When the U. S. Army takes the field it not only takes it but holds it. Of late it has been a French field.

* * *

Our aeroplanes were intended for the front. But they seem to be fighting their way to the scrap heap.

* * *

The "Six Safe Sons of the Kaiser" sounds like the title of a German fairytale. But it is no fairy tale either.

* * *

Mr. Hoover's trip to Paris is probably for the purpose of securing the latest fall modes in food conservation.

* * *

If one may judge by the newspaper reports the gentleman known as Yankee Doodle Dandy is now in France and is in great form.

* * *

English and Canadians in the United States, who have always enjoyed our climate, may begin this fall to feel the effects of the drafts.

* * *

If the young men of nineteen and twenty are included in the draft the colleges next year will be empty, but the school of experience in life will be full.

* * *

The International Harvester Company is about to dissolve. We had supposed that now everything international would be bound more closely than ever.

* * *

The man who has been considering his ear as an institution for pleasure now looks upon it with awe as an institution for the production of unexpected taxes.

* * *

When a conscientious objector receives a sentence of from fifteen to twenty years at hard labor he must wish that he had either objected less or been less conscientious.

* * *

We are in the habit of thinking of the President of the United States as the greatest American, but just now we are not sure that he is any more important than the soldier or the farmer.

* * *

Politics is not the only thing that should be adjourned for the duration of the war. We might mention selfishness, extravagance, greed and profiteering. What can you think of to add to the list?

* * *

When pay day comes go out and revel in Thrift Stamps instead of shows. There is no war tax on Thrift Stamps, and the after effects even a debauch in them are perfectly harmless.

* * *

The full sugar bowl has been dismissed from restaurant and hotel tables to the land of Past Things. Probably it has come across the family butter plate there and is visiting happily with it.

* * *

When our boys come home they will be well up in the geography of France. If they are asked to name four French rivers it will not take them long to enumerate the Marne, the Aisne, the Ourcq and the Vesle.

AN ORGAN-GRINDER'S MONKEY

Do not look for the following advertisement in the store windows of Main Street. It was displayed lately in a larger town than this, tho the mental stature that dictated it can hardly rank among the giants.

"You cannot all serve in the army" it ran. "But you can all look military. Our suits and overcoats are all cut close to the military pattern, and inspire in the wearer a feeling of patriotic devotion."

Put more briefly the advertisement might run: "If you can't be a hero, be an organ-grinder's monkey."

The charge that flag-waving is often made a substitute for patriotism is not always made unjustly. Our parades, our salutes to the Flag, the act of standing during the national anthem, the applause in theatres when patriotic sentiments are uttered — all these are valuable exercises, but they involve no sacrifice. We enjoy them. They are part of the entertainment for which we pay the box-office cashier, and like most of the diversions that gratify a healthy mind, they tend to edification.

But don't kid yourself that you are Paul Revere's grandson when you give your emotions a joy-ride.

THE VOICE OF THE RISING SUN

The chorus of praise drawn from our Allies by the gallantry of American troops in France sounds almost like the concerted finale at an opera. Among the paeans of appreciation we hear a full-throated tribute from a volunteer whose notes are a little different from the rest. It is the voice of our old friend, the Mikado.

He has a style of his own, has Yoshi. Many of the most eminent in European strategy and statecraft have handed it to us on a plate. We get it in a ladle from the Euphuist of the Isles.

The tributes of statesmen and generals French, English and Italian have often been triumphs of literary grace. But for polished verbiage give us the Mikado, or some other cultivated Nipponese. At throwing verbal confetti they are the fair-haired boys.

Even more engaging is the note of sincerity that we observe in the royal measure. The foreign policy of Japan has often seemed something of a problem, and the attitude of the Island Empire toward the Allies has not always been easy to define, but in his latest utterances the Mikado has unreservedly committed himself.

It is well that the military weight of America is being rightly estimated in Tokio. The praise of Japanese war-lords is the praise of experts. It is better to have them with us than against us, and their exact striking power is always an unknown quantity. How Japan stands on submarines, on aeroplanes, on tanks, on machine guns, is a baffling riddle and we can depend on her to keep the riddle unread.

It is not long since Nippon was regarded as America's greatest danger, and the time that we have taken in raising and equipping an army proves that we were anything but secure. Japan now realizes the value of our friendship when she sees that our fighting strength is more than a mere potentiality.

