Boys Club of Presbyterian Church Invite Their Parents to a Meeting.

If the shades of the ancient fathers had been present at the Parlors of the Presbyterian Church last Friday night they would have opened their eyes in wonder, and probably have stopped their ears in horror. And yet in all probability the best and most progressive of their number would have timally given a ghostly smile of approval. The Boy's Club entertained their fathers and mothers and a few friends who have been interested in their work. Sixteen active up to date American boys were present, and about as many active, up to date, grown ups. The boys wrestled and boxed and did stunts on the rings and trapeze; they ran a relay race and did the high jump, and yelled and whooped to their hearts content. The grown ups laughed and forgot their cares and wished they were young so they could do the same things. Under the inspiration of the audience Porter Richardson broke his record in the standing high jump by one inch and Clarence Hardy almost knocked out his big brother in a boxing bout. Every boy put his best athletic foot forward and the grown ups pronounced it the "very best show seen in Andover this winter."

A bountiful lunch was served at 8.30 after which the boys sang their club songs and others two numerous to mention. There are some fine voices in the club and some Sunday night before long the Congregation will have a chance to hear them.

The hearty backing and approval which this organization is receiving from the officers and members of the church is greatly appreciated by the Club and the boys will pay it all back with big interest in the days to come. A well equiped gymnasium over the church parlors, with bath rooms and lockers in the basement would be about as good an investment as the church could make, and we hope it may be realized in the not far distant future. The club is grateful for what it has recieved and hopes for still more.

Baptist Celebrate Mortgage Burning.

The mortgage burning at the Baptist church occured last Wednesday.

A goodly number gathered in spite of the stormy day, some coming from out of town, among them, the former pastor of the church Rev. C. H. Harrington.

A large number responded when the roll was called, some by letter, others through relatives and friends present. Hymns were sung and a general good feeling prevailed.

After the Roll Call, while the doxology was being sung the mortgage was burned. The impressive service was participated in by the two interests largely instrumental in the work of paying off the church debt, Mrs E. F. Stearns, President of the Ladies Aid society holding the plate containing the paper. Mr. J. C. Nichols, Treasurer of the Board of Trustees, applying the match.

Following the mortgage burning the former pastor, Mr. Harrington, spoke impressing upon the audience the fact that finishing work in one field of endeavor is but preliminary work in some other.

Shortly after four o'clock the benedictions was pronounced and the meeting ended some taking ashes from the old papers as a memento.

Too much credit cannot be given Pastor Boynton for his tireless energy in raising the balance of the mon necessary to pay off the mortgage debt. The task to many seemed doomed to failure, but in a remarkable short time enough money was subscribed to pay up this indebtedness. The occasion Wednesday, was an enjoyable one to both pastor and people.

FINE MEETING.

Held At The Home Of Mrs. F. S. Clarke March, 16th.

Despite the fact that the storm kept many of the members from attending the meeting of the Lucy Stone Club, Tuesday evening. A delightful evening was enjoyed by the goodly number who were there.

The opening number on the program, a parlor duet played by Mrs. Boynton and Miss Ina Hann was beautifully rendered. The witty sayings of children given in response to roll call, placed every one in good humor at the start.

Principal Richard Bartlett in his talk on "Manual Training in our Public Schools," clearly demonstrated that these methods introduced into school work were in pace with the demand of the times and of great benefit to the pupils. That Principal Bartlett is deeply interested in the welfare and progress of educational interests for our boys and girls was evidenced by every statement made by him.

A second piano duet by Misses Geraldine Starr and Roxa Hann, was thoroughly enjoyed, followed by a paper upon "Parents' Day," by Miss Julia Lynch, who in a concise manner showed the necessity of the cooperation of parents with instructors if the best results of the school are to be realized in our children.

A humorous reading by Miss Caroline Hinscher was productive of great mirth.

The refreshment committee had charge of the next number on the program, which was followed by a contest in free hand drawing, in which Mrs. Mary Phillips was awarded the prize.

