JUST KEEP GOING

There is a great deal in that, if you are going in the right direction, and the strange thing about it is that you know in what direction you are going just a little bit better than any body else. Do you realize it? A gentleman said to the writer not long since, and he was almost a total stranger, "Well, well, I have got one day less to live anyhow, and I am not sorry." Do you know the impression he left? It was a damper, just like when clouds look black and a storm is coming. Just the opposite, only a day or two after, one of those mornings when the walks were coated with ice and the wind cut like a knife to the marrow, a gentleman accosted another on a corner, saying: "Well- this is a cold day. Don't the wind cut?" "Yes," said the one spoken to, "It is cold, but it's going to warm up and be fine this afternoon." Which spirit would you like the better? Surely the spirit of the latter. You see he just keeps going, getting the better out of it all, and life is cheerier and every man he brushes up against feels like a spring day, when the sun shines on both sides of the fence. Now suppose you keep, going Mr. Man and Mrs. Woman and all you young folks. Keep going and going right, making person's life brighter and better. Somehow it looks from this side of the street that if every body in "old Andover" would just keep going, and going right we would have the international headquarters of Sunshine Society right in our midst and every person would be a member.

How happy they would all be. The merchants would get all the home trade, the people would stop knocking the Board of Education. Yes, and who can tell, our police officer, would, perhaps, wear a sunshine badge, and may be somebody would suggest a suit of kaki color so as to be in keeping with the keep going sunshine crowd. Now you say, where's the point? Right here it is. Andover by Andover citizens keeps going until a better, brighter, fairer Andover than of which anybody dreamed is realized, because everybody just keeps going, minding their own business and just keeps going out of other folks' business. That's the point. Just keep going.

DON'T SPIT ON THE SIDEWALK

If you visited the state exhibit of the conditions that help to spread tuberculosis of the lungs, commonly called consumption, you would realize the importance of not spitting on the sidewalk. There is a picture there of a child playing on the floor and the flies carrying the germs of disease from the spitum put on the floor by the consumptive to the sore on the child's face and thereby inoculating the child with the germ that in after years would breed consumption. It isn't the vagary of some imaginative mind, either. It was the development of latest scientific minds after years of patient research.

Now don't be a cad and say that's new fashioned, it isn't. The "White Plague" has developed to an alarming extent and heroic efforts are being made to stay its progress. Don't spit on the sidewalk. Think of it!! Germ laden spitum gathered up by the skirts of a lady's dress and carried thither and you to breed disease. That would be something practical for some woman's organization to get at. Get an ordinance through the Board of Trustees. A village ordinance making it a punishable offense to spit in a public place or on the sidewalk. Let the Board of Health get after it and then let some women's club or somebody have nice signs placed in conspicuous places where all can see them, cautioning them against breaking the ordinance, and you'll be surprised at the result. It will mean cleaner streets and healthier bodies and will in large measure prevent the spreading of disease.

Don't be silly and cry a new fad. It is not. It is plain, straight, practical common sense and it looks as though it would furnish a medium of activity (practical activity) for some club or organization and be a relief from theoretical essays and clippings cut from newspapers and read before yawning members, who feel in duty bound to listen respectfully, and then when outside, express themselves by saying—well you must imagine the rest.

However, Mr. Man, meanwhile don't spit on the sidewalk or in any public place.

A Good Attraction

"A Race For a Widow" was presented at Lewis' Opera House last night and the audience, which was a large one, was given a grand treat.

Arthur Wilber as Arthur Hummingtop" and Nina wilber, as "The Widow" certainly played their parts to perfection.

Leonard C. Long, as "Ralph Omered," is a fine actor. Tom Honnin, the dude, brought down the house when he said "Mamma, please pick up my cigar."
