BLIND FLYING

Wilfred Brown

In this scientific day, we have a craving for accuracy and facts. Miles per hour has become a common topic of conversation. The instrument panels of our automobiles and more essentially of our airplanes are examples of our dependence upon meters and indicators.

The indicator for the trend of the thought of the massed public is an institution that has been used from the beginning in the United States. It is the freedom of self expression. By it we know the sentiments of the people in regard to such things as literature, the movies, the fine arts, religion and politics. Because of it we can know what corrections should be made in our social machine.

Occasionally, someone, forgetting that he depends upon the expression of public opinion for his guidance in business and in politics, very foolishly advocates the abolishment of the freedom of the press and of speech. In countries where this muffling of the people has been effected, they are flying blindly in regard to a great many questions, concerning which there are frequently mourmurs of popular opinion. Without a barometer these storms, not surprisingly, crash into the mountains and are thrown into chaos and wreckage.

Who wants to practice blind flying without a barometer?

FACULTY'S FUTURE LIFE IS EXPOSED!

On a warm spring day I left New York to begin my travels around the world, hardly prepared for the surprise I was to receive.

Leaving New York, I went to London where I visited the Old Globe Theater of Shakespeare's time. Little did I expect to meet Miss Clifford there and she was such a tiny, frail person with a weak voice. I was a great surprise, a hardly believable one. She must have been happy at gaining her objectives.

From London I went to Paris where I took an important business man to dine. We were entranced by the music of a popular dance orchestra. Upon asking a waiter who the orchestra leader was I discovered her to be Miss Russ, my former music teacher.

Traveling to Berlin I was again treated to an agreeable surprise, for whom should I meet there but Miss Trenkle, trying with no success to make a German waiter understand her French.

As I traveled south I stopped at Rome to see the wonders of the old Roman civilization. While looking thru the Colosseum I encountered a group of historians and with them was Mrs. Joyce. I immediately decided to leave Europe before I met any more of my teachers.

As I intended to travel by airplane I immediately purchased a ticket. I did not suspect that I was to meet a teacher there but was introduced to the director of the dispatching department, who was none other than Miss Farmen.

Stopping in Japan I saw an American who looked strangely familiar and coming closer I saw that it was Mr. Huffcutt who said that he was almost a nervous wreck trying to teach the Japanese algebra.

From Japan I went to the Philippines to purchase a pineapply plantation. Looking thru a directory I found one that suited me which was owned by a Mr. Hardy, who proved to be none other than Prof. Hardy. He was doing very well and did not wish to sell.

Leaving the Philippines I went to San Francisco and traveled south to the University of Southern California to see some real football teams. Meeting their coach proved a real shock for who should it be but Coach Clark, teaching the fellows football. Returning to New York I once more settled down to the quiet business life to which I was accustomed.

CURRENT ISSUES IN THE A. H. S.

Juniors and Sophomores Hold Mid-Year Elections

The Juniors have also elected new officers:

President—Ann Dean.
Vice Pres.—Edward Brewster.
Secy. and Treas.—Madalin Walsh.

Mistake

Two weeks ago, in the list of names printed under the heading of Perfect Attendance for the year, Martha McDonough's name was inadvertently omitted.

Seniors Planning Bake Sale

The Seniors are planning a bake sale to be held March 10th. Look for details next week.

Musical Assembly Friday

A musical program is being planned by Miss Russ and Miss Clifford for Friday morning, 11:15 to be held in the High School Auditorium. There will be a trumpet duet by Francis Vickers and Wisner Cook, a vocal solo and numbers by the Junior High School Glee Club, and the orchestra. The program will be printed next week.

Notice

Miss Russ is forming an instrumental class to be held the last period on Tuesdays and Thursdays. She asks all those students who have instruments at home and would be interested in joining this class, to see her immediately. It is an excellent opportunity for some and we hope that they will recognize it

Girls Form Sorority

The girl students and ex students of Andover High School have formed a Sorority, Phi Sigma Tau. Some of the girls have been invited to join. A rush meeting will be held in the Catholic Clubhouse, Sunday, March 4th.

