LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS—MEN IN SERVICE

An Interesting Letter From Lyell C. Cummmings Telling What He Saw and Found While on Vacation.

Sept. 7, 1918.

Dear Brother and Sister:

Your letter was handed to me in camp and Chambery, where I got my vacation or permission. I received a letter from home. I am in Class B-1, but had not been called to date of letter. The boys are a patriotic bunch, aren't they. I have liked to have seen that film that they put on. I do not know whether the picture of Messer Marvis in Leslies or not. It was just what would be more typical of my sketches. I am sending you a postcard photo that I had taken, on my vacation. "I will send you views of the Savoie leave where I was, later. To say that my vacation would only be fair it mildly. It was the most exciting, beautiful and enjoyable of all I have had in years. Events succeeded each other with rapidity while there, that I could not believe that I had spent my moment of time when it came to leave. I hope Porter will get a permission to leave on a plane. He may have a choice of aeroplane or aeria. There are many places of interest around to spend the seven days allowed, so much interest, but from reports coming in the Savoie leave like the "bonanza pleasure strike." Our camp on Saturday afternoon, 7th, and were three days reaching destination. Twenty-five members of the 23rd Engineers Band took up together in order that we might be back in working order with depleted ranks. The trip to the Savoie itself is one that is rich indeed to one who is a lover of nature's beauty. The first stage of the way made through table-land, the land being practically thickly settled with small villages and provincial cities, that have according to the appearances of structures, had a change in the place for centuries. The land slowly into low rolling hills, finally as we reached nearer the Savoie, it increased astonishingly to rugged mountain districts. We went through dozens of tunnels under mountains, through narrow vallays, in which rocky piles towered men-like to a dizzy height over our heads, from a few feet from each side of the track. Sometimes we would come to points where we could see miles around. The scenery left nothing to be desired, and really kept us on the qui vive every moment all thru the trip going and coming. And right here I want to tell the world that the mountains, in themselves, are some pretty interesting. Yea, even so much so, we would go through them (as if we owed 'em money for Goldfield stuff you know.) We would suddenly find that the speed train had taken a spasm and took wave variety and would do twenty kilometers (a kilo is 5/8 of a mile) we stopped seven. Sunday afternoon, after playing with a few switch engines, we went into the big station at Lyons. Lyons needs a boost, for it is a town. A huge city of modern, good street car system and a manufacturing town, it has some to blow about. We left Lyons next morning after a good night's rest and arrived in Aix-les-Bains Monday, but were shunted on to a place about two miles from Aix. These two places constitute the rest camp for the American soldiers (not) at the Savoie leave aeria. Lac-de-Bourget (a lake seven miles long by three wide) is as ideal as well as beautiful of the rest camps. This is in the heart of the Alpine mountains, which go thru Italy and Switzerland. We were checked in by the Provost Marshal of the district, given rooms at the Princess hotel and turned loose. The Princess hotel was first built two years ago. Lately remodeled and modernized, it has all the charm and beauty of architecture that marble and fixtures can give in the 20th degree of service that American places are deplorably lacking. They have a huge Y. M. C. A. establishment in both Aix and Lyons. And here, immediately, I must say, that the warm hospitality and cordial reception tendered us was such as to surpass anything that I have seen, while the tireless efforts and endless programs for our pleasure, for that matter any of the boys happen to go there, merits beyond all method of expression.

CHANGE OF FIRM

I wish to announce that I have sold my jeweler business to Mr. C. H. Watson, of St. Petersburg, Florida, who has had fifteen years experience and comes very highly recommended as a watchmaker and engraver. ODD FELLOWS ARE PATRIOTIC

Decided to Organize Past Grands Association. Recommended Every Member in County to Purchase Liberty Loan Bond.

At a committee meeting, held at Whitesville, Saturday afternoon, it was unanimously decided to proceed with the organization of a Past Grands Association. The organization meeting will be held in Wellsville, Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 1 o'clock.

The Whitesville meeting was held as a hearing before the committee appointed at the last session of the I. O. O. F. District Grand Committee of Allegany County to take into advisement the matter of organizing a Past Grands Association in the southern or southwestern part of the state.

