PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Hamilton B. Williams, Minister

Sunday August 23rd. The minister will bring to the people a sermon designed to show the place of the church in the social life.

The afternoon service for Sunday evening is being with ready.

a study of the Sunday School lessons. The attention of teachers and of the boys and girls is drawn to this new feature.

Let every person attend the Baptist church on next Sunday evening. Miss Grace Randall will read selections in keeping with the occasion. Miss Minnie Clair will have charge of a special musical program. Both ladies are of excellent talent and we anticipate an evening of uplift and inspiration.

Plans are being made to celebrate Labor Day, Sunday in an exceptional manner. Mr. Williams will make the address.

We all in spite of different looks and types physical are one in humanity. We differ in religious theories and forms, but under all the mind of the master uniformizes our practices. Let us emphasize the uniformities.

Nothing human is so identified with all that is divine as is the family. It is the visible sign of all the invisible sanctities of religion. Religion could be more easily produced from the family, if the church were lost, than it could be maintained by the church if the family were lost."

Graham Taylor

They stand or fall together; their interests are one. "Biologically the family is the primary cell of the social organism." What preserves it preserves the state. Religion is the quickening spirit.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. W. H. Randall, Pastor

Sunday morning service 10.30.
Sunday School at 11.45.
Y. P. S. C. E. at 6:30

It is desireous that we have a goodly number of our members out at this meeting indeed we want every member to be in his or her place We expect that Mrs. Mark Sanford, the county President will be with us and we wish to give him a hearty welcome.

The federated meeting will be held in this church at 7.30.

There will be a change in the order of service instead of the sermon by the pastor there will be a reading by Miss Grace Randall. This will be something that will leave a moral lesson connected with it and so will be a sermon in another form.

Miss Minnie Clair will have charge of the music and with the Mail Quartette will see that there is nothing lacking in the musical line.

There will be no charges made and every one is invited to come.

There will be a silver offering taken all of which will be used in christian work, and no part of it be used outside of church work. So come and you can give unto the Lord as you feel He would have you give.

The miuweek prayer meeting will be held on Thursday evening at 7.30.

Federated service at the Baptist church. Brother Randall assisted by his talented daughter and Miss Clair have something mighty for the people of the town. The church ought to be crowded and doubtless will be.

Afternoon service at Elm Valley as usual. Mr. Workman will be the speaker. Let there be a good attendance to recieve the message.

In the pastors absence the prayer meetings will be held as usual. Next week the meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Flora Deming. Let all the church members support Mrs. Deming in a strong meeting.

The boy scouts took an over night hike last Friday to Platts camp west of town, accompanyed by the scout master, and Ernest Stearns and Robert Stout. It goes without saying that not one of the crowd said much about sleeping, yet all had a great time. A camp fire story by Mr. Stout of his visit to a colony of the Dryakes, a savage people, kept near New York city was especially interesting to the boys, and the lesson that Mr. Stearns can give in camp cooking were extemely valuable. The boys wanted to stay down for another night but it was decided to postpone until a later date. The pastor appreciates very much the interest of the two gentlemen named in the Boy Scouts.

The easy want ad tasks are usually accomplished through ONE PUBLICATION of the ad. The hard want ad tasks may require REPEATED PUBLICATIONS of the ad—sometimes growing into the dignity of "want ad campaigns."

And, while purely "transient" classified advertising may not complete the task set for it, a "want ad campaign" does not fail, if sensible persistence is used. This means that such difficult want ad tasks as that of finding THE ONE BEST BUYER for your property, or the man who will be glad to invest in your enterprise, or the best possible tenant for that store or business property, are SURE TO BE ACCOMPLISHED if you enter upon suitable want ad campaigns.

KILAUEA'S GREAT LAKE OF FIRE

Visit to the World's Greatest Volcano—"Safety Valve" of the Pacific One of World's Greatest Wonders.