They expect to hold teas and parties through the school year. They are improving so fast [illegible] called, "a [illegible] Hundred."

Officers are:

President—Ellen Horan
Vice Pres.—Teresa Dean
Secretary—Rita Dean.
Treasurer—Margaret Powers.

Will those who received invitations and are not interested kindly notify one of the officers?

Freshman Party a Success

The Freshman party was a success socially and everyone, so they say, had a good time. They danced, played cards and games.

Norma Brundage, in the treasure hunt, found it a "rattle box." There was also a prize waltz dance. Norma and her brother, Don, were chosen best. Norma received a box of candy.

Refreshments were served about 10 o'clock. The Freshmen hostesses served their guests punch, sandwiches and cake.

ATTENTION, SENIORS!

We freshmen have been humiliated and belittled by you Seniors giving us advice. We think it's about time to change the tune. Perhaps if you had not taken the Senior's advice three or four and five, yea, and even six years back, you'd be better off. We really believe you need a talking to.

To those great big, good-looking Senior boys, we advise—Don't be so frightfully rude to your would-be sister grads. Letting doors close in their pretty faces isn't the best way to convince them that it would be an ideal night for a "date." And the following is to be particularly noted by one boy who has "run-ti" colored hair. It is not good form or breeding to hang a little dead mouse in a girl's locker. (That was the first example of a dead mouse telling a tale).

A few words of advice to other Senior individuals:

Ruth Slocum—Wear your own coat.

Pauline Gath—Quit wagging your left hand.

Wilfred Brown—It's impolite to stare.

"Hoim" Ingraham—You must remember, Regina's a Freshman.

Advice is something you get for nothing and sometimes not very valuable. Use your own judgment as to whether or not you'll pay heed to that which has gone before in this article.

THE SPY ? ?

Hello, folks! Here I am back on the shelf again after what my doctor said was a bad case of too big of an eye-full er—sumpin'. As a result of this I must take it easy or steady by jerks. It sure am a pleasure to be back again, because I've heard several say that my royal aid and buddy, the "Dust Pan," gathered dirt too fast. My advice is to change it from the "Dust Pan" to "Vacuum Cleaner," eh, what?

With one good eye and the other permanently wrecked, I gathered up scandal at the Freshman party, and is it scandal? Get a load of this—Caroline says she thinks Don B., is wonderful—a soft murmur of those eyes, those nose, and hanged if she didn't pulul in his school-girl complexion—What's the secret of such charm, Don? Bee S. says she simply adores Billy Wahl. Did papa spank?

The tom-tom player, Leo Burdick, has another conquest, none other than Jean M., one of our Freshman Flappers.—Say, Leo, watch out for (the big bad wolf).

Carl Will, one of our most conservative gentlemen threw aside his mask, and escorted L. Hyland to the party. And was Louise thrilled! Better mask up again, Will.

Milton B., our famous sheik was seen at a late hour on our streets with Ida Mae H. Oh, boy, is this getting good?

Even young Yannie is stepping out. He had none other than Miss J. Briggs at the party. And so young, too.

Mr. Farmum Pope and Mr. Edwin Kemp were seen in the company of the Misses Anna Dean and Mary McAndrew at the Freshman Hop—I stand corrected.—Flop instead of Hop. Now wouldn't that put you on bread and water for a week?

Our two lady killers, Ray Geer and Francis V., attended with Dot B. and Rebecca B. Blow me down ch, mother, my sus pender bust-ed!

All in all the Freshman party wasn't getting a very good example for the Seniors. The boys should first get their mothers' permission before they attend such an affair. It seems that the Midway Inn was well patronized that evening, too.

And what is the talk of a Sorority? Looks funny to me. Because when these girls get together (and especially the bunch organized now) without the co-operation, supervision and chaperoning of "us boys," we're afraid the club won't last long. See if I'm not right.

