"Graustark"

Graustark or A Love Behind a Throne, to be presented at the Auditorium on Friday evening, Oct. 21 is a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's most popular and best selling novel of the same title. Mr. McCutcheon is also the author of Brewster's Millions, which was successfully produced for the past three seasons. However, it is the consensus of opinion that Graustark possesses far greater dramatic possibilities and is a much more interesting play.

As the sale of the novel has exceeded five hundred thousand copies which is far in excess of any other similar story published in a decade it is safe to presume that the majority of theatre patrons are familiar with the story, but for the benefit of those who have not read the book a brief resume of the story may prove of interest.

Grenfall Lorry belongs to that class of Americans which socialists are fond of describing as the "idle rich," and is the son of an American banker who is travelling in the West. On a train at Denver he becomes interested in a young girl who is touring America in company with an uncle and aunt, and by native wit and nerve, succeeds in making her acquaintance. He knows that she is a foreigner but her nationality remains a mystery, and when she tells him that her namee is Guggenslocker, he is half inclined to believe that she is the daughter of a German sausage manufacturer, although she has the carriage, bearing and personality of a princess. Before the journey ends, he manages to lend considerable assistance to her and she invites him to pay her a visit at her home, the city of Edelweiss, in the principality of Graustark. He has never heard of Edelweiss or "Graustark," but sets sail for Europe, determined to find the country if it is on the map, and win the girl. On his arrival in Europe he meets a former college chum, Harry Anguish who insists upon accompanying him. They eventually succeed in finding Edelweiss and Graustark—an unimportant principality situated in Eastern Europe, but are dismayed to find that not even the oldest inhabitants have ever heard of any one by the name "Guggenslocker." Lorry and his friend overhear a plot to abduct the princess of the realm. Thirsting for adventure they decide to remain and frustrate the plans of the would be abductors, and during the exciting adventures that follow in a thrilling scene which occurs in the boudoir of the princess, Lorry discovers that she is none other than the mysterious "Miss Guggenslocker" of his quest, whom he met in America. He also learns that she is betrothed to a neighboring prince whom she must marry to save her principality from financial ruin. This however does not deter the intrepid American from making desperate love to the princess.

The prince to whom she is betrothed is murdered by a jealous rival. Lorry is accused of the crime and imprisoned, but through the intervention of the princess, is eventually released, and after numerous hair breadth escapes, thrilling and sensational situations and intensely interesting dramatic scenes, the story ends happily for all, and Lorry gets the hand of Princess Guggenslocker.

The local story lends itself readily to picturesque scenic settings and gorgeous costuming of regal gowns and military uniforms. The producers have spared no expense in this respect and the production is said to be one of the most extravagant and elaborate ever given a romantic play.

"Graustark" should and probably will, prove a dramatic treat.

Andover Grange Notes

Conducted by C. A. Robinson.

The meeting of the Andover Grange No. 1092 held Wednesday evening, Oct. 27, was another one of those instructive, interesting and enjoyable gatherings that have pleasant memories in the minds of all who were present.

The regular ritual work being done one candidate was instructed in the first and second degrees. The "lectures hour" consisted of songs, recitation, select reading etc. and each number was a credit to the person rendering it.

The program for next meeting as announced will consist of music, recitation and a discussion of the subject, which is the more needed to develope culture in the average farm home the bath tub or the piano.

Grange was closed in due form and refreshments served by the losing side in the late credit contest. Each patron was furnished with a part of a picture card and when each one found the remaining part of their card they knew who they were to eat supper with, and some of the pictures were cut "to beat the band."

All candidates who have not taken the full and complete work in the first and second degrees are requested to be on hand at next meeting Nov. 10th. As a class will then be instructed in full.

REPUBLICAN TICKET

A STRONG ONE

THE CANDIDATES ON THE REPUBLICAN TICKET, BOTH COUNTY AND TOWN, ASKING FOR YOUR FRANCHISE THIS YEAR, ARE CLEAN, STRAIGHTFORWARD, MANLY MEN OF ABILITY

Next Tuesday is election day and as the time approaches it is well that we stop and consider for whom we should cast our ballot. Questions of vital importance to the state and county are to be determined by the decision of the voters on election day. It is therefore evident that it is not only necessary to put good men into office, but also men of ability and experience. In the history of Old Allegany there has never been a time when the Grand Old Republican party had a more honest, clean and upright set of candidates than are those on its ticket this fall. Every man has been proven by the fires of experience, and found worthy having the ability to perform the duties of the office for which they are named.

Jesse S. Phillips

Jesse S. Phillips, the Republican nominee for Member of Assembly from Allegany County, is well known throughout the County and State, and has an unusual record as a legislator. As he comes before the people of the county for the tenth consecutive year, he should be given an overwhelming vote in recognition of his years of faithful service.

Few young men have passed through nine years of legislative life with as clean a record as has Jesse S. Phillips, and few have served their constituents as faithfully as he. He has not been a spectacular figure at Albany, adorning the pages of the public press with his face and speeches whenever the opportunity could be made or bought; but has been a hard working man, carrying a heavy burden of committee work, and putting in hours of faithful service equalled by few men in the legislature. This work has won it's reward among his fellow legislators ,and placed him in the foremost rank among them. There is probably not a man in the legislature who better understands the principles of legislation, and has the affairs of the body better in hand than Mr. Phillips. He has a trained legal mind and under his untiring application it has served him well in his work as a representative of the people of Allegany County.

