Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

We have a great land, comrades, bought by blood, re-bought by blood and blood alone will keep our heritage for man's purpose which is also God's.

The symbols and principles of our nation hasten Brotherhood on the horizon of to-morrow.

The voice of the blood cries up: "Keep ye unstained our gifts, forged and sold by the measuring wand of a free man."

Our's is a magnificent fatherland of enormous physical resources, big, rich, plenty of room. Our's is a motherland kind to the poor and oppressed of all lands.

The immigrant is our constant praise-tribute. The immigrant is our opportunity.

In six words born of centuries of endurance are woven dream vision, battle, prayer, faith, courage. The words are: Of, for and by the People.

They mean freedom. On the skyline of the world they open stands a luminous Figure, who for freedom set us free. Are we his friends? Well, we ought to be. Calvary began what Yorktown and Appomatox and Manila and Vera Cruz and other battlefields, yet to be, where sword and word and pen shall have completed.

There are many evils rampant in social life to be conquered. They are foredoomed because they are evils. Fear not; fight!

There are subtler dangers to our growth. It is necessary to a democratic form of social relation that the land with its resources shall be under the control of the people. Unnatural conditions of life produce men and women with a crooked vision. The great spur to a high order of citizenship is to be owner of something. A congested city, miserably housed, with factories crushing individualism, with the machinery of government in the hands of a few, with the tools owned by a few, with no spur to advance is a menace to a high order of citizenship.

Too much stress on material development with no ambition beyond wages is a menace to fine citizenship. But participation in government, actual ownership in the land and the tools, individualism, right conditions of living, cultural growth made for good citizens. Prof. Rouschenbusch voices the conviction of sociological experts when he sees the stability of American institutions to be dependent upon the people owning the land and living on it. In other words if a man owns the house he lives in works the land in the shadow of his home he is bound to be interested in governmental and civic affairs. One family in four owns its home. One in four is vitally interested in what is attached to the social order. The others are interesed more or less. The one family is altogether interested.

Border on this one sciological principle. Test its truth in your neighborhood and as a first aid to citizenship stimulate that boy and girl to seek its own something. That is not enough. Foster the Christ's idea that it must be owned in relation to others. For this is a country of, for and by the people all.

Remember the army of men and women who to-day are battling for economic, industrial and moral freedom. Go to that church that seeks to be a builder-up of true community-life, that seeks to leaven the town with the idea of the necessary brotherhood of men. Attach yourself to those principles of economy that stand for co-operation and participation in the means and products of labor—and in the enjoyment of the profits of industry. And see to it that the town you live in be clean, safe, progressive and a cultural station of true manhood and womanhood.

And get to be a "modern" person by seeing in the Religion of Jesus Christ the dynamic of a social order in which all shall be free and brothers all.

It is not a sign of intelligence to ignore the greatest factor of human society.

It is a sign of illuminated intelligence to see in the religion of God's Fatherhood as man's brotherhood the means of a right social order.

And its good citizenship to lend a hand.

CHICKENS WITH HAIR

Belfast, May 18.—Mrs. Sarah Crosby out of a hatching of eggs got only three chickens and one is a curiosity. The chick, which is three days old, has hair just like an animal, but very much longer and not a sign of a feather.

On the B. & R. poultry farm there is another freak. This is a well developed bright little chick with duck's feet.

Deceased was 27 years of age and leaves a wife and little daughter. The body was taken to North Bingham, Pa., his former home for burial.

MEMORIAL SESSION

Andover Grange Enjoys Patriotic Program Wednesday Evening

A very enjoyable session of Andover Grange No. 1069 was held Wednesday evening of this week. The program was a patriotic memorial service, Edward Seaman Post G. A. R., and Ladies of the Relief Corps and local Sons of Veterans Camp were invited as guests of honor to the program which was held preceeding the regular session of the Grange.

The Lecturer, Mrs. Wm. W. Pingrey had arranged the following program which was well given:

Singing "America," and "The Red, White and Blue."

Instrumental Solo, "Patriotic Medley," Hope Strait

Paper "Poultry Keeping," Charles Neville.

Instrumental Music, "Baker Trio."

Prayer, Rev. W. H. Randall.

Song "O'er the Heroes' Graves," Ladies Quartette.

Address, F. M. Baker.

Chorus, "Memorial Day Memories."

Address, Rev. W. H. Randall.

The members of the Grand Army of the Republic were asked to give personal experience for anecdotes, from their army life. The following Comrades responded: Jesse Greene, Wm. B. Orvis, Jerome Remington and U. W. Stratton.

A piano solo was rendered by Eugene Eggert and the program closed with the singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic by the audience.

At the conclusion of the program ice cream, cake and bananas were served.

It was an intensely interesting occasion and the stories told by the Old Veterans were splendid and of a thrillingly interesting type.

MEMORIAL SERMON

Sunday evening the memorial sermon was preached by Rev. F. M. Baker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of this village, the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Edward Seaman Relief Corps, and Sons of Veterans attending in a body. The church was richly decorated with the national colors and potted and cut flowers in great profusion. The young ladies vested choir furnished the music.

Rev. Baker's sermon was up to his usual order, eloquent, powerful and patriotic. He paid high tribute to the Boys in Blue, their valor, bravery and loyalty. The service was of the best.

BIG FIRE AT HUME

The village of Hume met with disasterous loss Saturday night when nearly the entire business section of the town was burned. The fire started in a garage owned by Nathaniel Wells. Mr. Wells was drawing gasoline from a tank and held a lighted lamp in his hand. His escape from serious injury was remarkable. The entire building was soon in flames, and quickly spread to the one adjoining, until several were destroyed.

The total loss is placed at $75,000.

AGED RESIDENT DIES

John Swain, one of Andover's oldest residents, died of old age, Thursday night, aged 87 years at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. R. Parshall.

Funeral services will be held under the auspices of the local, Masonic Lodge, Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, his pastor, Rev. H. B. Williams, officiating. Prayer at the house at 1 o'clock.

—You can find potted plants, asters, pansies and geraniums at the Rice Music Store. 22
