News & Notes.

Boston, June 4.—As a result of the detention by immigration officials yesterday of three nephews of the Governor of Tsinghai, and their sister, who came to Boston on the Ivernia, on their way to their native land, after studying in England, the most prominent cotton manufacturers and agents in New England have addressed a protesting memorial to President Roosevelt, declaring that just as a thriving export cotton trade has been built up between the United States and China, the Chinese merchants' guilds have begun to threaten to boycott American merchants in retaliation for the way American immigration officials treat prominent Chinamen in this country.

Washington, June 5.—Charles J. Bonaparte, whom President Roosevelt has selected to succeed Paul Morton as Secretary of the Navy on July 1, will probably become Attorney-General when Mr. Moody retires from that office one year hence. Mr. Bonaparte is regarded as an able lawyer and an ardent reformer—just the kind of man the President thinks he needs to hunt bad trusts and rebate givers and dishonest public officials. The Department of Justice is a better field for that kind of work than the Navy Department, and Mr. Moody has decided to return to the practice of law in about a year.

New York, June 4.—Attended by members of his family and a committee named by the Legislature of Michigan, a coffin containing the body of Stevens Thompson Mason, first Governor of that State, was taken to Detroit yesterday to be buried where the first capital of Michigan stood. The coffin was taken from the Marble Cemetery, where it was buried in 1843. Governor Mason, a member of a well-known Virginia family, was appointed Secretary of the Territory of Michigan and ex-officio Governor by President Jackson and was elected Governor when the Territory became a State.

Washington, June 6.—Plans for the battleships South Carolina and Michigan, which are being prepared by the Navy Department, indicate that the two warships will be the strongest fighting craft afloat. The plans will provide for a battery of 12-inch and 10-inch guns, differing on this score from any other vessels of the navy. No battleship heretofore has been armed with more than four guns of the big caliber. The two ships will each carry at least eight of the 10-inch guns.

New York, June 4.—By a coalition of the Hyde and Alexander factions in the directorate of the Equitable Life Assurance Society yesterday the report of the Frick Investigating Committee was rejected, and three of the members of the committee, angered by the turn affairs had taken, resigned as officers of the society. Henry C. Frick, Cornelius N. Bliss and E. H. Harriman were those who resigned. Melville E. Ingalls and Brayton Ives are also expected to hand in their resignations.

Berlin, June 3.—The French delegates to the wedding of Crown Prince Frederick William—General de Lacroix, Francois Arago and Rear Admiral de Marolles—arrived here to-day and were cheered by a considerable crowd. This probably was the first time in a generation that Frenchmen have been cheered in the streets of Berlin. The Emperor called on them later and also called on Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the representative of the Czar.

Boston, June 4.—J. Montgomery Sears, the largest taxpayer in Boston and one of the wealthiest men of New England, died at his summer home at Southboro, Mass., on Friday, after an illness of several months. His death was due to a cancer. He was fifty-one years old. He was rated ten years ago at $25,000,000.

London, June 6.—The establishment of a republic has been one of the many predicted outcomes of the trouble between Sweden and Norway. The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reports the belief that this will be accomplished in the next few days, the republic being modeled on the Swiss Confederation.

New York City.

Much to the astonishment of Judge Crane of the County Court, Samuel Lobley, whose trial on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree for stealing $55,000 from the Equitable Life Assurance Society was begun in the County Court, Brooklyn, on Wednesday, pleaded guilty when the case was called on Friday. Judge Crane on Tuesday imposed a sentence of eight years in Sing Sing.

Many lottery tickets sent out from Ireland and other parts of Europe by religious and charitable organizations have recently been seized here by the postal authorities. In some instances persons who have had their mail confiscated because it contained tickets of chance have complained bitterly, though others have shown clarion as it saved them the necessity of paying for the tickets.

Jimmy Hope, to claim the most expert safe blower this country has ever known, who carried out the plans arranged for the robbery of the Manhattan Bank in 1878, where $75,000 in stocks, bonds and money were stolen, died, was buried in Woodlawn on Sunday.

