September 1

Last night I received your letter that was written August 13th, but I was unable to read it as it was 9 o'clock and no lights. With the aid of a cigarette I could make out the handwriting.

We moved from our place in the woods and are located in a small village or rather what was once a village. The building we are sleeping in is in quite good condition, walls are alright and the roof does not leak so we are in very comfortable quarters. The buildings here were used for a dressing station for the American soldiers and we find all kinds of clothing and equipment lying around, evidently belonged to the soldiers who were taken to hospitals.

It rained nearly all day Sunday, but nevertheless I enjoyed it more than any Sunday since I have been here. In the afternoon the theatrical troupe put on a show in a mess hall that was built by the Germans. They had a Jazz Orchestra and there were seven acts of vaudeville, and it was as good as you would see in some of the cities. Some of the men were professional actors mostly from New York. One man was a grand opera singer who belongs to the Boston Opera Company. They all had regular costumes; one fellow especially was good. He was dressed as a girl and he was clever alright, for you certainly would believe it was a girl if you were not somewhere in France where there are no women. The officers and men were all very much pleased with the show. It took your mind away from the war for a while or should say until you heard the report of shell bursting.

September 22nd.

It has been over a week since I have written a letter, but we have been on the move so much I did not have time to do any writing. A week ago to-night at 7 p. m. we left by truck and arrived at our destination about 10 p. m. It was a bright moonlight night and also warm so it was a nice trip. Well, we made our beds by the road side and about one in the morning it started to rain. We had not pitched our tents so had to dress and move our bunks into a large car where we slept the rest of the night. Not much sleep however, for the car was damp and not the best place to enjoy a night's rest. We were up at seven o'clock the next morning and had oat meal, bacon, bread and coffee for breakfast. It had stopped raining, but we had nothing to do all day. That night at 10:30 we resumed our journey and traveled all night and until 2 o'clock the next afternoon. O yes, it rained that night, too. We stopped in some city bought a fresh loaf of French bread and a little butter, so that was what our breakfast and dinner consisted of. I had a headache all day which was caused from lack of sleep and probably smoking. We spent the night in a small village where we slept in a barn, a good place too, for it had bunks with straw mattresses.

The next morning I got up feeling good. It was my birthday and so I did not do much work, just celebrated a little. You can imagine what a good time one could have with these conditions, but it was not so bad. Some of the fellows and I went to a show in a small place about one-half a kilometer away. The next day another fellow and I were detailed on a truck to take some of the Division Headquarter men and their equipment to another place about 18 miles distant. The next morning we moved on and arrived in a large forest on top of a hill. John and I pitched our tents and slept great that night. The following day we heard we were going to move so took the tents down. It rained most of the time and it was surely an awful lonesome Sunday. That night we slept on top of boxes and luggage; funny, but we kept on our hats, raincoats and shoes, using our overcoats for blankets. It is certainly a lonesome place, but we may not stay here long. Am writing this on my dog tent so please excuse the scribbling.

October 2nd.

We are located in woods, two miles away from the place that I spoke of in any last letter. There was a white frost this morning, the first I have seen. Am writing this by a little fire which we built outside of our tent and it surely feels good.

Yesterday afternoon I helped issue replacement clothing and artacs. We each have a pair of four-buckle artics and so with our boots we are well prepared for rain and cold.

Have been over here five months to-day and have been on several battle fronts since June 1st. We expected to go to a rest camp, but it is nearly time for the rainy season and they want to do all the fighting they can while the weather permits. They are certainly advancing on the entire battle front.

There are a lot of American planes on this sector flying over all day long. Last Sunday afternoon I counted about fifty planes in the air at one time.

Dear Backus:

Well two months have passed since I came in the U. S. Army. It certainly is a great change from life in old Andover.

This is a very nice camp for only quartermaster men. It is clean and well managed. The men are a good class of all professions and trades. We have a large band and I tell you it is a good one.