Someone has hinted that Bill's editorials are a bit long—and frightfully deep. But don't let that worry you, Billy-boy, it's just that folks don't understand high-minded and highidealed people like you 'n me.

Some one else has said that the Russ-Anderson combination was ideal—I absolutely agree with that person. They are both about alike, 'cept that one is more musically inclined than the other. (Don't ask me which one is).

I never was a very good friend of the Dust Pan, but he was a wee bit off in his statement about our friend from Perry. Francis invited Pauline with all pomp and ceremony. Could he help it if he didn't get down in time to take her?

Well, your old pal will now take his leave with much regrets. See you at an early date if the Dust Pan doesn't sweep me off my feet. (By the way, I took the Pan's advice and bought two spy-glasses.

Your newsboy and scandalizer,

AROUND THE A. H. S. SPORT WORLD

with Don Brundage

Fillmore Beats A. H. S. in Fast Game

Andover, taking the tip-off, immediately set to work. The ball was passed into Andover's territory but was lost to a Fillmore player. The ball changed hands back and forth most of the first quarter, later in the same quarter a pass from Brewster to Lynch to McAndrew tallied Andover's first basket. Immediately following this, McAndrew neatly sunk two more baskets. Fillmore called time out, and a substitution was made, Rease for Snyder. Blommer made a basket for Fillmore and the quarter ended with a score of 6-2, in Andover's favor.

At the beginning of the second quarter Cannon was fouled and made one basket out of two free throws. Following this Bloomster snatched a long pass and shot in for a basket.

Fillmore again substituted, Snyder for Tuthill. McAndrew then sank a beautiful long shot, it didn't count but in the next play, Pease sank one and following this by one from McAndrew. The quarter ended with a score of 13-7 in favor of A. H. S. at the half.

The third quarter both teams shot baskets. McAndrew for Andover and Snyder for Fillmore. Andover called time out. Immediately after this Snyder made another shot. One of the most unusual plays came soon after this. On a jump ball in Fillmore's territory, Jameson tipped the ball thru the hoop. Snyder again made a basket, and Andover substituted Alderson for Cannon and Jim Cannon for Briggs. Fillmore began to rally. Bloomster began to get loose and in the closing minutes of the quarter sank three baskets and the quarter ended 24-21.

Fillmore came out strong in the last quarter. Andover couldn't stop Bloomster; he shot three baskets while Snyder made one and Jameson one basket and one foul shot. For Andover, Cannon and McAndrew each shot two baskets while Lynch shot one basket and one foul shot. All during the last quarter, Fillmore outplayed Andover. They were faster and seemed to be more accurate with their pass work.

McAndrew starred for Andover, playing a great offensive game as well as defensive, making 18 points for Andover. Brewster, Lynch, Briggs and Cannon all played a rang-up game.

Andover would have won this game without a doubt if Briggs had been taken out on account of an injured hand received in the first half of the game. It was almost impossible for him to handle the ball. Losing this game gives Andover third place in the league. Fillmore still remains second.

Andover Frosh Beats Fillmore Second Team

Andover jumped into the lead in the first few minutes of play, with Fulkerson making the first basket of the game. Two long passes to Cable, who stood under the basket, were easily made. The battle waged back and forth for the remainder of the quarter until Briggs finally shot a goal at the closing seconds of the game. The first quarter ended 6-0, Andover's favor.

Fillmore substituted at the beginning of the quarter. Fulkerson again sank a basket. Fillmore could not seem to get thru the Frosh defense altho they had exceptionally good pass work. Both sides tried several field shots but only one was made. Briggs made it and at the half, the score was in favor of Andover 9-0.

Fillmore came out in the third quarter fighting doggedly but Andover's defense was perfect. Fillmore's R. G. sank a beautiful long shot, the only basket they made during the game. Fillmore then called time. McGill taking the tip-off twice in succession made two of the pertiest plays of the game. Briggs and Cable each made a basket and the 3rd. quarter ended with Andover in the lear 17-2.

