THEATRE NEWS

Friday and Saturday

For Friday and Saturday of this week the Andover Theatre offers its patrons a double feature program headed by the film, "The Return of the Cisco Kid" with Warner Baxter heading a large cast.

Baxter is seen as a Western Robin Hood who comes out of his retirement to defeat the plans of a band of viscious gunmen.

Second feature is the thrilling Oriental adventure drama "Hong Kong Nights" with Tom Keene in the starring role.

Sunday and Monday

A star-packed cast topped by Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, the heroic story of the building of America's first trans-continental railroad and some of the biggest epic scenes Cecil B. DeMille has ever filmed combine to make C. B.'s newest offering, "Union Pacific" one of the most impressive works of many a season.

"Union Pacific" heads the program billed for Sunday and Monday.

The two principals of the story, played to perfection by Miss Stanwyck and McCrea, are Mollie Monahan and Jeff Butler; she the lusty, joyous daughter of a "U.P." engineer and the mascot of the railroad-builders, he a handsome trouble-shooter sent out by Washington when trouble-makers threaten the construction of the road. Their whirlwind romance is in keeping with the mad pace of the times in which it took place.

At the "end of track" the brawling town that moves ever Westward, Jeff meets his biggest problem in Sid Campeau (Brian Donlevy), who has been hired to delay the building of the "U.P." by a Chicago financier who hopes to profit by selling the stock short. Campeau uses every means to carry out his plan; he operates a dance hall and gambling den at "end of track" to distract the workers, stirs up Indians to attack the railroad and even robs a pay-train at a crucial moment. His successive defeats at the hands of Jeff and his aides provides a thrilling struggle that lasts thruout the picture.

Short subjects round out the program.