All men drill and are able to put up a good fight. They run in age from 18 to 56 years. I was just talking with a newspaper man from Ohio. He is 54 and a fine man. Those up to this date are all enlisted men.

I am to go into the clothing end in Washington. Have been sick with the influenza, am just getting out again. Our camp only lost six who died, but in the city from 75 to 100 die every day. I tell you it is bad.

I can handle a gun like a boy, but I will not get a chance at those huns.

Give my regards to Joe.
Write when you can.

SCHOENECK

The recent announcement of Lieutenant Governor Schoeneck, now the formal candidate of the Republican party of this state for re-election, to the effect that, if he should be re-elected, he will take the oath of office and immediately resign, should not be permitted to distract atetution from his unfitness to be chosen for this office or any other, in which moral discernment and courage are required.

Mr. Schoeneck stands before the people of New York as the occupant of the second highest office in the state, with the power of succession to a vacancy in the governorship. Occupying this exalted station, and being also a practitioner of the bar, a sworn officer of the court, he employed his official and political influence to tamper with the processes of a Federal grand jury to induce that body to recall an indictment it had found against a dangerous alien enemy. He participated in, if he did not cause to be instituted, an irregular and illegal conference of certain members of the jury, certain witnesses for prosecution and the accused disloyalist, with the deliberate purpose of confusing and cajoling the jury as to its sworn duty to bring an indictment on the evidence before it.

By these surreptitious and lawless means, he succeeded in getting the indictment rescinded. Bu exposure of his mechinations swiftly followed, the Federal authorities compelled the summoning of a new jury, and the indictment of the disloyalist followed by the jury's unanimous vote. The accused was soon after tried, and sentenced to a prison and a fine.

The American people have paid a high cost for hteir indolent indifference to the disloyal propaganda and conspiracies of American citizens of German birth, who had taken their oaths of naturalization with the secretly avowed aim of betraying the United States when Germany called on them to do so. This country has suffered even more from the pres-ence of men of both political parties in high office, who were ready to bargain the nation's welfare and safety for the votes of these scheming and treacherous knaves. It would seem that it had learned its lesson written in the blood of men who have gone forth to save America from these scoundrels and their master in Berlin.

If this be true, so far as the voters of New York State are concerned, Schoeneck, who used his office to safeguard treason as an accomplice of thieves uses his home as a "fence" for stolen goods, will be ignominiously beaten. His opponent, the Democratic candidate, is Harry C. Walker, the present Mayor of the City of Binghamton, a citizen who is affirmatively and zealously loyal, is honest and honorable in the performance of civic and official duty, and whose election not only would be creditable for its own sake, but would purge the state of the shame and humiliation it now endures.—Rochester Herald.

THE HAY SITUATION

The prices for hay are declining as rapidly as they rose last week. There is no activity on the market and large quantities are received in all parts of Greater New York.

No. 1. Timothy hay (containing no clover) brought from $41 t $42. No. 2. (containing one-eighth clover) ranged from $38 to $39. No. 3, (containing one-third clover) brought from $36 to $37. Fancy light clover mixed hay (containing one-fourth clover) sold for $36 to $39. Shipping hay, which is not as good as No. 3, sold from $32 to $33 per ton. No. 1. Rye straw sold from $22 to $24.

These are prices which the commissionmen in New York City received for hay. The following charges must be deducted: Commission, $1.50 a ton; freight varies from 17c per hundred pounds per carload lots from Albany; 22½c from Elmira, Binghamton, Syracuse, Rochester, Norwich, Walton Penn Yan, and 27c from Jamestown and Watertown. Add 3% to above freight for war tax. Add 40c a ton for handling charges at terminals or $2 to $3 per car on track. This is a charge made on freight bill by railroad. There is also the possibility of storage or demurrage charges.

