Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

1886 years ago to-day a certain citizen of Nazareth was put to death by crucifixion. The event has become the most widely known in all human history, has special significance to many millions of people.

The extraordinary personality of the Nazarene is, of course, the secret of his surviving the 19 centuries.

His life is the primary fact which is to be emphasized that was of unparalleled excellence, so complete that His friends honored Him with the title Son of God. They were right.

His crystalization of certain ideas about God and man makes the second reason why He is today called Master. He believed God to be fatherly in relation to human beings. He believed in man's immortality. He profoundly reverenced human personality.

His law of service even now but vaguely understood and mechanically followed shows His marvellous knowledge of the social idea. He called the condition a kingdom; we term it community. It is a condition of Righteousness, Justice and Brotherhood.

The man single-handed set out preaching the gospel of the kingdom. It was not long until the religious party began to attempt the traditional stifling of prophets. Bringing Rome into the combination the last act was on a hill called Calvary.

And the kingdom-dream of the passionate carpenter was ended—so it seemed.

Three years prior John had introduced Jesus as the long-expected Messiah. The first follower, Andrew, called Jesus the Messiah, in telling Peter about Him. They spoke prophetically greater than they knew.

He had in mind the tradition of the Jews that there would come a redeemer of the nation. 19 centuries after we read a different meaning. He is the world's Savior. No other has so changed the human thought as has this Man. No personality is so potent to-day.

He is saying the world.

What part He has to do with the fate of ourselves after death we, of course, do not know.

But countless millions have gone on the great adventure in faith in Him.

What we can recite as the saving work of Jesus are certain very remarkable revolutions in human thought.

And any one who can change a human heart from the status of selfism to that of a neighbor can save a thousand worlds.

He is saving in every generation millions from the doom of self-centeredness, clannishness, from the stupidity of unbrotherliness.

He is saving millions from the blindness of thinking nothing of the people outside one's narrow circle.

He is saving millions from the thick darkness of conceiving life as equated in terms of barns and produce. In the minds of this generation "people" are almost as important as money. There are some who believe that human beings are immortal souls.

He is saving millions from the doom of the mole. We are becoming conscious of God. Some can see the flaming bushes, hear the stars' shouting, perceive in human beings a divine look.

Jesus is saying the world by lifting human hearts to such an eminence that service is seen to be the true sign of human greatness.

That exalted idea comes only from being lifted up.

The world will be saved when we are satiated with the one great thought of Jesus that God is a Father, that men are brothers and that Love is the law of life.

Listen to Him:

"But whosoever would become great among you shall be your minister; and whosoever would be first among you shall be your servant."

"By this shall men know that you are my disciples when you love one another."

Tid Bits from Our School

C. A. Robinson has given permission to the Cadet Corps to use part of his land for a rifle range. It was intended to have the range on E. P. Rogers' farm, northwest of the village, but as Mr. Robinson has become interested in the rifle range he gave the cadets the use of his land. As soon as the weather permits the pits for the targets will be dug.

George Robinson, of Alfred, spoke in place of Ralph Smith at the High School, Thursday. Mr. Smith was called to Belmont unexpectedly so Mr. Robinson talked to the students about the different projects. As a result of his speech 41 students signed for the projects. The number of signers and the projects are as follows:

Potato contest, 11.
Home-making project, 8.
Garden project, 20.
Calf club, 2.

Eight members of the Cadet Corps took examinations for non-commissioned officers last Tuesday night. The following took the corporals exams: Allen Harvey, Lloyd Davis, Leo DeRemer, Daniel Flynn and Everett Clair. The candidates for sergeant were: Roland Stevens, Carrol Tucker and Denzel Baker. From this we take it that the Cadet Corps is composed mainly of non-coms.

Two students of A. H. S. have purchased their long trousers recently.

The base ball season has not looked very favorable so far although things may brighten up later.

William Burger, one of Andover's former base ball players, has returned to his duties in the High School. He was one of the most reliable and efficient men of last year's team, and it is hoped that he can be persuaded to become a member of the team which will be organized this year.

The Cadet's last game was played last Friday night with the Whitesville Town Team. The score was 29-8 in Andover's favor. The money received from the Cadets' Basket Ball games has been used to buy twenty rifles, pieces.

The members of the Junior Class have received their rings.

THE WEARY WAY

Daily Becoming Less Wearisome to Many in Andover

With a back that aches all day,
With rest disturbed at night,
Annoying urinary disorders,
'Tis a weary way, indeed.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney trouble.

Are endorsed by Andover citizens.