Fillmore overran Andover in the last quarter, altho they didn't make any baskets, they held Andover to one foul shot and the game ended in our favor, 18-2.

Fulkerson, McGill and Cable all played a good game. Fillmore had the advantage in that their men were taller, but Andover made up in speed.

RESULTS OF ANDOVER-ALFRED GAME

The girls of our school showed splendid work in the game Tuesday night. They scored 22-30 with the Alfred girls. Anna Dean did exceptional work, making 25 of our 30 points.

The Alfred boys beat A. H. S. boys team by 8 points, the final score being 13-21. A detailed write-up will appear in next week's Hi-Herald.

THE LITERARY DEPARTMENT

SUCCESS

Would you like to venture with me to that great city of Success? Before making your final decision, I must warn you that there are many steep hills to climb and a number of bumpy roads to travel. By this, I do not mean to discourage you, for once you have reached this great city, you will find that it is well worth the hardships endured.

Now that I have told you about it —will you join me in this exciting trip? Rush home and pack your grip with courage, ambition, honesty and other necessities.

Our first problem is climbing the steep, winding hill of Education. In climbing this hill we find that much perseverence is needed to reach the top. In order to get there, we also need a great deal of our ambition and courage.

Reaching the top of the hill, we see in the distance the City of Work. Driving into the city, we notice a crowd gathered in the middle of the road. Stopping the car we all rush over to see what has happened. There lay old man Depression. Someone had killed him. After the excitement was over we find that the city consists of many different sections and each section represented a kind of occupation. To continue our journey, it is necessary for us to choose some form of occupation for our life's work.

Working some time, we have secured enough money to travel on to our destination. In doing so we find that the traveling is much easier than that of the fore part of our trip.

After using much of our ambition, honesty and courage, we see ahead of us the lights of the great city. We become very excited and anxious.

On approaching this city we are first attracted by the streets of gold. Looking about us, we see many huge castles, brilliant in color. Then all at once we gasp at seeing a beautiful monument. This monument we find is set up in the memory of Old Man Prosperity who made it possible for the city to be built.

Would you like to visit such a city as this? If you do, I advise you to take the same route that we did and you will be sure of getting there.

BOE ZEKLEY'S COLUMN

Dear Boe:

I'm a very attractive young girl of the Junior Class. For some reason I never have any dates. I have the reputation of being a "man hater," altho I really am not.

My older brother, who is now attending school in Buffalo, tells me that I will die an old maid, but I have bet him a sundae that I will be married before I am 50.

A short time ago I went out walking with a cute boy from Wellsville but like all the rest he never came again.

Would you please help me in my problem of finding a boy friend?

Signed—A Junior Girl.

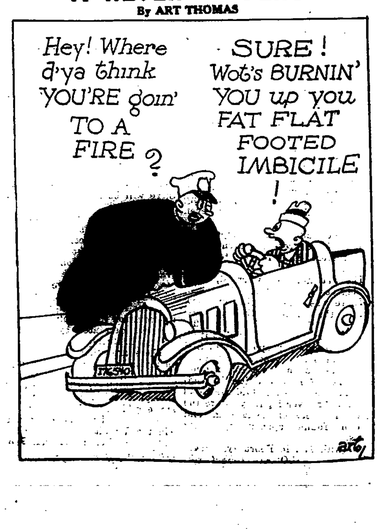
Dear "A Junior Girl":

To win your bet with your brother I advise you to start looking now for a man who would make an ideal husband. When you have found him I advise that you also, try the Mae West "Come up and see me sometime" on him. After he has come once, a good way to make him come again is to give him something to eat. Boys all like good things to eat.

Your advisor,
BOE ZEKELY.

