FAINT HEART NEVER WON.

"Faint heart never won fair lady" is an old saw that we have heard repeated times without number. Its true. faint heart never won anything worth while, it's true that there may come to Faint heart some sort of "Rock-a-bye baby" style of getting things, but it wasn't worth while. It is as true as preaching that the things that are worth while only come from "plugging," that's what they used to call it in college.

It does not pay to get discouraged, if things don't come your way, WAIT. Everybody can't get the idea all at once. There is always a way to get at everything, and the one who waits and keeps plugging gets there.

And don't growl if every thing don't go to suit you, It never will. Some folks travel by train, some on a freight, some in a Pullman, some walk the ties. but they all get there. So if the train don't go fast enough to suit you, get off and walk. Don't growl.

That's the time. That's when it takes GRIT, when things go slow. But they will come. The writer was talking with an insurance man the other day. a man who does a large business in life insurance. He said: "We have times when its mighty hard to write up policies, everything is against business and then at other times it comes so easy we get careless."

There was a point there, the law of life made it necessary to get the hard knocks to strengthen the business man for the proposition to come and then that other law to equalize it all. Thats it.

Faint heart never won, Perhaps you have had ideas that would of helped make this village better, and you've thought what's the use. Tell it, Don't keep your light under a bushel. Mr. Merchant, you too, had ideas about enlarging your business, want-ed to advertise on a new line, perhaps got an idea some place you visited, got home and thought it all out, and was afraid what your competitors would say, or they would think that you were an apist. Let them think, FAINT HEART NEVER WON. That is also true of the business life and growth of the village as a whole. Andover can do things. There is enough originality among her business men to DO THE THING that will make Andover a busy place. Get to it. Faint heart never won, but with the energy which characterizes our people it can be done.

Get people talking about Andover. You'll hear a few sneers, the croakers will still be on earth and noticable, but what of that? It will cost, but for every penny invested in bringing people to Andover dollars will grow on the lining of your pocket. Dollars corroding in old teapots, hid away for fear of theives never gets interest. So dollars kept from legitimate use in expanding interest are in the same boat, or tea-pot.

Andover men cannot afford to be penny wise and pound foolish.

THE HOME.

The days of summer are almost gone for another year and while the leaves are falling, and to quote Riley, "The frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder in the shock" thoughts turn readily to the indoor life for the coming months, and to the HOME.

HOME, after all, is the best place on earth for the many, and during the months is going to be just what you make it. Our village can be proud of its beautiful residences, well kept, and giving one the idea of thrift, but its the home life after all, that makes the character of the men and women whom we are to do business with and who are to leave the heritage for the coming men andwomen.

Home, if we understand the idea correctly, should be a place of unity and rest. Unity! in that the purpose of the whole family unit and the exisitng fellowship between the parents and children should be put upon the highest possible plane. It would never do to play cross purposes with the children and the parents who have gotten the most out of their families are those who have put the most in, along the line of a confidence in their children.

There should exist a chumship between father and son, and between mother and daughter that would spring from absolute confidence in each other's lives. No parent can be too kind to the children, and this is not meant to say that parents should be over indulgent. But the home should be the trysting place for the whole family. Many a woman has lost her grip on her husband and he found the pleasures outside greater than the ones at home because she was so concerned about other things, that she failed to give him her confidence and trust. It is not wise to let any new fangled notions of independence destroy the sweet influence of the home life. No member of the family can be independant of the other. The home life is put at its best by interdependence. Many a father and mother have in after years regretted that they did not give their children the benefit of their experience in life, and permitted them to learn the most vital truths from scources that to say the least were objectionable.

The sweetness of the home life in its last bearing is CONFIDENCE.

Be of the same mind one toward another. Be not high minded, but condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits. Recompense no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as in you lies, live peaceably with all men. Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance belongs to me; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if your enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing you shall heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

Be kind, do not say the harsh thing when things go wrong. Don't forget that mother and father have their days when things look dark. A kind word from the son, an offer to carry the load, to the father often would lighten the burden. A kiss from the daughter upon the mother's cheek would dispel the gloom and drive away the heartache. That's the pleasure of the HOME LIFE freedom. Then be free and generous with your words of praise and see if life isn't sweeter and better, and your home isn't the best place on earth.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

The President, if he follows out the schedule made for his trip, will travel something like 13000 miles and speak at about 50 banquets.

It is a wise plan, for he will not only see the people but the people will see him, and from his speeches he will get a line on the wishes and desires of the whole people.

President Taft, has been in office only since last March, but has in that time showed the wisdom of a statesman, and that there are ways of government as well as with the "Big Stick".

There are questions that cannot be solved broadly by staying at the nations capitol, and getting the biased opinions of representatives colored by personal interests, might have done years ago, but the expansion of the country, the complex interests to be considered, make the plan the only one for a broad solution of the questions involved.

He will be in position to learn what the people think about the recently enacted tariff act.

An opportunity will be offered to discuss the currency question with expets in different parts of the country, for whether we will or no, there will come a time when the monetry interests of the country will demand a central bank, with branches in different parts of the country for the issuing of currency, under reasonable restrictions. Such a plan was favored by the American Association of bankers in session recently, at Chicago.

There is the question of a postal savings bank, that too, must be met and we believe the demand will become greater as the months pass. To settle it, and the Parcel Post system, the President will be enabled to acquire the wishes of the people and give them what they want.

Politicians may carry their views, but the American people are getting to the place where the politicians demands are not always their wishes and the President can get at the temperment and hearts of the people.

So the swing of the President around the circle will be of much benefit to the whole people.

Don't spit on the sidewalks, Clean streets are a good advertisement for any village.

Give your neighbors the fair treatment that you expect them to give you.

If the business men and the professional men line out Andover's interest as enthusiastically as they make base hits, the future of the village is assured.

The self indulgent Man is the one who is on the road to ruin.

That new booze cure "Buttermilk" will be a boon to the farmer.

The spirit of "Alcohol" is the foundation for "BRAG"

Texas

In a criticism by Alan Dale, of the New York Journal, in which he praised "Texas" he said;

"We have referred to 'Texas' several times during the past few weeks because it is certainly the best production which has put in an appearance in this city in many a day, and the New Yorkers show their appreciation for 'Texas' by their liberal attendance at each performance. During the past five weeks thousands of New Yorkers have witnessed the play which has a charm that not even 'Arizona' or 'The Virginian' can equal. We have tried in vain to determine what there is about "Texas" which makes everybody want to see it a second time."

The play was first produced in New York where it had an extraordinary run, when it was taken on the road for a tour of all the principal cities, where it also met the unstinted praise of the press and public. A strong cast and all the accessories which tended to make the production so popular will again be carried this season. At the Auditorium Wednesday, Sept. 30. Seat sale starts Saturday at 9 a. m. Prices 25, 35, 50, 75, and $1.00.
