IN MEMORIAM

Miss NELLIE WILLIAMS

North Dighton, Mass.

"Since a young girl, I have suffered with Bad Headaches, and at times I was almost crazy with the pain. My mother tried everything she could hear of, yet she was never able to get anything to do me any good.

Six months ago, someone told me about 'Fruit-a-tives' and I got a box and obtained much relief.

Now I keep 'Fruit-a-tives' in the house all the time; in fact I would not be without them. I cannot speak too highy of 'Fruit-a-tives' as this is the one remedy that truly helped me.

I am always glad to recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to anyone suffering with Headaches and hope that those who read about my experience will profit by it and try 'Fruit-a-tives'."

Miss NELLIE WILLIAMS.

BOY SCOUTS WILL AID IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Will Serve as Courier in Roll Call of Members November 2 to 11

O'Ryan, leader of the Atlantic Division campaign, announced following the receipt of a letter from James E. Commenting on the service of the Boy Scouts during the ten days' drive for 5,000,000 members in the Atlantic Division between the dates of November 2 and November 11, General O'Ryan said that their services would prove invaluable, for they can be utilized as messengers, couriers, distributors and aides in the organization of 500,000 volunteers which is being built up for the Roll Call.

The letter from the chief scout executive to Major General O'Ryan follows:

"I have been very much pleased to learn that you have been made chairman of the Roll Call Committee for the Atlantic Division.

"I am also very happy to assure you that in line with our program of service the Boy Scouts of America in all communities throughout the country will be delighted to do everything consistent with our constitution and by-laws to make the Roll Call Campaign completely successful. The wonderful program of the American Red Cross for affording organized relief in a practical and substantial way merits the enthusiastic and loyal support of every citizen of our country.

"I am confident that every Boy Scout Leader and Scout who is given the opportunity will gladly do his utmost toward this same end."

BELGRADE.—Working in the American Red Cross sewing rooms during the past three months, 129 young Serbian girls have turned out 10,701 garments, using 14,970 yards of cloth. Most of them had to be taught the craft. In the same school a group of boys made 40 pairs of shoes for war orphans.

RED CROSS READY FOR SERVICE IN BIG DISASTERS

1,500,000 Lives Lost and $1,000,000,000 in Property Destroyed in Disasters Since 1900

Preparedness for disaster relief on a scale never before possible is being undertaken by the American Red Cross, it has just been announced, as one of the important features of its wide peace program, for the support of which an effort will be made to secure a record membership during the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11.

Experience shows that suffering incident to public disasters can be greatly reduced by extension of the Red Cross machinery for supplying emergency relief and knowledge gained in putting through the task of the Red Cross in the war is to be used to the greatest possible advantage.

Because of the lack of the spectacular in many of them it is not generally realized how frequently, year after year, disasters occur, bringing wide devastation, death and suffering in their wake. Since 1900 disasters of peace have cost many thousands of lives and have brought personal injury and property losses to no fewer than 1,500,000 persons, at the same time destroying property valued at over $1,000,000,000. During 1917 alone, eighty disasters came to the attention of the American Red Cross; sixty-two tornadoes, five floods, four great fires, two earthquakes, two serious mine explosions, four munition plant explosions, a navy crash, a shipwreck and the tragic calamity which befel Halifax. The total of deaths entailed was 1758, while 5927 were injured and the property loss reached $110,000,000.

Speed of Fire Department.

That, in brief, is the situation that demands a preparedness for emergency relief comparably to the service and speed required of the fire department and that is what the Red Cross, to which the people instinctively turn when fire, flood, tornado or great accident comes, to leave men, women and children dead, injured, homeless or starving, is to supply. Under its direction the entire resources of all communities for emergency relief will be mobilized for instant use when needed. Red Cross Chapters everywhere will create disaster preparedness Committees that will make surveys locating not only emergency food supplies, drugs and other hospital supplies, cots, mattresses, blankets, clothing, schools, armories and other buildings for housing refugees, but will also canvass physicians, nurses, social workers and others prepared to respond instantly to calls for their services in disasters.

Information gathered in these surveys will be collated and filed by the thirteen Red Cross Divisional organizations in the United States, which will establish disaster relief supply centers and take charge of operations when assistance is needed in case of major disasters, where the magnitude of the division in which it occurs are over-taxed, the entire relief strength of the Red Cross in the country will be mobilized, through national headquarters. And in both large and small disasters there will also be ready for immediate relief duty the equipment and personnel of the fifty base hospitals organized by the American Red Cross and turned over to the Army for service in France.

Disaster Manual Compiled.