LETTER FROM THE SUNNY SOUTH

PRIVATE JOHN KEMP TELLS NEWS READERS OF THE CLIMATE AT PORT ROYAL, SOUTH CAROLINA.

The "Sunny South" where I am now located, is a very warm climate. No snow and very seldom any frost, yet heavy winds which are cool, coming from the ocean.

There is a small island two and one-half miles wide and five miles long, entirely surrounded by water, as it lays along the Atlantic ocean. The nearest town is Beaufort, S. C., five miles away. It is a level country, of sandy soil, no stones at all. The people there are mostly negroes. It is a genuine Southern population.

There are 369 United States marines here at the present. They were originally on the United States ships, but by a decree of the president they were removed from the ships and are now doing the coast defence. The fort here was originally used for navy purposes in the time of the Spanish American war, in 1898, there being as high as 1000 blue jackets quartered here at times, but it is now being repaired for a United States Marine Naval school.

We are now eating new potatoes and green garden truck, and have been so doing for the past month.

With hopes to write more in the near future, I remain the same old "Andover boy"

Tell me whence comes,
The blood of life, that runs
In everything that grows,
When the spring glory glows.

Tell me whence the birth,
Of the fragrance of the earth,
When the grasses upward strive,
And every sod's alive.

Tell me where was born,
The golden glory of the morn,
Or voice of birds a singing,
Or light of dew drop clinging.

I will then tell the goal,
And beginning of the soul,
Slipping out of the dusky past,
Going into the dusk at last.

The Lily and The Prince

The forthcoming appearance of Mildred Holland's greatest success, the beautiful romantic drama "The Lily and The Prince" at the Auditorium on Wednesday evening March 31st, will be sure of a hearty reception for it will prove one of the most delightful entertainments of its kind during the current season.

It is based on a theme which is both interesting and highly original. The drama is strong in motive, clean in morals and a masterpiece of stage technique. From the delicate beauty of the first act with its pretty love scene in the Florentine rose garden, beside the rippling fountain, to the sombre inquisition chamber with its accompaniment of super-emotion in the third act, there is a wide divergence of dramatic treatment which affords the audience pleasure in its denouncement.

The production is staged with a lavish disregard of expense maintaining a delicacy of treatment in coloring and ensemble effects which distinguishes the true artistic instinct.

WAS MURDERED BY HIS OWN SON

WILLIAM SMITH OF ANGELICA FATALLY SHOOTS HIS FATHER THEN BLOWS OUT HIS OWN BRAINS.

William Smith, a well known young man of Angelica, shot and fatally injured his father, Orin Smith, Saturday afternoon, and then turned the revolver on himself and ended his own life. The shooting occured shortly before 1 o'clock.

Details are lacking.

The exact cause of the argument that led to the suicide and attempted murder are lacking because no one saw the crime. Smith and his son reside in a small house on one of the main streets of that village. Boys who were playing near the house this afternoon heard the voices of two men apparently engaged in a heated quarrel. Then they heard several shots ring out. That is all that is known of what occured in the room beyond the statement made by the dying father.

Slain by His Son.

A minute after the shots the old man staggered to the front porch, his head and clothing saturated with blood. "Help, he has murdered me" the old man cried as he collapsed. The boys called for help and a number of citizen hurried to the scene.

It was a fearful sight that met their gaze. Orin Smith, the white haired old father lay on the porch just outside the door. He was covered with blood, and a crimson trail led into the kitchen. Here lay William Smith, blood covering the floor and with the top of his head nearly blown off. His brains were scattered about the kitchen floor and beside his lifeless body lay a big revolver with which the terrible crimes had been committed.

Medical aid was at once summoned and Chief of Police Carter was notified. The old man was revived long enough to make a statement concerning the tragedy.

Shot Father First

From his story the two men were quarreling in the kitchen. Suddenly the son seemed to grow enraged and ran to a drawer and pulled out the revolver. He ran up to his father and fired. The first bullet struck the old man in the head, inflicting a terrible wound. He staggered back and the son to make sure of his father's death fired again. This time the bullet entered his body about an inch below the heart. The old man fell to the floor.