The will of Charles H. Van Brunt, lately President Justice of the Appellate Division, leaves everything to his wife, Mrs. Van Brunt, estimated the estate at less than $10,000 in personality, with no real property.

Foreign.

London.—The standard says it has received confirmation from good sources of the report that the Russian government suspects the temper of the troops in Manchuria and at home. According to private letters from Manchuria, Gen. Linevitch recently had twenty-five officers and 300 men executed. The officers were shot and the men hanged. The officers were accused of distributing proclamations that were found in possession of the men. A number of revolutionists and a quantity of bombs and revolvers have been seized at Riga.

Berlin, June 3.—It is stated that the substitution of Grand Duke Michael for Grand Duke Vladimir as the Czar's representative at the wedding of Crown Prince Wilhelm and Duchess Cecilia was actually due to a warning received by the Russian Embassy here stating that Grand Duke Vladimir had been sentenced to death by the Terrorists, and that his appearance at the wedding would only result in his execution while in Germany.

Paris, June 4.—The Temps says it learns that the same syndicate of Paris banks which three months ago broke off its loan negotiations with Russia again opened its negotiations and was about to sign an agreement on May 30, when the Russian naval overthrow caused it to withdraw again.

Sports.

The New York Seventh Regiment rifle team, which is to shoot a match against a team of the Queen's Westminster Volunteers at Bisley, England, next month, will sail on June 17. They are to shoot for a silver shield presented by Col. Sir Howard Vincent, aid-de-camp to King Edward VII. This is to be a challenge shield, and the second match will be shot at Creedmoor next year.

August Belmont will be reappointed Chairman of the State Racing Commission by Gov. Higgins. The other members of the commission will be E. D. Morgan and Congressman Wadsworth.

Financial.

Discussing the government's problem of how best to increase the revenue, the National City Bank suggests the practicability of an additional tax of a dollar or so upon beer, to avoid the "small and vexatious excess such as are evidenced by stamps on checks and other documentary stamps."

The present harvest of speculative misfortune has a depressing effect upon sentiment. It is a harvest of failures, suicides and wasted reputations. There is no fixed season for it. The beginning of this reaping was the Milwaukee bank scandal. Since then failures of smaller banks and of firms have followed rapidly.

The net profit of the Japanese government on the tobacco monopoly for the business year 1904-05 was more than $18,500,000, being $3,676,000 over the budget estimate.

THE CALL OF THE SEA.

Philosophers, poets and scientists have all essayed to account for the charm held by the sea for the mind of man, but all with ill-success. To a man who has never seen the ocean their reasoning is without force. One must visit upon the sea to comprehend its fascination.

Indeed, the sailor man cannot comprehend the person who beholds the sea without desiring to go at once afloat; and those of us who go afloat join with him in wondering why in some the sea satisfies merely through the sense of vision.

ON GOING FISHING.

In these days of discord between nations it is well for us to remember the advice of Isaak Walton, to be quiet and go a-fishing.

Dark thoughts cannot live beside a babbling brook, a placid, silently moving river, or a wide expanse of apparently boundless blue sea. Drop your hook beneath the surface, and your thoughts center on it, or wander away only occasionally, vaguely, as into another world, in which you have no very great personal interest. That is rest, and all the most of us need to turn us from pessimism to optimism is a little rest now and then.

SNOW MADE TO ORDER.

A curious instance of the formation of artificial snow was witnessed in the town of Acton, in Maine recently. A fire broke out in a street when the temperature was 10 degrees below freezing point. The water thrown upon the fire was instantly vaporized, and, rising in the cold, dry air, was immediately condensed and fell as snow. With bright sunshine and a strong northwest wind blowing, the whirling snow above and the raging fire below, a brilliant spectacle was presented.

THE RUSH INTO CANADA.

We have heard so much about the hundreds of our western farmers who have been "pouring over the line" into Canada of late that it is refreshing to read the exact figures from Consul General Holloway.

Land entries were made in 1902, by 8,798 people from the United States, and in 1903 by 11,079. All the cheaper land of the Canadian Pacific railway company is now sold.

