ORDINARY CATHARTICS AND PILLS AND HARSH PHYSIC CAUSE DISTRESSING COMPLAINTS.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. The griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying and a lifelong annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies contain an entirely new ingredient which is odorless, tasteless and colorless. As an active agent, it embraces the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal regulator tonics.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of intestinal tract, give a fine bowel lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really no medicine for this purpose so good as Rexall Orderlies, especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form, in two sizes of packages: 12 tablets 10 cents, and 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Andover only at our store,—The Rexall Store. J. D. Cheesman.

Special Stockholder's Meeting

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the stockholders of the Home Enterprise Co., of Andover, N. Y., will be held at the Office of the corporation at the Auditorium, in the village of Andover, N. Y., on the 29th day of December, 1909, at 8 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing Directors and the transaction of such other business as shall properly come before the meeting.

This special meeting is called owing to the fact that the regular annual meeting conflicted in date with an entertainment that was booked for the Auditorium, and was omitted on account thereof, and at this meeting it is desired that all stockholders be present, as at this time a general review of the financial condition of the Company will be given, including the cost of the construction of the building and of first year's income. December 14th being our first anniversary of the opening of our Auditorium.

Dated, this 9th day of December, 1909.

Radical Views on Israelitish Culture and Religion.

JEWISH THEORY

"NOT OF BABYLONIAN ORIGIN."

University of Pennsylvania Professor Maintains Israel's History, Religion and Culture Originated in Israel's Own Land—Disputes Opinion of Assyriologists.

By GEORGE E. NITZSCHE.

Every student of the Old Testament who is dependent upon the work of the specialists will be greatly interested in a revolutionary work which was recently written by the Rev. Dr. Albert T. Clay, professor of philology and Semitic archaeology in the University of Pennsylvania, because it presents an entirely new theory upon the question as to the origin of the religion and literature of the Israelites. The prevailing opinion of nearly every Assyriologist is that in Babylon is to be found the origin of the Israelitish culture and religion, that the story of the creation, the deluge, the antediluvian patriarchs, as well as the origin of the Sabbath, is a myth from Babylonia and that the Jews got their ideas from the Babylonians while in exile and used them in writing their own history of Israel and that which is known as Israelitish is only an adaptation by late Hebrew writers of Babylonia mythology. These theories have been carried into the New Testament. Even Christ is declared by some of the critics to be a transformed Babylonian "Bel" or "Merodach." The characteristic features of the life of Jesus—his passion, death, resurrection and ascension—they claim, are ideas which had their origin in Babylonian mythology.

Reversal of Views of Scholars.

In Professor Clay's new work on "Amurru, the Home of the Northern Semites," he presents authoritatively that the history, culture and religion of the Israelites are not of Babylonian origin. The views of the critics who would dissipate the Bible into Babylonian myths are not only proved to be without foundation, but he shows that Israel's religion and culture are developments which had their origin in Israel's own land and that Semitic Babylonian culture also originated in the Bible lands. This is a complete reversal of the position taken by scholars in regard to the origin of the culture in many respects common to both the Babylonians and Israelites.

Presents Entirely New Theory.

The ordinary interpretation of ideas from one nation to another is acknowledged by Professor Clay, but he vigorously attacks the pan-Babylonian theory by rendering of no effect the few arguments advanced to support them, and then, with an enormous amount of historical, archaeological and philological material, he scientifically builds up his own theory, which is entirely new and revolutionary and opposite to those of every eminent Assyriologist. The creation story of the Babylonians, which is similar to the Biblical account, Dr Clay states, had its origin in Syria. The theory of its Babylonian origin receives its deathblow in this book. The Babylonian story of the antediluvian patriarchs, he shows, had its origin in Bible lands. The deluge story of the Babylonians is also shown to have been an importation from this land.

Eminent as an Assyriologist.

In the first part of the book, which is readable to the intelligent layman, the author presents a careful analysis of the views of other scholars and his own. The second part of his work is reserved for the technical material upon which he bases his position.

