ST. PATRICK
By Wilfred Brown

St. Patrick, the Apostle of Ireland, is said to have been born in 372. Some writers assign his birthplace to Bonlogue-sun-Mer; others to Kepatrick, near Dumbarton. His father was a deacon named Calpanius. His own Celtic name was Sucrat, Patricus being his Latin designation. In his 16th year he was seized by pirates, carried to Ireland and sold to an Antrim chief called Milchu. After six years he escaped and probably after a second captivity went to France, where he became a monk, first at Tous and afterwards at Lerins. He was ordained a bishop at 45 and at 60 (432) went as a missionary to Ireland. One of his first converts was his old master, Milchu. Patrick converted the chief's first and used the clan spirit to accomplish his first undertaking. He is reported to have founded 365 churches, baptized 12,000 persons, consecrated 450 bishops and ordained a vast number of priests not to speak of monks and nuns.

After 20 years spent in missionary labors, he fixed his seat at Armagh (454). He died at Saul (Saul Patrick) the spot which the chief Lichu, an early convert had given him on his arrival and was buried in all likelihood at Armagh. There is some doubt about the matter, but the true date of St. Patrick's death seems to be 463. The only certainty authentic literary remains of the saint (both in very rude Latin) are his "Confession" and a letter addressed to Carotius, a British chieftain who had carried off some Irish Christians as slaves.

HONESTY
By E. Alderson

Honesty is something that everyone should strive for. To be honest in these days of temptation is almost twice as hard as it used to be.

In some professions the men must be dishonest in order to succeed. In one of the professions, law, it is almost impossible to be very honest and yet be successful.

Not long ago, in one of our leading periodicals there was a letter written by a young man, who intended to become a lawyer. He wrote a letter to the editor in order to get his opinion on the subject. Does honesty pay in the law profession?

He said that he had always been taught that anyone honest would be respected more than some dishonest person and that they would have much leisure in their old age. In his home town there was a man who had made all his money by dishonest means, but he was the most respected man in the community while the writer's father had always been honest in his dealings, yet he was not respected more than the dishonest one and he was not living a life of leisure but he could hardly make ends meet.

The young man wrote to see if the editor thought honesty paid and the letter almost convinced me that it did not.

Fair play in sports and in school is another form of honesty and anyone who cheats in a game in school really hurts himself because one thing leads to another and if he can get away with cheating in a game he will do it more often and perhaps lose all self-respect and become a criminal.

Altho it seems that honesty does not pay in some cases, it may help in the feeling you have for yourself. If you don't have a good opinion of yourself no one else will, and the only way to have a good opinion of ourselves is to be honest in everything you undertake to do.

Grand Finale of the Foul-Shooting Contest to be Played of Tonight

The final play-off of the foul-shooting contest will take place tonight (Thursday) at the gym at 7:30. This event is the climax of the basketball season. Immediately following this feature, the awards will be made by Mr. Huffcut to the various members of the teams. Also, another feat which will take place is a basketball game between next year's varsity and this year's Senior and Alumni. The game will start at 8 o'clock and the admission for the entire evening is only 25c.

This will conclude all basketball activities for the school year. So, people, let's have a large turn-out to the grand finale!

Andover Girls' Basketball Season Ends With a Victory

The girls' basketball team ended their season with a victory in their last game Tuesday night with Arkport. The total score for the game was 25-15. This makes the final result for the girls' basketball season with a total of seven victories and eight losses. Their team made 313 points to their opponents' 309 during the whole season. Of these 313 points Anna Dean, displaying excellent shooting, made 164.

As compared to former basketball season, this season's results were quite successful.

The prospects for next year's girls team look exceptionally good. Florence Mulholland, Ruth Slocum and Florence Parker played their last game Tuesday night on the varsity team.

MANNERS

UNSELFISHNESS — thought for others, a due regard for one's neighbor and his rights—is at the root of real politeness. If the spirit of kindliness and courtesy reside in the individual, his manners will naturally reflect this spirit; and so manners come to be accepted, in many cases, as an outward sign of conduct.

When a boy or girl gives up his seat to another, stands aside to let some one go before him, picks up an object that somebody has dropped, or takes time and pains to do a favor for another, he performs an unselfish act. He shows that he is thinking of his neighbor's comfort and convenience—not his own. We say of him, "He is polite."