It cost me $50, a sea sickness relapse, and a roughwater trip of 200 miles to see what is called one of the greatest natural wonders of the world—the active crater of Kilauea.

This great well of lava and fire isn't so much a wonder in sight as in comprehension. When you look down into this great cauldron and see the fire and sulphur fumes coming direct from the earth's great internal furnace—well, it sort o' makes you feel as if when you got back to quake-shaken old Frisco, you woul feel as if you were on a Gibralter.

It's a rough trip from Honolulu to Hilo, about 200 miles. The channels between the islands are always rough and the small steamers that ply between them side roll and pitch until many a passenger, who had made the smooth trip across the Pacific on regular meals that stayed down, hung over the rail and fed the sharks.

I remember a fellow who was exchanging his dinner for aquatic scenery when a friend passed and asked:

"What's the matter, stomach weak?"

"Weak nothing; I am heaving it as far as any of the boys," was the repl.

But I started to tell you of different kind of eruptions, so will cut out the details of the trip.

From Hilo, where the steamer docks, you take an auto for about 20 miles to the world's wonder, up in the air about 4,000 feet, over comparatively good and safe roads.

It is a hard task to make you see this wonderful smokestack from the end of a pencil. One simply has to see it. You can't word-picture it with any justice, but here is a stagger at it:

Post cards seen in Honolulu picture the crater like a great saucer, filled almost to the brim with liquid fire, while the tourists sit around on the edge of the saucer and look at it. And the picture doesn't show that the spectators wear asbestos suits or had any protection.

But those postcards are libels and delusions. They are printed to get the ocean, automobile and hotel fares They are circulated to jerk the visitors oht of Oahu and have them spend some of their money on Hawaii. And I don't blame Hilo, for it needs the coin.

First there is a great dead crater, a great saucer once filled with molten lava, now eternal stone. There you can see the waves where it once boiled and froze in the boiling—a great basin of black stone. It is, I would judge from five to seven miles across this stone lake.

About in the center of this great lava plain is a well, a well of fire, a fire that has burned for ages, and which is the largest active crater in the world. It is called the safety valve of the Pacific, and the natives think that as long as fire and sulphur come up from Halemaumau (the House of everlasting Fire) there will never be any earthquakes on the islands—as it is the vent which prevents pressure.

I was at first disappointed when I looked down into the great well of fire, for the reason that like the most of the world's wonders, it is overadvertised, and one gets an entirely wrong picture in his mind. But when comprehension takes the place of curiousity, when you realize that you are looking down a chimney that connects with the eternal and internal fires of the earth, then you indeed realize that you are face to face with an awesome wonder—that the fierce energy of the great fires under the earth is there bubbling and boiling in playfulness.

The active pit, the well of fire, is I should judge, about a quarter of a mile across.

The advertising matter tells you that you can stand on the very brink and look down into the boiling lava.

Great clouds of sulphurous fumes come out of the pit, [illegible] You [illegible] spectator.

MRS. CATHERINE MORAN

The sad news came to Andover relatives Saturday of the death of Mrs. Catherine Moran at Bartlettsville, Okla., a former Andover woman and teacher in our public school.

Mrs. Moran leaves beside her husband, two daughters, a brother, James O'Leary of Andover, and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Dean of Andover and Miss Anna O'Leary of Dunkirk.

The funeral service was held Monday.

The News expects to publish a more extended notice of her life.

ANTI-VACCINATION LEAGUE ORGANIZED

Dr. Blighton of North Tonawanda Gives Vaccination a Severe Jolt at Harmony Hall Monday Evening.

Dr. Wm. Van R. Blighton of North Tonawanda, N. Y., spoke to a good sized audience at Harmony Hall Monday evening in the interest of th Anti-Vaccination League of Olean and formed a similar organization with [illegible] members in Andover.

