OPENING NEW BRIDGE.

The Metroplis Celebrating and Rejoicing

A week's celebration of the opening of the new Queensboro bridge connecting Manhattan with Long Island, was a gala day for the Metropolis. The bridge was illuminated with multi—colored lights, and the gorgeous display of fireworks could be seen all over greater New York. The day exercises including a parade were participated in by Secretary of war Dickinson, Governor Hughes and municipal officers.

The bridge which affords the first direct connection between Long Island City and Manhattan was built at a cost of $20,000,00. It has been in course of construction for the last eight years. It is 3,725 feet long, spans Blackwells Island and is capable of accomodating 215,000 persons at one time.

FARMING BY ELECTRICITY.

German Idea Tried in Vain, Will the American Follow?

Electric farming? Why not? The time was when a suggestion that the farmer in this country would have his mail delivered in a box nailed to his front gatepost would have been laughed down. But the time came, and the old style of traveling a long distance in cold and heat over rough roads to the nearest village once a week for letters and newspapers passed out forever in most parts of the country.

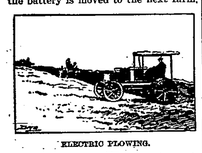
Then it was suggested that the farmer might get the news of quotations on products of the soil and live stock and arrange his deals by telephone while he was in his family room and that the wires which would carry the information would be constructed out of the wires of his fence. The farmer and others laughed at this idea. But the thing was done, and now the modern farmhouse has its phone the same as the city office and the city home.

ELECTRIC GRINDING.

Will we come to electric farming? It has come in Germany, and the American farmer is not behind the farmer of Germany or any other country in intelligence and progressiveness. If electricity benefits the German farmer, why shouldn't it benefit the American farmer?

The use of electric power on large farm operations has already been highly developed in some localities in Germany. The plan is to place a central power plant at the points where it will be convenient for the nearby population.

The electricity is collected in storage batteries, which are then mounted on wheels and taken wherever the power is needed. One of these traveling batteries may be connected with a farmer's power wood saw to work up the winter's supply in a few hours. Then the battery is moved to the next farm, where it may connect with the grain mill; as shown in one of the illustrations.



ELECTRIC PLOWING.

Another set of batteries is shown in truck and dragging a gang plow. Another storage truck at the opposite side of the field draws the plow back again. Besides the portable forms of electric power, the establishment supplies light, heat and permanent power wherever required in the neighborhood.

Facts For Farmers.

Two crops of clover will remove eighty-three pounds of nitrogen, fifteen pounds of phosphoric acid and eighty-eight pounds of potash.

A ton of timothy alone removes twenty-five pounds of nitrogen, ten and one-half pounds of phosphoric acid and eighteen pounds of potash.

A twenty-five bushel crop of wheat will take off fifty-three pounds of nitrogen, fifteen pounds of phosphoric acid and twenty-three pounds of potash.

It is said that a fifty bushel crop of corn will rob the soil of thirty-two and one-half pounds of nitrogen, thirty-one pounds of phosphoric acid and sixty-five pounds of potash.

A mixed crop of clover and timothy amounting to one and a half tons per acre takes fifty-one pounds of nitrogen, fourteen pounds of phosphoric acid and forty-six pounds of potash.

Farmers bulletin No. 49 of the United States department of agriculture says that a mixture of two parts of cottonseed meal and one part cottonseed meal fed for ten weeks to lambs with pasturage gave a weekly gain of 2.95 pounds per head. The lambs were fed about eight and one-half pounds each per week of the mixture.

The Louisiana experiment station has been studying blind staggers in horses, its cause and cure, but nothing definite could be found. It is their opinion that the cause of the disease is in some way associated with the conditions of the feeding materials, such as grass or cured products of corn, brought about by the attacks of mold or fungus.

In one year the bees sent to market a crop of honey worth nearly as much as the barley crop, three times as much as the buckwheat crop, $6,000,000 greater than the rye crop and nearly $9,000,000 greater than the rice crop. All of the rice and buckwheat grown on an aggregate area of 2,123,143 square miles did not reach to the value of the honey by $151,269.

Andrew Carnegie has founded 1,800 public libraries representing donations aggregating $51,596,963, according to his own statement in the current number of Carnegie Weekly. Up to December 30, 1908, the philantropist says, he erected in the United States 820 library buildings with 203 branches, at a cost of $34,870,746; England and Wales comes second in the list with 329 buildings and 59 branches, at a cost of $7,859,850.