While true politeness springs from the heart, there are certain forms of politeness established by the usages of society which every boy and girl should know. The observance of these forms helps to make life easier and more agreeable; it smooths the way for us, puts us at ease, and relieves many an awkward situation.

In review, see how many of the following questions you can truthfully answer:

1.—Do you observe the Golden Rule?

2.—Are you showing respect and consideration for your parents, teachers, friends and elders?

3.—Are you practicing courteous forms of speech and behavior?

4.—Are you observing persons of fine manners so that you may learn better ways?

GUESS WHO?

The person I am describing is a Junior boy, about five feet five inches tall, wears a flashing purple sweater which I hear the Freshman girls are wild about, and can you blame them? He is always the same old "——" with his jokes and laughs. No one could possibly feel "in the dumps" when around this particular boy. Perhaps his famous saying which will identify him is "quite a large time." He is one of our lucky stiffs in that he has a car, and where hasn't it been? Both he and the car are always in popular demand. Now, don't tax that brain of yours too much, because you all know him, I'm sure.

Answer in next week's paper.

Answer to last week's "Guess Who" is Billy Woodruff.

THE SPY ? ?

Greetings and salutations, this is Baron Spy and his mates giving you the low-down on some of these land-lubberly swabs we have for a crew. Well, the first thing which seems wrong is in one of the maids on this fair ship AHS.

Dot Boone seems to have fallen heavily and how for the "Dancing Fool," (Eddie Bessey) from Wellsville. Better watch it, Dot!

Our Soph and Junior Hop was a gr-r-rand and gl-lorious affair. Reckin' everybody had a peachy time, for I know right well I did. Oh, you don't think I would miss a trick like that, do you? Well, I guess not.

Another triumph for Norma Brundage. She carried off the prize waltz at this dance. Some of you girls will have to ask Norma how she attracts all these good dancers.

Oh, I say, if Florence M., one of our man-haters, didn't come to the dance with Connie C., our heart crusher. Never mind, Florence, Connie is nice, but I don't like the way that he combs his hair.

I wonder just how long that Lynch-Parker romance will last. I'll say Florence sure has a "knack" on how to hold her man.

Howard McA. has a mania of spending his time tickling the girls, especially a Senior girl. Yes, it does sound funny, but its so gol-darned ridiculous I can't see the point, but maybe I'm not supposed to.

What should spring up under our noses but a brand new friendship! And who should the happy pair be but Ruby Swarts and Dick Wittie. Oh, Dick, I never thought you would ever fall for the weaker sex.

I notice our Freshman Romeo, in other words Billy Woodruff, is causing lots of competition among our younger and foolish girls. But what makes it interesting is the jealous competition. Billy likes it and I get a big kick out of it, so who's more?

Say, by the way, I don't hear anything more about the Sorority. Has it all fallen thru, or—or—? I was just becoming interested in it until I heard it fell thru like water thru a sieve.

It is reported around that Ethel Haynes cannot return the seeds which she was supposed to sell along with the other students. Why? Cause her little canary ate them all up. Was it really the canary Chesty? Others report a similar message just handed to me by a ship-mate, and opening it, I find—why another operetta. Oh, goodie! And who's who in it? That's another story. You must wait until I know more about it, so now my good ship with its crew must take up its oars again and resume its course onward. Ahoy!

Olive Oil (au revoir to you)

HI HERALD REPORTERS FOR THIS SEMESTER

The following list contains the names of those pupils who have been admitted to the Hi Herald staff as reporters.

In order to become a reporter, one must have successfully met the requirements, which are:

1.—Anyone wishing to become a reporter on the Hi Herald staff must hand in three articles at different times, approved by the Editor-in-Chief, the Associate Editors, and the Faculty Advisor. The articles are approved when they appear in print in the paper.

2.—Those pupils wishing to become reporters must regularly attend the weekly staff meetings. Those reporters who do not attend these meetings will be automatically dismissed from the Hi Herald staff.

3.—All reporters and those working for that aim must have a good scholastic standing at all times.

In spite of this long list there is still more room for many other students to come out for reporters. By the end of this semester, we hope to have a large staff who will be able to carry on the work of the Hi Herald efficiently for next year, and that many of the reporters this year will be editors of the various departments next year.

SOME REAL WONDERS IN ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL

The average amount of water used weekly in Andover High School is 7,000 gallons.

