CUT DOWN ON WHISKEY

But American Consumption of Beer and Cigarettes Increased

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Americans drank less whiskey during the last twelve months than they did the year before, but they consumed more beer and smoked a great many more cigarettes.

Reports to the internal revenue commissioner made public to-day showed that receipts for the fiscal year just closed totaled $364,069 less than for the previous year and most of this decline was due to the marked falling off in tax collected on distilled spirits. Estimates on the June receipts indicated the total decline for twelve months probably will be $4,250,000.

Receipts from tobacco taxes show an approximate increase over last year of $2,800,000. This gain is due almost entirely to a phenomenal increase in the cigarette trade.

The gain in receipts from fermented liquor, beer, ale and the like, was about $560,000.

WANTS MORE AIR IN VILLAGE LOCK-UP

State Commissioner of Prisons Asks for Slight Change in Local Bastile, as Recommended by Inspector.

The following report was approved by the State Commissioner of Prisons at its meeting, July 7th.

Inspected June 12, 1914. E. J. Atwood, President of the Village, Richard Hammond, Chief of Police.

This lockup consists of two steel cages in a back room of the town hall, also used as the hose house. The cells are 4 feet 6 inches by 6 feet 6 inches by 7 feet high. There is one bunk in each and some bedding. The cells have open work on all sides except the partition between them and have a steel floor. All other construction is wood. The room containing the cells is 10 x 16 feet. The outside door is double; a grated steel door and a wooden door. There is also a wooden door between the front room and the cell room. There is an outside window 2 feet 4 inches by 5 feet and a window in the rear of the cells but it has been closed up.

Night buckets are used in the cells. There is a closet in the cell room adjacent to the corridor in front of the cells. The village has water but no sewers; cesspools are used. The matter of building sewers is under agitation. There is a faucet and sink with water in the room. The heat and light is by natural gas.

The number of arrests since January last of the present year was eight. Last year the number was nine. A considerable number of Lodgers are housed in the corridor. Last winter from September to April there were 130; they are not arrested. There is a police offfcer on duty at night who gives the lockup supervision.

I recommend that the window in the rear of the cells be opened, and a heavy mesh screen be placed over the outside so as to prevent persons passing things in to prisoners. This would improve the light and ventilation. The cage containing the two cells should be moved forward 12 or 15 inches so that the ventilation from the window would reach both cells.

No woman has been arrested in this village within the memory of the present chief. If such an arrest was made she would not be put in the lockup. The county jail at Belmont is easily accessible.

Respectfully submitted.
George McLoughlin,
Chief Inspector.

W. C. T. U. PICNIC

Held at the Home of Mrs. R. Hardy Last Friday

The annual picnic of the Womans Christian Temperance Union is one of the pleasure numbers upon the years' program. For several years the picnic has been held with Mrs. Georgianna Hardy, at the fine farm home north of the village, the dinner eaten in the "Hardy Grove" overlooking the Andover ponds.

Last Friday the ladies found, upon their arrival, the grove decorated with large flags, tables arranged ready for the dinner and seats and rockers provided for their comfort and pleasure. After the bountiful dinner the guests were invited to the home where an interesting program, aranged by Mrs .Hardy, was listened to. This year an especial treat was given the ladies by the presence of out of town guests who assisted in the program; several musical selections by Harold Hardy, who is home from college for the vacation, upon the violin, with Mrs. Charles Mourhess of Washington ,D. C., accompanist, were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Helen Reiss ,who has recently graduated from a course of training in the Jewish Maternity Hospital in New York City, upon request of the company, told them of her work and the hospital training . Mrs. Reiss donned her uniform for the occasion and with the aid of several pictures of different departments in the hospital made clear the wonderful help to humanity made possible by efficient hospital training. The hostess presented each lady with a beautiful favor sent them by her daughter, Miss Sylvia Hardy of New York. The souvenirs were dainty jewel boxes in burned wood, securely fitted with tiny lock and key, decorated for the occasion with the emblematic while ribbon and filled with bonbons and afterdinner mints.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended Mrs .Hardy and her family for their hospitality and kindness by the members of the Union.

Compulsory Vaccination

State Authorities Notify Local Board Law Must be Complied With Before the Opening Day of School.

All school children must be vaccinated. The Board of Education, having received instructions from the State Department from time to time that our school children should be vaccinated and must be vaccinated before Sept. 1st, 1914. Principal Sterner wrote the Department, asking if we were obliged to comply strictly with the request. In response he was informed that the School Board had no choice in the matter that the law must be strictly enforced.

Following is a copy of the letter:

June 16, 1914.