Mr. Carnegie thinks that, considering the population of the two countries, he has done almost as much for Canada as for the United States, having erected 86 buildings and establish ed five branches, at an outlay of $2,659,413.

He says he is satisfied with the results of these expenditures.

A Pie Record

Mrs. Nina Burr, pastry cook at the Perry Knitting Co.'s restaurant, made from the 1st of February to the 1st of June, four months, the total number of 2,770 pies.

The World's Champion Cow

The world's champion cow, Grace Fayne 2d's Homestead, owned by Harvey A. Moyer, died recently at Mr. Moyer's farm near Syracuse, of pneumonia. The cow was probably the most valuable Holstein-Friesian in the country, as she held the world's butter record. Just how much she was worth could not be said, but it would run above $8,000. One of her calves sold recently for $2,000, before the mother had made the world's record. The cow's seven day record for butter was 35.55 pounds, average fat 5.42. Her thirty days' butter record was 134.18 pounds and everage fat 4. 40. Hitherto the world's seven days' record was 35.22

It is certainly a reflection on the home influences, when the statement is made that 19,000 boys between the ages of 16 and 26 years, were committed to jails and penitentiaries of this State last year. It is too evident in a majority of homes that all proper restraint of the children is lacking, and it is not really to be wondered at that a large percentage go to the bad at an early age. A new idea was recently advanced to the writer, accounting for the lack of discipline in children: that the removal of door yard fences took away a wholesome influence of restraint, and that with the restraint removed, it was natural that the next step should be the street and then anywhere the child wished to go. And the child that is permitted to "gad" is on the road that leads to trouble—Monroe Country Mail.

The teachers of Livingston county have formed an organization for the purpose of instituting school gardens. This can be made to have a wonderful influence upon the agriculture of the county. Three of the farm crops to be worked with are corn, potatoes and beans. The methods, which it is proposed shall be used by the children, will be of value to every farmer as well and every effort is being made to encourage the children to undertake the work. The produce grown by the children will be exhibited in September or early October at the children's fair or else at the county fair, and some first-class judge will be appointed.

Ray Hallett, A Merchant, Unable To Make Both Ends Meet.

Ray Hallett, a general merchant of Cameron, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy court. He is well known throughout this section, being the tax collector of his town and his friends will regret his misfortune.

He has completed the collection of taxes for this year and has settled with the county treasurer. His bondsmen have been released.

Gift Of Boston Children

Children in the public schools of Boston voluntarily contributed $647.24, on Band of Mercy Day last April, to be used to erect a drinking fountain in that city to the memory of the late President of the Parent American Band of Mercy. It was a splendid expression of their love for Mr. Angell, especially as the children were allowed to give only one penny each.

TORTURED

ENDEAVOR TO MAKE HIM TELL WHERE MONEY IS KEPT—SMALL SUM IS FOUND—ONE ARREST MADE—MAN CLAIMS HE IS INNOCENT.

Bound with ropes to his bed and then beaten and tortured to make him confess where his money was kept was the fate of Christopher Anderson a well known farmer living near Burns. The old man was subjected to all sorts of cruelties by a gang of three men who broke into his house in the dead of the night, overpowered him and robbed him of his savings.

The crime was committed on the night of May 31st and the first arrest was made last Thursday when William Hennessey, a prominent young farm hand living at Burns was taken to Hornell and locked up for safe keeping. He is charged with being one of the three men concerned in the assault and robbery.

Anderson who is an old man, lives on the Dansville road about a mile from the village of Burns. He lives there alone, his wife being in Buffalo. He is reputed to be worth considerable money and it was claimed that he was in the habit of keeping good sized sums of money in the house.

It was shortly after midnight that Anderson was aroused by a noise in the room. He sprang up only to be confronted by a glittering gun barrel in the hands of one of the men. One of the men flung himself at Anderson and bore him down on the bed, holding him there helpless while ropes were procured. The old man resisted the best he could and was beaten and pounded by the robbers. After he had been tied and left helpless the robbers tried to make him tell where his money was kept without avail. Finally they searched the house and found only a small sum of money. They fled leaving their victim still on the bed.