IT NEVER HAPPENS

By ART THOMAS



Country Correspondence

South Hill

(Mrs. Margaret Dean, Reporter)

Feb. 28.—We date "February last" with no regrets whatever. The month has beaten all records for heavy frosts, low temperatures, frozen gas and water lines, etc.

Mrs. J. Daniher of Wellsville spent Sunday and Monday with her daughters, Mesdames Dean and Dougherty.

Vet. Regan of Wellsville was a professional visitor at Tony Dougherty's, Sunday.

Mrs. Earl Schoonover accompanied Mr. Schoonover to the farm Monday, where she spent the day.

Mrs. Leo Horan has visited her mother, Mrs. Fred Smith of Andover frequently the past week and reports her as quite improved in health at present.

We have not seen our mail carrier since Friday as the recent snow fall (still with 10 below zero) has blocked all traffic on our highway.

Leo Horan is the man of the hour today, in opening the road with his snow plow.

Voorhees Hill

(Mrs. Raymond Church, Reporter)

Feb. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. William Whitney of Belmont returned to their home Sunday after passing several days with their daughter, Mrs. Mildred Church and family.

Miss Pauline Perkins has been having a short vacation from her teaching duties this week due to bad roads and cold weather in her district.

Miss Murial Church returned home Saturday afternoon from Petrolia where she has been employed several days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Adams are expected home in a few days from their winter's stay in California, having left Electra, Texas, Friday.

Mrs. Burritt Perkins received word from Belmont that her application to enroll in the Home Grounds Improvement Contest has been accepted by the Home Bureau, who is sponsoring it. This work will be under direct supervision of a specialist from Cornell University and will be started this spring. The community should receive much benefit from this project.

Whitesville

(Mrs. Ella Millspaugh, Reporter)

Feb. 27: Only one more day in February and no one will regret the passing of the coldest month seen in many years.

Mr. Albert Seger has been sick in bed the past week.

Mrs. C. L. Travis and Mrs. Nettie Baker were Wellsville visitors Wednesday.

Dr. H. R. Taylor is driving a new Dodge car.

Rev. H. J. Marquis officiated at the funeral of Adelbert Austin on the Marsh last Friday. Several from here attended the service.

The Methodist men will hold their annual church dinner at the M. E. Church parlors Wednesday evening, March 7th. An elaborate chicken dinner is promised.

Mrs. Charlotte Teater had the misfortune to fall in her home one day last week and break both bones of her right leg above the ankle. She was taken to the Wellsville hospital for treatment and will spend some time with her sister, Mrs. Hattie Babcock of Hallsport.

Lee Millspaugh of Andover was here last Friday to sing at the funeral of Adelbert Austin.

Miss Addie Robbins has been ill several days with a hard cold.

All pipes carrying water to High street and Highland avenue are frozen and the people are suffering great inconvenience. The water company is drawing water to them each day.

About ten inches of snow fell here Sunday night and Monday, since which sub-zero weather has prevailed.

G. H. McKee has moved his family into one apartment of the Ray Livermore house.

Mead Kear of Weedville has been the guest for several days of his uncle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kear.

Mrs. Francis Lamb has been ill from a heart attack the past week.

Adelbert Austin, aged 77 years, of this place, but formerly of West Union, died at his home here Tuesday morning after several months of poor health. He had been an oil operator for several years, having developed the Marsh Fenny Sand Oil field, also wells on the Dean Ainsworth and White farms west of town. He is survived by his widow, three sons, Sheridan, Harry and Artie of West Union and a daughter, Mrs. White of Lawrenceville, Pa. Funeral services were held from the home of his son Sheridan on Friday at 2 p. m., the Rev. H. J. Marquis officiating with burial at White's Corners, Pa.

Davis Hill

(Mrs. Floyd Slocum, Reporter)

Miss Genevieve Clarke was a super guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Coates of Andover, Wednesday.

Mrs. Floyd Slocum was calling on Mrs. Victor Hoagland, Wednesday afternoon.