As we have been often told, the bulk of the emigration has been from North and South Dakota and from Minnesota.

That these new farmers in Canada will be in favor of reciprocity between the United States and the Dominion goes without saying.

THE ENGLISH AND THE PLAGUE.

Recent newspapers from Hongkong contain spirited communications on the subject of the plague, and sanitation in that important maritime port. Hongkong's condition is due in a large measure to the greed of British merchants who own the Chinese quarter of the city, and there herd in filthy tenements thousands of unhappy Chinese.

Our own interest lies in the fact that some of our ports, such as San Francisco, New York, Boston and other large cities, receive ships and goods from Hongkong. With them at any time we might receive the germ that would start an epidemic of one of the worst scourges of mankind, the bubonic plague.

BIG FISHES AND LITTLE.

It appears that Mr. William Waldorf Astor owns, on his estate of Cliveden, both banks of the Thames for a considerable distance. This, under English law, gives him the right to forbid any persons fishing in the stream within his bounds. But does the British fisherman sit supinely and accept the dictum of the American lord of Cliveden? Not a bit of it! He writes letters to the press, holds meetings, stirs up public opinions, and appeals to Parliament to change the laws regarding control of the Thames.

What with the big social fishes and the little Thames fishes, it would really seem as if Mr. Astor might have been more comfortable in this crude but democratic land he left.

THE ALEUTIAN NAVAL STATION.

The project of the Navy Department to establish a strategic base and coaling station in the Aleutian Islands, is founded on the theory that the country needs a stronghold of this description in the northern reaches of the Pacific.

Plenty of naval stations are necessary if we are to have an efficient navy, but it is worth while to suggest the question whether some of the gentlemen whom the country pays to consider points of strategy are not in danger of allowing their zeal in this respect to go beyond the limits of reasonable economy.

Both ends of the Panama Canal must be held by our naval forces; two important stations are contemplated on Cuban territory, and at least one in Porto Rico; in the Pacific we have Hawaii, and the Philippines, to say nothing of the much joked about Guam, and a few other bits of scattered insular territory. Bering Sea, on which the Aleutians are situated, is a mighty cold place during a good portion of the year, and the lot of a garrison permanently posted there would not be altogether enviable.

The more we have of them the more points will require protection if we should be unfortunate enough in the future to become involved in hostilities with a strong maritime power. These are considerations which should be borne in mind when Congress is asked to appropriate a million and a half or so for an establishment of this sort in black and distant seas whose waters are seldom troubled by the keels of merchant steamships.

Neuralgia And Other Pain.

All pain in any disease is nerve pain, the result of a turbulent condition of the nerves. The stabbing, lacerating, darting, burning, agonizing pain that comes from the prominent nerve branches, or sensory nerves, is neuralgia, and is the "big brother" of all the other pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills rarely ever fail to relieve these pains by soothing these larger nerves, and restoring their tranquility.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills leave no bad after-effects, and are a reliable remedy for every kind of pain, such as headache, backache, stomachache, sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia.

They also relieve Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Car-Sickness, and Distress after eating.

"For the past two years I have been a constant sufferer from headaches and backaches. I had tried many remedies without any permanent relief, until I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They always give my headache a few minutes relief." FRED E. SWINGLEY, Cashier 1st Nat. Bank, Fairport, N. Y.

Return Game Whitesville vs. Greenwood.

On Saturday the Whitesville ball players encountered the Greenwood nine on the grounds of the latter named and to put it mildly the Greenwood boys pasted it all over them air Whitesville chaps to the tune of 30 to 9 in Greenwood favor. There is no knowing where the figures would have run to if our boys had played out their last inning. They had compassion on their guests and stopped.

Huge Task.

It was a huge task, to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommended this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by O. E. Decoration in Greenwood.

Decoration day was fittingly observed in Greenwood. Rev. Charles Reynolds of Waterloo delivered an able and interesting address to a large audience at the M. E. church. Mr. Reynolds is a very entertaining and eloquent speaker and receives many calls for orations on Decoration days.