Mrs. W. C. Gleason, W. Center St., Andover, says: "When I have an attack of kidney trouble my back pains me so badly at night I can't rest well. I have a tired, languid feeling and just want to sleep all the time. I am subject to headaches and dizziness too. I use Doan's Kidney Pills right away at these times, procuring them from the Brundage Drug Co., and they always give me relief."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills — the same that Mrs. Gleason had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

POWER

So-CO-ny Motor Gasoline gives truck or car power not only for usual needs but for emergencies. And the power you get today you can get tomorrow or next week—for So-CO-ny is every day the same. Adjust the carburetor for So-CO-ny, and forget that part of the machine. Combustion never varies, power never slackens.

Why take chances with unknown, doubtful mixtures? Keep to So-CO-ny and keep power at par. Buy it where you see the Red, White and Blue So-CO-ny Sign.

OUR NATIONAL CAPITAL

IN SUNNY FLORIDA

A Special Travel Story, in Three Parts, by Our Regular Correspondent, J. E. Jones

Part I

Panama City, Florida, Apr 3.

In the Congressional Library at Washington I read in the reports of the army engineers that St. Andrews Bay, in Florida, was a "perfectly sheltered harbor," and a delightful and healthy location," to which I found added in another document accumulative testimony supplied by the Alien Property Custodian —who in the course of exterminating germs that fattened on German interests on the Bay — took occasion to observe that "it was the finest natural harbor on the Gulf of Mexico."

The acknowledgments of nature's contributions to the universe are apt to be subjects for suggestive criticisms or amendment, or conservatively suppressed in most official reports, but in this instance it appeared to be a full 100-per cent fulfillment of what President Wilson defined on an important occasion as that kind of approval that is given "ungrudgingly."

And so, like Ponce de Leon, who looked for the "fountain of youth on Florida's shores in 1512, I decided on a similar pilgrimage in 1919. Sedate palms and tall pines, a warm sun and a salubrious climate have added to the glories of the undertaking. Glistening diamonds upon the surface of the Gulf waters dance before the vision as I write these lines—and in some way I have grown to feel that Florida and climate have not been written in vain in the traveler's book of synonyms. One writer calls the state "the Venice of the South," only to be outdone by a more generous scientist in words, who declares that "Florida is the Italy of the South." My own observation is that "climate" and "weather" are on the most intimate terms of affection, and notwithstanding our international relations I can find no reason for injecting foreign-born descriptions to tell of the glories that cluster beneath the beauty of the rich green foliage and while-flowered magnolia trees, or the palmate, fan-shaped leaves that form in the triumphs of nature and perfect the splendid varieties found in the palm and palmetto. Then, too, there is the live oak, noblest of trees, sometimes called the "monarch of the woods." Its green leaves remain on the trees throughout the year, and festoons of moss hang in a mantle of drapery adding their completeness to semi-tropic splendor. The ti-ti shrub grows wild, and its fragrant white blossoms waft sweet odors that blend with those of the Cherokee rose, and with an almost endless variety of other flowers and plant life. The pure white sand beaches and the warm Gulf waters stand as a constant invitation to those inclining to plunge beneath the salt waves. Nature never grew more generous moods or distributed itself more evenly than is shown on the Gulf coast of Florida.

The mountains of New England, the seaside at Newport, Atlantic City and Virginia Beach, all have their alluring qualities, but for evenness of temperature, and a health-giving purity of atmosphere, that is unexcelled for men and suffragettes, Florida is the Chateau Thierry in the Battle of Life.

When the Northern frost has settled on the pumpkin and the Hoosier's fodder is in the shock, thoughts of humanity stray far from the cracking cold, and the rattle of heating plants is not placed in a competitive class with the Victrola. No wonder that the "Florida Special" is piled high beneath golf sticks, bathing suits and trunks filled with summer lingerie. The people of busy cities hunger for the healthful out of doors, and pent-up humanity seeks its pastimes in an equable climate. Hence the commodious establishments in Florida erected to care for the tourists.

In my experience I have always found that the best place in which to find rest is likewise the best place for work and industry. And so I am immensely pleased with Florida since I have found that it is not a "loafer's Paradise," as the manipulations of newly-discovered American dyes rolled into colors for hotel circulars, would have one believe. The Florida I have found is all that sensible people could desire as a place for rest and recreation; but what is of far more importance: It is a land of opportunities.

There are 1200 miles of coast line in Florida, 675 miles of which are on the Gulf, and 1200 beautiful fresh water lakes are scattered thruout the state. It is over 350 miles across the northern top boundary and 400 miles from the North to Key West. "The Good Old Summer Time" business two-thirds of all the year and youth falls in love summer and winter. But climate and love need to be accelerated, and so in the line of substantial natural assets it is interesting to note the evidences of industry stretched out before the eye; and without describing the key's of my faithful typewriter I behold St. Andrews Bay flecked with boats engaged in the trade of the sea, while docks and wharves and railroad trackage and terminals enhance the industrial scene.