There was a good representation present from the thirteen lodges in the county and the committee has decided to proceed with the organization.

The first business of the meeting, however, was the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolutions

WHEREAS, a committee meeting, composed of Past Grands, working under authority of appointment by the District Grand Committee, I. O. O. F., of Allegany County, would not be truly representative of the sentiment of the members of this great fraternity, unless we made the first order of our gathering the expression of our patriotism and unswerving loyalty to our beloved country and

WHEREAS, Humanity and brotherly love are among the very first principles of our order, and our country to-day is championing these principles before the whole world. Therefore be it

RESOLVED; that we pledge our full and undivided support to our country in this her hour of need, when she is giving of her men and means without stint to enforce these principles, and truth right and justice,

RESOLVED: That Allegany County Odd Fellows show their loyalty by deeds as well as words, and that we as a representative of them, recommend that every Odd Fellow in the county be urged to purchase of the Government its bonds, till it can be truly said that Allegany County I. O. O. F. is fully 100% patriotic each owning at least one Liberty Bonds, thus showing that we stand, not only solidly back of our Government, but back of the more than 100 members of the order now in the service of that country.

RESOLVED: That it be the recommendation of this meeting that Allegany County Odd Fellow. Lodges adopt the motto: "Every Odd Fellow a Liberty Bond Owner."

RESOLVED: That this committee further extend to District Deputy B. M. Wilson our thanks for the generous hospitality extended to us to-day.

Your Want Ad will "talk up" your property to the people who ought to know about it.

The President's Message to You On the Fourth Liberty Loan

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

Again the Government comes to the people of the country with the request that they lend their money, and lend it upon a more liberal scale than ever before in order that the great war for the rights of America and the liberation of the world may be prosecuted with ever increasing vigor to a victorious conclusion. And it makes the appeal with the greatest confidence because it knows that every day it is becoming clearer and clearer to thinking men throughout the nation that the winning of the war is an essential investment. The money that is held back now will be of little use or value if the war is not won and the selfish masters of Germany are permitted to dictate what America may and may not do. Men in America, besides, have from the first until now dedicated both their lives and their fortunes to the vindication and maintenance of the great principles and objects for which our Government was set up. They will not fail now to show the world for what their wealth was intended.

Woodrow Wilson

PLACED FIRST AMONG WORLD'S LEADERS

Where the World's Best Minds Place President Wilson in the Galaxy of World Statesmen, After Reading His Address

London, Monday.—Commenting on President Wilson's recent speech the Manchester Guardian says:

"Ever since America entered the war it has been plain, and he has made it plainer, that we have found in her not only reinforcement of power, but even more precious reinforcement of statesmanship.

"More important even than her help in winning the war is a rule and steady aim for reaping the fruits. For this service we have to thank, above all other living men, the President of the United States. Thus it is that, in all the allied countries, above all in our own, the people have come to see in him their natural leader—a man who represents their best thought and true purpose.

"In admitting and acclaiming this, no reflection is implied on the statesmen of any other country. President Wilson has never posed as a heaven sent instructor. He claims no vast superiority of insight or knowledge but comes forward as giving voice and coherence to the feeling and desire of plain men."

Madrid, Sunday (Reuter's)—All the newspapers here publish the address of President Wilson in New York in full. In commenting on the speech, the Liberal says:

"The address is the noblest thing that has been thought or said since the beginning of the war. It is the epitome of the general spirit of humanity and of those aspirations which dwell in the depth of every conscience and every thought that is free from covetous egotism.

"Perhaps President Wilson's programme may be too idealistic. We may, perhaps, think it not possible to sacrifice all material interests to the moral progress of the world, but we might forget that his doctrine, so noble and so human, will be guaranteed in return by the mighty power of the United States."

"President Wilson's speech was made after he had replied to the Austrian note and also after Germany had proclaimed the immutability of the Brest-Litovsk treaty," says the Epoch. "In such circumstances, the President's address will make a profound impression on all by its sublime disinterestedness, renouncing as it does, all desire for territorial and economic domination. If Germany does not accept the peace thus sketched, she will not be able to pretend that the world does not desire peace, but must admit that the world is only determined not to have a German peace."