Slate Creek

(Mrs. Raymond Stewart, Reporter)

Feb 28.—Mrs. Lyman Baker and daughter, Ilean, and son Clark of Hornell visited Mrs. Wm. Mullen, one day last week.

Mrs. Wilbur Stephens of Call Hill who has been very ill, is much improved.

Old man winter has prolonged his visit, bringing the mercury down to 24 below in places, and freezing more water pipes. Shall we believe the old saying that the last three days of February rule March? Mercury read 30 below in Canisteo this morning, with a scarcity of water. The main reservoir frozen and the village is supplied with water from wells at two local plants

Mrs. Raymond Stewart and daughter called on her mother, Mrs Wm Mullen Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Mullen is ill with grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hale were callers in Greenwood Monday.

William Hyland is working for Lyle Mulconery at the gas station at Andover.

George Teribury from the Greenwood road spent Sunday at Fred Brewster's home.

Bernice Conrad spent Wednesday night with Elizabeth and Leola Teribury.

Alfred University

(Special to Andover News)

Alfred, Feb. 26.—Plans are progressing rapidly for the Second Annual St. Pat Celebration conducted by the ceramic engineers at the New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University on March 14 and 15, Wednesday and Thursday.

The program will open with a parade at 10 Wednesday followed by a student assembly in honor of the visiting saints. After the lunch hour a tea dance will be in progress at the Ceramic College. Wednesday evening, 7:30, will find the "open house" at the Ceramic College at which time all visitors may see the various processes in the making of ceramic ware. Thru the courtesy of the Alfred Co-operative Motion Pictures a special picture will be shown after the open house. Classes will be dismissed after 10 Wednesday and after noon Thursday. The Footlight Club, Theta Alpha Phi national dramatic fraternity at Alfred will present as the program on Thursday afternoon, 2:30, "The Clean-up," a three-act comedy. The festival will end with a formal student ball at which the most popular upper class woman will be crowned as St. Pat's queen.

The public is extended a cordial invitation from the Ceramic College to attend the open house with no admission. The motion picture and "The Clean-up" are likewise open to the public at gate admission.

Lou Little, head coach of football at Columbia, coach of the squad which defeated Stanford this winter in California, is scheduled to appear at the student assembly at Alfred on Thursday, March 8th, at 11 o'clock. The topic of his address has not yet been announced but a likely contenders would be football.

BUILDING HOMES IS BIG PROBLEM

Paying high tribute to a "courageous and far-seeing" woman, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to the campus of Cornell University to take part in dedication exercises for Martha Van Rensselaer Hall, new home of the New York State college of home economics.

"Thru this new home," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "we will be better able to serve the needs of the people and building homes at present is one problem of deep concern to the entire nation."

The home economics extension service of the college also came in for warm praise by Mrs. Roosevelt. Started by Martha Van Rensselaer years ago to reach rural homes, "it has been of tremendous value in bringing happiness into the homes of the people."

Up or Down Together

In speaking of society as a whole, Mrs. Roosevelt said one of the most valuable things the depression has taught people of the United States is that "we are one big family which goes up together or down together. We have learned that when an economic step is taken it must not be for the benefit of a single group but for the benefit of all the people."

Mrs. Roosevelt spoke to a crowd estimated at 2,500 in Bailey auditorium. Hundreds unable to obtain seats in the huge hall stood in the aisles and corridors to hear the address. Others heard her by radio transmission to distant auditoriums on the Cornell campus.

Dedication exercises of Martha Van Rensselaer hall covered a three-day period, starting on Tuesday and ending on Thursday with the appearance of Mrs. Roosevelt and others on the program.

The New Home

The new home of the state college of home economics is believed to be the most modern and best equipped building of its kind in the country.

It is 349 feet long, 167 feet wide, four stories high in front, six in the rear, and seven in the center. By grouping offices together instead of placing them separately near the laboratories, an extra floor has been gained in the center.

