THE FORESTS OF NEW YORK

And the Reforestation of Idle Lands To Be Discussed Before Granges And Schools In Allegany County

Arrangements have just been completed between several Granges and Schools in Allegany County and The New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University for number of illustrated lectures upon Forestry. Mr Russell T. Gheen, a graduate of the Forest School of the Pennsylvania State College and now Instructor in the College will speak before Fillmore Grange No.. 1060, at Fillmore, on February 2nd; at Friendship Grange on February 3rd; before Richburg High School in Richburg on February 4th; before Cuba High School on February 5th; at Almond High School on February 6th. Mr. Gheen will have, with him several sets of attractive lantern slides and will talk on such subjects as the Reforestation of the idle lands of New York, The Forests of New York Past and Present, the Improvement of the Farm Woodlot and the Utilization of Waste Portions of the Farm by the Planting of Forest Trees.

The state-wide University extension work is one of the lines of educational work which The New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University established and supported by the State is carrying on to bring the necessity for more practical work inF orestry to the People of the State. It is believed that if the people become better acquainted with the Forestry situation and the necessity of taking care of not only the Forest Lands but the so-called "idle lands" of the State that New York will become truly a Forest State instead of a State notorious for its carelessness in handling deforested areas and thereby forcing them to become absolutely non-productive.. The last census reports 7,000,000 acres within the farms of the State as idle and practically non-productive. This means that there is an area about the size of Massachusetts closed up in the farms of New York which is practically non-productive. Germany produces from $2 to $4 per acre from lands not nearly as well suited to forests as these idle lands within our farms.

Besides this great area of idle land within farms there are twelve millinos of acres in New York better suited to forests than any other crop. Only a small part of this vast area, larger than the States of Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts is covered with valuable forest. Instead of sending out of the State each year as reported by the census from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 for wood to be used in its industries, New York by using the simplest of practical Forestry methods could produce enough timber to more than keep the $20,000,000 within its boundaries and at the same time make all of its lands share in the support of this great Commonwealth.

THIS NEW MEDICINE SAVES YOU MONEY

We are druggists right here in your town and make a living out of the drug business, but it is because people have to have drugs and not because we like to see people suffer—we don't. Our duty is to render the best service we can; and when someone is ailing, we are interested in seeing them take the best medicine there is for their particular trouble. We don't recommend "cure-alls," as we don't believe there are such things. We don't want you to spend more than you have to. Some of you get small wages, and when you're sick, none at all, and you should get the most you can for your money.

We recently came across a new remedy for increasing strength and building up people who are run-down and emaciated. We know that a slight trouble sometimes grows into a serious one, and to stop it in the beginning, will save you money in the end. This new compound is called Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is the best remedy, when you are run-down, tired out, nervous—no matter what the cause. It doesn't merely stimulate you and make you feel good for a few hours, but takes hold of the weaknesses and builds you up to a healthy, normal condition. It is a real nerve-food tonic and builder of good blood strong muscle, good digestion. It contains Hypophosphites which tone the nerves, and pure Olive Oil, which nourishes the nerves, the blood and the entire system. Pleasant to take. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. We promise that if you are not perfectly satisfied with it, we'll give back your money as soon as you tell us so. Sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00.—J. D. Cheeseman & Co., Andover, N. Y

YOUNG COUPLE OVERCOME BY FUMES

While Retiring for Night Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cook of Hornell were Overcome--Dead Bodies Found by Neighbors

Hornell, Jan. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Justice L. Cook were found dead in their home, at 34 Riverside street, at noon to-day, the victims of gas fumes. Justice L. Cook was employed by the local house of Swift & Co., and his wife was an employe of the Merrill Hosiery Company.

Not appearing at their regular hours, their employers and neighbors felt some uneasiness as to their whereabouts, neither of them having said anything about going away. At noon it was decided that an effort be made to enter the house, which was found locked.

Lee Manley, a next door neighbor, forced the outer door, but found nothing unusual until he came to the bath room, when he found the door locked from the inside. Believing that this was unusual, he forced the bathroom door, and there saw Mr. and Mrs. Cook lying on the floor.

Dr. Raymond Kelly and Officer James Bailey were notified and arrived at the house at about the same time. When the doctor reached the bath room, he at once broke the glass in the window and let the fumes escape.