RUSSELL C. WHITE

Russell C. White was born at Howard, Steuben Co., March 22nd 1836 and died at his home in this village, September 28, 1918. The greater part of his life was passed in Steuben County, having been a resident of Allegany County for only twenty years. January 1st, 1857 he was united in marriage with Miss Phylancy Mason, of Fremont, whose death occurred August 23rd, 1911.

Nearly one year ago Mr. White submitted to an operation for the removal of a growth from his lip and had been confined to his room since. During these months he has been tenderly cared for by his daughter, Miss Mary White. Two months ago his youngest daughter, Miss Carrie White, a professional nurse, came from Washington, D. C. to assist her sister in the care of her father.

Mr. White was a man of a genial optimistic nature, and in the few years of residence in Andover had formed a large circle of friends who have missed his smiling face and friendly greeting from our streets. He was a loyal and devoted member of the Methodist Church and of the Pomona Grange of this village.

He is survived by eight children, namely Mrs. L. D. Harrington of Buffalo, Amos White of Freemont, Dexter White of Bath, Dr. Edwin White of Spokane, Wash, George White of Cincinatus Merritt White of Scio, Miss Carrie White of Washington, D. C., and Miss Mary White of Andover, who with several grand children are left to revere his memory.

Funeral services were conducted at the home on Dyke Street, Tuesday morning by his pastor, Rev. Charles Collins, of the M. E. Church, and interment made in the family plot in Valley Brook Cemetery.

MISS LENA WHITCOMB

Miss Lena Whitcomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jarius Whitcomb of Greenwood Hill, died Friday, Sept. 27th, after an illness of eight months duration.

RED CROSS

The response to the appeal for the "linen shower" was generous indeed. The rain Monday afternoon prevented the Boy Scouts from making the rounds, but they were on the job Tuesday afternoon and evening; bath towels, 79, hand towels 66, handkerchiefs 174, napkins 10; these were not asked for here, but will be acceptable. Also with the shipment are two quilts made by Mrs. Myrtle Kemp, and 100 each of comfort bags, housewives and mutton bags.

Mrs. Sara Cannon is appointed director in place of Mrs. Ella Bassett.

SPEED UP AMERICA!

Story of the World War Given News Readers Weekly by E. G. Pipp, Especially Prepared for the News by an Eye Witness

(Copyrighted 1918)

I stood in a hospital in France.

In one ward there was a row of cots and on each cot a man, each with a leg gone or badly injured.

In another ward there was another row of cots and on each cot a man, each with an arm gone or badly injured.

How cruel a war that makes it necessary to classify men according to the nature of their physical injury!

When I saw the signs of suffering on each face, when I observed the spirit that bore up under agony without complaint, how I hated the war that would subject those wonderful men to all that—and for no sin of their own, but for the sin of those rulers who coveted their heritage and who, for greed, were and are willing to send millions of men, to their death and millions more to a life of suffering.

I was in Picardy.

It was on a Sunday morning.

The country folk were wending their way to church — then home again.

I went from one little village to another, a few miles apart.

There were old men there, children there, women there—but grown boys or young men, or middle aged men—none.

The women were in mourning—it was a procession of crepe.

I went again in the afternoon.

I saw the women again.

They were beside graves in the little cemeteries, made larger by the war.

How much of this does America want?

There is only one way to get less.

To drag out the war means to wear out the young manhood, the splendid young manhood that is overseas or to follow.

The one way to get less is for all the people at home to join in the war as the men at the front are at war; to give them so much help and to pile their munitions so high that the one nation which wants war and brought the world into war shall be crushed to submission by the very preponderance of power of a resourceful nation fighting at its best.

I stood in a trench in Belgium, then in another and in another.

Without flinching the fighters face the enemy.

Death hovers near, but they take no time off.

Day and night, with watchful eye and steady hand and brave heart, they watch and work and fight that liberty's light may be kept burning; that the emblem of
