Wasted Irish Land.

The landlords own most of the land in Ireland and rent it out to the farmers, who assert that it is poor, and consequently they have a hard time to produce enough to support their families and pay the rent. Most of the land seems to be used for pasturage, and but little of it is under cultivation, as are the lands of Italy, Germany and France. Besides, there is a great waste caused by the building of wide turf fences. There are more fences to a farm in Ireland than in any other country.—Travel Magazine.

WILL THE STAMPING COMPANY REBUILD

Public Meeting at the Opera House Thursday Evening, Sept. 5, at 8 O'clock. All Interested In Andover's Prosperity Will be There

For the purpose of determining whether the Andover Stamping Company will rebuild their plant in Andover or not, a public meeting is called for Friday evening next, at the Opera House, at 8 o'clock.

Thru the efforts of the Business Men's Association a proposal has been made by the company whereby they will rebuild in Andover providing Andover people will assist them, not in the way of a bonus, mostly in work, an offer that all will agree is perfectly fair, and which can be met with easily with but a little work. If the plant is rebuilt the company will erect a reenforced concrete building, larger and better than before.

The meeting will be both a business and social affair, good music and a general good time will be enjoyed.

This meeting will undoubtedly be either a farewell to the Andover Stamping Company or the begining of a new and still better industrial condition for Andover.

A special invitation is extended the ladies.

Snakes In His Sleeve

W. W. Thomas of Rushford had a disagreeable experience with a snake one day last week. He was building a cement culvert at the creek crossing not far from the village, and after eating his lunch lay down on the grass to rest. He soon felt something moving in his sleeve and upon raising his arm was horrified to see a spotted adder dangling there from, the head of the reptile being above his elbow. Mr. Thomas grabbed the snake and drew him from his sleeve and succeeded in killing him. That he was not bitten seems strange as the adder is claimed to be poisonous and this one measured over three feet in length.

Held Up

George Barnes, a well-known citizen of Shingle House, was held up at the point of a revolver by three masked footpads a short distance from town, and not only his watch and $7 in money but also his clothes, including his underclothes and socks.

Mr. Barnes had gone to a pasture after his cows and did not hear the men coming up behind him until the one holding the revolver demanded that he put his hands up." They then took his watch and money and a fancy to his clothes so demanded and received them. There is as yet no clue to the robbers.

EARLEY SOLD "SUSIE E"

The Black Passing Colt With Record of 2:19 to P. H. Willey

P. H. Willey of Dansville, N. Y., has purchased of Crayton L. Earley, the promising young black pacing mare, "Susie E.," consideration $700. This mare is the one raised by Mr. Earley from the black mare known as "Nellie Lynch," daughter of "Lady L," previously sold by P. C. Lynch for $1,500, and sired by "Tickle Me".

Mr. Willey is to be congratulated upon securing this valuable mare, many here will remember her as the little black colt that used to play with the boys on the ball ground opposite the railroad station. She is a half sister to the fast trotting mare, "Kittie Conley" which was poisened about two years ago, both having the same mother, and the only colts she has ever raised except a weanling, now owned by Henry Stephens.

Much credit is due to Trainor John Cocoaman for the beautiful manners and speed developments of this mare, as she has been in his care since May 10th last, previous to that time she had been used on the road by her owner and had had only a little track work. Commencing with miles in 2:40 this spring, she has chopped off a few seconds each week until at this time she has been driven a full mile on our track, which is considered about three seconds slow, in 2:19¼, and a quarter in thirty-two and one-half seconds.

Barring accidents this mare is destined to surely make in the near future a 2:10 pacer, and is thought by many to be worth much more money than the price paid. Her present owner has purchased for her a beautiful outfit and sent same here, and will leave her here in training with Mr. Cocoaman for two weeks.

ERIE'S NEW GASOLINE CAR

Running Between Avon and Attica on the Erie--Makes Fast Time and Is an Elegant Car

Avon people tell of the arrival there of the Erie's gasoline car and they say it will be placed in service on the Attica branch of the Rochester division within a week or two.