It was a gruesome sight, for in one corner of the room lay the body of Mrs. Cook, and stretched on the floor was the body of Mr. Cook. The clothing of Mr. Cook was found in the bath room, while Mrs. Cook's was in the adjoining room, an evidence that the couple were about to retire for the night.

The unfortunate couple were both hard workers, and it probably was the custom with them to take a bath each evening before retiring.

When the room was broken into it was found that the gas jet was lit, and this gas under the water heater was on full force. Dr. Conway, the Health Officer, who took charge of the case, places this construction on the case: that the couple entered the room and locked the door, the overheated atmosphere, devoid of oxygen, had a tendency to produce sleep, and had an almost instantaneous effect upon the occupants.

That the death of Mr. and Mrs. Cook was purely from accidental causes is borne out by the fact that before going to the bath room, Mrs. Cook had prepared a vessel of batter for their breakfast, and the neighbors have noted their pleasant relations.

It is one of those peculiar cases, and, yet it is quite likely to occur where a room is tightly closed and the fumes of burning gas are not allowed to escape.

Justice L. Cook was 23 years of age and was the son of James J. Cook, of Greenwood, and had been a resident of this city for the past two years, during that time being in the employ of the Swift Co..

Mrs. Cook was formerly Miss Jessie Stewart, of Cameron Mills, and well known in this city.

The couple were married in this city October 26th, and had made their home on Riverside street for about three weeks. After notifying relatives, the bodies were removed to Hartshorn's undertaking parlors where they were prepared for burial. The funeral announcement will be made later..

Deceased was the oldest Odd Fellow in Allegany County, and for sixty-nine years has been a member of Wellsville Lodge, No.. 295, I. O. O. F.. His age was about eighty- nine years.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock, at Whitesville.

M'GUIRE & FAHEY LOWEST BIDDERS

Contract for Village Road Will be Let for About $41,875.25--Hornell Men Lowest Estimators.

Albany Jan.. 30, 1914.—The Department of Highways to-day received proposals for the construction and repairs of 26 highways; the first proposal to be held under the new specifications recently adopted by the department. There was an unusually large number of bidders on all the work, notwithstanding the reports that many of the better contractors would not engage in highway construction until the present investigations had been concluded as there was too much distrust on the part of the people against the contractors engaged in that branch of work.

The contractors who submitted bids did so with the warning from Commissioner Carlisle which had been read to them at the annual banquet of the Road Builders' Association the night before. In that letter, after emphasizing the necessity of co-operation between the contractor and the department if good roads were to be built, he served a notice on each of them that the inspection of the roads under the new specifications would be stricter than ever before, and that every contractor in making his proposal should bear in mind the fact that the roads would be constructed in exact accordance with the plans and specifications.

The following proposals for the construction of the public highways by State Aid were received by the State Commission of Highways at their office, 83 Lancaster Street, Albany, N. Y., January 30, 1914:

Road No. 5419, Andover Village, 1.51 miles: Olean Eng. & Const. Co., Olean, N. Y., $47,143.50; McGuire & Fahey, Hornell, N. Y., $41,875.25; Swank & McIntyre, Hornell, N. Y., $45,925.75; Dawkins Coast. Co., Norfolk, Va., $48,337.10; F. J. Mumm Contg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., $47,992.45; J. Johnson Cons. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., $47,733.15; Greenfield Const. Co., Hornell, N. Y., $44,112.25; Holleran Brothers, Elmira, N. Y., $47,046.40; McNerney Cons. Co., Canton, Pa., $47,293.50; Witt & Blades, Hornell, N. Y.., $44,602.00.

IS NATIVE OF STEUBEN

Believed to Be Only Man Living Who Was Born in Eighteenth Century

"At his home in West Liberal, Barton County 'Uncle' Henry Dorman has just celebrated his 115th birthday and though he has been feeble for the last three years, he recognized all his old friends who came to offer congratulations.

"He is believed to be the oldest man in America. Dorman has documents to prove his age. He was born in Steuben County, New York, in January, 1799. Steuben County then was on the western frontier and George Washington was still alive. When Lincoln was born Henry Dorman was a schoolboy and he was a young married man with children at his fireside before the first mile of railroad was laid in this country.

