Machinery and Brains. Many Mysteries. Schubert's Unfinished Work Stick to Your Job.

W. F. Knudsen, Chevrolet president, offers cheerful news on General Motors. In May his company turned out 14,700 Chevrolet cars. On one day, May 28, the product was 7,075 finished cars and trucks. May, 1928, is 25,000 cars ahead of May, 1927.

That's a good production, but high General Motors officials should bear in mind that the machinery in their brains is more valuable than any other asset of General Motors. Men like President Sloan of General Motors, and Rasko, the head of General Motors finance, rate themselves as they wouldn't work any piece of machinery.

They take the night train from New York to Detroit, begin work there at 8 in the morning, work thru the whole day, eating sandwiches at noon, still working, and take the night train back to New York.

No machine can stand that, and no duty to stockholders justifies it.

Dr. Walsh, of Fordham University, tells young men "The world is confronted with more mysteries than ever before. Science solves only a few problems."

Yes, indeed. Why does the hydrogen atom have a single proton in the centre and a single electron revolving around it, why does the helium atom, first discovered on the sun thru the spectroscope have four nuclei with two electrons revolving around them, and how does the formation of four grammes helium, from hydrogen, produce energy as great as the 80 tons of coal were burned? There are some mysteries for you.

Everything is a mystery if you go far enough into it. And the greatest of all mysteries is thought, which has no proton or electron so far as we know and is driven by an energy that has no more practical name than "soul" or "mind."

A $20,000 prize is offered for the best ending to Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony." It won't be worth $20,000.

To finish Schubert's symphony you would have to be Schubert. To restore her arms to the Venus of Milo, or to show how the winged Victory looked before she got into that fight, you would require the brain and the feeling of the artist that made the statue. Every mind ever born is absolutely different from every other.

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, will visit the plant of the New Haven Wire Company today. When he was 16 years old he worked there 12 hours out of every 24 for $4.65 a week. If you stick to your job, even that kind of job, you can get somewhere.

In New York a young man brought into court by his father, admitted that he had an income of $400 a week, and employed his father as hostler to take care of his horses. His excuse was that the father had not led a moral life. The Japanese religion, that includes 20 different kinds of hell, probably would find one especially prepared for him, that wouldn't include any saddle horses.

A visitor to the White House, feeling important, said to President Coolidge: "Mr. President, I must tell you I did not vote for you."

"Well," replied the President, "some did."

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company insured a man past 50 for $1,500,000. A few generations ago, when the second biggest city in France had no inhabitant over 50 years of age, such insuring would have been financially suicidal. Men live longer, intelligence counts. A wise man at 50 is a safer risk than a fool at 25. And the Metropolitan has prompted longer living by intelligent health advertising.

FIRST, LOVEJOY FAMILY REUNION

poor woman. He owned a bag mill at Laurens and took some of the children there and learned them to weave cloth. Among those were Lucy and Julia.

We journeyed over to Laurens, and found the old mill, and took photos of it. Here at Laurens we found a remarkable old man by the name of Mulkins, 92 years of age, who said he knew the Lovejoys and played many days with them We found the old gentleman living alone a mile north of Laurens.

From Laurens we went to Roseboom, where Uncle Charles had passed a most active life and his memory yet cherished by that community. In the little cemetery lies the remains of both himself, wife, Elizabeth, sister Mary, and son, Dr. Jay Lovejoy.

The party drove from Roseboom to Cherry Valley for a Sunday dinner party. That town is also one that figured much in the Lovejoy lore.

We started west just before 3 o'clock, over the Cherry Valley Turnpike route which passes thru the very finest scenic and historic territory in New York. At Cazenovia one of the automobiles containing the younger members of the party had to leave us for their homes in Syracuse, but before doing so serenaded the company with songs made up enroute. They were as follows:

The Passing of the Bag Mill

(Tune "The Old Oaken Bucket)

The old family bag mill,
The old family bag mill,
The old family bag mill
That stood by the stream.

At first it was Jimmy's,
And then it was Julia's,
But now it is rotten,
And soon will cave in.

The Pilgrimage

(Tune "Just Before the Battle Mother."

We have passed the night at Morris,
Where we climbed up Christian Hill;
Saw the house where Grandma Lovejoy
Lived and died and made her will.

Then we journeyed o'er to Laurens,
Where we viewed the old bag mill
Then went on to Cherry Valley—
Where we dined and had our fill.

From Cazenovia three of the cars continued on and visited the tomb of the late Rev. James E. N. Backus and wife, Lucy Ann Lovejoy Backus at DeRuyter.

On the trip we found two more cemeteries. One located at West Exeter and the other at Cortland. The former a telephone message advised us was ill in bed. The other was called upon, tho he had serious illness in his family. He is Dr. J. H. Jackson and is a splendid character of a man in his 82nd year. He said when he really became reconciled to the fact that he had all these relatives. "Why didn't you come before."

The automobile may be the curse of the country as many claim for it, but to its credit must be given the fact that without it such a fine pilgrimage could not be possible.

We remained in Cortland over Sunday night with some of our cousins. Monday morning starting for home. Calling at the I. O. O. F. home in Ithaca and making a dinner stop at Watkins Glen. In all we covered 550 miles of road.

