LOOKS LIKE DUTY ON PETROLEUM.

Quarter of a Cent a Gallon on Crude On Refined and Products Rate of 25 Per Cent Ad Va lorem Favored.

The senate committee on finance will, in all probability recommend that a duty be imposed upon crude and refined petroleum and the products of petroleum in spite of the act of the house in putting these articles on the free list.

This subject was the most important of many matters discussed at a meeting of the Republican members of the committee. The oil question was not disposed of finally, but the indications are that crude oil will be made dutiable at a quarter of a cent a gallon and on refined petroleum a rate of 25 per cent ad valorem will be fixed. It is probable also that the latter rate will be made to apply to products of petroleum.

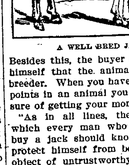
Many members of the senate favored the countervailing duty on petroleum, but the representatives of oil producing states did not favor it. The demands for protection on oil come principally from the independent oil men.—Breeze.

SELECTING A JACK.

Points to Be Considered in Purchasing a Well Bred Animal.

The high prices which have prevailed for some time in the mule market have prompted many farmers to look into the subject with a view to giving close attention to the production of this valuable draft animal. Considering the perplexities connected with the purchase of jacks, the following suggestions from a Missouri breeder cannot be otherwise than interesting and valuable:

"I wish to call the attention of all those in the market for a jack to some pertinent facts regarding the purchase of such an animal for breeding purposes. My experience covers an extended period in the business, and I therefore feel qualified to speak. A jack under fourteen hands high cannot be registered. It is also important to see that the color is black and that the points are white, as, if the animal answers to any other description, he is ineligible to registry. The buyer who is about to commencing the selection of a jack should carefully look over his conformation and give special attention to his underpinning. He should have a good hoof and a wide heel, and it always well to look for big bone, heavy head and ears.



A WELL BRED JACK.

Besides this, the buyer should assure himself that the animal is a proved breeder. When you have secured these points in an animal you can be pretty sure of getting your money's worth.

"As in all lines, there are tricks which every man who starts out to buy a jack should know in order to protect himself from being made the object of untrustworthy dealers. Ordinarily it is a very easy matter to swindle the average jack buyer, as nine out of ten who are out to purchase know nothing about the requirements of a good animal, and invariably they are taken advantage of. There are a good many breeders in the business who are practicing the policy of selling direct to the buyer instead of letting their productions go to the jack stables and there be retailed out to buyers from different parts of the country. This plan of buying direct from the breeder has every advantage, and I would recommend it strongly. There are a good many things regarding the purchase of a jack which can not be explained on paper, and therefore the buyer who would get the most worth of his money should use some discrimination in the choice of those whom he patronizes."

Lack of Water Lessens Milk Flow.

Don't let the cows shift for themselves in the matter of water. They must have all they want of such a temperature as will induce them to drink enough to supply their needs. Many a cow "falls down" in her milk production because she is starving for water, the water being either difficult of access or too cold to be palatable.

GRIT.

Grit is what a person must have in any position if he hopes to score a success, but more especially must he have it during the first few days of work in his first position. Then it is that he has that funny feeling in the pit of his stomach, also hot and cold flashes chasing each other up and down his spinal column, and he decides that if he gets through the day or week, he will throw up the job and get something that is easier and that doesn't make him feel that way. Let me tell you that everyone has passed through that kind of experience: your employer as well as every other employer, and if you have the nerve to stick it out and do the best you can that feeling will soon disappear and you will be your normal self.

Army Worms Coming

Army worms have appeared in large numbers at Oakdale, L. I., according to a statement made Friday, by State Entomologist E. P. Felt.

This notorious insect was very destructive to grasses and grains in most of the counties of the state in 1896 and frequently causes great damage in restricted localities.

The writer has witnessed the army of worms cover a field and within a few hours every head of grain would be gone and the column move on in military order, crossing the highway into a second field and in like manner destroy that, and away to the next.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Her situation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at. World's Fair In a Forest

Ideal Location and Meritorious Features of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition to Be Held at Seattle—The Show That Will Be on Time and Open the Door to a New World.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