"Army records show that Mr. Dorman was 65 years when in 1863, he enlisted as a private in company F, Seventh Michigan Cavalry, and his right hand is now lame from a bullet wound. He had four sons in the Union army."

ALASKA REDISCOVERED

Washington, D.. C., January 31.—The most important thing ever done in reference to Alaska, since the United States purchased it for a song was the passage, by the Senate of the bill providing for a railroad in that country. The House of Representatives will undoubtedly concur in the Senate measure, which will give to that great region a railroad one thousand miles long. The road in itself is important, but the fact that the United States has declared that it proposes to back the Alaskan proposition to the extent of $40,000,000.0 means more than simply a streak of rust, screeching locomotives, and freight cars, traveling through a barren waste. In short, the isolating of Alaska is to be brought to an end, and an aggressive policy to develop the great resources is to be carried on—our greatest storehouse of wealth are to be opened. The general impression is that Alaska is a frigid region, whereas the mean annual temperature of Sitka is about the same as that of Washington, D.. C. Likewise it is learned that Alaska has numerous deep land locked, ice-free harbors; and the coast line is 26,000 miles long, while there are six thousand miles of navigable rivers in the country. Of course, portions of Alaska are extremely cold, but it is a region of great variety. The sixty-five thousand people of that country have certainly showed their patience, and now that the government has joined the boosters club there will doubtless be a great movement toward that rich region.

In the Hands of the Lawyers

Some of the best lawyers of the country are engaged in setting up the pins for the new anti-trust legislation. There have been numerous conferences of the leaders for the purpose of agreeing upon a program that have the solid support of the Democratic Party.. Of the twenty-three members of the two committees in the House and Senate that will direct this legislation all but Senator Smith of South Carolina, are lawyers.

"Putting on the Dog"

The social season is on in Washington at the White House, and the new Democrats, who have come to the Capital in consequence of the victory of their party, have been splendid customers of the merchant tailors and hatters, who have rigged them up in spike tails, top coats, and elevated hats. A good many of the newcomer betray their self-consciousness, and they are making a fine struggle to play the game according to the rules, and in a manner that may lead onlookers to believe that they might always been accustomed to this sort of thing.

They're Still Changing the Inaugural Date

Shortly after George Washington became President the suggestion arose that the inauguration should be changed from March to January, or to April or May, or some other date. Senator Shafroth, of Colorado, is the latest Don Quixote to attack the inaugural windmill, and he finds that political tangles and bad weather would be jointly eliminated by cutting out the extra short session of Congress and having the President come into office on the first day of the year.

Soaking the Stock Exchanges

Some of the Democratic leaders are in real earnest in their desire to put the screws on stock exchange methods.. A measure has been introduced in Congress by Senator Owen, which prevents the use of the mails, telegraph and telephone, in furtherance of fraudulent and harmful transactions on stock exchanges.

Child Labor to Be Barred From Commerce

After many years of effort to secure more rigid restrictions with reference to child labor, and in conformity to a public demand that children be saved from the great maw of the factories, Representative Palmer, of Pennsylvania, proposes to bar from interstate commerce the output of any plant employing children under fourteen years of age, or which works children under sixteen years of age more than eight hours a day. Representative Palmer is floor leader of the House, and holds a place of peculiar importance in the lower body of Congress.. He is a Member of that body because he prefers it to a place in the President's Cabinet, which was offered him at the beginning of the Wilson administration. At the time of the declination of the portfolio it became known that Mr. Palmer's heritage of the Quaker beliefs and customs had, in his own opinion, disqualified him for management of the instruments of warfare. So far as is known he is the original and only living Democrat to decline so great a place in the government. But the same kindly interest that caused him to turn aside from the natural path of advancement and ambition because of an inborn interest in humanity, is found in this child labor bill.. It is no doubt drastic legislation; and goes farther than the provisions of the Kenyon bill, which has attracted attention in the Senate. The measure goes before Congress with the unanimous endorsement of the Child Labor Committee of the House. Its friends find in it the merit of effectiveness; and with Palmer, one of the strongest men in Congress, taking the lead, it is reasonable to anticipate concrete results, in spite of the opposition that such a bill is sure to encounter.

