A DANDY DRAFT HOUSE

Local Association Purchases "Nevary Pride," of Bryon Porties.

The "Andover Draught Horse Association" of Andover, N. Y., have purchased from the firm of Calkins & Augsbury, of Byron, Mich., the celebrated Clydesdale Stallion, "Nevay Pride". No. 13640, for the purchase price of $2,700. The members of the association are as follows:—E. B. Rollins, G. W. Barrett, John Davis, John P. Dean, Alois Kittenberger, M. Dougherty, Thomas Trainor, Dixon Bros., and John Guinn.

This is one of the best draft stallions ever imported by the firm of Calkins and Augstbury. The sire of this horse won the Hyland cup in Scotland four times and is one of the greatest sires ever known by the Scotch government. The members of the associatioon are delighted with the animal, and his produce is much needed in this country.

Mr. W. R. Martin, who has been in Andover the past two weeks representing Colkins and Augsbury is to be congratulated upon his success in placing this valuable animal among people who appreciate a good draft horse.

SAVE THE ROSE BUSHES.

Mrs. Edwin Howard of Little Genesee Has a Remedy For the Busy Slug.

Owing to the wet weather this season slugs have been very destructive to rose bushes throughout Allegany county. Mrs. Edwin Howard of Little Genesee who loves and raises roses for pleasure every year sends The Breeze the following recipe which she says will put the slugs out of business the first inning:

One tablespoon kerosene oil, two tablespoons lobbered milk. Beat with egg beater and add two gallons of cold water. Apply with whisk broom.

"They."

Who are "they" and what are "they,"
And who knows where "they" live?
You hear about them constantly,
Of what "they" do and give.
It's "they" say this and "they" say that,
And "they" are so and so.
You hear about them everywhere,
No matter where you go.
"They" say the city water now
Is not pure and fit to drink;
"They" tell so many things, I trow,
One knows not what to think.
Miss Sally Jones has a new gown,
At least, that's what "they" say,
And Nansen may, "they" tell us, be
The ruler of Norway.
"They" tell us Togo won the fight;
Of this there is no doubt,
But what we'd like to know is this:
How was it "they" found out?
"They" said the Japs, on land or sea,
For Russia were too strong,
But how the the dickens did "they" know?
"They" said it right along.
It must be quite a family,
This one that folks call "they,"
They're not in the directory.
We looked yesterday.
Will some one please just tell us who
"they" are and what "they" do?
We're ccurious to know, and we'll
Be much obliged to you.

A Hard Fall.

DID NOT HAVE ENOUGH CASH

SO IMMIGRATION OFFICERS WOULDN'T LET BRUSH LAND —BUT HE CAME JUST THE SAME.

Quite a commotion was caused at Independence, Sunday, at supper time when an officer of a vessel running between Charlotte and Quebeck drove up to the hall where the delegates and visitors to the Western Association of the Seventh Day Baptist denomination had just sat down to tea, and inquired for Rev. J. L. Skaggs, pastor of the Friendship Seventh-day Baptist church, telling him that an Englishman by the name of Brush, who had been rejected by the United States Immigration inspectors, had escaped from the boat and that in consequence the owners of the boat were under a thousand dollar bond to produce the man. Brush had said he was going to Friendship to visit Rev. Mr. Skaggs. The officer was rewarded for his trip by finding the man seated at the table eating his supper.

It appears that Brush had been working for a man by the name of Young, a recent convert to the faith of the Seventh-day Baptist belief. Young took the Sabbath Recorder, the denominational paper. The man Brush is one of the unfortunate beings, who have cogs in their head that are not all working. In a recent issue of the Recorder on the front page appeared a half-tone of Rev. J. L. Skaggs. Brush made up his mind to see him. In some way he got hold of funds enough to carry him to Friendship, but no more. When he arrived at Charlotte and the Immigration Inspectors got after him all the money he could show was four dollars. He had no passport, and could give no proof that he was able to support himself in the United States, so the vessel was ordered to return him. The officers of the boat were not vigilant in keeping watch over Brush and he made his escape coming to Friendship to see Mr. Skaggs as he had planned, who took him with him to the meeting at Independence, when the officers found him and returned him to Charlotte, Monday.

NOTICE

Please take notice that the following ordinance of the village of Andover, will be strictly enforced.

Discharging Firearms, Etc.—Any person who shall discharge any species of firearms, rocket, squib, gun powder, or other explosive matter, in any of the roads, avenues, lanes, streets or public places of this village, or in the vicinity of any building therein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

This section shall not apply to the discharge of fireworks on National Holidays.

