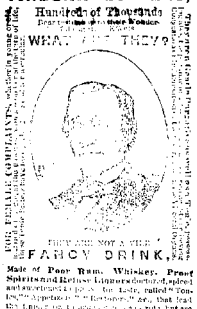
The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,
Hundreds of Thousands



FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the unwary victim on to drunkenness, ruin and death. Each bottle of Bitters contains one pint of pure, medical QUALITIES, extracted from Roots, Herbs and Barks of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. Look for the CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS. Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere.
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestive or Inflammatory diseases of the Liver, Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Kidneys and Bladder. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its curative qualities than a lengthy recommendation.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION,
Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms of the first importance to be cured, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.
They have no equal. No person can take these Bitters according to the directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones have not been destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
FEMALE COMPLAINTS, all those painful complaints and weaknesses so common to the female system, will be speedily corrected by the use of these Bitters. In Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness, Suppression, Nervous Headache, Debility, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Spasms, Sick Headache, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Joints, Rheumatism, Fever, Inflammation of the Kidneys, Inflammation of the Bladder, and many other painful symptoms, these Bitters display such decided influence that an improvement is soon perceptible.
They act like magic in cases of Poisoning by the Poisonous Vapors, Onanism, Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating.
In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walker's California Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

OUR STATE CANVASS.

Horace Greeley to the Republicans of the State of New York—Manly and Stirring Words.

A visit to Missouri and Colorado, required by engagements long ago made, and which I was not at liberty to postpone, has been widely commented on as indicating dissatisfaction on my part at the nomination of General Woodford or lack of interest in his election. Neither inference accords with the truth. Whatever the nominations at Saratoga last month, I must have made this visit at the precise time I did, while I do greatly desire and shall heartily struggle for General Woodford's election.

If there be any who deem General Woodford's nomination a mistake, they should blame me for it rather than him. He offered weeks before the convention to decline, absolutely in my favor, if I would but indicate a wish that he should do so. I had no such wish, and of course indicated none. On the contrary, while very willing to accept the nomination if the Convention should deliberately conclude that I could help the cause by so doing, I was most unwilling to become a candidate through the forbearance or generosity of any one, or because it was supposed that I desired or deserved their post. To General Woodford, or to whomsoever approached me on the subject, I stated that I would be a candidate only in case it was judged that more votes could be polled for me than for any other Republican, and I could give no assurance that such was the case.—The Convention must act according to its own judgment, not mine.

General Woodford was nominated without undue or unworthy effort on his part. He bought no votes, and begged none. He conceded from no man the truth that he would gladly accept if nominated, and, whatever the event of the canvass, would be gratified by such selection—as I at his age would probably have been. But he did and said nothing to achieve it calculated to render me less proud of his friendship since than before the meeting of that nominating Convention.—And he will do nothing if elected that should make you regret that you gave him a hearty, manful support. I say this on the strength of many years' association with him in political and private life.

In the gallant though not immediately successful struggle of 1856 for Free Soil and Freemont, the burnt of the canvass, so far as organizing and speech making were concerned, was borne by a swarm of young volunteers, fresh from seminary or apprenticeship, whose unselfish enthusiasm electrified and fired the youthful energy of the Free States. Among these volunteers I knew no one who was more willing to do his full share of good work without seeking any consideration for it than Stewart L. Woodford. There were few of our young men who made more speeches, and I know none among them who made better or more effective. And he was as zealous, as industrious, and as efficient, in 1860 as he had been in 1856.

Civil war followed; and he entered the military service of the Union, which he did not quit till after the last rebel force had laid down its arms.—He entered as a subaltern, and rose to the command of a reg ment and to be Military Governor of Charleston from and after the flight of her rebel garrison. If he performed no dazzling feats of arms, he did from first to last all that was required of him—all that one in his position could properly do. In war only the very few can choose their place of work; the many must stand where they are posted and do as they are ordered. Thus did Stewart Woodford, to the satisfaction of his superiors, and to such acceptance among his comrades that they twice indicated him as their choice for important civil trusts. He owes his present nomination to the favor and preference of the Union volunteers of our State. Does any one believe that they have so honored one incompetent and unworthy?