OF expositions there is no end. Since our initial one at Philadelphia in 1876 we have held them at Chicago, St. Louis, Atlanta, Omaha, Nashville, Buffalo, Pelham and Jamestown. We Americans have the exposition habit. It is a good habit to have, since it indicates that we are alive. These world's fairs may be described as the flowers on the tree of progress. After a period of growth we blossom out, so to speak, and invite mankind to come and see us in our glory. Moreover, these festivals of industry bring us together and get us acquainted. They unify our life, impart to us a common spirit and stimulate us to a healthy emulation. The pessimist who grumbles that the era of expositions is over is certainly waller and not a prophet. He needs an injection of the serum of construction. He has failed to catch the American spirit. The exposition has a legitimate place in our life and has come to stay. We are becoming more and more a nation of travelers determined to see the world. These fairs congregate the world for us to view and show it to us in miniature. Instead of requiring us to visit distant lands, they bring the distant lands to us. The mountain comes to Mohammed. Expositions furnish a cosmopolitan viewpoint, a universal education. They are panoramas of advancement, the progress of the world done into tabloid.

It is fitting that the latest of industrial festivals is to be held on the shores of the Pacific and that it is to be not a memorial of the past, but a prophecy of the future; not hung upon yesterday, but on tomorrow. For it is around the Pacific that the world's greatest civilization is to form. That has been apparent for fifty years. During the last half century an awakening of new life has touched all the lands bordering the great ocean. Around the gigantic horseshoe from South America to Australasia it has progressed, as though some world spirit had planned it from behind the scenes. It freed the Latin American republics, threw a restless population into California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, found a golden key for Alaska, stirred even fee locked Siberia and dead alive Korea, transformed Japan, broke the slumber of ages in China, carried American enterprise into the Philippines and applied the most advanced theories of government to Australia and New Zealand. The same magical breath of life blew upon the island gardens of Hawaii. Now comes the climax of all this advancement in the construction of the Panama canal. To this new Pacific civilization the United States is the key. Through the Monroe doctrine and the canal she dominates South and Central America. Her spirit is more in western Canada than that of Britain. She owns Alaska. It was she that awakened Japan and maintained the integrity of China. She controls Hawaii and the Philippines. She has furnished the model and the democratic spirit for the governments in Australasia.

The New Pacific Empire.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition can be understood only as a symbolism of this. It is more than a mere fair; it is the visible sign of a great idea, an open door to a new world. It says to mankind: "Here are the future highways of commerce, the coming theater of history. Here the east and the west join hands to form the world's greatest civilization. The circle of progress is complete. It has passed from east to west about the earth to reach its highest statehood where the ends meet." It is perhaps a happy omen that this new and greater civilization is to be called the Pacific. It may well be pacific in a double sense, and the thousand years of peace may reign upon those shores.

The forthcoming exposition has inspired the "Chinook poet" to sing. He has one verse to each of the words in the hyphenated title, one to Alaska, one to the Yukon, one to the Pacific and one to the exposition. They are perfectly good verses, that to the Pacific being worthy of quoting. The "Chinook poet" is not the first bard to sing of the seas. Byron in a magnificent apostrophe commanded the ocean to "roll on," and it has been rolling on ever since. The late Algernon Charles Swinburne wrote of "The North Sea" in numbers sufficiently gruesome to send shivers down the spine of an iceberg. In it he had death and the sea "holding converse of desolate speech." That would not apply to the Pacific, however, for here death has been dethroned. King Alcohol and banished him from its domain.

Every exposition has had its midway, where the barker barks and Coney Island shows are in evidence. In St. Louis this was "the Pike." In Seattle it is to have a name still more original, "the Pay Streak." Any one who has ever traveled the midway and has seen the dimes and quarters melting through his fingers will recognize the appropriateness of the title.

There are to be many other novelties. For one thing, a Siberian village will show to civilization a really primitive people. The human race is supposed to have had its earliest home in Asia, and it can readily be imagined that these Siberians have not changed their modes of living since the distant days of the first man. They live in tents, kill their game with bows and arrows, allowing none of the blood to escape, pray to the devil and propitiate him with blood offerings and slay their own hopelessly sick, aged and cripples. The village that has been brought to Seattle lost one child born since its advent. This young Siberian and others will be features of the village.

Another unique feature is a fox farm, the exhibitor being a man who has actually started such a farm, on which foxes are bred for their furs.

"Seward's Iceberg."

