Greenwood

The warm weather is here.

Railroad meeting at Canisteo today.

Our Senate is behind the Germans. They have ratified notwithstanding their opposition to the league.

Is the treaty as agreed upon by the conference of the Allies better than no treaty or no peace terms? is the question.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Drummond, of Saginaw, visited in Greenwood last week. Mrs. Drummond formerly lived in this place and moved from here upwards of fifty years ago and this is her first visit to her native place in all that time. Mrs. Drummond is a daughter of Oliver B. Richey who was well known to our older residents.

It would be a queer ending to a great war not to have any terms of peace, not to have any question settled, not to have any principles triumph.

It is a poor patriot who places a party advantage before his country's interests, and who had rather see a good measure defeated than have the other political party get credit for it.

There is but one way to cure the strike trouble and consequent high cost of living, and that is to protect the non-union worker who wants to work in the place voluntarily vacated by the striker.

Protect the man who wants to work instead of upholding lawlessness for as long as lawlessness can prevent others from working they can by blocking business compel employers to pay any price or secure any terms demanded. Shorter weeks and higher wages do not reduce the high cost of living but increases the cost of everything. Freedom to work and competition would settle matters.

President Wilson is meeting with ovations wherever he goes on his country wide trip. The people are waking to the necessity of an immediate ratification of the league and are tired of sensational harangues of those who are seeking notoriety or partly advantage.

Frank Updyke, who moved from this place to Binghamton, has moved back and on to his recently purchased farm.

Word has just been received of a terrible auto accident which happened near Woodhull last evening, in which two citizens of Canisteo lost their lives and two others seriously injured, one of whom it is feared may die. The killed are postmaster Seely and G. Wilcox. The injured were Mr. Mayette and his son-in-law who was driving the auto; all were from Canisteo. Particulars of the disaster have not been received but the news is a shock to every one as the parties were all prominent citizens of Canisteo.

Att'y. and Mrs. Edward Jackson and son Edward Jr., of Ithaca, visited friends in this village from Saturday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Caffrey, of West Hill, are in the city to-day.

Clare A. Pickard, food administrator for Chautauqua county, during the war, has been asked by the government to head a county committee for the regulation of food prices, insofar as permitted by law. Mr. Pickard has named a large and representative committee to assist in the service.

LEAGUE CERTAIN, PRESIDENT SAYS

WILSON IN OPENING SPEECHES OF TOUR VOICES HIGH HOPES OF ULTIMATE VICTORY.

WORLD IS WAITING FOR U. S.

Future Free From War If America Carries Out Her Promises, Says the Country's Chief Executive.

[By Mt. Clemens News Bureau.]

Displaying a high confidence that his fellow citizens, in the great majority, agree with him in his desire to end war forever, and that they will see to it, the peace treaty with its League of Nations inclusion is ratified by the senate, President Wilson is making a successful way across the country on the long journey he has undertaken for the purpose of laying before the plain people a report of his work in Paris and explaining to them just what the league means.

Thus far in his travels he has everywhere met with warm greetings, both in the great halls, where he has spoken formally, and in the little crossroad hamlets where his train has halted at times and he has exchanged words with the villagers who pressed forward to greet him.

Says America Wants No More War.

He feels, and does not hesitate to say so when chatting with his traveling companions, that the American people want no more of war and want to become part of the league so that there may be no more war. He struck his keynote when he said in his first address in Columbus, O.:

"This treaty was not intended merely to end this single war, it is meant as a notice to every government, who in the future will attempt this thing (what Germany attempted), that mankind will unite to inflict the same punishment. There is no national triumph to be recorded in this treaty. There is no glory sought for any particular nation. The thought of the statesmen collected around that table was of their people, of the suffering they had gone through, of the losses they had incurred, of that great throbbing heart which was so depressed, so forlorn, so sad in every memory it had of the five tragical years that have gone by. Let us never forget those years, my fellow countrymen; let us never forget the purpose, high and disinterested, with which America lent its strength, not for its own glory, but for the defense of mankind.