TO MAKE BACHELORHOOD COST

In some quarters it is argued that for a reasonable man reasonably employed it is cheaper to wed than to remain single.

Sparta made non-marriage a crime for men. Athens submitted its unmarried males to early penalties. In Julius Caeser's Rome only husbands and fathers shared in the allotment of Campanian lands. Augustus shut off from legacies unmarried persons under sixty, for men, or fifty for women. Great Britain has had its special taxes on bachelors and widows and France has threatened similar tariffs. One State in Argentina taxes its bachelors from $5 to $30 per month, according to their ages.—New York World.

Discouraged by Reception She Got, She Goes Home.

Altoona, Pa., June 4.—Discouraged by the adverse criticism that has greeted her reappearance on the stage, Nan Patterson, broken in spirit and disheartened, severed her connection with "The Romance of Panama Company, with which she was traveling, last night and left early to-day for her home in Washington. Miss Patterson was greeted by a small house here last night, and the few women present left early. The actress, with tears in her eyes, in an interview just before she boarded the train, said:

"When I went on the stage I adopted the only means left me to earn a livelihood, and I am awfully sorry the people have so severely condemned me. I was anxious to do right and could see no harm in going on the stage, which is my profession. I owe thousands of dollars, and don't know how in the world I am going to pay it by any other way.

"I believe much of the criticism was due to the company with which I was traveling. It was not such as every body would care to patronize, and of course I have had to stand the blame for it. I really did not know much about it when I signed a contract, and rather than bear the harsh treatment that I have been subjected to I have decided to leave the stage, for a time at least."

Mrs. Dodge is the intimate friend of the Countess of Suffolk, formerly Miss Daisy Leiter, and at one time Chicago society insistently circulated the rumor that Joseph Leiter was to be the successful suitor for Mrs. Dodge's hand.

King Alfonso in England.

London, June 6.—King Alfonso of Spain arrived in England yesterday. The King, on landing at Portsmouth, was received by the Prince of Wales.

Replying to an address of welcome at Portsmouth, he said:

"I am deeply moved. I thank you for your very kind welcome to these hospitable shores, to which I have come to visit your gracious King."

When King Alfonso arrived in London he found the city enjoying the first real rain it had had for weeks. Notwithstanding a pitiless downpour the vicinity of the Victoria station was thronged.

As the train entered the station the guards saluted and the band played the Spanish national march. King Edward, who wore the uniform of a Spanish Admiral, received and cordially embraced his guest. King Alfonso was uniformed as a British General.

DECLINE OF PROFANITY.

Slang Has Supplanted Cuss Words of Not Many Years Ago.

Many purists bewail the prevalence of slang in the spoken language of the period. Has it never occurred to them that in the vast majority of instances slang is relatively soft and harmless, that it is seldom profane, and that what common speech has suffered from interjections of slang and cant phrases has been more than counterbalanced by the disuse of hard old Anglo-Saxan swear words?

Thus the language is usually the gainer, and usage is making much of the slang good English. Take any good dictionary lately from the press, and it will be found to contain literally hundreds of words that were considered slang and not to be spoken in polite conversation a dozen or 25 or 50 years ago.

Likewise, take any standard novel of three, four or five generations ago, which reflects the customs and people of its period, and it will be found that some of the leading characters in it were given to politely damning various parts of themselves and about everything else on the slightest provocation, in any company whatsoever.

In the days of Sheridan it was considered good form for the gallant gentleman to consign himself to perdition, piecemeal or as a whole, while paying tribute to the charms of the ladies with whom he was conversing.

The rotund and benevolent Mr. Pickwick himself was not averse to using a judicious oath while in the most charming society.

Thackeray, in person and in his novels, let drop swear words occasionally that would not now be tolerated in a gentleman's parlor.

In the "good old days" of long ago it was regarded as a gentleman's privilege to swear, and if his oaths were nicely chosen no offense was felt. It was not so now. Not that profanity is obsolete, but it is pretty nearly so in polite society.