Dr Clay's eminent position among Assyriologists of the world has the most authoritative invitations of the Babylonian Hieroglyphics, and his books are published by him chiefly in order to give Dr. Clay's theories at them consideration. In this book the author has attempted to ascertain the prevailing opinions of most Assyriologists and the variant theories, and he may expect that his contentions will be hotly contested at every point of conflict as well as the scientific material which he presents in the confirmation of his position.

NATIONAL CORN SHOW.

Features of Exposition of Grains to Be Held at Omaha, Neb.

From Dec. 6 to 18 the National Corn exposition will draw to Omaha, Neb., thousands of persons interested in good husbandry. Last year fourteen agricultural colleges sent exhibits and delegations to the show and about thirty states were represented. Nearly 50,000 ears of corn and approximately 1,000 samples of the smaller grains were displayed; also a large number of farm implements.

This year the department of agriculture will exhibit samples of the leading cereals, embracing all those imported during the last few years. The origin of each variety will be noted as well as its value and the region to which it is best adapted. Specimens illustrating the effect on grains of smut, rusts and other injurious fungous diseases complete the exhibit.

Write exhibits from many states will give an idea of the corn grown in different sections under favorable conditions, the department of agriculture will have samples showing corn grown under average conditions in every state in the Union. This collection shows what the plant was before it was cultivated and the successive stages of its development.

Orchard on State Reservation.

The Indiana forestry commission is making arrangements to plant a large orchard on the state reservation, nine miles south of Scottsburg. The commission heretofore has confined its attention to the cultivation and production of only the valuable woods for use in crossties, cabinet work and building. The new scheme will be a means of testing the hardihood of the various varieties of fruit trees, and it will also show whether the knobs can be used to advantage in the production of fruit.

New Cod Bank.

A new "cod bank" in the gulf of St. Lawrence, off the west coast of Newfoundland, has been discovered by the Canadian government survey ship Eimor. The new bank is situated about twenty-five miles northwest from Point Riche (the northwest point of Ingonachoix bay) and is reported to be about twenty-eight miles long and ten to twelve miles wide. The least depth of water over the bank is said to be about eighteen fathoms. Cod are reported to be in abundance.

Paris Apaches' Trained Dogs.

The newest pest of the Paris suburban districts is the "Apache dog," which is taught by its masters to jump at lonely pedestrians and bite them while the hooligan rifles the victim's pockets. It appears that, taking a hint from the police methods, the Apaches have recently trained several animals of the same breed as the police dogs to attack policemen and others.

TRIBUTE TO GILDER.

Magazine's Appreciation of Poet Who Was Its Editor.

The Century for January is a tribute to the late Richard Watson Gilder, for twenty-eight years its editor in chief, will say:

The keynote of his character was loyalty. This trait pervaded every relation of his life like a sustaining and inspiring atmosphere. To his family and his friends, to his editorial and other business associates, to his social and civic obligations and, not least, of all, to his art, which remains his most individual record, he was loyalty itself. Nor was this a weak or blind impulse of goodness; rather it was a discriminating faculty of giving generously what was due to each, based on his delicate sense of proportion and appropriateness. The call of duty was to him imperative, and no man since James Russell Lowell, at whose death he seemed to receive a consecration of civic ardor, has more faithfully held up the highest ideals of American citizenship.

In this work and, in fact, in all the multitude of his philanthropic activities his influence and example have now become a heritage to his country.

Another note which runs through his life, his editorial writing and his poetry—a note that deepened with the advance of years—is that of personal responsibility. He felt that institutions were, in the last analysis, merely men and that ours could be preserved only by the virtue and altruism of the individual citizen. The scorn he felt for those who were willfully recreant to their political duties was like that of a soldier for a deserter. His humility and self effacement gave sincerity to his appeals to the best in every one. He had the keenest sense of nonlease oblige, and in all his spiritual and beautiful verse there is nothing more expressive of the chivalry of his life than those lines, the application of which he embodied in his career:

When to sleep I must
Where my fathers sleep;
When fulfilled the trust,
And the mourners weep;
When, though free from rust,
Sword hath lost its worth—
Let me bring to earth
No dishonored dust.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and insets ambition; the vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order, or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches the age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