Fruits and Vegetables

Potatoes: Market steadily declining for the past two weeks, because the receipts are to heavy for the demand. First shipments of the second crop of southern (Virginia) potatoes arrived on the market New York State (rounds) brought $2.05 to $2.17 per hundred. Maines sold for $2.50 to $2.60 per hundred. Maine sotck not up to standard. Michigans and Wisconsins sold for $2.16 to $2.35 per hundred. Long Islands still ruled high at $2.92 to $3.20 per hundred. New Jersey Giants (long) moved at $2.35 to $2.50 per hundred. New York State potatoes were low because of green stock.

Apples: Soft red table apples are in greater demand than the supply. The hard winter apples are not meeting a ready market a high prices. Buyers are looking for extra large green apples, which are scarce. The following prices are quoted on standard barrels of 3 bushels for Grade A. truit (2½ inches.)

Snows, $5 to $8.50
Mackintosh, $6 to $10
Wealthy, $5 to $7.50
Wolf River, $5 to $8
Alexander, $4 to $7.50
Kings, $4 to $6
Spy, $3.50 to $6.50
Pippin (20 oz.) $4.50 to $6.00
Ben Davis, $3.50 to $4.50
York, $4.25 to $4.75
Baldwin, $4 to $5
Greenings, $4.25 to $6.25

Ungraded and unclassified moved at from $1 to $2 less than above prices. On account of the high prices of barrels and the scarcity of labor, bulk apples are bringing a fair price. They are selling at $2.50 to $3.50 per barrel. The buyers bring their barrels to the cars and have them filled at these prices.

THE WHIMSICAL TRUCE

Between one and two mil French soldiers have been k during the war, and over hundred thousand of the ba And as evacuation proceed the edge of Flanders the mans enter the houses of vil and destroy the intricate mach ism of the lace-making mach which yield them a livelihood.

The Potsdam maniac is del with both the foregoing item his account. The former looks more portentous, but there special significance in the la As a contribution to war act lace ranks at zero. The villa who made it will probably employed in munition shops present, and, if anything, allied cause will gain a thereby. But only a little. nomically, the whole incide unimportant.

And therein lies its real portance. Destruction is by time an instinct with the Pru command, to be practiced when no military advantage crues. It is done mechanical almost unconsciously. These on cruelties cause grief to owners of the machines, ha detriment to the allied cause.

The sheer clumsiness of acts of malice enables us to a little further into the enemy character, but only a little ther than we have already Now that talk of a peace co ence is in the air it is forti that we are familar with intimate peculiarities that acterize those who seek recon tion with us. We are less to accept promises without guarantees.

THE SPIRIT OF THE LIBERTY LOAN

Washington, D. C., October 12.—Secretary McAdoo does everything. One day he worked "our street" in Washington, and as the result it at a door-to-door canvass sold $1,800,000 worth of Liberty Bonds. When he got thru the secretary commented: "It was great. I wish I had time to get out and see everybody."

The fine spirit of the war workers in Washington is of interest in connection with the Liberty Loan. Thousands of young women from all parts of the country, who will challenge the right of any restaurant profiteer to overcharge them a jitney piece on their food, and who will fight like their Concord and Lexington ancestors against attempts of room-renters to hold them up, are planking down their last dollar, and mortgaging their future incomes, in the purchase of Liberty Bonds. Perhaps this spirit does not differ much from that which exists in every community, but the whole young womanhood of the Nation is represented by people forming the community of war workers at the National Capital. And in the words of Mr. McAdoo, there isn't a girl among them who is not out to give the kaiser "another push." They are matching the big business men, who as voluntary war workers in the capital, are splendid in meeting their responsibilities toward the Government.