Approximately 140 tons of coal are burned in A. H. S. in a school year (from September to June).

One ton of waste paper is collected by Mr. Beebe in a year.

Thrust the school year 25 gross of chalk is used.

One barrel of floor oil and one bushel of sweeping compound are used in a school year.

Three good bristle brooms will sweep the school in good shape for a year.

Biggest Musical Event of the Year is Announced "THE GYPSY ROVER"

The fireworks have exploded! The operetta has at last revealed its name —its character, and all its "bare facts!" Here's the name—"The Gypsy Rover," by May Hewes Dodge and John Wilson Dodge. Don't you all like the name? Sounds very interesting as well as fascinating, doesn't it? Yes, indeed, it's all of that and more too!

Remember last year's operetta—"The Count and the Co-Ed?" You were all so well pleased with that, and you all know it went over with a bang! It was Miss Russ' first production in our school, and it was the first time we ever staged a musical comedy. Miss Russ is again the director of this operetta, so you are assured of even a better presentation this year.

Rehearsals will begin immediately. The Romatic Musical Comedy will be given in the latter part of April or the first part of May, just the time when your spirits demand a light, frivolous "sort of something" to perk yourselves up. After seeing this play where everybody falls in love, it will stir your blood to its most tingling degree.

You will hear more about this operetta. This is only an introduction to our biggest event in our musical history—"The Gypsy Rover!"

The cast of characters for this repertoire is announced! As you will see for yourselves, many in the cast starred in last year's "Count and the Co-Ed," while other new characters will display their dramatical ability in this large feature for the first time.

The cast is as follows (in order as they appear):

Meg, an old gypsy woman
*Pauline Gath
Zara, the belle of the camp,
*Helen Vickers
Marto, Mag's husband,
Howard McAndrew
Sinfo, Gypsy lad in love with Zara,
*Max Baker
Rob, the Gypsy Rover. Lost heir to the Sir Gilbert Howe estates,
Howard Gath
Lady Constance, daughter of Sir George Martendale,
*Margaret Powers
Lord Craven, an English fop,
Philip Crandall
Sir George Martendale, an English country gentleman,
Frank Weinhauer
Nina, second daughter of Sir George
*Mary Monica Lynch
Capt. Jerome, captain in the English army
Emilio Yannie
Sir Toby Twig, a Social butterfly,
Decatur Clarke
McCorkle, a song publisher in London
Wisner Cook
Note: * means those who were in last year's operetta.

Miss Anna Yannie is the accompanist.

Keep on the watch-out for further details of this romantic musical comedy! Follow up its accomplishments and progress under Miss Russ' efficient direction weekly in the Hi Herald.

FRESHMEN, BEWARE!!!

In a recent issue of the Hi Herald under the heading "Advice to the Seniors," written by a green Freshman, several harsh remarks were made to our very dignified Seniors. I, as a Senior, take it upon myself to take revenge upon these little Frosh.

To Dot Cronk, please remember that you aren't the only girl who likes L. Padden, so watch out!

To some of the "little boys," Don McNeil, Francis Meade, and others —it might be well to remember that even tho you are smaller than some of the rest of us, it is no sign for you to do as you please. Some time we might show you as well as teach you a good lesson.

To those pupils who think they are putting over a fast poke on the seventh period Study Hall teacher, get this: It is very rude to say the least, to carry on as you do. If "ignorance was bliss," I am sure many of you would be "happy."

Why so many dizzy-looking faces, Clyde K.? Do you think it does you justice to yourself to that face of yours to transform it into so many shapes and sizes?

"Freshie" can well be applied to Farnham Pope. Heed to this, my boy: Better watch your step sharply or else—well, this is only a threat. Next time I'll act accordingly.

Say, Ray G., what makes you like the Freshman Class so well? Why not get down to the point and raise to the ranks of the Sophomore Class?

To our Valley-Vans, when you are in the study hall, don't be continually gazing into space. You look rather empty-headed when you are in that sort of a trance.

I noticed that some of our popular Frosh boys are taking advantage of Dot. Don's absence. Yes, you are the "big chaser." You must certainly aren't, and nobody else thinks so besides themselves, so cut out a foolish line of chase.

Now to the silly giggling girls. You are to be pitied. We can't say much except that you will be more liked if you would act like some of our well-behaved Senior girls. Follow their model—it pays in the long run.

