SHE ALWAYS GETS HER GERM

Whether it is hunting for the micro-organism suspected of causing a disease, counting the white cells in a sample of blood to spot the signs of infection or making any of several score tests on bodily fluids, the technician, shown here at work at Jones Memorial hospital, is a tower of strength to the doctor in determining what ails you and how to treat you. The hospital's laboratory occupies a tiny room and its work has vastly increased in recent years. The new hospital, for which a $500,000 building fund is being raised, will have ample space for the latest equipment and the faithful personnel on call day and night to help in saving lives.

HEALTH FOR ALL

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Allegany Health & Tuberculosis Association, 44 Schuyler St., Belmont, N. Y.

Heart Diseases

Heart diseases constitute the leading causes of death in the United States today—and have for the past two decades. All types of heart ailments are responsible for approximately 400,000 American deaths annually.

The heart is the toughest, most hard-working single organ of the body. But when it is attacked by infection and disease, or taxed beyond its limits, it may be permanently, though not necessarily fatally, injured.

Once it was thought that a diagnosis of heart disease meant swift and sudden death in the near future. But now we know that most persons with injured hearts need have little fear of sudden death or even of shortened life if they learn to "live with" their disease and accept certain limitations of activity.

There are various types of heart ailments, some of them characteristic of certain age groups. A small percentage of infants is born with what are known as congenital heart defects. But with modern surgery, these defects can be corrected in many cases, giving the babes a good chance of survival and useful life.

By far the most vicious enemy of the healthy heart is rheumatic fever, a serious infection which most frequently strikes children between the ages of five and ten years and which almost invariably leaves them with injured hearts. Rheumatic fever has a tendency to recur and it is vital that the child who suffers attacks be under the care and supervision of a doctor. Other "childhood diseases" which sometimes injure the heart include pneumonia, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and influenza.

Hypertensive heart disease, brought on by high blood pressure, attacks most frequently in middle age. Obviously the person who follows his doctor's advice—to "bring down" his high blood pressure and eliminate the extra burden high blood pressure puts on his heart—has a fair chance of warding off hypertensive heart disease and the heart failure it might cause.

Coronary heart disease, most common in persons over 50, is actually a disease of the arteries which supply blood to the heart. Many victims of coronary heart disease, who carefully follow the doctor's advice, can live comparatively long and useful lives.

The most common symptoms of heart trouble, in general, include irregular beating of the heart, shortness of breath after moderate or slight exertion, pain or constriction in the region of the chest, swelling of the feet and ankles, chronic fatigue, and severe and constant indigestion. The person suffering from any of these symptoms, for unexplained reasons, should see his doctor at once. If he has a heart ailment, the doctor is the proper person to diagnose the type of heart illness, prescribe the best treatment, and give the person advice which may enable him to live a longer life.

Swap You for It!

Ever think of swapping something you don't want for something you crave to own? Our grandfathers called it bartering, and it suited them very well in the days when money wasn't plentiful. If you want to make a swap, advertise it in the News classified columns that everybody reads. No matter what you've got, chances are there's somebody who wants it. The want ads are the place to do business in. The returns from your small investment may truly surprise you. The cost is only 30 cents for 15 words.
