THE ANDOVER NEWS.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., OCT. 15, 1890.

The maddest free trader in the world lives in New York. He is an importer, and he hurried large quantities of needles through the custom house just before the McKinley bill went into effect. He discovered after he paid the duty that needles were placed on the free list by the bill.

A Chicago paper says: Another great trunk line is to be built from Chicago to New York. It will be known as the American Midland road and will begin in New Jersey. It will cross and exchange business with sixty roads. The route will be the shortest between New York and Chicago. An express train will run between these two places in eighteen hours. The road is to be built chiefly with English capital, but wealthy Americans are said to be interested.

The chairman of the Republican State Committee of North Dakota announces that he is willing to pay five dollars to any newspaper in the state which will print the Republican state ticket at the head of its columns. The practice of "carrying the ticket" has gone out as a newspaper custom, and cannot be revived by five dollar inducements. It is not asking too much of a reader to require him to read its political arguments in order to discover the politics of a paper. There is no argument in a bare enumeration of the names of candidates.

The will of Mrs. Helen Randall, of Williamsville, Erie county, bequeathes to the Amherst Baptist church of Williamsville, the house and lot used as a parsonage, the sum of $30,000 as a fund, the interest on which is to be used to pay the salary of the pastor, $600 a year, and $50 a year to be used to pay the running expenses of the church. All the rest and residue of the estate is to be equally divided between the following institutions: The American Home Missionary Society edifice fund, the American Baptist Publishing Society, the New York Baptist Union, the Baptist Missionary Convention of New York, the Cook Academy and Minister's Home of West Farms, and the Baptist Union of Buffalo.

A publisher was saying recently that the Chautauquan Circle in this country is largely responsible for the present marvelous interest in Latin and Latin literature. At no time within fifty years have so many text books, commentaries, and translations been turned from the press. The tendency of the colleges to make Latin and Greek optional studies, instead of allaying this interest, seems to have excited ambition among budding scholars all over the country to master the dead languages. Since the first American translation of Virgil a year or two ago the publishers' woods are full of MSS. Virgils, Horaces, Ovids, and Lucretioses. At least two other schools, besides Ann Arbor University and Washington Seminary, are planning the production of classic comedies, besides.

Time was when the poor man could afford to have only one or two pictures in his house. Now, in spite of the duty on the work of art, he may have a score, at prices he doesn't suffer from, and those, too, reproductions of the most famous paintings in Europe. Accurate, large photographs of the painting to be produced are imported from Paris and the duty paid on them. They are then sent to large establishments, where photographs are made from them by the thousand and tens of thousands. Some of these photographs are tinted in water colors, and are made reproductions of the Salon masterpieces in color as well as in outline and shade. The uncolored ones are sold in frames at retail for 39 cents a piece, the colored photographs complete in appropriate frames at $1.50.

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

The river at Caneadea has changed its course and nearly ruined Milo Allen's farm.

The new hotel at Belmont is expected to be ready to receive guests on November 1st.

A good deal of manufactured ice is being shipped to Jamestown to supply the local market.

Harvey Alderman of Rushford, is the possessor of a file of almanacs from 1816 to the present time.

A cheese weighing about 4,400 lbs. was recently made by a combination of factories in Cattaraugus county.

In drilling a well for water on the Stebbins farm, near Houghton, a few days ago, a vein of gas was struck.

The election booths for East Aurora, Erie Co., have been ordered of a New York firm. They will be of canvas.

The State Convention of Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will meet in Buffalo, October 21 and 22.

The gate receipts of the Chautauqua Assembly this season were over $50,000 being the largest in the history of the Assembly.

A man named Davis, 32 years old, who was slightly deranged, was found drowned in a small stream of water in Centreville a few days ago.

Mrs. Emma Althouse, Attica's famous sleeper, has so far recovered her health that she is now able to sit up three or four hours per day and enjoys a good appetite.

The Attorney General is of the opinion that it will not invalidate a man's vote, nor subject the inspectors of election to prosecution, if the voter should happen to remain in the booth a little less than 'three minutes.'

Ed Franklin aged 14, residing at Big Creek, acicdentally shot himself Sunday afternoon, imitating a cowboy with a revolver. The ball entered his right ear coming out on the opposite side. The injury is thought to be fatal.

The large yield of grapes this year has given a boom to farms near Silver Creek, where soil is adapted to their cultivation. Merchants, mechanics, and professors are investing their surplus funds in gravel and clay, and good, desirable land is at a premium.

The Lower Falls of the Genesee river at Rochester, N. Y., are utilized for the production of electricity, and more than 500 motors are in use. Power is furnished to run sewing machines in 108 tailor shops, the charge being $18 a year for one-half horse power.

