The Lincoln Farm Celebration

The following is the inscription on the memorial tablet to be unveiled at the Lincoln Farm Celebration today.

Here, on the twelfth day of February, eighteen hundred and nine, into the cabin home of Thomas and Nancy Hanks, Lincoln was born the sixteenth President of the United States. Abraham Lincoln — pioneer, orator, jurist, statesman, pardoner, reconciler, emancipator, lover and protector of all life —beloved of HUMANITY.

Through the bitterness of war he freed the slave and preserved the Union. Through a martyr's death he healed the wounds of the sword and cemented in love the reunited people who dedicate this farm to history, patriotism and peace.

Meadow Brook Farm.

Andover people have had the privilege of enjoying a number of good performances at The Auditorium this winter, but the best yet was "Meadow Brook Farm," presented Monday night. A good audience was present and every one expressed themselves as more than pleased with the performance. "Uncle Si," and "Polly" received a round of applause with each appearance. Not only do our theatre-going people appreciate this good work, but the companies seem to appreciate the patronage given the shows, as the Meadow Brook Farm company cancelled a Bradford engagement so they could come to Andover where they would get a good house. They got it all right.

GOOD PRICE FOR CHEESE

D. B. BILL OF CUBA STATES THAT THE SUPPLY WILL BE SHORT AND PRICE WILL BE HIGH.

D. B. Sill, the veteran cheese merchant of Cuba, talked interestingly on the cheese prospects the other day and incidentally gave several facts which have not been of general public knowledge.

Mr. Sill, in speaking of the present condition of the cheese market declared that the supply would probably be rather short and that there would be some scurrying around for cheese before the new article appeared in market. He said that the gradual improvement in the commercial world was increasing the demand for chees that the price was high now—14¼C. per. pound, and he believed the price would go still higher, Mr. Sill declared that cheese was very sensitive to market conditions and that when men were out of employment all over the country the consumption of cheese was likely to drop off because cheese could be cut out of the lunch if the price became too great.

The speaker gave some interesting facts regarding the advance of the cheese business. Time was, before cold storages were erected that chees always took a big drop in July because there was no way to preserve it through the hot weather. This mean a serious loss for the farmer, because the dealers would not purchase more than sufftient to supply the immediate demand. The cold storage made possible the purchase of cheese all the year round, but this did not do away with all the loss. One day an agent came to Cuba and wished Mr. Sill to try coating his cheese with parafine. The matter was not looked upon seriously and the agent was told that none of his parafine was wanted. Th seller was persistent, however, and finally declared that if Mr. Sill would agreed to experiment with the following season, he would give the parafine necessary to do the work. Mr. Sill reluctantly agreed to give the matter a fair test and did so. When the cheese was opened several month later it was found to be in just as good condition as when stored away and that it had not shrunk in the least. This meant a good profit in that one item. The cheese was also perfectly clean, while the cheese stored under the old conditions were always covered with mold and dirt and much labor was required to prepare them for market. This settled the parafine proposition and it has since been in general use with the result that the farmer is receiving much more for his cheese.

The editor of the Patriot was presented a slice of cheese which was made a year ago last October and it was of the finest quality and apparently improved because of its age.—Patriot.

ALFRED GETS APPROPRIATION

THIS STATE APPROPRIATION NEEDED TO MAKE POSSIBLE THE STATE AGRICULTRAL BUILDINGS.

An Albany special says that assemblyman Phillips' bill appropriating $60,000 for the Agricultural School at Alfred, which is in addition to the appropriation of last year, has passed the Assembly.

The Agricultural School at Alfred was established by an act of the legislature of 1908, which appropriated $75,000 for buildings. It was thought at that time that $75,000 would be sufficient to construct the necessary buildings. The Board of Trustees advertised for bids and the lowest bids which were received were far in excess of the appropriation and in order to construct the buildings which were absolutely necessary to begin work at Alfred, it will be necessary to have an additional appropriation of $50,000. This will make an investment in buildings of about $125,000, which is about the same amount that was appropriated for the Agricultural School at St. Lawrence University.

BOYS AND THE CHURCH PARLOR

It occasionally happens that a church parlor is made a fetich of to such an extent that the boys are tacitly driven away from pleasant evening gatherings to which they have at least a hearty word-of-mouth invitation. Young lady sisters at home have been duly exhorted to amend their ways in the matter of devotion to bric-a-brac, so that the growing boys of the family may have equal rights in the home; it is not yet superfluous in many a country church to ask the "sisters," old and young, to be good to their little brothers, and let the sacred ladies' parlor be thrown open and the place made cozy and inviting and homey for their occasional entertainment.

In a certain pleasant country church I have observed the state of things of which I am speaking. There is no general club room, or other gathering place, and boys of twelve to eighteen lounge about, willing lvctims to whom soever will invite them. An effort was made to have a series of pleasant "evenings" to which they should receive a winsome invitation. There was a buzz of horror-struck disapproval. On our new carpet? With that handsome Turkish rug? And the stained window? How many pieces do you suppose there would be left of it after an evening like the 'social' in the vestry! And the pretty open fireplace and all! No: they can come into the vestry, if they want to, but that ladies' Parlor is going to be kept nice."

So it was. That was some two year ago, and it is still. But the boys are not—some of them. We submit that it is a question of boys versus church parlor. We can take our choice. The boys will possibly be unmanerly at times (and the girls, also) but the chances are that the manners will improve with the surroundings, which would not be the case, even if the young people would come, if they were disdainfully shut out of the pretty, homey rooms in their father's house, and condemned to the unsocial hospitality of the church vestry.—[Anna Burnham Bryant.]