In his address the doctor said that vaccination was not a preventative of small pox, but an absolute agency for its growth. He said that the person vaccinated was sixty per cent more liable to the disease. He gave figures and statistics in abundance to prove his every assertion. The doctor spoke in the most indignant and harsh terms of the medical profession that tried to force the school children to be poisoned before they could be admitted to the public schools. He advised all who had not already had their children vaccinated not to allow it done, but to send their children to school, and if they were sent home, send them back the next day. The school authorities would soon be tired out and allow them to remain unvaccinated in school. He made the assertion that the Supreme Court of the United States had decided that the person of an individual was his own and that no one had the right or privilege to force an operation upon him or her who objected.

Dr. Blighton told his hearers of how Dr. Fredericks, the Health Officer of Cleveland, Ohio, discovered that the more people vaccinated the greater were the number of cases of small pox in that city, and when they discontinued the practice of vaccination and substituted in its stead sanatation and fumagation the disease was quickly eradicated from Cleveland.

The doctor also allowed that no one ever knew an epidemic of small pox to start from an unvaccinated person. They always start from a vaccinated person. He then went on to describe in much detail person after person who had died from the effect of vaccination.

At the close of his remarks, or rather when the dance started upstairs and the people could no longer hear the doctor, an Anti-Vaccination League was organized with fifty men bers enrolled.

Following are the officers of the new organization:

President, C. M. Lash
Secretary, Dr. John Common
Treasurer, A. D. Fuller.

Politics in Old Allegany

Progressives Will Put up a Candidate for Member of Assembly With Both Brains and Morals.

Things political are beginning to take the attention of Allegany County people. Herbert M. Peet, editor of the Allegany County News of Whitesville has announced his candidacy for Member of Assembly on the Democratic ticket and has already begun his campaign. Mr. Peet is a good, clean young man, but he has no more chance of election than had Belva Lockwood for President a few years ago; yet he thinks he has, and as some one has to be the Democrat goat, it is nice of Herbert to offer himself a willing sacrifice.

In the Republican fold there seems to be a little family row abrewing. Assemblyman Ferry naturally wants to go back to Albany. He was a good boy and did as he was told and now claims the right to his reward. But naughty Georgie Elwell has made up his mind to contest his nomination. This makes the Reporter snort, as it was this same George Elwell who put the cleaner on the Reporter and the temperance people of Wellsville in the license campaign last fall.

The Progressive party has not yet announced its candidate for Member, but it will undoubtedly be Attorney Walter N. Renwick, of Cuba. They will, it is safe to predict, at least find a man that embodies in his character both brains and morals.

Following is what the Reporter says of the Republican situation on Member of Assembly.

A petition in the interest of George B. Elwell, of Wellsville, for candidate publican primaries, is being circulated for Member of Assembly in the Rep ed in Wellsville. It is understood that petitions for Mr. Elwell are being circulated in other towns and that he will make a contest in the primaries on Sept. 28th, for the assembly nomination on the Republican ticket. For this office he will oppose the present assemblyman, Elmer E. Ferry, of Almond. As less than 150 names of enrolled Republicans are required to get Mr. Elwell's name on the primary ballot, it will not be difficult to bring about that result. The enrolled Republican voters who sign Mr. Elwell's petition state in signing the document that "it is my intention to support at the ensuing primary the candidacy of the person herein designated by me."

A voter's "intention" may change before primary day, but it is only fair to presume that those who sign the various candidates' petitions now being circulated honorably intend to support those condidates at the polls.

The Reporter does not favor Mr. Elwell's candidacy for Member of Assembly. Mr. Elwell was frankly informed of this fact some time ago. With a very large majority of the Republicans of the county, this news paper believes that a second term is due to Elmer E. Ferry and that he should have the undivided support of the Republican voters of the county at the primaries and at the polls in November. Mr. Ferry's record is without blemish.