A lot more can be said, but I hope (as well as my many classmates) that these general hints will be taken seriously; if so, you can raise the standards of your Freshman Class to a much higher level.

—A Well-known Senior.

CURRENT ISSUES IN THE A. H. S.

Senior Pancake-Waffle Supper and Dance

The Seniors will hold a pancake-waffle supper Thursday, March 22, in the Odd Fellows' Hall from 5:30 until all are served. Admission is 25 cents. The menu is:

Pancakes	Sausages
Waffles	Syrup
Coffee	Cream Doughnuts

A program is to be presented during the supper. Some of the numbers will be:

Reading ..... Miss Clifford
Saxophone Solo ..... Robert Spicer
Vocal Solo ..... Miss Russ
Baritone Solo ..... Oliver Kemp
"The Little Red School House Dance," ..... Chorus of Girls

The pancake and waffle flour to be used is "Best Yet," donated by Mr. Lang of the Market Basket. The coffee, "Heart's Delight," has been donated by Scoville-Brown Company. The Seniors wish to express their appreciation to those people and to others who are helping to make the supper a success.

After the supper, the Seniors are holding a dance in the Odd Fellows' Hall, from 8 to 12. Admission 25c.

Miss Jordan Still Ill

Miss Ruby Jordan, Fifth Grade teacher, is still very ill. Mrs. Eggleston is caring for her in the Folsing home on Greenwood street. Mrs. Kupp is substituting.

Eleanor Greene Improving

Eleanor Greene's condition is reported to be improving. She was taken with scarlet fever about two weeks ago.

Athletic Association Out of Debt

That long-looked for event has finally come. The Athletic Association has paid its last debt, and is free to begin anew. No, not free to accumulate bills, but to start the year, even tho a little late, with a clean slate. The receipts from the basketball and football games, the plays, and last year's operetta have each contributed toward this realization. New equipment has been bought—and paid for.

Eighth Grade Assembly

Students of the Eighth Grade are planning an assembly program to be held in the Auditorium, Friday, March 16th. "The Shamrock Minstrels," in celebration of St. Patrick's Day, is being put on, by several students and is under the direction of the teacher, Miss Margaret Kelley.

And, of Course, the Operetta

The name, cast and details of the new operetta are somewhere in this week's paper. It's something new and different—so we've been told.

Students Selling Seeds

Garden seeds in boxes containing 20 packages were distributed among the Andover High School students, to sell as many as possible of them. The proceeds of the sales are for the benefit of the Athletic Association.

"Little Women" at Alfred

On March 17, the motion picture, "Little Women," is to be presented at the Alumni Hall at Alfred. Time 3:30 and 7 o'clock. All those who have not seen the picture yet should take this opportunity and if possible see it—It is certainly worth seeing.

Junior-Sophomore Party

The Junior-Sophomore party of last Friday night proved to be a big success. There were about 115 people present. Music for the occasion was furnished by Bob Stevens' orchestra of Hornell. The auditorium was attractively decorated by Anna Dean, Virginia Smith and Lawrence Padden.

Refreshments were served upstairs in the hall, those on the committee were Madelin Walsh, Beatrice Sly, Alice Pope and Doris Howland.

The door prize, which was a fudge cake, baked by Madelin Walsh, was won by Helen Vickers. The prize waltz was won by Norma Brundage. Thus, the dance proved a success both socially and financially.

Last Minute News

Bob Stevens' orchestra will furnish the music at the Senior Dance next Thursday night, March 22, at the Odd Fellows' Hall. Admission 25c. Dancing from 8 to 12.

THE LITERARY DEPARTMENT

This is a story of a young man who did the right thing at the right time.

Emergencies Help
By Ethel Weinhauer

"No, I'm not going to do it, sir," said young Mr. Herbert Sayton, as he clicked down the receiver. "Darn that sap, anyway. Always trying to come around and be of some good to me," Herb said hotly to himself.

Birr-r-ring, the doorbell pealed out.

"Doggone it, can't a fellow have a little peace?" But as he opened the door Herb saw that it was "Dail," the girl across the street. Her name was Margarette Kenney.

"Oh, hello, Dail. I thought you might have been one of those, er—salesmen. Anything wrong? You look as tho you had seen a ghost." said this beaming young man.