Special Music.

Those who expect to attend the Social Club Party at the Auditorium, Friday, evening, the nineteenth, will be pleased to learn that Mr. Derby, the crack trap artist, will be there with Keating's full orchestra. The musical program will be a special feature and include the latest operatic successes. One dollar a couple will be charged the dancers. Spectators 15 cents.

JAMES HIBNER'S HOUSE BURNED

The farm house of James Hibner on the Haskell, about four miles this side of Olean, was burned last Wednesday. Wm. Dake occupied the house but Mr. Hibner's goods were stored there and were all burned. The loss is about $2,000 on the house insurance of $800 on the house and $400 on the goods.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Hiram D. Bacon.

Eternal as the rocks and hills
That mark the face of our fair land,
His memory still abides, and thrills
The heart of each American.

His awkward form and homely face
Stand out amidst the wrecks of time,
Touched with a new and heavenly grace.
A rugged glory, all divine!

Hail him the Great Heart of our land!
He holds the title high and clear;
Hail him the first American!
Lincoln, our only titled peer!

ROCKWELL'S NEW SUNNY SOUTH

A First Class Colored Organization Composed of Twenty-five People.

When J. C. Rockwell's New Sunny South company appears at the Auditorium Wednesday evening, February 17th, local theatre goers will have an opportunity of judging for themselves just what a first-class colored organization really is. This company is a colored one throughout, being composed of twenty-five people, including some of the foremost colored performers in America. It is recognized from coast to coast as one of the strongest, brightest and most pleasing of its kind. Comedy is all that is aimed at and nothing else is reached bar some very clever singing, dancing and thrilling specialties that will make the audience sit up, look and listen. There is plenty of fun in the production, in fact it was built for laughing purposes only and it is generally conceded to be the funniest show since time began. The performance is wedded to the most tuneful music one would care to listen to. The chorus is beautifully costumed and is heard in some excellent selections, including many of the old time Southern melodies. It is a musical show in three acts, full of ginger and life, with not a dull moment from start to finish, something is going on all the time the curtain is up. In fact it is an up-to-date show for up-to-date people, freely interspersed with several interesting vaudeville stunts of the better class. If you want to have a good laugh, enjoy the evening and go home whistling, happy and contented, the Sunny South will give you full value for your money.

The organization is accompanied by a high-class solo concert band and a superb orchestra. The band will head the Koontown parade, which takes place at noon.

Admission 25, 35 and 50 cents. Seats go on sale at Calhoun's Saturday noon.

Killed in Barn.

A pony owned by Monroe Thomas of Bolivar was hit and killed by a stray bullet February 3rd. The pony was standing when a bullet crashed through the west side of the barn, penetrating the pony's heart. When James McDonald, who lives nearby, reached the barn the animal was dead. Just who did the shooting is a mystery. There were tracks in the snow near the barn but that was all. The belief is that the bullet came from a careless hunter's rifle. Mr. Monroe purchased the pony in Illinoi last August and rode it home. The animal was four years old.

TWO GIRLS PERISH IN FLAMES

MILDRED AND CORA DENISON OF REXVILLE LOSE THEIR LIVES THURSDAY MORNING WHEN FATHER'S HOUSE BURNS.

One of the saddest misfortunes and disastrous fires that has been known in this vicinity for years occurred Thursday morning, near Rexville, when the home of Abram Denison burned to the ground, his two daughters, Mildred and Cora perishing in the flames

The extreme low temperature of wednesday night caused Mr. Denison to arise at two o'clock and build a fire in the house, and in less than an hour the entire building was in flames. The building is a total loss. It is not known why his two daughters were not awakened by the fire, but it is supposed that they were quietly sleeping in the chambers and the smoke dazed them so that they could not make their escape. They were fourteen and sixteen years of age.

A son jumped from a second story window and while quite seriously injured, escaped with his life.

Mr. Denison is one of Rexville's prosperous and respected citizens, and all deeply sympathize with him and his family in this terrible affliction.

Mrs. Harriet Russell.

A wave of deep regret was spread over this community Thursday afternoon when the sad news was received that Mrs. Russell, widow of the late J. D. Russell, had died suddenly at her home in this town.

Mrs. Russell was born in April 1820 and would have been 89 years of age her next birthday. In the death of the deceased the community loses one of its best types of the early pioneer womanhood; one who was loved, honored and held in the highest esteem by all who knew her.

After a long and useful life, she died as she had lived—honored, trusted and loved. She reared her own monumentbwhile she lived in the heart of all who knew her. Our community, and its people have ever held her in a warm corner of their heart.

The Visit of an Old Friend.

Today the editor received a copy of that reliable seedsman's catalogue, Vick's Garden and Floral Guide. It was a look at the face of an old friend, and was hailed with joy. The Guide improves with age; the illustrations are up-to-date photo-engravings, finely printed, and are direct reproduction from nature. The Vegetables and Flowers in colors on the covers are so attractive that one delays opening the book—but when it is opened the pleasure is only increased. The Corn, Lettuce, Onions Radish and Peas are superb, and the Asters, Poppies, Petunias and Sweet Peas are—well just wright to James Vick's Sons, 143 Main St., Rochester, N. Y., for a copy. It is free, and it is really something for nothing.
