the parade, is ambitious, of course, to have the military make a fine showing. He will be favored by the fact that the troops now in Cuba will be returning from the island about that time. It is the intention to have all the available troops in the region at the time to take part in the parade. The Cuban troops will be brought on transports to Hampton Roads and from there shipped to Washington by rail. It is expected these veterans from Cuba will make an especially fine showing.

A powerful force of the national guard will be in line. National guard troops have been invited from every state. Not to exceed a brigade is to be allowed from any state. Pennsylvania will send a brigade. Maryland, too, will be represented by a brigade. New York will have a powerful force of guardsmen. The District guard will be in line. Then there will be cadets from various schools and the battalions from West Point and Annapolis.

The famous black horse troop of Cleveland will act as escort for the incoming president. The military will head the parade, and when the east front of the capitol is reached the military organizations will be drawn up about the inauguration platform, thus holding back the tremendous crush of spectators that throng the capitol grounds to see the new president sworn in, and this whether the weather brings rain or shine, snow, hail or sleet. This is one occasion when the American citizen takes no thought of comfort.

All the indications are that the civic side of the parade will be more interesting than usual. The efforts of the inaugural committee are being directed to quality rather than quantity. Those organizations that are given permission to march will be distinguished by their smartness and attractiveness. About thirty civic organizations have thus far arranged to appear in line. In previous inaugurations it has not always been possible for the parade to pass the reviewing stand before dark. This parade is being arranged with a view to enabling it to pass the reviewing stand before night falls. One of the civic organizations will be the Negro Republican club of Richmond, with 300 members.

There will be many other innovations. A political club which attended the Roosevelt inaugural carrying "big sticks," which they thumped loudly on the asphalt as they marched, will attend the Taft-Sherman ceremonies, and the members promise a striking novelty—they will not say what it will be—to take the place of the big sticks. Then there will be a "possum" club from Georgia and also an "alligator association" from Louisiana. The rough riders, who were very much in evidence four years ago, will be succeeded in this year's parade by a corps of gentlemen riders from the fox hunting districts of Virginia and Maryland, wearing the pink coats and white riding trousers and all the other accessories of the regulation five barred gate costumes.

Another feature of the big parade is to be a "prosperity division" composed of business men and organizations from throughout the country. The plan is being worked out by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association of Washington.

Still another innovation is found in an order issued the other day by Brigadier General J. Franklin Bell to the effect that but one band will be permitted to play "Hail to the Chief." That honor is reserved for the first band in the line, the famous marine organization.

Of course there will be the usual plethora of bands, of glee clubs and the like.

The inaugural ball this year will be marked by some departures, and one of the most interesting of them will be to have a prominent citizen of each state on the committee on arrangements. Staid governors, e pblike state senators, graceful politicians from north, south, east and west, will congregate to lead the dancers through the waltz, the twostep and other figures.

New Airship Express.

New Word For General Use

The New York Telephone Co. has been asked to adopt the title "Phonist" as the official designation of a telephone operator. They now have the matter under consideration. Frank A. Burrelle, the press clipping man of New York, who created the word and applied for the usual government protection has volunteered to relinquish all rights in case of its official adoption.

Public School Training.

I want to see a training that will make every boy, every girl leaving the public schools of the nation feel impelled so to carry himself or herself that the net result when his or her life has been lived shall be an addition to the sum total of decent living and achievement for the Nation, and have them understand that they are never going to amount to much in big things if they don't first amount to something in the little things.—President Roosevelt.

Sad Fate of a Pet Dog.

A faithful hound was found near Rochester, N. Y., guarding the body of his master, Warren Hansons, a shoe maker, who had been frozen to death while returning home last night from a hunting expedition. The dog had circled the body until it had worn a path to the snow around it, and searchers approached the animal opposed their approach until it had been taken off.

Sunny South.

J. C. Rockwell's Sunny South company drew the largest crowd, so far, of the season at the Auditorium Wednesday evening. The managers were obliged to refuse standing room; and a number of people returned to their homes disappointed. The company put on a good vaudeville performance. Among the specialties the Banjo Soloist, Slack Wire and Juggler work were of especial merit.

An Ordinance.

The following ordinance was enacted at a Village Board of Health meeting, held in Village Hall last Tuesday evening, Feb. 2:

Spitting upon the floor of the Auditorium, in the Village of Andover, is hereby prohibited, by law. Any person convicted of such a misdemeanor will be liable to a fine of $5.00 for each and every offense. 8