A company has been organized at East Randolph for the construction of iron bridges out of wrought iron tubing, which seems to give the best of satisfaction. The new company have great confidence in the success of the bridge, and have ordered a large quantity of iron and material for a good many bridges.

Billy Maxwell of Elmira, the noted temperance lecturer, died of heart disease at the Soldier's home in Bath, where he has been for a year, Friday afternoon, aged 62 years. He began work during the Murphy movement, and made a trip through England delivering lectures. He was a member of the 16th Regiment, New York Volunteers.

The town of Franklinville has suffered from many fires for the past few weeks, and the inhabitants believe that incendiaries have been busy among them. These individuals they consider not at all desirable and have therefore offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person who has or who may maliciously set any building on fire within the town of Franklinville.

A horrible accident occurred recently in the Pennsylvania woods south of Wellsville. Layfayette Lewis was sawing hoops with a circular saw when in some unknown way one of the hoops became caught in the machine and in an instant dragged the unfortunate man on the rapidly-revolving saw. His right leg was cut off and thrown on the roof of the mill, his right arm was severed at the elbow and was thrown on one side of the mill, while on the other side was the left arm, cut off close to the shoulder, and his head was cut clear in two lengthwise close to the ears. The rest of the body was torn and mangled in a horrible manner.

One of the most curious incidents connected with the recent heavy rains in the vicinity of Bath, says a correspondent of the Rochester Democrat, was the complete stopping by eels of the flouring mill of Jesse Mason in Bradford, Steuben county. Mud creek is the stream which furnishes power for the mill, and has its source in Lake Lamoke, above Bradford. It is as its name suggests very muddy, and affords a fruitful place for eels. Some of them are very large, weighing two or three pounds. The creek rose the highest it has ever been known to have risen and must have frightened the eels. They came down the stream in schools, and were stopped only by the water wheel. Around this they were bruised and cut into a great mass. This blocked the wheel and it required half a day to release the mass. Over five hundred eels are estimated to have been killed.

Coon; Vice President, Josiah Warfield; Secretary, Charles Robinson; Treasurer, B. C. Cole; Lecturer, Miss Emma Wright.

G. W. Estabrook of Havana, and Mrs. Frances M. Todd of Angelica, were married at the latter place on Saturday, Oct. 4, 1890, by Rev. J. Henrick, pastor of the Angelica Baptist church. Mr. Estabrook formerly lived in Andover, where he has many friends who wish him the best of good fortune in the future. Mrs. Todd was the widow of the late W. S. Todd, who practiced medicine in Angelica for many years.

An observant exchange says that in so far as money matters are concerned it is cheaper for a man to take the same paper than it is to stop it, for nine men out of ten after ordering it stopped will in the course of a year clear out over one dollar's worth of shoe leather, walking over to a neighbor's to borrow a copy of the very paper they ordered stopped. There are a few people in Andover who do that very thing.

A dispatch was sent over the Postal wire to-day from Franklinville stating that three large barns, a granery, tool house and sheds belonging to G. Carpenter of that place, were burned at 2:30 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning. All contained tools, 200 tons hay, oats from 8 acres, barley from 80 acres, nine horses and two cows were also burned. Pollard-Rogers.

Allegany county papers are advising Stephen Pollard, the Republican nominee for School Commissioner in the southern district of that county, to form a matrimonial ring with Miss Carrie Rogers, the Democratic nominee, and thus get the office "in the family" all east.—Buffalo Express.

That advice might properly be directed to Mr. Pollard if this was a Democratic district. Inasmuch as Mr. Pollard is sure to be elected, Miss Rogers is the one who should seek to form the alliance, if she wants to get the office "in the family." And right here we might give that lady a pointer by saying that outside of the School Commissioner question Stephen Pollard possesses many qualifications which are worth considering. If the women could vote what a majority he would have!

With potatoes rotting, buckwheat becoming mouldy, fruits, breadstuffs and 'sich' 'up in a balloon,' it is enough to puzzle the brains of a 'dutch uncle' to determine what is to become of the poor printer during the long, cold, dreary days of the coming winter.

Cold Water Healthy.

Who ever thought of refusing to drink of pure mountain streams flowing from melting snows? Not even the infallible Britons, who set down the drinking of "iced water" as a trait of American depravities. A race of brandy drinkers would always find ice water dangerous to the raw membrane with with which they are lined from brain to base.

But ice, like water, needs to be clean before it is fit for drinking, and a glance at the sediment in the ice pitchers is enough to raise grave doubts of the source of the ice supply. One must admire the thrift of the housekeepers in a central New York town who, finding the ice crop scant or having no way to harvest it, on cold nights filled all possible pots and pans with well water and froze their own ice, freezing the cakes together next day till the blocks were thick enough to store away. They at least had pure ice for the summer, and I doubt if they ever found injury from using it.—Shirley Dare in New York Herald.
