Fiddle Church Vane.

One of the most curious vanes to be seen on any church in Great Britain is at Great Gonerby, a parish adjoining Grantham.

It is in the form of a fiddle and bow and is unusually large. Its history is curious. Many years ago a peasant resided in Great Gonerby who eked out a modest livelihood by performing on an old violin which was almost a part of his life. At last he decided to emigrate, and out in the far west prospered and became a rich man.

One day he sent to the clergyman at Great Gonerby a sum sufficient to build a church, and attached to the gift the curious condition that a metal replica of his old fiddle and bow should be on the summit of the edifice. The gift was accepted and the vane may still be seen on the church.

The Magic Tomato.

Don't give a week's salary to the ticket agent to send you back to the old farm. Get a ripe tomato, dip it in salt, close your eyes and take a bite —and in a twinkling you will be standing in the dear old garden between the house and the orchard, with the trumpet vines climbing over the fence and the hollyhocks rising at the far end, and the dry, sweet, grassy, minty-tomato-viney smell of perfect summer in your nostrils, and a voice will be calling to you from the kitchen door: "You let those tomatoes alone, do you hear?"

A ripe tomato, dipped in salt, can outfly the strongest magic carpet in Arabia.—Newark News.

Strange Marriages.

Marriages are sometimes solemnized in strange places. In Christchurch, England, a wedding took place not a year ago in a church which was already partially demolished to make way for a new building. More recently still, a church in which a marriage was about to take place in England was burned down, and the firemen were still pouring water upon the smoking ruins when a wedding party made their way over the debris. —Woman's Life.

Famous New England Drama Coming.

The next attraction at the Auditorium, Saturday evening next, will be that famous New England Drama "OAKHILL FARM." Reports say that this is one of the big successes of the present season. The simplicity of country life in New England admits of portrayals that are always interesting. "Oakhill Farm" is said to be entirely distinct from all other plays of this class and one that holds the attention of the audience from the rise to the fall of the curtain. There is just enough mingling of pathos, sentiment, tragedy and comedy to appeal to all classes. The play will be given here in its entirety with four lavishly mounted acts, for which the company carry their own scenery. Prof. Adams' superb concert band and orchestra accompany them.

Resolutions.

The report of the committee appointed by Anna W. McArthur Chapter, O. E. S., in respect to the late Sister, Della Rollins, report as follows:

Whereas, He who "Doeth all things well," in his inscrutable wisdom, has summoned to her reward our sister, Mrs. Della Rollins, a beloved member of Anna W. McArthur chapter, No. 248, Order of the Eastern Star, therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the Divine will, we deeply deplore the loss of our estimable sister, whose sudden passing leaves a vacancy and a shadow in our organization that will be sadly realized.

Resolved, That we extend to the husband, children, mother and friends in this their hour of affliction, our heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to Him who has promised to comfort the afflicted.

Resolved, That these resolutions be engrossed on the records of the Chapter and published in the Andover News and that the jewels of the Chapter be draped for thirty days in respect to the deceased sister.

Presbyterian Entertainment.

Bar Harbor, put on at The Auditorium Thursday evening of last week, by the young people of the Presbyterian church, drew a crowded house. The play was a well arranged drama, with a plot of sufficient interest to claim the attention of the audience to the last. The characters were all well taken and admirably carried out.

The military drill given by eight young ladies with Miss Julia Raufenbarth as captain, was worthy of the highest praise, the soldier lasses in their natty uniforms were charming, and they went through the steps with grace and skill.

With the fine music from Cannon's orchestra a most enjoyable entertainment was furnished the public by the Presbyterian Society.

The house owned by Edward Dodd at Shingle House, burned to the ground last week. Mrs. Dodd had stepped out of the house on an errand and upon her return found the interior ablaze. She managed to rescue her little daughter, but her hair and face was burned in so doing. A gas explosion from a defective rubber hose connecting a parlor stove, caused the trouble.

Managers Cannon & Snyder consider themselves very lucky for having secured such a production as "Tempest and Sunshine," a dramatization of Mary J. Holmes' most popular novel by Lem B. Parker and produced by W. F. Mann. This popular production is interesting for the old folks as well as for the young by showing the contrast of the natures of the two beautiful sisters, one being quick and passionate and the other gentle and kind. This is a Southern play, about the time of 1850 and the costumes are of the quaint, old-fashioned style. The scenery is pleasing to every one and cannot fail to give entire satisfaction.

This interesting and popular production will be seen at The Auditorium on Saturday evening, Jan. 30th.

COMMISSION ACTS.

Public Service Commission Asked to Give Andover People Train Service

Andover people learn with much satisfaction that their petition recently sent to the Public Service Commission asking for relief from the present unfair train schedule of the Erie Railroad be improved, has been received with favorable consideration by that body, and that the Commission has notified the Erie that, they must in some way improve the east bound passenger service within ten days or file their answer to the complaint from the Andover people within that time, when a hearing will be given both parties.

The present time-table makes it impossible for passengers to leave Andover for points east from 9:30 a. m. until 7:10 p. m. Otherwise we have no serious criticisms to offer to the present train schedule.

Train No. 14 has always stopped at Andover until the present time-table went into effect, and Andover people felt that the Erie was giving good service. Why they should arbitrarily discontinue that train at this station when they are now stopping for passengers at places with much less business and fewer inhabitants, is what Andover people cannot understand.

An Enjoyable Event.

For three months past a contest on attendance and new members has been going on in the Baraca Class of the Baptist church. Last Monday night the losers gave a sleigh ride party with a lunch at the home of Mr and Mrs. Strait, a short distance below town. There was a company of thirty present and those who were fortunate enough to be included in the party are unanimous in saying it was the best time they had enjoyed in many moons.
