Humors of the Week.

The best grain elevator—Rye whiskey.

Seasonable Wall st. food—"Short" cakes.

Beehive hats are all the rage—doubtless designed especially for the honeymoon.

When does the rain become too familiar with a lady? When it begins to patter on her back.

"If you intend to give me the cold shoulder," says a gentleman to a friend, "let it be roast lamb."

A Fowl conundrum: Why do chickens have no future existence? Because they have their necks twirled in this.

Why is half-past seven o'clock in the evening like next morning's breakfast? Only because it isn't eight yet.

Teacher—"Gerty you were a very good girl to-day." Gerty—"Yes, ma'am: I couldn't help being good—I had a stiff neck."

"Jake, lend me ten dollars till I sell my dog?" Jake replied coothingly and sympathetically, "Oh Jim, I wouldn't sell him."

Somebody in Germany has found a bushel of gold coins in an old ruin, which may be of more consequence than our gold-bearing quartz.

There is a man in Chicago who possesses so remarkable a memory that he is employed by the various benevolent societies to remember the poor.

CONTRARIES.—People say they shell peas when they unshell them; that they that skin a calf when they unskin it; they weed their gardens, when they are weedy enough already.

"Sam, why am members ob congress like the fishes?"

"I don't meddle wid de subject, Pomp."

"Why, don't you see nigga? Dey's so fond of debate."

A Yankee being asked to describe his wife said,—

"Why, sir, she'd make a regular fast going steamer, my wife would—she's such a wonderful talent for blowing up."

NOT MUCH.—Girls kiss one another, hug one another, but never marry one another, if they know themselves.

During a medical examination a student was asked the question,—

"When does mortification ensue?"

"When you pop the question and are answered no."

At Placerville a Methodist minister went to a tin shop to buy a tin horn. Selecting one, he asked the clerk if it would make a loud noise.

"Oh yes, a devil of a noise," replied the clerk.

"Well," said the minister, "as I want it to blow at a camp meeting, I don't think that kind of noise will suit," and walked off.

A ragged little boy being kindly accosted and presented with some candy by a very tall man, looked up at his benefactor and in a tone of sympathy asked,—

"Does'nt your head feel giddy and dizy?"

"No, my child; why do you ask?"

"Because its so far up there away from the ground!".

The gentleman passed on.

An Irishman with a heavy bundle on his shoulder, riding on front of one of the Neck cars, was asked why he did not set his burden on the platform. He replied,—

"Be jabers the horse have enough to do to drag me, I'll carry the bundle."

"Have you ever broken a horse?" inquired a horse jockey.

"No, not exactly," replied Simons, "but I hove broken three or four wagons."

A Quaker, once hearing a person tell how much he felt for another who was suffering and needed assistance dryly asked him,—

"Friend, hast thou felt in thy pocket for him?"