The car, which was built at the Omaha shops of the Union Pacific railroad, is described as "one of the queerest looking things on wheels that has ever entered Avon yards." Despite its looks, it is said to be a success, and the men on the division already know that it can run for it has just made three miles in two and a half minutes.

The car is about the length of a standard day coach and is shaped like a steamboat. The front end in which is the engine room and cab, comes to a sharp point, to cut the wind. The rear end is rounded, and the windows are about two feet in diameter, also round. When they are opened they swing inside and fasten to the ceiling.

Inside, the car is even prettier than the new electric cars of the Erie. The car is finished in oak, and the seats of golden oak, are wider than those on a regular coach.

A large circular seat extends around the whole rear end of the car, there being no platform. The steps are in the middle of the car. When the doors are closed there is no way to get out, as the steps are inside the doors.

Acetylene gas lights are used. Power is furnished by six gasoline engines, in sets of threes, and they are coupled by gears to the front wheel of the front truck. The car is equipped with airbrakes, and it weighs about thirty tons.

The car will make frequent trips up and down the branch between Avon and Attica.

The Erie is probably the only railroad in the country using three kinds of power on any one division—steam electricity and gasoline.

It is said at Avon that the Gans car which was built in Austria, will arrive in a few days, and will also be put into service. This car uses steam as fuel. It has not yet, however, been proved successful in the Erie's tests of it. It is said that the Gans car is to be put into operation on the Dansville & Mount Morris Railroad to connect with the electric trains.

An Important Question

Is our city park a place where mothers may go with their children for an afternoon, or a beer garden for boozlums and drunken bums, who lie there too drunk to even brush the flies out of their mouths? Wake up, city fathers, or else extend the water line to the park. The women would just love to use the hose once, and don't you think for a minute we haven't the muscle.

One of the women.

Select the Best School

It costs very little more, in either time or money, to attend a really good school than to attend one of inferior grade, and the difference in the outcome is sure to be very great. Young people of fair education, who have ability and ambition, give the Rochester Business Institute the preference, because they are able to discriminate. Getting on the right track is of the utmost importance.

SCHOOL MATES MEET

"When We Were Boys and Girls Together"

On August 28, 1907, some of those who were once scholars in the old "Briggs District," in Independence, and a part of their families, assembled at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Clarke to again greet each other and recount early recollections. About ninety persons, old and young, ate dinner from their baskets, the hostess and her family kindly dispensing tea and coffee among them. They then repaired to the house where the roll was called. Helen Parker, King N. Fulmer, Zereriah Fulmer, Elery M. Fulmer, Belinda Wood (Livermore), Celina Ketchum (Richmond), Elias Ketchum, Ella May Ketchum (Richmond), Elizabeth Ketchum (Dexter), Sarah Ann Mingus (Greggs), Henry and Charles Mingus, Clarissa Livermore (Perkins), Henrietta Fulmer (Bundy), Clementine Fulmer (Parker), Merville Stout, Altha Wood (Stout), Erwin Briggs, Clarabell Richardson (Barney), Ella Richardson (Brown), Amelia Babcock (Orvis), Adelbert Briggs, Ed. Briggs, Myron Lewis, Mortimer Lewis, Alice Briggs (Clark), Abbie Colling (Fish) and Louise A. Livermore (Foster) responded to their names. The most of them told some remembrance of their early school life. A few said "present."

Letters were read from Minnie Wood (Dexter) and Mary Wells (Barber). Will Carlton's poem, "The Schoolmaster's Guests," was read. A note of thanks was tendered the host and hostess. Louise Foster was chosen president for the ensuing year. Henrietta Bundy, Vice Pres., and Helen Ketchum Program Committee. It was voted to meet the 3rd Friday in Aug. 1908, in Myron Lewis' grove, when it is hoped that all of the living who ever attended that school and their families will be present.