Necessities To Be Met

There is a fine spirit everywhere among the Liberty Loan enthusiastes. But six billion dollars is a tremendous sum — it's more than an enthusiasm! The purchasers of bonds in the Third Loan are again coming across the line all over the country, but the cool calculators, materialistic experts in Washington say that these patriotic people must buy more heavily of the Fourth Loan than of the Third. Unless an enormous army of new subscribers is obtained, who did not buy bonds in the previous drives, then it will be necessary for former subscribers to buy approximately 50 per cent more bonds than they did in the Third Loan to send the Fourth Loan over the top. There is very little reason to expect that new subscribers will take the added $2,000,000,000. Mr. McAdoo directs attention to the fact that only 22,500 persons bought more than $10,000 worth of bonds in the Third campaign. The problem, therefore, resolves itself into the stern fact that—notwithstanding all the enthusiasm—that the small purchasers have got to bear the brunt, and not one of them can lag in this campaign. There has got to be buying everywhere, "till it helps"—for in this hour when rapid-fire guns are cracking at the front the civilian population can't show less patriotism with dollars on which they can draw interest, than can the soldiers at the front with their lives, which are staked in the noblest cause for which human beings ever fought.

Prolems of Reconstruction

Senator Weeks of Massachusett introduced the original "reconstruction" bill in the Senate. It was immediately taken up by a Republican caucus and endorsed. It provides for a joint committee of the two branches of Congress consisting of six members from each body, one-half of whom are to be Democrats and the other one-half of the committee to be Republican. Senator Overman, of North Carolina, has followed with a resolution similar to the Weeks measure, except that it provides that the President shall name the members of a reconstruction commission, and that it shall be independent of Congress. The Overman bill is generally regarded as the "Administration measure." Other bills have been introduced by Senator Owen of Oklahoma, and another by Meyer London, Socialist; and still another by Representative Madden of Chicago. The weeks resolution enumerates specifically the different subjects to be investigated and reported on. It specifies a number of problems affecting labor, capital and credit, public utilities, conditions resulting from the mobilization of our industrial and military war resources, problems affecting our foreign trade, the continuance of existing industries, and the establishment of new industries; problems relating to agriculture; problems affecting the adequate production and effective distribution of coal, gasoline and other fuels, problems relating to shipping, (including shipping yards), and especially in regard to the safe continuance of ownership or leasing of both yards and ships, housing conditions, and condition of house construction by the Government during the war, where legislation is now on the statute books with reference to its repeal, extension or amendment. In addition to these topics, which are subdivided into many subjects, the resolution further provides that the committee of Congress shall have power to inquire into making recommendations with reference to all matters necessarily arising during the change from the activities of war to the pursuits of peace."

In the Senate speeches it has been pointed out that every nation, now engaged in the war, has been and is now getting ready for peace conditions. It seems that nearly three years ago conferences were held by the Allies at which certain general principles were adopted in regard to trade conditions after the war, the relationship of one power to another, the relationship of the Allied nations to friendly countries, and neutral nations to the enemy governments. In the enemy countries the same sort of plan has been made to deal with conditions after the war. "We must, without delay, take such steps as may be necessary to provide for the innumerable new problems we must face the day peace is made," declared Senator Weeks. "Because we do not need in the summer is no reason for not filling our bins for the coming winter," he added.

A Modified Policy

It has been evident ever since the war began that the United States is undoubtedly going to modify its past policy in regard to large "combinations." Great Britain is working along similar lines; and these matters from very large problems that must be intelligently dealt with in the processes of reconstruction. Along these lines the Government is operating the transportation lines of the United States as well as the wire lines. The law provides that they shall be turned back to their owners soon after the termination of the war. It is well understood in Washington that a readjustment of the relations existing between the Government and the railways will be attempted when they are turned back into private ownership, incidental to this phase of reconstruction it is interesting to note the remarks of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, made during his Labor Day speech at Indianapolis in which he predicted that the telephone and telegraph would probably be a permanent part of the postal service. He makes this prediction in the teeth of the legislation of Congress which expressly provides that all of these concerns shall be restored to their owners twenty-one months after the close of the war.

The "socialistic mind" is busy in politics, and its designs upon private property rights is one of the great menaces that must be fought and effectively suppressed.

