SIGN-BOARDS ON THE UP-ROAD

Hamilton B. Williams

Like wheels within wheels the human family falls into groups which is a certain development that may be called "the spirit of the group," interpret their conception of life. In art, labor, business, philosophy and religion the "spirit" makes gloom or gleam along the roads.

The spirit of any particular group is to be considered in reference to the ideals which must exist as facts to be accomplished if there is Design and Sequence as the "Spirit" of the Universe.

If Blunder and Malevolence or Wrath or Arbitrariness rule . . then swift come the dust — and sweet return to nothingness.

The Spirit of the Business group—is it Fair Play? of the intellectual group—is it arrogance? of the cultural group—is it exclusiveness? The reactions of such like we are quite familiar with—seeing our social order is but little beyond the jungle.

The Spirit of the Religious Group is immensely determinative. The human family takes its religions seriously, and all departments of life are moulded by the religious sanctions.

What God-idea holds sway?

What status has man in the community — world and universe?

I heard not long since a man approve an idea of salvation that automatically consigned the vast majorities to a hell, not because of any particular merit or demerit . . . . but because of an arbitrary ruling of God! And this in the name of justice!

Religious ideas are the keys of life in every age.

I affirm that the obligation to believe in a God of infinite diameter of service is the privilege of intelligence. Intelligence does not stop short.

In regard to the proposition that man is a crawling worm headed toward doom — I affirm that blasphemes a God of Love.

In regard to the idea that life has a glory of experience, in which by vast diciplines and growth, he shall find the Heart of Being, I affirm that that is intelligent.

The spirit of an intelligent group must be a love for the world-group and service for clearing the human problem of handicaps.

We surely are headed uproad.

LOST OUT BY SMALL MARGIN

Daring Adventurer Played for Millions and Almost Succeeded In Dishonest Venture.

A remarkable rogue, at a time when the competition for that distinction is keen, was arrested recently. By name Surran, before the war he kept a small shop, eking out his legitimate profits by receiving stolen goods. This stage of his life ended in a blaze and he was sentenced to three months' imprisonment for burning down his place of business to get the insurance money.

Since the war he has become the most expert of all the bandits who prey on the immense dumps left behind by the American and British, and by perseverance he got together a large sum. Last August he tried a higher flight. Well dressed and suave, he presented himself at a certain dump in France and bought the whole place, the sum demanded being £1,600,000 at the present rate of exchange. To arrive at this end without actually paying a penny to the government he had to distribute £10,000 in bribes and tips.

He immediately started to cart off his "purchase," but lack of capital was his downfall. He had hardly a cart load left over from his gigantic campaign of bluff and bribery, and could not pay the wagon drivers, who complained to the police.—Manchester (Eng.) Guardian.

Must Keep on "Making Good."

Life is an everlasting struggle. Nothing but the keenest attention to its great problems will bring lasting success. There are many that gain temporary attention and they think they have made a name for themselves. The fact is there are thousands of others with just as much head striving for a place in the sun. They are watching every loophole for an opportunity. Often the fellow who starts right with a small lead can achieve almost anything he sets out to. So folks have learned to take advantage of everything that turns up or that they can turn up. That means you are never safe in resting on past laurels. It's a case of making good eternally or falling down before you have finished your course.

Air Mail Stamps.

Over forty varieties of specially designed postage stamps for air mails have already been published, much to the joy of the philatelists. Italy has the credit for the first air stamp which was issued by the Italian postal authorities as long ago as 1917. The United States, Canada, Newfoundland, Sweden, Spain, Switzerland, Esthonia, Colombia and the Belgian Congo have all considered it desirable to issue special stamps to their peoples. Tonis has even produced a second contribution. Needless to mention, Germany and Hungary were early in the field, rightly considering it an excellent means of educating the public in the practical side of aviation.

The Water Spider.

A correspondent of English Country Life describes a peculiar spider that lives under water the greater part of its life. It builds a dome-like nest of silk among weeds in ponds and ditches, and fills the nest with air. In that strange house it lives and lays its eggs. In autumn it makes another nest at a greater distance below the surface of the water, and, having sealed itself inside, it sleeps until spring. Taken out of the water, the spider looks like any other, but as soon as it is put back, the bubble of air that it collects round it body makes it look like a ball of quicksilver. It is the only spider that has taken to a wholly aquatic life, says the writer.

POWER OF REPETITION

Successful advertisers are those who keep everlastingly at it. They understand the value of repetition and never let up. An advertising authority says, "A thing that is said once seems but an accident, a thing that is repeted often enough slides into its place in the order of nature."

THE STORE OF QUALITY

THE PROGRESSIVE PEOPLE OF THIS TOWN SEND MESSAGES TO EACH OTHER THRU THE WANT ADS!

When an employer publishes a help wanted ad he knows that only progressive people will see and answer it. When a property owner prints a "real estate for sale" ad he knows that not many people will read it except those who are able and inclined to buy real estate.

When a landlord advertises a house or apartment for rent he knows that, as a rule, only the "business like" people read and answer such ads, and that he is not apt to secure an undesirable tenant in that way. And the work-seeker, the capital-seeker, the "sub-landlord" who has rooms to rent—these all know that their messages are interesting to live and progressive people—that no others read "the want ad messages."

There's a Want Ad Message for you in almost every issue of this paper.