Child Dies From Burns

Gregory, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Richmond of Whitesville, died June 24th, from the effects of burns received the day previous. The child was at the home of an uncle, Leon Rice of Fillmore, and was riding on a wagon upon which was a large boiler of hot water. A jolt sent them to the ground, the little fellow landing in the water, scalding his neck, back and limbs.

Funeral service and burial were at Whitesville.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

AN INTERNATIONAL BUGABOO

One of the most persistent international bugaboos, a principal cause of the senseless race for armaments, not to say one of the causes of war, is the notion that seems to be popular in every country that diplomats of every other country are deep, sly, cunning fellows, while the diplomats of our own country are babes in innocence and childlike trustfulness.

Much was said of President Wilson being deceived and hoodwinked by the deep and crafty representatives of other governments at Paris. It has always been my suspicion that President Wilson and his advisors were about as shrewd as any of the others.

Somehow it pleases us to think that the statesmen of Europe are oily, tricky Metternichs and Talleyrands, while our own statesmen are merely Sunday School teachers from Kokomo, Indiana.

We are bluff, hale and frank, while the people of other nations are crafty and shy.

I was once in a boat sailing along the coast of Japan. My dughter exclaimed, "What a beautiful coast line!" One of the party replied, "Yes, but the Japanese are tricky." Even a coast line must have some deep and sinister significance.

There are doubtless bad and devious people, also nations, in this world, but the world is never going to get along well until we learn to trust each other. This was the teaching of Christ and he was about the most adult-minded of human beings.

"He who trusts everybody will probably be bitten," said Spurgeon, "but he who suspects everybody will be devoured."

Sometime ago a man wrote a book—I think he was from Arkansas—called "My Neighbor is Perfect." The book showed how human knots could be untangled by simply trusting your neighbor.

It is a long step in the dark to get the habit of trustfulness, but it is a good habit to form, nevertheless.

The Golden Rule is all right, but it needs an amendment. To the advice, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" should be added the supplement, dare to do it first.

To get along well with your neighbors requires after all, a lot of daring, more courage perhaps than to quarrel with them.

It is easy to be suspicious and captious and touchy. It is hard to be trusting. But it pays.

Charles Gath of Whitesville, has the misfortune to have his leg fractured badly when run over by a heavy truck on the state road near that village. Only a few weeks ago the other leg had been broken.

A card received this week from Rev. W. L. Greene and Prof. Miller, enroute by auto to California, tells us "everything is fine with them, just entering St. Louis, and that New York State air is still in their tires."

Fourth of July passed off quietly in Andover. The curb flags and banging of fire crackers was the only demonstration. Many of our residents attended the celebration at Greenwood and other near-by towns.

Mrs. Leve J. Wilder of Wellsville died suddenly of acute indigestion, Sunday evening while a guest at the home of a nephew in Hornell. Miss Wilder, who was 64 years of age, was a sister of Dr. Williamson of Wellsville.

An auto accident, near Hume, Sunday resulted in the instant death of Allen M. Burdick, 31, and critical injuries to his wife and the driver Lewis Bewlie, 24, slightly injured, all of Farmersville. The car skidded and overturned.

Rev. Ralph White, former Wellsville boy, has completed a three-year course at the Garrett Biblical Institute and accepted the pastorate of the Woodhull Methodist church. He will also be in charge of the churches at Rathbone and Borden, near Woodhull.

Howard Richardson, formerly of Andover and Lee S. Robbins, also well known here, are associated with Fred E. Williams of Canisteo, in the furniture and undertaking business. The firm have recently remodeled their store into one of the finest and most attractive in Western New York.

Word has been received that Mrs. E. G. Probasco, who is ill at St. Petersburg, Fla., is gaining slowly.

Canaseraga expects to take part in the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Sullivan's Raid, which will occur in 1929. The village is organizing a historical society and next year will place markers on the site of the first house and schoolhouse in the town.

Miss Evelyn Stadlich and Richard Walsh were the two Wellsville High School graduates presented with Bulova wrist watches by the Ward Jewelry Store of that place. The names of the graduates, in this year's class, were written on the dial of a large clock placed in the window. When the clock stopped the names at which the hands pointed determined who should have the gifts.

Stephen Robinson of Hinsdale, 51 years of age was killed near Cuba, last Sunday. It is believed he was run down and killed by a large green touring car containing five men which had been seen on the road a short distance away. The unfortunate man had been dragged some 25 feet and his left leg was torn from the body and the spine fractured. He was walking to his work.

An annual event at the Baptist church in Cuba is the observance of the Old Folks' Day, a feature of which last Sunday was the reading of a poem written by Mrs. Amanda K. Brookaw of that village, who will be 100 years old next September, and who was present at the exercises. Mrs. Brookaw has written many poems, several of which have appeared in the Patriot, and are most remarkable from the pen of a woman of her years.

Lowest Electric Rates in history!

MOST people know electricity is cheap. Few realize, however, that electric rates today are actually lower than in 1914.

Interconnected power plants of the Niagara Power System send power back and forth as it is needed. Generating expenses have been reduced to a minimum. Operating costs have been lowered. All these savings are reflected in your monthly bill.

Compared with other necessities, Niagara Power Service is the biggest bargain you buy. You can afford to use it freely.