SPANISH INFLUENZA RAGES IN U.S.

Thousands of Cases Reported With Many Deaths.

THOSE WHO ARE MOST SUSCEPTIBLE TO IT

"FRUIT-A-TIVES"—The Wonderful Fruit Medicine—Greatly Helps To Resist This Disease.

The epidemic of Spanish Influenza which played such havoc in Europe, has reached this continent. Thousands of cases of the strange malady have appeared and many deaths are already reported; Surgeon-General Blue of the United States Public Health Service having stated that "Spanish Influenza will probably spread all over the country in six weeks".

Practically every ship which touches our shores from abroad, brings those infected with the disease.

Surgeon-General Blue urges that "the individual take all the precautions he can against contracting the disease by care and personal hygiene". Plenty of exercise should be taken; the diet should be regulated, etc.

Spanish Influenza affects most severely elderly persons and others whose powers of resistance are weakened by illness, work or worry, especially those who are "run-down" or "not feeling up to the mark."

The really great danger from the disease is not so much in the disease itself, as that it often develops into pneumonia.

What everyone needs now is a general tonic like "Fruit-a-tives". This wonderful fruit medicine is not a germ-killer. It is a body-builder; a strength-maker; a blood-purifier; a power in protecting against the ravages of disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" regulates the kidneys and bowels, causing these organs to eliminate waste regularly and naturally as nature intended. "Fruit-a-tives" keeps the skin active, and purifies and invigorates the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" tones up and strengthens the organs of digestion, insuring food being properly digested and assimilated.

Everyone can take ordinary precautions, avoid crowded places, and use "Fruit-a-tives" regularly to insure sound digestion, to keep the bowels and kidneys regular and the whole system in the best possible condition. Then we are safe from disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c or sent postpaid on receipt of price by FRUIT-A-TIVES Limited, OGDENSBURG, N. Y.

Civil War Bungling

Turning to Woodrow Wilson's History of the American People, it is interesting to note the strong disapproval in dealing with the facts that the civil war ended without any apparent preparations for reconstruction. When the Confederacy surrendered Washington had no plans to meet the new conditions. President Johnson was evidently bent upon a program of generous treatment of the Southern people, but was met by a Congress evidently determined to crack the lash over the naked backs of the vanquished. It took years to solve problems that should have been dispassionately discussed and determined before the surrender of the Confederacy. The people of the world have learned new lessons since 1865, and on this basis Congress proposes to solve the questions ahead of it while the war is still going on.

And in the meeting of these problems the interests are bound to be so conflicting, and the ideas so various, that the public is likely to wonder whether there is not a new war on hand. The fantastic dream of public ownership of all sorts of devices, running down the line to include many forms of manufacturing and agriculture, are already being suggested, and a good many ambitious politicians are going to enlist along those lines in the hope that they may ride on a new band wagon.

Your Labor Counts—every ounce of work you do helps some soldier who is fighting over there! This war is being fought as truly in the household and in the work-shop as it is in the trenches. Some of our American women are borne down physically and mentally by the weakness of their sex. They suffer from backache, dragging sensation, bearing-down pains, very nervous, and pain in top of head. If they ask their neighbors they will be told to take a Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce's which has been so well and favorably known for the past half century. Weak women should try it now. Don't wait today is the day to begin. This temperance tonic and nervine will bring vim, vigor and vitality. Send Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for free trial pkg. tablets.

"I send pictures of myself and two grandchildren, both living examples of what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can cause. I have been taking the 'Prescription' when I felt coming on these sick spells and it cuts all the disease right away. Baby is a strong healthy baby. I had a miscarriage and fell a few weeks before and know I owe much to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I never felt so well. To those who have woman's trouble and those who have previously had colds, hard suffering I say, for your own sake and for the welfare of your child, take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." — Mrs. Jos. Schulman, 51 Thompson St.