Perhaps the greatest spectacular feature of the exposition is a gigantic cyclorama of Alaska. The enterprise was originally started to exhibit to the world the possibilities of Uncle Sam's arctic possession of the Yukon valley both on American and Canadian territory. The popular idea of Alaska is a land of "cold and gold." As a matter of fact, it is a country with great possibilities in agriculture. It is no farther north than Finland, and the climate is even milder than in the extreme north of Europe. It is now realized that some day "Seward's Iceberg" may be the home of prosperous millions, and it is for the purpose of hastening that time that the A.-Y.-P. was originally planned. Then the Pacific idea was added, and all countries bordering the great ocean were invited to participate. It will be a strange blending of the polar and the tropic, of the Eskimo and the Tagalog. In it the American people will be given an opportunity to become acquainted with "the little brown brother." There will be a Philippine exhibit such as never has been beheld at any other fair. This is likewise true of Hawaii, a section of one of whose famous parks is to reproduced. Japan here will give by far the fullest display of her industries and life ever beheld at an exposition, including not only the wonderful Nippon of today, but that even more romantic Nippon of the old days of the samurai. Essentially all the Pacific countries will be represented, as well as most of the American states and some of the European nations.

In a scenic way the location of the fair is ideal. It is located between two lakes, giving it more than a mile and a half of water front. It is literally a fair in the forest, the buildings arising in a picturesque manner among the giant trees of the northwest. After a visit Charles Dana Gibson, the artist, has enthusiastically declared it the most beautiful exposition ever planned."

The Mountain Climbers' Convention.

In the near distance arise the three great peaks Mount Rainier, Mount Baker and Mount Constance. One or the other of them is in constant view from all parts of the grounds, thus furnishing a combination of water, greensward, forest and height to charm the lover of nature. When to this are added the noblest effort of the architect and the pleasing effects of the landscape gardener one can begin to understand how it must have struck the creator of "the Gibson girl."

No exposition is now complete without balloon races, and Seattle will have her speed test in the skies. A yet greater novelty is a convention of the world's most famous mountain climbers, who have been invited to come from all lands and scale Seattle's three great mountains, one of which, Mount Rainier, is among the tallest on the continent.

FOREIGN EXHIBITS BUILDING AND BABIES OF THE SIBERIAN VILLAGE.

THE SHEPHERD.

Have a hospital pen where the sheep that give evidence of disease can be isolated and treated. Many a contagious disease can in this way be kept from spreading to a flock.

Woven Wire Best For Fence.

Fences for sheep should not be less than three feet high, with not over sixteen inches, and preferably of woven wire with a single barbed wire at the top. Barbed wire is apt to cause the loss of wool, because sheep when in full fleece are frequently crowded through, especially if the wires are not stretched tightly.

Facts About Sheep.

From records kept at the Wisconsin experiment station of 240 ewes covering a period of five years the following conclusions were drawn:

Shropshire ewes appear to be more prolific than any other breed. Ewes six years old produce the largest percentage of increase, while young ewes have the greater percentage of single lambs. The percentage of ram lambs increases and the percentage of ewe lambs decreases as the age of the ewe advances. A ram is at his best at two or three years of age. The age of the ram does not have any effect on the sex of the offspring. Ram lambs average about one-half pound heavier at birth than ewe lambs. The larger the ewe the greater the percentage of increase, while the ram has no effect on the lambs in this respect.

Feeding Sheep.

It is always advisable in feeding sheep not to feed too much corn. Clover, hay and corn in equal parts by weight should be given during the fattening period. Except for fattening purposes it is better not to feed sheep on corn at all. Corn is said to contain about 60 per cent of starch and 6 per cent of oil, both being very digestible. Oil makes fat, and the starch produces heat and also fat. On account of its heat producing power it is inadvisable to feed corn. Because of there not being any great quantity of protein in corn it is necessary to feed something else with it, either clover or alfalfa.

Sheriff's Office

Will Be Filled at Democratic County Convention

SOUTH BOW MERCHANT ATTORNEY MASTERMAN COUNTY TREASURER—WAKELY AND HASSON FOR CORONERS.

The Republican county convention for the county of Steuben was held at Hornell Friday afternoon. It was one of the largest, most harmonious and enthusiastic ever held in Steuben county.

A ticket of unusual strength was placed in nomination consisting of Milton W. Davison of Canisteo for sheriff, Wm. G. Masterman, of Hornell for county treasurer, Edwin C. Smith of Addison for district attorney and Dr. C. B. Wakely of Hornell and Dr. John E. Hasson of Bath for coroners.

Fred J. Tuttle of Hornell was named by county chairman W. C. Acker as presiding officer of the convention. Mr. Tuttle made a model speech on taking the chair. He is one the delegates would be glad to hear again.