Principal L .C. Sterner,
Andover, N .Y.,

Dear Sir:

Replying to your letter of June 12, I inform you that the public health law provides that all children in attendance upon the public schools shall be vaccinated and no child shall be admitted who does not furnish a certificate of vaccination. The law makes it the duty of the school authorities to enforce this provision of the public health law. Your Board of Education therefore has no discretion in the matter. It must enforce the law. Failure on the part of the Board to enforce this law would be sufficient ground for withholding the public money of the district and for removing the Board from office. I inclose herewith copy of circular in relation to the enforcement of this law.

Very truly yours,
Thomas E. Finegan.

Circular letter above referred to and extracts of the law approved by the President of the University of the State of New York so far as pertains to our school district reads as follows:

1. It is the duty of boards of education in cities and union free school districts to enforce this law in their respective cities and districts.

2. No child or person who has not been vaccinated should be received or admitted into any public school in this State. Boards of education and trustees are given no discretion whatever in this matter. The law is mandatory in its provisions. Penalties are provided for failure to enfore it and school authorities should therefore comply with its directions.

3. Boards of education and trustees of school districts may appoint competent physicians to vaccinate those children who do not furnish the school authorities with a certificate showing that they have been properly vaccinated.

5. In cities or school districts in which smallpox does not now exist or in which it has not existed during the current year, the vaccination of school children may be deferred until the summer vacation. Boards of education and trustees should give notice in such districts that during the vacation period all children who have not been vaccinated shall be vaccinated and that no child will be admitted to school upon its opening in September who does not provide a certificate showing that such child has been properly vaccinated.

6. The Education Law provides that for failure to enforce this law properly the public money of a district or city may be withheld. The law further provides that where funds of a district are withheld because of the wilful failure of school officers to enforce this law, such officers thereby personally become liable to the district for the amount of the moneys thus lost.

7. Under the compulsory education law a parent must either send his child to a public school or provide such child with private instruction which is the equivalent in all respects to the instruction given in the public school. It is the duty of a parent to see that his child meets the requirements of the law and all sanitary regulations controlling the schools, if such child is to be entitled to the privilege of attending school. If a child does not meet the requirements of the statutes and regulations controlling the schools, the parent of such child must provide private instruction as above stated for such child. If a parent does not provide such instruction, and fails or refuses to meet the requirements which entitle his child to attend school and such child is excluded from school, he should be proceeded against for a violation of the compulsory education law. This procedure is sustained by the Appellate Division, Third Department, in Shappee v. Curtis (142 App. Div. 155.)

The danger of being vaccinated and the danger of not being vaccinated. There is not the slightest risk in the process of vaccination when it is carried out with clean virus (now guaranteed by government inspection) and when the vaccination itself is kept clean. "Sore arms" come from dirt getting into the vaccination, not from the vaccine itself. During the last outbreak in New York City, 800,000 persons were vaccinated with no opposition and with no ill effects. More than three and a half million people have been vaccinated in the Philippine Islands without a loss of life or limb, or any serious dirt infection and the result has been a saving of 6000 lives a year.

Printed by order of the Board of Education.

CATHOLICS ARE OPPOSED TO BOOZE

Father Curran and Others Join in Call for a Conference to Eradicate Liquor Traffic.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 9.—Led by the Rev. John J. Curran, of this city, opponents of the saloon have called a conference of Catholics in the United States and Canada for August 4, at Niagara Falls, for the purpose of shaping a movement that will enlist the active service of Catholic men and women and their aid in passing laws to eradicate the liquor traffic in the several States.

The call sent out reads as follows:

"While the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America has had a fair measure of success Catholics have not a single organization opposed to the liquor traffic. We are even inclined to look upon the strong and nationwide organizations of that nature as essentially Protestant. Out of the 940 delegates to the last national prohibition convnetion only two were Catholics. Eight Catholics attended the Anti-Saloon League convention at Columbus, O. September 1913.

The life of the liquor traffic is in the balance and it behooves the many Catholics who sympathize with the opponents of the saloon to form organizations of their own or to affiliate their efforts with the existing organizations pledged to the overthrow of the liquor traffic, which is erecting its last and most farmidable ramparts where Catholics are most numerous. Already the many Catholics engaged in the nefarious business, which fosters what Pius X calls the terrible scourge, the deadly evil sowing so much shame among the faithful, constitute a mighty hindrance to the physical, intellectual and moral progress of the American people in general, and of our poor immigrants in particular. Non-Catholic leaders, through fear of having their motives misinterpreted, hesitate to speak of the festering sore on the Catholic body.

"Therefore, we the undersined, impelled by the urgent appeal of the third plenary council of Baltimore, to call Catholics engaged in the sale of alcoholic beverages to quit that dangerous traffic, invite all Catholics who favor the removal of the saloon—the great occasion of evil—to meet in conference August 4, 1914, in Assembly Hall (adjoining Cataract House and International Hotel), Niagara Falls, New York."

The call is signed by Father Curran and prominent Catholics in Scranton, Elmira, and other places.