If the proof of it—in national preparedness—has been shown to Germany two years ago, we would probably have never been obliged to go to war at all.

POSTAL ZONES

You have heard of the postal zoning system. It is a scheme by which the distance of a town from New York increases the expense of transporting magazines and newspapers to it from the metropolis. It is a part, and perhaps a necessary part of the revenue program.

The farther a town is situated from New York the less effectually is it served with periodicals on which it has depended to keep it in touch with vital developments in our national life. Communities like ours are the bone and sinew of the body politic, and we depend on metropolitan distributing centers for the links which bind us to similar communities and to the great republic of which we are all a part.

This journal will do its share in plugging the gap. We undertake this duty in no spirit of presumption, but in humble appreciation of the privilege which the responsibility confers, with a firm resolve to avoid any change in our fundamental character. It is our aim at all times to maintain the best qualities of a country newspaper, reflecting in every printed line the sterling spirit and individual quality of the district which it is our privilege to serve.

Our connection with metropolitan services enables us to keep our readers posted on the latest developments in state and national policies, as well as in our relationships with those other peoples to whom the links of federation bind us ever more tightly in our struggle to make world-democracy an abiding fact.

CANADIAN HOSPITALITY ATTACKED

The old adage of taking about all you hear with the proverbial "grain of salt" is true in the case of the story that has been gaining ground that Canada is not hospitable to American visitors. Perhaps this is some more of the German propaganda, floated about to stir up feeling between the two big countries of North America. Anyway, it's entirely without foundation. There has never been a time when Americans were not graciously received in every part of the Dominion and given every courtesy possible. All that Canada is asking is "Are you a genuine American?" Satisfied on that point her gates are wide open and the country is yours. If she stops to question those who knock at her doors she is doing no more than we are. These are times when every one must prove his loyalty to the land and fraudulent Americans or Canadains must be detained. If you're all right don't worry — Canada welcomes you more than ever.

FIVE MILLION FREIGHT CARS

An American soldier's food, clothing and war supplies for one year would fill a freight car.

A million and a quarter men are already in Europe. A million and a quarter freight-cars to haul their necessities to Atlantic ports.

There will soon be two millions. Perhaps five. Five million cars. How many million more to fill contracts with our Allies?

Would any patriot add needlessly to the burden of the Government in administering the railroads? Would he order from mail-order houses anything that he could get at home?

There is very little bought by mail that cannot be bought right here in Andover. While helping the nation you can help to boost our home town.

If you keep a thing long enough it comes to its use at last. In the armorers' workshop of the Metropolitan Musium of New York, the ancient hammers and anvils of medieval times are being used to beat out helmets and breast plates for the American army overseas. Among the ancient tools are several hundred different types of hammers, curious shears and instruments the very names and uses of which are now unknown.

Editorial Correspondence

Quantico, Va.

As you will note have been transferred to Quantico, Va., together with forty-five from our company, arriving here after a tiresome ride of two days and a night in a day coach. Do not know the exact number of men who came up. The train consisted of twenty coaches besides the baggage cars. Did not see as much of the country as I would have enjoyed en-route, as I was selected as one of the guards over the train, so at each stop was "out of luck" as far as seeing anything outside was concerned.

The camp here is much pleasanter than at Paris Island, and we have more liberties. We have a nice large bunk house and mess hall. The entire bunch of us have been assigned to a Machine Gun Battalion. Now that is not as bad as it sounds. We do not use the style of machine gun that most companies do, but a larger type, built on a standard and used about the same as the field artillery. They can be operated much faster than an artillery gun. One gun of this character can bring to bear as much fire on a target as a whole company of infantry. So you can readily see that a battery of these guns makes a bad proposition for the huns to attack. The use of the gun is principally to protect the infantry in the trenches. The gun shots from 400 to 520 bullets a minute and is used as a barrage fire in attacks and for direct fire in the offensive.

We haven't worked very hard for the last few days, the heat has been so intense that many of the men were overcome by it. If they would leave the water alone while drilling, out in the sun, they would be better off, but many of them will not do that, and as a result topple over.

We get drill and bayonet practice from 7:30 until 11:30 and machine gun work from 1:30 to 5:30, with an occasional twelve-mile hike thrown in. From 5:30 until 10 p. m. we have off and can go to the Y. M. C. A., down town, or any place we may wish inside the reservation. There is a picture show each night.