Sprigs of Acacias

What those people in the Forest Service do not know is hardly worth looking into. There are a great many of us people who have traveled along river routes and across hot sand, who have an idea that only in Jerusalem could one find acacias, and our knowledge of the tree in those parts inclined to the belief that it thrived principally in sprigs. Shattered must be all of those fond and cherished beliefs, since Uncle Sam's men, who are posted, tell us that there are about 450 species of acacias, 200 of which are Australian species, and the rest scattered over the world, principally in Asia, Africa and America. In California it has been demonstrated that the acacia is well adapted to the reclamation of drifting sand dunes. Thi has been demonstrated on the California seacoast, clear down to the ocean beach, directly exposed to heavy gales and dense fogs. In Golden Gat Park, San Francisco, the acacia has been used in making a magnificent forest of a waste of drifting sand.. The principal use of the tree has been in tan bark, and all of the leading tan bark acacias come from Australia The acacia timber is beautifully grained from contract with the ground The larger trees grow more than 160 feet high, with a trunk clear of branches for fifty or sixty feet, and a diameter of from two to four feet. Those which are most used for commercial products, and particularly for tanning, do not need to attain large size or great age before the products are merchantable.

Will Not Annihilate the Democracy

Now "the daughter of Mark Hanna" has brought her foot down in that same emphatic way as did her illustrious father when subordinates did not walk the chalk line, Mrs. McCormick is the Chairman of the Congressional Committee of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, and she has made her position most emphatic by declaring as unauthorized the statement of the younger suffragettes, who because they were displeased with the action of one of the committees of Congress, threatened to bring the forces of Suffragists everywhere into play to help encompass the defeat of the Democrats. In the language of Mrs. McCormick this statement is "perfectly foolish." Mrs. McCormick says that the young ladies, who have brought forth this idea, have done so because "it is simply a desire to be spectacular." The suffragist lobby for it is nothing else, is said to have devised one of the most systematic campaigns ever set in motion to carry on a political program in Washington.

A LIST OF TESTED VARIETIES OF SMALL FRUITS FOR SOUTHWESTERN NEW YORK

While the same varieties of fruits will not always do equally well in all sections of the country, there are certain standard and tested varieties which may be depended upon to thrive over a considerable section of the country. The New York State School of Agriculture at Alfred, N.Y., recommends the following varieties of small fruits for home and commercial growing in Southwestern New York.

INVADE WHITE HOUSE FOR SUFFRAGE

Delegation of 350 Women, Representing the Working Classes from Factory, Mill and Office, Visit President.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Best upon drawing some declaration from President Wilson as to his attitude on the woman suffrage question, women workers from the ten States were in Washington to-night prepared for an interview at the White House to-morrow. With the arrival of the Baltimore contingent to-morrow, the combined delegation will include more than 350 women representing the working classes from factory, mill, shop and office..

Miss Marguerite Hinchey, a laundry worker of New York, and Miss Rose Winslow, a Pennsylvania weaver, were selected by the suffrage leaders to-night to address the President. Their appeals will be principally an argument for the creation of a House Committee on suffrage, though they also will endeavor to elicit some comment from the President as to his personal attitude on the suffrage issue.

Receptions for the visitors were given to-day and to-night at hotels, and the residents of local suffragists, Senator La Follette, Representative MacDonald, of Michigan, and Representative Keating of Colorado, cheered the hopes of the women with predictions of universal suffrage in the near future.

To-morrow morning the delegations will hold a mass meeting, after which at 12:15 o'clock they will "fall in" and march to the White House.

The States represented by delegation are Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, New York, Delaware, West Virginia, Maryland and Rhode Island.. The District of Columbia will also be represented.

Will those who intend buying lime or fertilizer through the Grange please hand the order to the purchasing committee at this time.

EASTERN STAR NOTICE

The regular meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star will be held Monday evening, February 9th, at 7:30. Installation.

SPECIALS

There is no end to specials. You can get anything you want in plain or fancy specials -special for an hour, week-end or mid-se son. Specials, like charity, cover a multitude of sins. Now, in my opinion, specials cut mighty little figure in the economics of a household. It is good, regular treatment that counts. I quote a few regular prices that have and will prevail at my place until market changes.