The police of that section have been working on the case ever since and the details of the crime have been suppressed as far as possible. Hennessey was arrested charged with being one of the three men in the gang. He was brought here and locked up, there being no jail at Burns. Hennessey is a man of about 35 years of age who went to Arkport about seven years ago and has since been employed in the celery lands about there. He is a native of Brooklyn.

In a statement Hennessey said that his arrest was the result of a mistake and that he had no connection with the crime whatever. He says he will be able to prove by half a dozen reliable witnesses that he was no where in the vicinity of the Anderson house that night.

Hennessey was arrested while at work in Burns by Constable Fay Plake. He was arranged and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was then brought to this city. He has engaged Harry Allen to defend him and the hearing will be held before Justice Wels S. Ellis at Arkport on Monday morning. It is said that Anderson has indentified Hennessey as one of the men.

HORNELL KICKS

Elks of That City Plan a Quietus on Lodge At Bath.

There will be no Elks lodge in Bath for at least a year and possibly the project is dead for a much longer period. Wilson R. Campbell has received a letter from the Grand Exalted Ruler through his deputy, Hon. Irving L'Hommedieu, to the effect that no charter can be granted as the lodge at Hornell has interposed an objection alleging that the population of the village of Bath is not proven to be 5,000.

Nearly every Elk who is a resident of Bath, is a member of the lodge at Hornell. Prominent members of the order in Bath concieved the idea of forming a lodge there and the project was seconded by Elks at Hammondsport and Avoca. These members, with residents of this section who desire to join the order, ensured a lodge excceding 100 members and the Elks of Bath counted on the co-operation of their brethren in Hornell to enable them to obtain a charter. The lodge at Corning, which is about the same distance as Hornell, gave their consent and there was no suspicion that any objection would be raised. An enumeration of the village of Bath was recently made by J. W. Pinch, who published a directory which showed an excess of 5,000 and this fact was duly certified by the President and the Board of Trustees of the village. However owing to the fact that the enumeration was not made by order of the village authorities, an opportunity was given for the Hornell brethren to make an objection of its not being of an official character. Hence the ground for denying the dispensation asked.

WRITES TO SECRETARY WILSON

DECLARES THE PACKERS ARE RECEIVING FROM 70 TO 80 PER CENT OF THE CATTLE THAT OUGHT TO BE CONDEMNED.

After eighteen months' service as a United States meat inspector in East Saint Louis packing-houses, J. F. Harms has resigned and has written a letter to Secretary James Wilson, demanding an investigation of the meat inspection system at the National stockyards.

Harms asserts that he has resigned because he could not tolerate the conditions and because the inspector in charge of the bureau of animal industry was too lenient with the packers.

"The inspection at the National stockyards, Ill., is costing the people approximately $100,00 a year," says Harms, "and it is not actually worth $1 to them. For when the word is passed from the inspector in charge to the inspectors actually doing the work on the floors that they are getting too many condemned animals and to change the grading, it means that the whole thing is a farce. Mr. Secretary, the packers are getting today from 70 to 80 per cent. of what ought to be condemned and destroyed.

"I have seen from 1,200 to 1,500 pounds of lard spill and run into an open sewer in the floor, the sewer outlet quickly blocked and said lard taken up from the floor and out of the sewer, both of which were unclean and unsanitary. And your doctors passed same to the packers over the protest of the United States inspector on that floor and it went to the public marked 'U. S. inspected and passed.'"

Harms also cites several specific instances of alleged lax methods, declaring meat condemned by sub-inspectors had been released to the packers by higher officials.

Chief Inspector Clancy, discussing the charges, asserted such cases were not uncommon, because the duties of the chief inspector called for decisions in matters of doubt.

"Many of the other charges, I am sure, cannot be true," said Dr. Clancy "He has not complained to me about my decisions nor to my assistant, Dr. William H. Meadows. We are ready to be investigated any time."

In a report to the State Board of Health which is regarded as significant enough to telegraph the American consul general at Bucharest, Roumania, says a surgeon of that city has discovered a wonderful anesthetic which is a combination of strychnine and storaine. The patient, he adds, does not lose consciousness.

The anesthetic is injected in the spine for operations below the waist and in the neck for operations above. The consul general says that Dr. Hannyvrall has taken some of it to London.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at.
