"Father Baker Day" July 30th

"Father Baker Day" will be observed for the seventh consecutive year, when ceremonies marking the 15th anniversary of the death of Rt. Rev. Nelson H. Baker, will be observed in Lackawanna on Monday, July 30.

"Father" Baker, as he is known to millions throughout the world, died July 29, 1936, at the age of 95. He built and supervised the many buildings that comprise Our Lady of Victory Institutions. His last great work was the erection of the National Shrine and Basilica of Our Lady of Victory, visited by over a quarter of a million tourists yearly.

Ceremonies on "Father Baker Day" will consist of a solemn requiem Mass at 10 a.m. in the Shrine and Basilica, followed by a procession to Father Baker's grave in Holy Cross cemetery that adjoins the institutions. Father Baker is buried alongside his mother and father. His grave is visited by increasing thousands yearly.

A cordial invitation is extended to the heads of organizations and their members, as well as individual friends of Father Baker to participate in the memorial exercises, said Rev. Joseph M. McPherson, superintendent of Father Baker's Homes of Charity. "This is the fifteenth anniversary of the death of a truly great man and because of this 'memory milestone' we hope the attendance this year will exceed anything in the past. Those who cannot come for the formal exercises in the morning are invited to visit the Shrine and grave during the afternoon or early evening."

The first "Father Baker Day" was observed in 1945. Some 2,000 persons attended. Last year close to 6,000 participated in the memorial exercises. Hon. John J. Janiga, Mayor of Lackawanna, has declared "Father Baker Day" a full civic holiday for the third consecutive year.

This year is also the 110th anniversary of Father Baker's birth, the 75th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, and the 25th anniversary of the completion and consecration of the National Shrine and Basilica of Our Lady of Victory.

GRANGE YOUTH Leadership Training School at Cobleskill next week, beginning Sunday, July 29 and continuous through Saturday, August 4, will attract more than one hundred "students" from every part of the state, according to State Youth Chairman Elton Borden. Under the direction of Harold M. Stanley, State Grange Secretary, a full and instructive program, liberally mixed with recreation and fun, will contribute to making this second year's youth training course a great one. Besides the trained staff of leaders, and state officers who will speak on various phases of Grange work, at least three national leaders will be present: Charles M. Gardner of Springfield, Mass., for a discussion of Grange history; Wib Justi and Paul Taber from Washington, D. C., on National Grange Youth work and general Grange program respectively. One of the outstanding phases of N.Y. State Grange Youth program, these annual schools are a splendid contribution to rural and community leadership throughout the state.

SECRETARIES of all subordinate Grange in the state will receive request by mail this week to send in membership reports on special forms furnished several months ago to show net gains. In addition, sceretaries are asked to report individual members who are eligible for awards for having obtained five or more new members. These reports are to be mailed in to E. Payson Smith, Union Springs, N.Y., as well as any requests for the necessary report blanks.

CAPSULE REPORT on what farmers may expect in business prospects, according to the Washington Farm Reporter, is a cautious, but more definite picture than could be seen a few months ago: Control: Rapid spread has been slowed down, with some easing in prospect; Prices: Continued general stability, some farm commodity weakening; Production: Prospects are for close to an all-time crop record; Demand: Consumer buying is less urgent, more wait-and-see on prices; Defense: Spending won't be cut much, may be spread over more time. The Washington Farm Reporter, published by National Agricultural Research, Washington, D.C., is an authoritative private weekly service. You may write them for details on how to receive it.

Better Health For Children
A Community Service Issued by Children's Hospital of Buffalo, N. Y.

Polio epidemics cause parents much worry every year. A good deal of worry would be avoided if parents knew the facts. For this reason Children's Hospital will devote this weekly column for the next three issues to answering questions most commonly asked about polio.

WHAT CAUSES POLIO? Polio, or infantile paralysis, is caused by a virus which attacks nerve cells.

HOW IS POLIO SPREAD? Polio probably is spread largely by intimate daily contact, such as in the home where people share rooms and use the same eating utensils. Children are especially exposed by such things as licking another child's lollypop or ice cream cone or tasting food from spoons used by others.

WHY DOESN'T EVERYONE IN A FAMILY GET POLIO? In a way they do. If a child has polio probably every member of the family gets the virus in his throat and intestines, however they may not become actively ill. This is because most people seem to have resistance against the disease.

CAN PEOPLE WHO CARRY POLIO BUT ARE NOT ILL, GIVE IT TO OTHERS? Yes, people who show no sign of polio may pass the virus on to others. Also they may lower their resistance so that they themselves become actively ill.

DURING AN EPIDEMIC WHAT ACTIVITIES INCREASE THE CHANCE OF POLIO? A person who does not feel well may be carrying the polio virus and strenuous physical activity, or even the usual amount of activity, may cause him to become sick with the disease. If you don't feel as well as usual, avoid fatigue.

DOES GETTING CHILLED CAUSE POLIO? If the virus is in the body, getting chilled lowers resistance, which increases the chance of getting polio. Since you can't always tell whether the virus is in your system, it is wise not to get chilled.

WHAT ABOUT HAVING TONSILS TAKEN OUT? Many physicians recommend not having throat operations and tooth extractions during a polio epidemic because children who have just had tonsils and adenoids removed may get infections more easily.

WHAT ABOUT DRINKING WATER AND SWIMMING? Polio virus has never been found in water from bathing beaches or swimming pools. It is found in sewage water,, but soon after this is emptied into a larger body of water the virus disappears.

SHOULD CHILDREN GO SWIMMING? Swimming or swallowing swimming water will not give a child polio. During an epidemic, the danger is in staying in the water so long that the child becomes chilled. Also children should be kept away from all crowded places.

Watch this column next week for more information about polio.