He comes largely from the fact that he introduced a bill to prohibit hunting on Sunday. This bill, which never became a law, voiced the undoubted sentiment of the majority of law abiding citizens in every community in the state. A census of the voters of Allegany county would certainly find a very large majority of Sabbath observing people, who object to being disturbed by boisterous Sunday sports or Sunday shooting. The farmers generally don't hanker after the visits of the average "man with a gun" who too often tramps ruthlessly over his growing crops and tears down the fences or leaves open the gates. Particularly they don't want to be disturbed on Sunday. In the interest of a quiet observance of the Sabbath Day, Mr. Ferry's bill had the support of the majority of the people of the county and the state. No member accomplishes wonders in his first term in the legislature. Mr. Ferry was of much use to many of his constituents and when the committee cut from the appropriations bills some of the sums for the Alfred State Schools. It was Mr. Ferry's work that succeed. ed in having those sums restored. The farmers of Allegany county appreciate the fact that they are represented by one of their number. The Grangers of the county were pleased that the Grange was recognized when Mr. Ferry was nominated. These men are all back of Mr. Ferry for renomination. It would be unjust at this time to refuse to Mr. Ferry the recognition always given to former assemblymen, the honor of a second term.

As for Mr. Elwell. His Republicanism has never been questioned and his loyalty to party has been unswerving. At this time, however, his candidacy is unfortunate. His successful leadership of the license campaign in Wellsville a year ago, brought Mr. Elwell conspicuously before the public, and his candidacy is being urged in Wellsville today by the men who were interested in the license question, while there is no secret of the fact that throughout the county the men who are back of Mr. Elwell's candidacy constitute the backbone of the liquor element. Back of Mr. Elwell, also, are those who believe in Sunday shooting and other Sunday liberties and those who can wake up an old grievance against Mr. Ferry, or the workers in the party that elected him.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Elwell should have come before the Republican voters under these circumstances. There is no howling demand for Mr. Elwell at this time and as a Republican he deserves better backing and a better reason for his candidacy. Mr. Elwell admits that it will be a sacrifice for him to take office at this time, but that he is being pushed into it by a popular cry from all parts of the county. Investigation shows that the popular cry comes from those elements already mentioned and from the usual quota of dissatisfied ones who are always out for anything to break the monotony of the political game.

The Reporter believes that the majority of the Republican voters of Allegany county will support Mr. Ferry at the primaries. If Mr. Elwell should succeed in getting the Republican nomination he cannot expect to receive at the polls in November the votes of those men who are opposed to the elevation to office of pronounced sympathizers and leaders of the liquor element.

Under the new primary law any citizen has a clear right to make a fight for a party nomination and this feature of the primary law is commendable. The voters of a party can pick their own candidate. At the same time, it is but fair that the voters should know the interests that are pushing into prominence the candidates.

Under the circumstances, it will be perfectly safe to leave to the decision of the enrolled Republican voters of Allegany county the responsibility of a choice between Mr. Ferry and Mr. Elwell.

POULTRY SHOW

The St Mary's Poultry Club Hold Exhibition Dec. 15-18.

The St. Mary's Poultry Club, Inc. will hold their Second Annual Show at St. Marys, Pa., December 15-18, 1914.

The St. Mary's Show last year was one of the largest exhibitions held in the Northwestern section of the State and the next show bids fair to far surpass the first attempt, both in attractiveness and in number of its entries.

The following are some of the inducements offered for breeders to show with them:

1 - A Gold leg band to every winning of firsts in singles where there is competition.
2 - $250.00 in Cash Prizes.
3 - $400.00 worth of Silver Cups.
4 - $300.00 worth of Merchandise prizes.
5 - An egg show—a unique feature without entry fees and offering liberal cash prizes.

The attractiveness of the foregoing is manifest when we view their entry fees which are 35 cents for singles and $1.00 for pens.

There's almost as much pleasure in giving away something you don't want as there is in giving something you do want.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Miss Grace Randall Will Give Reading Evening of September 7th.