"Mr. Sayton, could I use your phone? My little brother is terribly ill and I've got to get a doctor right away," Dail replied, with tears brimming in her beautiful eyes.

"Sure you may use it. There is one in the study," replied Mr. Sayton.

"The doctor says he is just going out on an emergency call and can't come before this afternoon." Dail's face was white and her eyes full of tears. "Oh, what shall I do?"

Herbert Sayton was at a loss as to what he should do. Nevertheless he said "Maybe I could help, Dail, if your brother could be moved I could take him to the hospital. What do you think is the matter?"

"We can't find out. He cries so, and puts his hand on his side," said the weeping girl.

"Might be—," began Herb. Then as he saw the look of pain in her eyes, he stopped, motioned for her to go out the door and followed. In no time at all he had his car out of the garage and with Dail holding Jimmy, had started for the hospital.

They got to the hospital just in time, as the head doctor was just going out for lunch. Dr. Donnelly said it was an attack of acute appendicitis, and said that Jimmy would have to be operated on at once.

"Operate!" stammered Dail, "what are we going to do about money? We have hardly enough for what little else we need. Now I don't know what we shall do."

"Never mind, Dail," put in Herbert. "The little fellow has to be operated on."

Nearly a month later, Jimmy, coming home from school, stopped by the hedge, for behind it he could hear voices. One was that of a man, and the other—yes, it was his sister's. Jimmy edged up nearer.

"Oh, I don't know how I shall ever repay you for what you done for us," Dail was saying.

Herbert answered: "It is almost enough that the little fellow is out all right—but—Dail," here he broke down and could go no farther.

Jimmy, peering thru the hedge, saw Herbert Sayton take his sister's hand, and a moment later she was in his arms.

"Marry me?"

"Any time you say."

And as there wasn't anything more to hear, Jimmy ran into the house to tell the happy news to his mother.

Wilma Goodridge's side is ahead in the spelling contest. They have three eggs in the duck's nest now. Who ever has the most eggs in the nest by Easter time will win the contest.

The girls are ahead in the Arithmetic Race.

We have made some chickens and rabbits for our Easter blackboard.

WHO CAN SAY ANYTHING ABOUT THE WEATHER IN THIS SCHOOL?

In a neighboring school, not too far from A. H. S., is a principal whose name is Mr. Brooks Sunshine, a music teacher whose name is Miss Sally Showers, a history teacher whose name is Miss Farwind, and a janitor whose name is Mr. Bill Blizzard. We wonder if the conversation there dwells entirely upon the weather? We think not.

THE LAST LAUGH

"Wally" Clarke (in general science class): "Who's the greatest inventor the world has ever known?"

Lester Regan: "An Irishman by the name of Pat. Pending."

It was Pat's first day on the job as train conductor. Forgetting the name of a station they stopped at he shouted to the passengers: "Here ye are for where ye're goin'. All in there for hope, come out!"

Traffic manager: "Did you put 'handle with care' and 'this side up' on all boxes to go by freight?"

Pat (new shipping clerk): "Oi did, sur, an' fer fear they'd not see it on the top Oi printed it on the bottom, too."

"Pat," said the manager of the factory, "I want you to report to me at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. Here is an alarm clock."

The next morning arrived. Pat was met by a frowing manager.

"Well, what's the matter? Didn't the alarm work out?"

"Ok, yes sor, it went off all right, but the trouble was that it went off while Oi was asleep."

BOE BECKLEY

Dear Boe:

I say a Sophomore girl of A. H. S., and like most girls, am in love. The loved one this time is a Freshman boy.

I am good-looking, with beautiful red curly hair, but somehow I feel it is a set-back for this boy likes blondes. "Blitz" took me to the Freshman party, and there became infatuated with another girl and left me flat.

Dear Boe, my heart is broken and the way ahead seems like a gloomy path for I cannot face the future without him, so please tell me of some way of gaining his affection.

—Forsaken.

Dear "Forsaken":

Your experience is common for girls of your age. Man are very apt to be vamped by blondes and it is only a passing fancy. You must remember that "men prefer blondes but they marry brunettes or else strawberry blondes," so he will probably soon return to you.

However, if this does not prove to be the case, I would advise you to wear a transformation (wig to you). Don't touch your hair as I have known cases which proved most unfortunate. Also, you might learn to care for someone who really likes red hair.

—BOE BECKLEY.
