Harper's Magazine.

The November number complete the thirty-ninth volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE. While no change is contemplated in the general character of the Magazine, the Conductors will not fail to avail themselves of any suggestions which may add to its present interest or permanent value. Special and increased attention will be given to the departments of Popular Science and Industrial Arts. Papers on these subjects will be profusely illustrated. It is proposed that the various Editorial Departments shall give a complete resume of the times. Each of these departments is placed in the charge of one member of the Editorial Corps, all, however, under the supervision of the Editor in Chief. The Easy Chair will comment upon topics relating to social life and manners. The Book Table will criticise the important books of the day. The Monthly Record will note all important political events. The Drawer will present the facetiæ and anecdotes of the times.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE contains from fifty to one hundred per cent. more matter than any other similar periodical issued in the English language. Thus the ample space at the disposal of the Conductors will enable them to treat fully all the topics embraced in their plan.

The publishers feel themselves warranted in asking and anticipating for the future a continuance of the favor which has been accorded to their enterprise in the past.

Harper's Weekly.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is an illustrated record of, and commentary upon the events of the times. It will treat of every topic, Political, Historical, Literary, and Scientific, which is of current interest. In November a new Story will be commenced by Wilkie Collins, the author of No Name, Armadale and Moonstone. Subscribers will be furnished with the WEEKLY from the commencement of the story to the close of 1870 for $4 00.

Harper's Bazar.

HARPER'S BAZAR is a journal for the Home. It is especially devoted to all subjects pertaining to Domestic and Social Life. It furnishes the latest Fashions in dress and ornament; describes in-door and out-door Amusements; contains Stories, Essays, and Poems—every thing, in brief, calculated to make an American Home attractive.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Order or Draft payable to the order of HARPER & BROTHERS is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the owner. The Post-Office Department recommends that, when neither of these can be procured, the money be sent in a Register ed Letter.

All Postmasters are obliged to register letters whenever requested to do so. Fee fifteen cents.

A Small Essay on Tobacco.

BY A SMALL BOY.

Tobacco grows like cabbages, but I never saw none of it boiled, although I have eaten cabages and vinegar on it and have heard men say that all the cigars that were given them on election day for nothing was cabbage leaves. Tobacco stores are mostly kept by wooden Injuns, who stands at the door and try to fool little boys by offering them a bunch of cigars, which is made out of wood also. Hogs do not like tobacco, neither do I, I tried to smoke a cigar once, and it made me feel like epsom salts. Tobacco was invented by a man named Walter Raleigh. When the people first saw him smoking, they thought he was a steamboat, and as they never saw a steamboat, they was frightened. My sister Nancy is a girl. I dont know whether she likes tobacco or not. There is a young man named Leroy who comes to see her. I guess she likes Leroy. He was standing on the steps one night, and he had a cigar in his mouth, and he said he didn't know as she would like it, and she said "Leroy the perfume is agreeable." But the next morning when my big brother Tom lighted his pipe Nancy said; "Get out of the house, you horrid creatures the smell of tobacco makes me sick." Snuff is Injun meal made out of tobacco. I took a little snuff once, and then I sneezed.

Doings of a Two Cent Dog.

Not long since a two cent dog sprang from an alley, followed by a two cent brick. Rounding the corner at right angles, he came in contact with the feet of a woman who was carrying a jug of molasses and a big bucket full of eggs. The sudden collision of the dog with her lower extremities threw her from her feet, and she sat down on the bucket of eggs, at the same time breaking the jug of molasses on the pavement.

A young man, carpet bag in hand, anxious to catch the train, was running close behind and stepping upon the fragments of the jug and contents, fell down on the chest of the Dutch woman, who said "Mine Cot."—The young man said something about mad dog, but in a moment said it backward.

In the meantime the dog had run against the feet of a team of horses attached to a wagon loaded with potatoes, and they taking fright started home. The end board being out, they unloaded the potatoes as they went. Crossing the railroad track, the wagon caught in a rail and tore it from its place. A freight train coming a few minutes later was thrown from the track, smashing up a dozen cars, and killing thirty or forty hogs. The horses on reaching home, ran through the barn-yard and over-turned a milk pail, the contents of which another two cent dog licked up. One of the horses having broken his leg was killed, and the other was crippled for life. It is now a mooted question whether the man who threw the brick at the two cent dog, or the man who owns it, is responsible for this chapter of accidents which followed.