Being a candidate, he is, of course, assailed and defamed, as I would be if I had been nominated instead. Even his personal and official integrity is impeached, as it never was in my hearing during the many years I have known him in private life. I presented his name to the Republican State Convention of 1866 as a soldier candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and he was nominated on the second or third ballot, over the heads of such able veterans as Thomas G. Alvord and Dewitt C. Littlejohn. Then, though still young and unknown to the greater number of our voters, and though it was predicted that he would drag the ticket, he received a heavier vote and larger majority than Gov. Fenton, whose majority in the contest was greater than when two years before, he ran ahead of President Lincoln.

During the two years that General Woodford served as Lieutenant Governor, I never heard a serious complaint of his official conduct. I know that he made a formidable enemy by refusing to put Mr. Wm. M. Tweed on the Senate's Committee on Cities and Villages, and that he is now suffering the consequences—one hundred thousand copies (as I learn and believe) of last Saturday's Sun, nearly filled with a knavish and envenomed attack on Gen. Woodford, having been ordered and paid for by Mr. Tweed, and at his expense spread over the State. It is this attack which I now address you to confront and expose.

Mr. Woodford, then a young and rising lawyer at our bars, was appointed an Assistant District Attorney here soon after Mr. Lincoln's inauguration. As such he incurred the implacable hostility of the then U. S. Marshall of this district, whose scheme of enriching himself by a wholesale discovery and confiscation of Southern funds, then held in trust in our city, he aided to defeat. President Lincoln decided, on full consideration, that this sweeping inquiry and confiscation would alienate the banks and trust companies which held the property in question, and whose good will was then essential to the financial success of the government—so Marshal Murray was constrained to make his large fortune in other ways. Gen. Woodford has suffered, still suffers and is content to suffer, from the enmity thus excited.

The circumstances which have been utilized by ex Marshal Murray to gratify that hostility are as follows:

In June, 1861, the bark Augusta was libeled by Marshal Murray as a suspected slaver. Mr. Woodford, as Assistant District Attorney, conducted the legal proceedings which resulted in her condemnation. He was then required to name two appraisers of the value of said vessel and her cargo, and did so. She was appraised at $2,000; but, that appraisement not giving satisfaction, she was reappraised—this time at $4,200—for which sum she was bonded and discharged; whereupon she was again started on a (presumptively) slaving voyage, again arrested and finally brought to grief.

Meantime, District Attorney Delafield Smith, having heard of Murray's insinuations that something was wrong in his office, wrote to the Secretary of the Interior, requesting an investigation. Secretary Caleb B. Smith therefore requested the Hon. Wm. D. Shipman (Democrat), United States District Judge for Connecticut, to come here and, in connection with Geo. C. Whiting, Esq., make such investigation. Judge Shipman promptly did the extra work imposed upon him, came here and, associated with Mr. Whiting, called before him separately Messrs Murray, Woodford, and every one else who could throw light on the subject, heard their testimony in full, and reported its substance to the Secretary, with this judgement thereon:

"We think we have all the points in the evidence that call for remark; and it gives us unfeigned pleasure to submit an unqualified judgement that no official corruption or misconduct has been proved against any one."

Secretary Smith in turn examined the report and the judgement, and officially concurred in the latter, as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, }
WASHINGTON, Jan. 8, 1862. }

"Upon a careful examination of all the testimony adduced at the recent investigation before Judge Shipman, I am satisfied that no collusion existed between any of the officers of the Federal Judiciary at New York City and the parties who were interested in the bark Augusta."