For the guidance of its representatives at the scene of disasters a comprehensive Relief Manual has been compiled by J. Byron Deacon, director general of the American Red Cross Department of Civilian Relief, who is charged with responsibility for Red Cross funds and operations in disasters. The Manual, which will be distributed to Chapters throughout the country, calls attention to the frequency of disasters and urges that relief to be effective must be swift and centralized. In accordance with the Manual the principle upon which Red Cross service will be extended disaster-stricken communities is to place the resources represented by its membership, preparedness and influence, at the disposal of the afflicted community without delay.

The local community, so far as possible, is depended upon to provide its own relief, with the Division and National Red Cross organizations standing ready to rush additional aid where it is necessary. The extensive and varied experiences of the Red Cross place it in a peculiar position to offer sound counsel. It has built up a trained and seasoned staff of relief workers and will leave on file in Division offices, its list of experienced disaster workers under agreement to go, at a moment's notice, to any stricken territory.

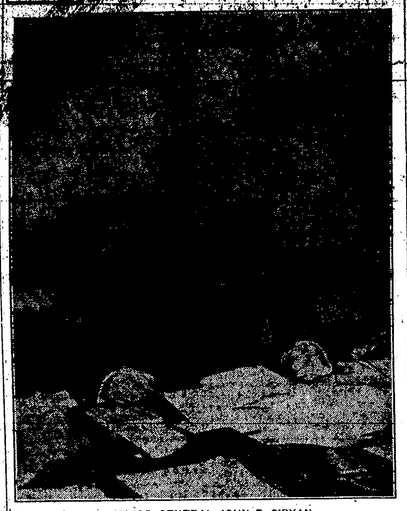
A. R. C. Sewing School

BELGRADE.—The first Serbian School of Domestic Science is expected to grow out of the sewing school started by the American Red Cross here some time ago. The school was equipped with American sewing machines and materials, and its expansion on a permanent basis has now been insured by the organization of a supporting society, known as the "Ladies of Belgrade."

The season's 20 per cent yield of cabbage is being harvested and placed in storage to await higher prices. The yield around Ransomville is not more than 300 tons and part of it is badly locust eaten. Eight carloads of fancy Western box and bulk apples are now in the Ransomville chemical storage which has cost the shippers of that vicinity's apple yield, bringing its store to almost its total capacity of 40,000 barrels.

In order that contractors now in possession of 4 Lockport and 14 complete important canal work this winter, the state superintendent of public works gave notice that the state canal world close for the season at midnight on Nov. 23. The contract in question is rebuilding cut of portion of lock No. 36 at Lockport, where work will begin on Dec. 1. After midnight on Nov. 23, no canal clearances for boats bound through the Erie canal, Buffalo, will be issued.

The resources reported by the 160 trust companies, 114 state banks of deposit and 19 court and the 98 private banks under the supervision of the state superintendent of banks on Sept. 12, 1919, aggregated $4,052,582,[illegible]10. Of this amount the total resource of the trust companies were $1,585,164,437; the total resources of the state banks of deposit and discount were $1,245,205,729, and the banking resources of the private bankers amounted to $[illegible].



MAJOR GENERAL JOHN F. O'RYAN.

The commander of the old Twenty-seventh Division which was made up of National Guadsmen of New York State, is rallying thousands of returned fighting men around him in the determination to go "over the top" in the membership campaign, November 2 to 11, Armistice Day.

A SAFE TEST

For those who are in need of a remedy for kidney troubles and backache, it is a good plan to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They are strongly recommended by Andover people. Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. M. F. Wykoff, Chestnut St., Andover, says: "I have all the faith in the world in Doan's Kidney Pills and cannot speak too highly of them. I used to suffer an awful lot with my kidneys. My back ached so badly I would have to press my hands upon the small of my back to ease the pain. I would get so weak I could hardly move and when I stooped over, awful dizzy spells would come over me and spots would float before my eyes, blurring my sight. Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me of every sign of the trouble and the cure has lasted. I most heartily endorse this old, reliable remedy."

"What a pity," exclaimed Mr. Happy Home-Maker this morning during one of his periodical visits to our Furniture Department.

"Here is lavishness of home-beautifying possibilities. Yet I go into home after home, find the same things, and come away disappointed. I have solved my own problems—with a deal of help from you, to be sure—but our home is a real home. Why are not the others successful?

"You ought to do much to help—if you can bring people to use the experience and knowledge you have in household decorating. It is a question of bringing your facilities and their needs together. The rest is easy, if those who come to buy take advantage of your good advice.

"I went into a neighbors' house the other day. The family had bought a new rug but weren't exactly pleased with it. They were talking about another rug your man had advised their buying. I added my suggestion that they get the rug they had decided against. They did so and found it exactly what they wanted.