Mr. Phillips, although a staunch Republican, has not failed to show his independence, and his ability to think and act for himself. In some instances this has not resulted in opinions similar to those of all his constituents. This is inevitable in the case of all men who are worth anything. There are some subjects of legislation which are so complicated that the average man can hardly analyze the situation and draw true conclusions, by the light of his own fire side and with the pages of his pet newspaper as a source of knowledge. Mr. Phillips has opposed the Hinman-Green Direct Primaries Bill, earnestly and consistently, because he does not consider it wise and practical legislation. Some good men do not agree with him and on the other hand other good men do. Noteable among the latter are President Schurman of Cornell University and many other men of his type through out this and other states.

As a matter of fact many of the people of Allegany county do not appreciate the position to which their member of Assembly has attained during the nine years of his service, and they never will until sometime in the years to come an inferior man is sent down to Albany to fill his place. Good things have already been put in the way of Mr. Phillips. Better things will inevitably come his way, and in all probability it will be possible to keep him where he is for only a short time in the future. But while the opportunity is in the hands of the voters of Allegany County to keep such an efficient, faithful, and experienced representative in the State Legislature, they should do so with a very decided and emphatic majorty.

As a citizen of Andover Mr. Phillips has ever been a progressive and helpful man. His genial personality, his untiring energy, his generosity toward every undertaking of the town, his interest in the community as a whole, have all contributed toward making him a leading citizen. Like every other man of his kind he has his enemies, but they are few and insignificant, in that they have invariably been those who held their purse strings tight, and opposed everything which would take a cent out of their own pockets, however much it might benefit the community as a whole. No party loyalty, or private opinion of present day legislation should keep any man in Andover from voting for their fellow townsman, who heads the county ticket, at the coming election. He has stood by the town and for the town, and now as never before the town should stand by him an Andover boy who has made himself and Andover known in the whole state should have Andover's unanimous help on his way up.

David M. Hancock For Sheriff

The Republican nominee for Sheriff is David M. Hancock, a man well and favorable known to the voters of Allegany County. The Sheriff is the chief executive officer of the county and for the position is needed a man of sound judgment, hard common sense and good executive ability. Such a man is Mr. Hancock. He has already held the office for one term and has had the experience necessary to make a competent official. His first administration was above reproach. His integrity has never been questioned and the record of his office during his first term is an open book. Mr. Hancock has been a prominent farmer in Northern Allegany and is now engaged in business at Belfast. He has been very successful in all of his undertakings and a man who makes a success of his business will make a successful official. The management of the sheriff's office during his first term was heartily commended and he will again adorn the office with credit. He is worthy of every Republican vote and it should be a privilege to every voter to cast his ballot for "Honest Dave Hancock."

Clarence Ricker for County Clerk.

For the past nine years the County Clerk's office has been efficiently managed by Clarence Ricker. It is no reflection upon his predecessors to say that Mr. Ricker has been the most popular clerk the county has ever had. He was re-nominated by the Republicans at their last convention without opposition and will be elected by a larger majority than he ever had. Mr. Ricker is one of the most loyal Republicans in the County of Allegany; ever since attaining his majority he has labored in season and out of season for the success of the Republican party. He has been successful in business and has made an ideal official. Many can recollect the time when they sent a paper to the clerk's office for record, it would not be returned to them for several months. Such, however, has not been the case under the adminstration of Mr. Ricker. During his term he has brought the County clerk's office to a higher standard of efficiency than ever before. The work of the office has been so systematized that all papers sent for record are promptly recorded, copied, indexed and returned to the owner within a few days. No paper for record, no matter how long it may be, is kept longer than ten days. Persons coming in contact with Mr. Ricker through official business have nothing but the highest praise and comendation for the manner in which he conducts the public business. Always genial courteous and obliging, faithful public servant. Do your duty by him when you go to the polls.

Daniel C. Grunder, for Superintendent of the Poor.

If there is a single man in Allegany County who desires a change in the County Superintendent of the Poor, he has not yet been found Daniel C. Grunder, the Republican nominee for re-election has held that position for twelve years, and for fifteen years prior thereto was keeper of the almshouse. So thorough and efficient has been his management of the country house and farm that the Democratic party twice in succession has never deemed it wise to nominate a candidate against him, and therefore, have endorsed his candidacy. That the Allegany County home is one of the the model institutions of this state. The farm in connection with the house has been so conducted that it not only paid the expenses of the institution and the of the inmates, but each year produced a surplus to turn over to the general poor fund. This is largely, if not entirely, due to the good management of Mr. Grunder. He is an honest, hardworking public servant. His re-nomination by both political parties is a fitting appreciation of his services. The tendreness with which he cares for the poor unfortunates has won for him the esteem and praise of all our citizens.

For Coroners, Adelbert T. Bacon and

William S. Todd.

The Republican nominees for coroners, Dr. Adelbert T. Bacon and Dr. William S. Todd, are men who stand high in their profession. Both have served as coroners with credit to themselves and to the people of the county. Dr. Bacon has well filled the position for several years. Both of them have been tried and not found wanting.

The Republican party and the people of Allegany County are to be congratulated on being able to present to the electors on Tuesday next such a splendid ticket, people worthy of support and confidence. This ticket should inspire enthusiasm and it will win large majorities.

THE LUCY STONE CLUB.

Interesting Session Held With Mrs. Sara Cannon

A most delightful evening was passed by the members of the Lucy Stone Club at the home of Mrs. Sara Cannon, Tuesday evening. The subject of the program was "The Child", The response at Roll Call, Children's Stories. Three splendid papers were read.

Child Labor—
by Miss Marguerite Norris
Juvenile Courts—
Miss Grace Cheesman
George Junior Republic,—
Miss Jennie Fosbury

The subjects were all well handled and very instructive.

A piano solo by Miss Geraldine Starr was enjoyed by the company. The hostesses, of which Mrs. Earley was chairman, served most excellent refreshments after which, under the direction of Mrs. Deming as entertainment committee, a jolly contest was entered into which was productive of great merriment.