The only points which seem to be made by the conspirators against Gen. Woodford are these:

1. He dined with Appleton Oakesmith, one of the culprits he was prosecuting.

That is not true. Oakesmith was not implicated in the original charge against the Augusta and her owners. If he was then interested in her, the proceeding did not charge and Mr. Woodford did not know it. He (O.) appeared in court as one of the counsel for the owners, and was so regarded by Woodford. The facts which have since transpired indentifying him with the outlawed vessel were not then public, and were unknown to the young counsel for the prosecution, who dined with him at a retaurant during the progress of the proceedings, as he might have dined with any other lawyer whom he had met at the bar.

2. He selected his father-in-law to appraise the vessel.

So he did; why not? He knew that father-in-law to be perfectly upright, a good judge of vessels from a long merchantile experience, independent in fortune, and every way above suspicion of making money out of the matter. Who should he have chosen if not such a man? And who does not realize, that, if there had been any African in the fence, he would have been careful not to select his father-in-law as appraiser?

3. Mr. Capron's appraisement was too low.

That does not appear. Who does not recollect that, just after the breaking out of Civil War had virtually embargoed our merchant vessels by paralyzing our commerce, there was no price at all for such vessels, except when the government wanted to buy them? I sold a good city house that few Summer for less than half its value a few months later; those who had to sell vessels were glad to take whatever they could get.

Mr. Woodford on hearing that objections were made to his appraisement, promptly insisted on another wherein his father-in-law should have no voice. By this second appraisment, the value of the vessel and cargo was raised from $2,600 to $4,200; and this appraisment was allowed to stand.

I have said more than I purposed or can have been required to dispel this miserable calumny, which no one acquainted with the facts can credit, and which but one such ever affected to believe. There is not one of those now busy in circulating it who would not judge any person a fool who should put any faith in it.

Fellow Citizens! during my forty years' acquaintance with the politics of our State, you have had greater as well as smaller men than Stewart L. Woodfore presented to you as candidates for Governor; but a truer, more upright man, you have had. I entreat you to give him an active, efficient support. Yours,

HORACE GREELEY.

OBITUARY.

MR. W. B. WRIGHT was born in Scio April 4th 1848, and died October 10th, 1870, at Andover, N. Y. He early devoted himself to study in which he made great proficiency. At Alfred, where he acquired most of his education, he gained the esteem and confidence of all who knew him.

At Wellsville during a religious interest, he felt the need of a Saviour Sought and found Christ precious, and united with the Baptist Church of that place.

During the month of May 1869 he took charge of the Andover Graded School, where he labored with unparalelled success, and to the satisfaction of all the patrons. In his school he was not only highly respected and cheerfully obeyed, but had a large place in the tenderest affections of all the other teachers, and of the entire school who greatly mourn their loss.

He held the highest office in the Lodge of good Templars, of which he was a worthy member and in which he labored faithfully.

He was also Secretary of the Andover Musical Association.

And in the Church and Sunday School he was a cheerful laborer, ever ready to work for Christ, for the good of others, and especially for the Sunday School of which he was Assistant Superintendent. Thus wherever we turn we shall miss him from our social circle. And now

Whereas, It has pleased God, thus early in life, to take away our dear friend and Brother WRIGHT from us. Therefore

Resolved, That we hereby express our deep emotions and profound regrets as an Educational Board, patrons of the School, Teachers and Scholars, that we are so soon called to part with one we had learned to love.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved friends, while they mourn as none but relatives, Father, Sisters and Brother can. Yet while we would mingle our tears with yours, we can but feel that your loss is his eternal gain. That while you bow in tears, he sings with the Blood washed in that better land where sorrow never enters. O let this thought cheer you ever now. He's not Dead but gone before.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY THE ALFRED UNIVERSITY.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in his wisdom, to remove from his earthly labors our esteemed brother and fellow laborer Wm B. Wright, who died at Andover, N. Y., October 10th, 1870, while engaged as principal of the Andover Graded School. And

Whereas, In his death the Alleghanian Lyceum of Alfred University has lost one of its most worthy members; the cause of education one of its noblest supporters, and society one of its reformers, Therefore

Resolved, That while we do not murmur at the dealings of our Heavenly Father, but bow submissively to His will, we cannot but feel our bereavement, and deeply mourn the loss of him whom we had all learned to respect.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family and relatives of the deceased, and pray God bless and comfort them in their sorrow while they look forward to an eternal re-union with their loved ones in Heaven.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the patrons and students of the school which he has so worthily conducted and from which he has so sadly and truly taken; feeling that the void left in the hearts of those can only be healed by Him who hath power to bind up the broken hearted.