"As I said, this treaty was not intended merely to end this war. It was intended to prevent any similar war. I wonder if some of the opponents of the League of Nations have forgotten the promises we made our people before we went to that peace table. We had taken, by processes of law, the flower of our youth from every countryside, from every household. And we told those mothers and fathers, and sisters and wives and sweethearts that we were taking those men to fight a war which would end business of that sort, and if we do not end it, if we do not do the best that human concert of action can do to end it, we are of all men the most unfaithful; the most unfaithful to the loving hearts who suffered in this war, the most unfaithful to those households bowed in grief and yet lifted with the feeling that the lad laid down his life for a great thing; and, among other things, in order that other lads might never have to do the same thing.

League Will Stop War.

"That is what the League of Nations is for—to end this war justly and then not merely to serve notice on governments which would contemplate the same things Germany contemplated, that they will do so at their peril, but also concerning the combination of power which will prove to them that they will do it at their peril.

"It is idle to say the world will combine against you; but it is persuasive to say the world is combined against you. The League of Nations is the only thing that can prevent the recurrence of this dreadful catastrophe and redeem our promises."

A League of Nations would have prevented the late conflict, the president asserted, explaining: "I did not meet a single public man who did not admit these things: That Germany would not have gone into this war if she thought Great Britain was going into it, and that she most certainly would never have gone into it had she dreamed America was going into it. And they all admit that a notification that the greatest powers in the world would combine to prevent this sort of thing would prevent it absolutely."

Applause and cheers greeted each declaration of the president that wars might be avoided in the future by the operations of the league.

He pointed out other important features of the peace treaty, that it was the redemption of weak nations, giving them freedom which otherwise they never could have won; how it says "Those people have a right to live their own lives under governments which they themselves choose," and how "that is the American principle and I was glad to fight for it." That was the very heart of the treaty," he said.

He drew attention to the section of the treaty which is "Magna Charta of Labor," which shall dispose of the hours, conditions and remunerations of labor.

"It forecasts the day," he said, "which ought to have come long ago when the statesmen will realize that no nation is fortunate which is not happy, whose people are not contented, contented in their lives and fortunate in the circumstances of their lives."

In conclusion, the president said he felt certain the treaty will be accepted, and was only impatient of the delay. He added: "Do you realize, my fellow citizens, that the whole world is waiting on America? The only country in the world that is trusted today is the United States, and the world is waiting to see if its trust is justified.

Mr. Wilson's Indianapolis speech was like the one at Columbus, an explanation of the league, an appeal for its ratification, and a prediction that it was sure to come into being.

A TEACHER OF "NEW THOUGHT"

Believes "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Highest Result of "New Thought" In Medicine.

MR. A. A. YOUNG

"I am not in the habit of praising any material medicine as I am an advocate of New Thought, but some time ago, I had such a bad attack of Liver and Stomach Trouble that I gave up thinking I did not have it, and took a natural medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets.

Most gratifying was the result: It relieved my liver and stomach trouble, cleaned up my yellowish complexion and put new blood in my body.

While I am no backslider from 'New Thought', I feel there may be times when a help to nature may be necessary; and if so, I believe that 'Fruit-a-tives' is the highest result of New Thought in medicine".

Experts or Theorists—Which?

The packing industry is intricate, complex—far more so than the railroads or the telegraph.

Every day multiplying needs of society increase its problems and multiplying responsibilities demand more of it.

Highly trained experts, specialists of years' experience, thinkers and creative men, devote their lives, their energies, their activities, to solving the problems of the packing industry and meeting its widening duties.

Swift & Company is not a few dozen packing plants, a few hundred branch houses, a few thousand refrigerator cars, and a few million dollars of capital, but an organization of such men. It is the experience, intelligence, initiative and activity which operates this physical equipment.

Can this intelligence, this experience, this initiative and creative effort which handles this business at a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources, be fostered through the intervention of political theorists, however pure their purposes? Or be replaced by legislation? Does Congress really think that it can?

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar". It will interest you. Address Swift & Company, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill.