The daily papers look very good for the Allies. I think the German lines are as near Paris as they ever will be. The Washington Post of yesterday stated that the Germans had picked 500,000 of their best men and sent them back to fortify the Rhine. If that is true the German government must be a bit uneasy. Well, I would be willing to gamble on what we will do to them within a few months. At present, however, I must stop "licking the huns" on paper and trot out to the clothes-line and bring in my washing.

We are now under orders Washington, so do not "where we go from here." My best to every one.

W. F. O'CONNELL, P. M.

—Allegany County Poultry Association meets in Cuba, Aug. [illegible]

—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sawyer, of Canaards, have a son, "Glen" born August 6th.

—A county picnic for all agricultural interests is scheduled for August 22nd, at Wellsville Park.

—Miss Margaret Clarke and Ward Austin, both of Friendship, were united in marriage last week.

—Walter Gee moved his household goods to Tidioute, Pa., this week where he has been working the past few weeks.

—S. W. Hinman, of Hornell, was reported as missing in the casualty list, last Saturday. It is thought he is a prisoner.

—Rev. W. M. Simpson, of Verona, N. Y., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the S. D. Baptist Church at Alfred Station.

—The new town hall at Black Creek was struck by lightning last week and set on fire, but the flames were smothered without any damage.

—If every one does their bit there will be many a soldier made more comfortable by the money raised next Wednesday for their benefit. Do your part.

—The union picnic of the Seventh-day Baptist Bible Schools was held in Rose Grove, at Alfred Station, Wednesday. There was a good attendance from Andover.

—Born at the Batavia Hospital, on Aug. 6, 1918, to Roy L. and Olive Belcher Cornish, of No. 23 Walnut St., a daughter, weighing seven and one-half pounds; name, Louise Kathryn.

—Andover's biggest day next Wednesday. Let's get together and "go over the top" for the Red Cross. Remember every cent to be used for the comfort of our boys at the front. Don't be a slacker.

—Mrs. Laura Downs died at her home near Canisteo, last week. Mrs. Downs was born in Scio, but resided on the farm where her death occurred for more than forty years. She leaves her husband and two daughters.

—The large barns on the Harrison Ermer farm, near Belmont, were struck by lightning and burned last week. There was about fifty tons of hay, farming tools and harness destroyed. Mr. Ermer places his loss at $2,000, over the insurance.

—Olive oil will soon be among the impossibilities for use in culinary purposes.

—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hatch, of Belfast, July 27th, a girl, Agnes Almira.

—Miss Helen Owen, of Rochester, is the new assistant food conservation in Allegany County.

—Miss Jane Fox, of Bradford, Pa., and Enock L. Arnold, of Bolivar, were united in marriage Monday morning.

—Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mason, of Angelica, have a little son, Wallace Edward, who arrived at their home, Aug. 1st.

—Grover Fowler, living near Belvidere, is dead at the age of 56 years. Deceased had been in failing health some months.

—The Clarke reunion was held last Wednesday at the Pamsh House, in Independence. Several from Andover were in attendance.

—Martin A. Green died at his home in Bolivar township, August 3rd, from an attack of heart trouble. Deceased was 68 years of age. Burial was made at Obi.

—Old newspapers will be higher in price and scarcer in numbers in the near future. If you want a supply on hand get them now. Old papers at 10c package at this office.

—Moses Ogden, of Angelica, has a collection of natural curios, with which Allegany County people are familiar. The collection has been taken to Akron, Ohio, to be placed in a museum.

—Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Regan are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a bran new "operator" at their home, last Monday. "Uncle Tim" says the little man favors both his father and mother.

—Miss Hope L. Church, of Wellsville, and Maxwell Brown, of Lawrence, Mich., were united in marriage Aug. 7th. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for their home in Michigan that evening, making the journey by automobile.

—Mr. and Mrs. Will Lee, of Wellsville, received a message Monday night, telling that their adopted son, Charles Struken, had been wounded in France on July 18th. He belongs to the 9th Infantry, enlisting two years ago.

—The Southwesterly New York Firemen's Association, in convention at Cuba recently, elected for president, Roy Blessing, Allegany; recording secretary, James Carr, Bolivar; treasurer, E. C. Green, Allegany. The next convention will be held at Bolivar.

—Mrs. Elwin Owens, of Rathbone, was thrown from a hay rake and dragged several rods before the spirited team she was driving could be stopped. Her injuries are feared to be fatal. Mrs. Owen is 35 years of age and has three little daughters.