On motion of H. O. Elkins of Bath Geo. H. Parker of Bath and Samuel Quackenbush of Corning were made secretaries. Attorney E. S. Brown of Cohocton moved that the tellers be postmaster Geo. H. Keeler of Hammonsport and W. D. Hamilton of Campbell, which was carried.

Smith Renominated

James Flaherty of Prattsburgh in an eloquent speech placed in nomination for district attorney Hon. Edwin C. Smith of Addison. He paid a high tribute to Mr. Smith as a man and official who had the courage, integrity and conscience to do his duty and the ability and industry to perform ably the heavy and responsible duties of the office. The nomination was seconded by Judge Almon W. Burrell and on motion the secretary was directed to cast one ballot for Mr. Smith, which was done.

Sheriff Nominated.

County Judge Almon W. Burrell then placed in nomination for sheriff in an eloquent speech, Milton W. Davison, of Canisteo. H. O. Elkins then nominated W. W. Babcock of Bath and J. Mott Harding of Hornell was nominated by W. H. Prangen. An informal ballot was taken which resulted as follows:

M. W. Davison	105
W. W. Babcock	31
J. Mott Harding	21

Mr. Babcock then thanked the delegates who supported him for the nomination. He said: "I used every possible means to get this nomination and I shall likewise use every possible means to elect Mr. Davison sheriff." W. H. Prangen then moved that the nomination of Mr. Davison be made unanimous by the casting of one ballot by the secretary. This was done.

Nominee Smith was then called for and was heartily greeted by the delegates. He said: "I feel that a great honor has been conferred on me today. I have done my duty so far as I have seen it and this nomination which I have received from your hands makes me feel that I am amply repaid for the hard work of the office. I believe that the republican party of the county of Steuben is in line to roll up an even larger majority than ever, at the election this fall."

Nominee Davison was called for and in well chosen words he thanked the convention for the nomination. He continued; "I am indeed pleased at the ending of this long fight. We have traversed this county from one end to the other and there are no hard feelings. If elected, I will bring to the office of sheriff the best that is in me. I hope to be a worthy successor to those who have preceded."

Masterman Nominated.

Supervisor George Hollands of Hornell nominated in a telling speech for the office of county treasurer, the present incumbent, Wm. G. Masterman of Hornell. The nomination was seconded by E. F. Parker of Bath who paid a high tribute to Mr. Masterman. This nomination was made unanimous without opposition.

Mr. Masterman came before the convention in response to calls, and said: "I appreciate the compliment you have paid me. I will do the best I can to conduct the office honestly and honorably if elected, and whether elected or defeated I shall not again be a candidate for the nomination of county treasurer."

Coroners were then nominated by acclamation as follows: Dr. B. C. Wakley of Hornell and Dr. John E. Hasson of Bath.

The committee to fill vacancies was appointed as follows: Wm. H. Prangen of Hornell, H. H. Pratt of Corning and H. O. Elkins of Bath. The new county committee was read after which the convention adjourned.—Canisteo Times.

CAME NEAR DROWNING.

Wellsville School Lads Rescue Companion from the River.

Master Fred Buck, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Buck, had a narrow escape from drowning in the Genesee river. The classes from the third and fourth grades with their teachers were enjoying a picnic at Island Park, and "Fritz" as he is known to his companions, was wading in the river, when the current suddenly took him off his feet and he fell backward into deep water. His companions were horrified, but it was the heroic work of Howard Crowner and Walter Carr, two lads of the same age, which saved the little lad from drowning. Crowner plunged boldly into the river and diving under the water pulled little Fritz out, and he was brought safely to the bank. The lad was quite sick from the quantities of water he had swallowed, and was quickly taken to his parents home on East Pearl St.—He suffered much during the night, but is all right again to day and able to attend school.

The young lads who so bravely went to their companions rescue are indeed heroes, and it was only by their quick work that a horrible death was averted.—Reporter.

The farm was carved out of a pine forest more than a century ago and was purchased direct from the land office. The Kings for two generations were surveyors and represented the land office in hundreds of important real estate transactions in that county.

Will Tax Gypsies.

Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania, has signed the gypsy taxation bill and it is expected as a result that these wandering bands of gypsies will give the state a wide berth hereafter. The law provides that each county may charge each band a tax of $50 for the privilege of camping or temporarily locating within the borders of the county and this tax license is only good for one year. If a band is found without a license every member of the band is liable to arrest and a fine of from $50 or $100 cash or a jail sentence for 30 days.