Illusions and Reality

I suppose that it is common for some people in the North to visualize Florida as a state whose part in the game of life centers about the raising or oranges, and shooting alligators in order that they may be made into expensive bags. And quite commonly the state is pictured as a land of milk and honey, with its people oozing easily thru life, some of them clipping coupons from Liberty bonds while others indulge in the time-honored pleasure of drawing down dividends from their investments in swell hotels maintained for the comfort of the rich.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. From St. Andrews Bay north to the Alabama line the actual picture is one of transition from a lumbering region to an agricultural country. The magnificent Southern Pine forests are gradually "giving up the ghost," and as the long bodies of the monarchs travel one by one toward the hungry maw of the saw mill there is being opened a new era in the opportunities for farming. To one who has followed the course of America's development there is found here another oases in the vale of reconstruction. That word "reconstruction" has a deliberate purpose in this particular spot in this story; for the lumber regions from the Atlantic to the Pacific have gone their course in the pathway of "reconstruction;" and that part of the population that fled the coup with the last pine trees usually missed the big opening that remained for those that had the vision to realize that land is the constant source of production, and that it will produce and reproduce thru succeeding ages. So it happens, as this is being written, that on this land long famous for its climate, there one finds every evidence of a "new country." It is riding the turn between lumbering and farming with the "reconstruction" process well planned. As the land is selling at from ten dollars to twenty-five dollars an acre, more and less, there is still time to get in on the ground floor.

It is not meant to infer that the forests have disappeared so far from it, as there are almost unlimited tracts still remaining in the western part of Florida. But so much of the land has been cut over that the transition period—now more recently termed "reconstruction"—is in a healthy state of progress. There are no great swamp wastes in Northern Florida to take the joy out of living; and in truth it may be said that all crops can be grown here that can be produced in any part of the South. Its streams and lakes are beautiful and as the film runs off nature's picture one beholds the staging of level lands, cultivated highlands, pine forests and hardwood sections, and clay soil merges into green fields rich in their heritage and production.

Pale, Nervous, Run-Down Women

whose blood is thin and starving for want of iron, should take Nuxated Iron to increase their strength and endurance, help steady their nerves and bring back to the cheeks the rosy bloom of health. Nuxated Iron is one of the most valuable strength, tonic and red blood builders ever approved and endorsed by physicians and medical authorities. By enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, Nuxated Iron strengthens the nerves, builds the weakened tissues and helps to instill renewed energy and endurance into the whole system whether the patient be young or old. Astonishing results have been noted in a two weeks' course, in many cases, and it often improves the appearance so that women look years younger. Nuxated Iron is used by more than 3,000,000 people annually. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. At all good druggists.

Gosh! How my back aches!

After influenza or colds the kidneys and bladder are often affected, called "sympathetic" of inflammation of the kidneys. This is the red-flag of danger—better be wise and check the further inroads of kidney disease by obtaining that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Pierce's known as "Anuric" (anti-uric), because "Anuric" expels the uric acid poison from the body and cures those pains, such as backache, rheumatism in muscles and joints.

Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists; or under the eyes in bag-like formations.

Dr. Pierce's Anuric is many times more potent than lithia and often eliminates uric acid as hot tea melts sugar.

Syracuse, N. Y.—"I found 'Anuric' to be an excellent remedy for kidney ailments and backache. At times I have considerable heavy lifting. My kidneys became congested and inactive and I suffered with backaches. My bladder was also very weak. The 'Anuric Tablets' had been taken by other members of my family with such good results that I decided to try them myself. They proved excellent in my case also. They soon rid me of backache, my kidneys became active and normal and the bladder weakness left me. I have not been bothered with any of these complaints since. I would advise sufferers to take 'Anuric' and drive the poisons out of the system through the proper channels, which I am sure 'Anuric' will do."—Jan. 5, 1918, 310 Lombard Avenue.

SOCONY TRACTOR ENGINE OIL

More Work per Gallon

Tractors generally work at practically full load—with the throttle wide open. This produces an unusually high operating heat. For correct lubrication and efficient, economical operation tractors accordingly require an oil especially suited to meet unusually severe service conditions.

SoCOny Gas Engine Tractor Oil is the oil leading tractor manufacturers recommend. Insures minimum wear on the vital parts of your engine. Cushions piston pin and crankshaft bearings against the heavy hammer blows of the cylinder explosions and protects against destructive knocks, strains and engine vibration. Holds compression tight; secures more tractor work per gallon of lubricating oil and more power per gallon of fuel.