Seeing the awful deed that he had committed, William then turned the gun on himself. He had opened his mouth pointing the gun at an upward angle, fired into his head. The bullet tore the skull open and spattered his brains all over the room. The younger Smith probably died instantly.

The older man had just enough life left to manage to crawl through the kitchen to the porch. A trail of blood marked his path. At the door he managed to rise part way to his feet and call for help.

In Critical Condition

The doctors who arrived on the scene ten minutes after the shooting found the senior Smith in a critical condition. The first bullet had penetrated the skull for a short distance and was lodged in his head. The other bullet had passed through the body, missing the heart by a fraction of an inch, severing several arteries that produced internal hemorrhages, and from which death will likely result. Everything possible was done for the dying man.

Had Family Troubles.

Orin Smith, the father, and his wife, had some trouble recently which resulted in the separation of the family. It is believed that this trouble had something to do with the fatal tragedy, although the exact cause of the quarrel cannot be ascertained. The senior Smith is about 60 years of age and was prominent in the village in which he lived.

William Smith, the son was 35 years of age and unmarried. He had always borne a good reputation and had resided in that community for a long time.

Orren Smith Dead

Orren Smith, who was shot by his son, William, at Angelica on Saturday died in St. Mercy hospital, Hornell Monday. The body was sent to Angelica for burial.

Joyce—Mead

Married, Saturday evening by J. W. Richardson, Justice of the Peace, Samuel Joyce and Miss Gertrude Mead, both of Andover. The young couple will go to housekeeping at once at their home on Dyke street.

Missionary Meeting

A meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held March 30th at the home of Mrs. Hincher. The meeting will be under the direction of the hostess.

Helen Gilbert.

The body of Helen Gilbert was brought to Andover on train 7, Tuesday morning from Hornell, where her death occured, Monday morning, March, 22nd, at St. James Hospital, where she was taken for treatment from her home at Alfred Station, one week prior.

Funeral services were held at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. N. P. Brainard, Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended. The bereaved family have the sympathy of both communities in their deep sorrow.

A sketch of Mrs. Gilbert's life will be published in next week's issue, of the News.

THE WORK OF A FIEND

IRENE HILL, OF CENTERVILLE, KIDNAPED WHILE ON AN ERRAND FOR HER MOTHER, SATURDAY EVENING.

Irene Hill, the pretty little eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hill, of Hart street, Centerville, a suburb of Corning, was kidnapped between 7 and 8 o'clock Saturday evening, taken to the woods southwest of the city by her abductor and kept there all night.

Mr. Hill is employed at the Corning Glass Works as a gatherer. About 7 o'clock Saturday night the child was sent by her mother to a grocery in Painted Post. The store is half a mile from the child's home. Her mother promised to meet her part way on the return trip, and it was her failure to find the child when she went to meet her and her subsequent discovery of the child's kidnapping that aroused this section of Steuben county as it probably never was aroused before.

From 8:20 o'clock Saturday night until Sunday noon the greater part of the 1,200 inhabitants of Painted Post, with as many more outsiders joined in the man hunt. Hundreds of lanterns flashed throughout the night along the railroad tracks and the river banks. Fire whistles and bells sounded the alarm, as did the church bells.

It was not until 1:25 o'clock Sunday afternoon that the child and her abductor were found, and then through the aid given the Corning police by John Fredericks, a German farmhand from Millport, who saw the man and little girl in the woods west of the city this morning when inquiring among the farmers for work. He did not know of the kidnapping then but when he arrived at the Erie station in this city and heard of the abduction he thought of the man and girl, and hastening to Officer Bond, told him of what he had seen describing the little girl so that there was no doubt about her being the missing child. The officers with a posse of men immediately went to the place where after a fierce struggle the man man, who proved to be one, William Jones, a moral pervert of Painted Post, was taken in custody. Little Irene Hill is yet in a serious condition from shock and her mistreatment. It is believed, however, that she will recover.