—In a copy of the Caisson, published at Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., we note a halftone of the Ordnance Training Headquarters. Standing in front, with the other officers, is our own Capt. Elmer Kemp, looking fit and ready for business. The hot southern climate has failed to try all the flesh from his bones if the photo speaks correctly. He is the adjutant of the camp.

—This is what classified advertisers will call an interesting issue of this newspaper.

—Andover's Banking hours are now 8 to 5 o'clock, and Saturday evenings, 7 to 8.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Watson, of Cuba, have a son as a recent addition to their family.

—Regular meeting of Rebekah Lodge next Wednesday night, August 21st. Meeting called at 7:30.

—The Geneva Perserving Company has just finished packing 100,000 cases of peas, the largest packed since 1913.

—W. C. Greene has moved his family from Railroad Valley to Battle Creek, Mich., where he will work in the Sanitarium.

—Mark Martin of Jersey Hill, lost a barn, team of horses and quantity of hay by fire last week. Lightning struck the building.

—Lightning struck the steeple of the Catholic Church at Bolivar during a recent storm, and shattered it. The damage is estimated at $3,000.

—The address of Private Lawrence Terrbury, at present, is, 310th Infantry, Co. B., 78 Division, 1st Battalion, American Expeditionary Forces via. New York City.

—Troop trains have been steaming thru nearly every day the past week. The boys all express themselves anxious to get overseas and have a hand in doing up "Fritz."

—Howard Mangin, of Cuba, a member of the U. S. Marines, was killed in action in France in June. His mother, Mrs. Mary Sanford, of Cuba, has just received a letter from a comrade telling the facts.

—Rev. Ira S. Goff, of Alfred Station started Wednesday morning with his family for Iowa, where Mrs. Goff and children expect to remain while Mr. Goff is overseas where he has enlisted for Y. M. C. A. work.

—Relatives of Lee Sherwood have been notified that he was wounded in one of the recent battles in France. Mr. Sherwood was an Angelica man but enlisted from Wellsville, where he was working, some months ago.

—A call has been issued for the registration on August 24th, of all youth who have reached the age of 21 since the second registration on June 5th. This is for the purpose to add to Class One, for the draft calls in September.

—Mrs. Mollie Easley, of Hartshorn, Okla., has been named the "honor mother" of that state. Mrs. Easley has ten sons now serving in the army. She also has two brothers and two nephews in service. Surely there will be "stars in her crown."

—Bulletins and pamphlets on agricultural subjects of various kinds can be obtained from the Farm Bureau office, at Belmont. Attention of the women is especially called to a new bulletin just published on Sugar Substitutes. Other bulletins of this nature can also be secured.

—Nick Cretekos, who at one time was the proprietor of the Andover "Sugar Bowl," in writing to his brother George, says he has already been in two battles and for home people not to worry about him. He says it is fun to see the huns run, and the work isn't anything compared to making ice cream.

—Mrs. Bert Auwerter and daughters came to Andover from Buffalo Saturday. They have rented rooms in the Baker Bros. tenant house on Greenwood Street and will remain in Andover for the present. The Auwerters were residents of our town for some months at a former time, and a large circle of friends welcome their return.

—Simon Kahl, Jr., aged 24 years, a fireman on the Erie railroad, fell from a load of hay at the home of his father, Simon Kahl, Sr., at Jasper, August 13th, breaking his neck. Mr. Kahl had gone to the farm of his aged father to assist in getting in the hay and was driving a load to the team without the driver. In the barn when his father noticed his absence and found the son on the ground dead. It is believed he fainted from the effects of the heat and fell from the load with fatal results. He leaves a wife and one child.

POTATOES AND TOMATOES ON SAME VINES

From Lancaster, Pa., comes the following fresh story:

Farm experts are trying to solve the riddle of nature which has appeared on the farm of John Musser, near Spring Mills.

Musser planted potatoes, but today his stalks in a large field are bearing potatoes beneath the ground and tomatoes over the top.

More than half of the stalks are producing doubly and the fruit is in good condition.

PEOPLE SHAMEFULLY —NEGLECT THEIR EYES

About the last thing the average person decides to attend to is the examination of his or her eyes. They seem to think there is something clever about being able to exist without glasses, even when they know that they need them. YOU do differently! If you only THINK that your eyes are not as they should be, let us find out for you.