Resolved, That we, members of the Lyceum, as an expression of our sorrow, wear a badge of mourning, and cover the hall in memory of our brother.

Resolved That we request the publication of these resolutions in the Wellsville Free Press and Andover Advertiser, by order of the Lyceum.

FROM SCIO.

The obsequies of Mr. W. B. Wright were held at the M. E. Church in Scio, at 2 o'clock, P. M., the 12th of October. Rev. Mr. Sherer of Andover officiating. The church was filled to overflowing.

The past year of Mr. Wright's life was spent at Andover in the Graded School of which he was Principal. His success in that sphere was very decided. The youth of Andover have lost an efficient teacher, a wise counsellor, a true friend, and the patrons one to whom they could trust the intellectual development of their children, and rest assured that they were under the best of care.

As token of respect in which he was held was shown by the large attendance of the people of Andover, and especially those who [illegible] have been his pupils. The Alleghanian Lyceum of Alfred sent a delegation with appropriate resolutions, to attend the funeral. To his acquaintances and friends, for they are many, mere words seems useless and but a mockery. Eulogies and dissertations are needless. They are inscribed on every heart, and will remain there so long as remembrance lasts. For the stricken family, the whole community show undisguised pity and undissembled sorrow. We mourn with them, and while we see the unscrutability of our Father's acts we bow in meekness believing that He before whom not a sparrow falls unnoticed will bring much good out of this great bereavement.

A FELLOW TEACHER.

A Double Domestic Joke.

From the Springfield Republican.

The delegates to the Democratic state convention from this city tell a very good story at the expense of one of their number, a well known physician, while on his way to Fitchburg. It seems that the doctor, while changing cars and buying a new ticket at Worcester, had left in the depot waiting room his umbrella, and he had bought while on his way to the station in Springfield on that very day. He discovered his loss after the party had again started for Fitchburg, and it naturally enough became the subject of conversation, the cause of joke. His companions cautioned him to look out for his pocket-book, over coat, etc., all of which was much enjoyed by the Democracy, the other passengers and the doctor himself. At the first station beyond he went out and telegraphed to the Worcester station agent to look out for his umbrella, but in the meantime his colleagues deftly put in his seat, in place of his own overcoat, one belonging to another party. There was a great deal of chuckling for the next few miles, till the doctor discovered amid less restrained merriment that he had indeed lost his coat. But it was no laughing matter, not at all, and even those "on the ring" straightened their faces to indulged in well simulated speculations as to the whereabouts of the unfortunate delegate's coat. The most probable conjecture pushed forward was that he had left it in the other train, and at the next station, out he went again to recover it per telegraph. His tormentors in the car took this occasion to restore the coats to their rightful seats—"There," said he, re-entering with a lugubrious air, "another dollar gone!" and when, upon urging, he again examined the coat to find it his own, grew ominously serious; in fact, all grew serious, and it looked as if the joke had been carried too far. His friends wished themselves out of it, and cast about for means to restore the eheute cordiale. Good humor gradually returned, and they jokingly proposed to chip in and restore him his lost dollar, and the peripatetic had returned with contents amounting to considerable more than a dollar of which they had swindled him. "Yes," said the doctor, as he pocketed the scrip "You carried the joke a little too far, but I didn't telegraph at all!" He had "smelt a mice," and shouts of laughter proclaimed his triumph. We ought to say also that he recovered his umbrella.

The census taker found a boy in the third ward of Rockford, Ill., whose christian name was Star Spangled Banner.

A young lady of sixteen, who had worn short dresses all her life, positively told her mamma she would wear them no longer.