Occasionally the gentleman may let slip an oath under provocation, but in such instances he is careful to note that there is no woman within earshot. The "d——" at the dinner table or in the drawing room is unknown in these modern and better days.—Savannah News.

Canada to Have a Mint.

Canada is to have a mint of her own and make her own money. Heretofore England has done all this little chore for Canada when not too busy with her own affairs and at such times she has let private parties do it and then has sent the money across the water to the colony. But now there is to be a mint established at Montreal and Canadian gold and silver, including the Klondike output, will be minted there. At least a large proportion of it may be expected to remain and circulate at home.

CROSSING STATE LINES.

When Webster Was a New Hampshire Man.

In new countries people change their place of residence frequently. Not being tied down by long family attachments, they move about until they find a spot that suits them. In only a few of the oldest American communities are estates held in one line for generations, and the custom seems not to be growing.

In the earlier history of the country men often became prominent in the politics of several states in turn. James Shields, whose figure stands in the statuary hall as the gift of Illinois, served three states in the United States senate. "Sunset" Cox represented Ohio in congress, and afterward New York. George W. Jones held important offices in Missouri, Wisconsin, Iowa and the Northwestern territory. Senator Elkins of West Virginia, was at one time the territorial delegate from New Mexico.

The rivalry of New Hampshire and Massachusetts in claiming Daniel Webster gave rise to a waggish remark by Senator Hoar. Somebody asked if the statue of Webster which New Hampshire has erected in Washington looked like him, to which the Massachusetts senator replied that it did "when Webster was a New Hampshire man."—Youth's Companion.

A Japanese Prison.

"Imagine a park or garden in the Japanese style, with dwarf trees, surrounded by a hedge, instead of a wall," says a writer. "In this park one sees a group of Japanese houses, like those occupied by the peasants. The prisoners are all at work proportioned to their physical ability. Some are thrashing and grinding rice; others are weaving coarse cloth of a dark red color, of which the prison uniforms are made. The old and infirm are separating leaves of paper. All of them receive a percentage of their earnings. The younger prisoners are in school.

"In form the discipline is military, but in its spirit reformatory. There are few evasions, notwithstanding the ease with which they could be effected. One reason for this is the efficiency of the Japanese police, which is said to be the best in the world. The prisoners are divided into three grades and are differently fed, according as they are idle and refractory, amenable to discipline or exceptionally well behaved.

"Solitary confinement in a sort of dungeon, not exceeding five days, is the only other punishment. No prisoner may be discharged, however short his term of sentence, unless his family or friends assume responsibility for him. The result has been the organization of a large number of prisoners' aid societies."

Cruelty in Africa.

For years Edmund D. Morel has been waging war on the barbarities that are inflicted by the representatives of European civilization on the natives of west and central Africa. The territory in question is under Belgian rule. He writes: "In four years the natives of the Kongo territories have been robbed in the name of philanthropy and civilization of produce collected by them to the tune of nearly $30,000,000. And that is the least count in the indictment. The number of human lives that have been sacrificed, directly and indirectly in the process is appalling to contemplate. One of the trusts, British capital at Boma, tells us, expended in three years, 72,000 cartridges in the production of India rubber,' and he quotes a diary shown him testifying to the use by the government of 6,000 cartridges in six months on the Mambozo river, 'which means that 6,000 are killed or mutilated, because for every cartridge used the soldiers must bring back a right hand.' The diary adds: 'It means more than 6,000 for the people told me repeatedly that the soldiers kill the children with the butt of their guns."

Ancient British Stronghold For Sale.

Dunstanburg Castle is about to be offered for sale by auction. It was first a British stronghold, then a Roman fortress, and at a much later period was garrisoned for Queen Margaret, after the battle of Hexham, when it was besieged and taken after an assault lasting three days. The legend of "Sir Guy, the Seeker," told in a ballad by M. G. Lewis, is connected with the castle. "Dunstan diamonds" are crystals found in the neighborhood. A deep chasm in the rock at the east of the castle is known as the "Rumble Churn." In rough weather the sea rushes in, and great clouds of spray are thrown up.