Erie Discharges Thirteen Men

Erie Division Superintendent Parsons has issued a bulletin in which he announces the dismissal from the service of 13 men. One was released from service because of defective eyesight 10 because of reported absence from duty without permission one for drinking while on duty and one because he was seen drunk on the streets. This discipline record shows the Erie intends to enforce its recent order concerning employes drinking either on duty or off.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to sincerely thank our kind neighbors and friends who so ably and willingly assisted us during our late illness. We would especially mention the Odd Fellows, who left nothing undone, which would add to our comfort and welfare.

By order of the Village Board of Trustees.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Martin.

GREAT GATHERING AT CUBA

Prominent Horsemen From The South, East and West are Entertained at Simpson Stock Farm.

The big stone and steel fireproof barn which has for some time been in process of erection at Empire City Farm, Cuba was the scene of a week-end house warming, which began Saturday under the auspices of Messrs. William and Fredrick B. Simpson, proprietors of the largest farm in the North devoted to breeding trotters. The senior member of the firm came on from New York with a private car and twenty guests, including some of the best known horsemen of the country. Many others from Buffalo, Rochester, Pittsburg, Cleveland and other cities joined the party at the farm and enjoyed a most pleasant outing. Saturday the guests were entertained by speed exhibit on the farm track by a large number of promising son's and daughters of the famous sire McKinney, 2:11¼.

In the evening a banquet was served at the Kinney House. It was a most enjoyable gathering, and the most representative ever held in this section as guests were present from many portions of the United States.

William Simpson and his guests returned to New York Sunday evening in their private car, which was attached to Erie train 12.—Reporter.

Famous Canaseraga Well Abandoned

The business men of Canaseraga who have been drilling a well for oil in that vincinity have given up the proposition, it being a failure as far as oil is concerned. The drill was put down 3,200 feet and there was no showing of oil sand. Only 60 feet of solid salt was encountered.

The original proposition in the drilling of this well was to reach the Medina sand, but as the records show the streak dips towards Canaseraga and according to expert calculations it would have been necessary to go down to a depth of 5,000 feet to get it This would have entailed an enormous expense and it was decided to abandon the well.

John Mead Killed

George Mead recieved a telegram Saturday that his son, John Mead, had lost his life in an accident, while working in the woods in Washington. The particulars of his death have not been received at this time. John Mead was a young man of good reputation and well thought of in this town, where his life has been passed. About six months ago in company with his wife he went to the state of Washington to make their home.

Sweet Peas In Bloom

Quite a strife has been manifest by a number of lovers of sweet peas, in Andover, this season as to which should have the first blossoms. But J. M. Brundage still holds the banner for having them in full bloom, June 14, fully two weeks ahead of his competitors.

MASKED MEN ROB OLD FOLK

Break Into House and Torture Aged Man.

Monroe Potter, 69 years old, was just preparing to retire shortly after midnight when three masked men broke into his home on the road to Salamanca, about a mile from Saint Bonaventure's College. Overpowering the old man, who had gone to the door to see what the racket was, the men carried Potter to his bedroom on the second floor and there bound him hand and foot, wrapping his head in a pillow case.

The intruders demanded that Mr. Potter tell where all his money was, threatening him with death and his wife with torture if he refused to give up his cash. Mr. Potter told them where they could find all the money that he had, $16, in a cupboard downstairs. Mrs. Potter was made to go downstairs and get the money.

A daughter who was asleep in the dormer story was now awake. She was about to unlock her door when she heard the tramp of heavy feet on the stairs. When the masked men were trying to force the lock, Mr. Potter in some way managed to untie the ropes about his wrists. He got out his jack knife and cut the knots. As stealthily and as swiftly as possible in his feeble condition, he got out of the house and stumbled along to the home of a neighbor.

The old man had not gone very far before the robbers were after him. Mr. Potter hustled as fast as he could and got to the neighbor's house before his pursuers. The door opened and the three men ran down the road.

The police think that these three men are the same fellows who tried to hold up a traction trolley near the Potter home about a week ago.

Thats About It.

The average loafer is not ashamed of his idleness. As a matter of fact he actually has contempt for the industrious man, and will argue by the hour that the industrious man stole everything that he has managed to save. It is the industrious man who does something for the community in which he lives. He saves his money and builds a home with it. Thus he gives work to others. He builds better quarters for his business establishment. He engages in various enterprises, and creates a demand for labor. But he is abused while the idle loafer is pampered.

Farewell Receptioon

A farwell reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Webster, Wednesday evening, at the home of J. C. and T. R. Bassett, on church street, by the members of the Seventh-day Baptist congregation, of this village of which church, Mr. Webster has been pastor for the past two years. They were on their way to Chicago where Mr. Webster enters the theological department of Chicago University for a two years course.