Miss Grace Randall of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music will give a recital in the Auditorium, Monday evening, Sept. 7th. Miss Randall had such an appreciative audience at her last appearance that she decided to give to the people of Andover another opportunity to hear her before leaving on her lyceum tour through Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Miss Randall will have with her as vocalist Miss Jane Barden of Geneva, N. Y., a graduate of the Conservatory and a young lady of charming personality and rich vocal powers. Miss Minnie Clair will act as accompanist for Miss Barden and Cannon's orchestra will render several of its classy selections.

THINKS NEWS RIGHT ON PAVING QUESTION

Letter from Andover Citizen Who Believes in Making Improvements by Paving Center Street.

Editor Andover News:

Your article in a recent issue of the paper, setting forth reasons for paving Center Street from Main Street to the Erie Railroad property, should be very convincing to the people of the village.

The writer wishes to commend the position you take on this matter—the only position a "live" newspaper could take; that is printed to boost the town.

Fortunately the village is made up of "live" people, having an eye to physical improvement. We are on the map; we want to be in the red letter column.

Before many years the paving project would be put through anyway. With complete equipment on the ground and every facility on hand to pave the street it would be an injustice to the people of ten years hence not to anticipate a sure improvement.

You show that the expense would not be great, and the apportionment laid on the property holders looks fair. It benefits the town more than it does any property owner on the route. Appearance is worth money any how. People getting off the train "get a line" on a town by what they see first. A good paved street and people prepare to deal with up-to-date people up town.

People from outside have the idea (well-based too) that Andover is a fine, up-to-date town, inhabited by progressive people who are $-wise.

A paved street costs money, but no grass grows on a paved street, and the $s come rolling back along other streets.

Let's take a chance, any way.

COUNTY'S VETERANS TO GATHER IN CUBA

Annual Meeting of Allegany County G A. R. Association Sept. 9-10—Good Attendance is Expected.

(From the Cuba Patriot.)

On Wednesday and Thursday September 9 and 10, Cuba will be the rendezvous for Grand Army veterans of Allegany county. The twenty-third annual meeting of the Allegany County G. A. R. association will be held here then, and, though the ranks of the veterans are rapidly thinning, it is expected that the unusually pleasant program prepared by the members of the local post will attract one or more representatives from each G. A. R. organization in the county. There are 13 posts, and probably 25 or 30 veterans will be here.

Details of the program are not completed, but they are in the hands of the local post officials and will be devoted to the reports of the year and the election of officers. Wednesday evening, as is usual, there will be a campfire, to which the public will be invited. Addresses will be made by members of the Grand Army, and probably by some other invited speakers. Quite likely the meeting will be held in one of the churches or some other public place.

Thursday forenoon promises to be a time of unusual pleasure for the visitors. It is planned to take them on a trip around Cuba Lake pausing at one of the larger cottages there for rest and light refreshments. It is desired to carry the veterans on this tour in automobiles, and the Cuba veterans would like owners of cars who can do so to volunteer the services of a machine and a driver for the occasion. As many citizens of Cuba as can go along on the trip will be welcome. Those who can furnish autos are asked to make the fact known to Quartermaster E. H. Keller, at the insurance office of Orimston & Keller.

The Allegany county G. A. R. association is 23 years old and has had much to do with keeping alive the organization sentiment in this section of New York State. Last year the meeting was held at Bolivar. The various posts do not elect delegates to the meeting, but any member may attend and have a voice and vote in the proceedings. The present officers are as follows: President, George W. Baldwin of Cuba; first vice President, A. L. Litchard of Rushford; second vice-president, A. M. Boyd of Wellsville; secretary-treasurer, A. S. Thompson of Cuba; chaplain W. H. H. Parker of Stannards; officer of the day, Sanford N. Scott of Bolivar.

It is requested that other papers of Allegany county make mention of the approaching meeting, in order that all G. A. R. veterans may know of the plans which are under way for their entertainment and as many as possible may arrange to attend.