The architectural type of the building is Georgian; buff brick is used for the exterior. The plan, in general, consists of a long center section connecting two large wings. The center section is a solid block four stories high and is given over to offices of the 60 members of the resident and extension staff and a few conference and class rooms. Most of the lecture rooms and laboratories as well as the auditorium, amphitheater, library and cafeteria, are in the wings.

In the building are 560 rooms, 70 offices, 60 laboratories, five lecture rooms, including amphitheater, 15 reading and work rooms and three seminar and conference rooms.

The main auditorium seats 600 and the cafeteria 280. The whole building is so arranged that the departments most closely related are grouped together. Thus, laboratories of the department of foods, nutrition, and chemistry are in the same wing as the cafeteria. The building is designed and constructed to permit many more years of expansion if needed.

The original appropriation amounted to nearly $1,000,000 for the building and $250,000 for equipment.

Belfast Threatened by Fire

What might have been a serious fire in Belfast's business section was averted Sunday at 10 a. m., with three streams of water and hard work by its volunteer firemen.

Thawing of water pipes with a blow torch started a fire in the garage of Supervisor Percy E. Collins on the east side of Main street. After it was believed put out with a garden hose the blaze ran up between studding to an attic over unoccupied second-story apartments. Firemen cut numerous holes in the roof and finally conquered the flames in the three-store frame structure but not until several hundred dollars in damage had been done.

The stock in the rooms of L. J. Sixer's undertaking parlors on the ground floor and cars, etc., in the auto show rooms of Mr. Collins were removed to safety as it seemed very doubtful the building could be saved.

MUCH RECOVERY LIES IN FUTURE

Progress of Past Year Outlined by Professor G. F. Warren at Cornell.

"Much of the long road to full recovery still lies ahead." Professor G. F. Warren, head of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell told a large crowd of farm and home week visitors in Bailey auditorium.

"It is impossible to realize," he said, "how serious conditions were in the United States in February, 1933. Our problem was not merely a breakdown in the credit structure, but social unrest was growing, and was becoming a serious menace. The rate of recovery, however, since that time has been very rapid."

The speaker cited the return of courage as one of the striking improvements. "However bad the present," he pointed out, "we are beginning to believe that the future holds more than the promise of better times. Periods of doubt may return, because recovery is checked or is too slow; but whatever the future may be given us, I think we have solid ground for expecting each year to show a distinct improvement."

Prices paid to farmers, Dr. Warren said, fell to less than a third of prices before the depression and less than half the price level before the war; and he added that prices paid to farmers from February, 1933 to January this year rose 45 per cent. "This still leaves farmers less than half of the price level before the depression and far below pre-war prices. The better feeling on farms is quite as much due to hope for a future rise in prices as to the rise that has already occurred.

"Very little improvement," Dr. Warren continued, "has taken place in countries that have maintained the gold standard. Unemployment and economic distress are resulting in political upheavals in France and other countries. From February, 1933 to December of the same year, prices of common stocks in France fell six per cent; in Belgium and Holland they fell nine per cent., but rose eleven per cent. in Italy.

Changes Due to Gold

"Changes in the general level of prices are due primarily to changes in the value of gold, and changes in the price of gold.

"The value of gold is not a thing any one country can control. It is a matter of world supply and world demand. It is to be hoped that gold will lose some of its swollen value, or that prices in gold will rise the world will rise. While this may occur at some time in the future, there is no assurance that such a change can be counted on to help much in bringing us out of depression.

"While the value of gold can be controlled to only a limited extent by any one country, any one country can set its own price for gold. The President now has the authority to set the price of gold at any point from $34.45 to $41.34 an ounce of pure gold, or he has the authority to raise the price from 66 and two-thirds to one hundred per cent.

"Any absolute tie to a given weight of gold is likely to continue to cause violent fluctuations in commodity prices. Our experiences show how successfully an automatic one-commodity dollar operates. The immediate problem is to get out of the depression. But it is to be hoped that provision will be made for an improved money system for the future."
