Fly time is nearly here again and people who do not want their houses full of the insects this summer should prepare now to keep them out. To control the house fly eliminate the breeding places of the insect, actually destroy the flies and keep them from entering the house, says bulletin H134 on "Household Insects and Their Control." This bulletin, which tells how to control all common household insects will be sent free upon request made to the office of publication, New York state college of agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

G. O. P. HONORS CRADLE OF PARTY

Little Church Claiming to Have Been Scene of Meeting 75 Years Ago Gets Much Homage.

Friendship, N. Y.—The seventy-fifth anniversary of New York's part in the founding of the Republican Party has just been celebrated here with exercises attended by several thousand persons, including prominent members of the national and state organizations.

The small Baptist church—now the Grand Army of the Republic hall—in which a group of prominent members of the community, headed by A. N. Cole, met on May 16, 1854 to discuss the political situation, was not large enough to accommodate the gathering and the ceremonies were held in the auditorium of the Friendship High School.

It was just about dusk on that May evening 75 years ago when Mr. Cole, editor of the Genesee Valley Free Press and a friend of Horace Greeley, arrived at the meeting place to find it unlighted and vacant. Disappointed, he was about to return home when a few of the men who had been invited to the meeting arrived.

The meeting was held; the Republican Party organized, and a committee appointed to arrange for a nominating convention. The committee comprised Mr. Cole, Charles M. Allen, Robert Shaw, E. B. Benjamin and Joseph D. Shuart.

Horace Greeley's Letter

Mr. Cole was an ardent Free Soiler, but he entertained vigorous views about the formation of a new part. Following the repeal of the Missouri compromise, Mr. Cole's newspaper advocated the function of all anti-Nebraska elements, and expressed most pronounced views. He has frequently been known as "the father of the Republican Party," and always asserted that he was instrumental in naming it.

"Horace Greeley named the party in a letter to myself in 1854, some time in the month of April," he said in a letter to a New York editor 30 years later. Call it Republican, no prefix, no suffix, but plain Republican," Mr. Greeley was reported to have written Mr. Cole in the letter.

While the Friendship meeting marked the inception of the Republican Party in New York State, its claim to having been the national birthplace of the party is disputed by towns in several other states. Chief among these are Ripon, Wis., and Jackson, Mich. In Ripon there is a small schoolhouse bearing a plaque which sets forth that the Republican Party was first organized there at a meeting on March 20, 1854.

The meeting at Jackson was held in July, and seems to have been the inspiration for the first national convention. Pursuant to a resolution adopted there, a call was sent out from Washington for a meeting of a general committee to be held in Pittsburgh on February 22, 1856. The committee summoned the first national convention, which met at Philadelphia on June 17, 1856, and nominated John C. Fremont for president and William L. Dayton for vice president.

Historical Floats

The Friendship ceremonies started with a parade which included floats of Abraham Lincoln, Horace Greeley, Mr. Cole and the Republican elephant.

Following a program of patriotic music and an address of welcome by E. A. Mapes, master of ceremonies; Assemblyman H. E. V. Porter (R.) of Jamestown, presented documentary evidence of the founding of the party. Harry E. Hull of Washington, Commissioner-General of Immigration, made the chief address. He described the early aims and purposes of the party, which was later headed by Abraham Lincoln during the Civil War and brought about the abolition of slavery.

President Hoover was honorary chairman of the ceremonies.

Stockholders' Meeting

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Allegany Mutual Telephone Company, will be held at City Hall, Andover, N. Y., on June 7th, at 2:30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing directors for the next year, and to transact all business that may properly come before the meeting.

ERIE LIMITED HAS BIG CROWDS

Thousands Flock to See Wonderful New Train At Along the Line of the Erie Railroad.

The public is evidently much interested in progress. The great crowds at Hornell and Wellsville, Sunday, to inspect the Erie railroad's new limited, is proof of the statement. At Hornell 2,910 passed thru the train. At Wellsville 2,044 guests got thru and nearly as many more were disappointed in not being able to gain admittance.

The following message to the News from Vice President Probert, tells of the hearty reception this deluxe train has received all along the road:

J. Harvey Backus, Editor News, Andover, N. Y.

Up to the time the Erie Limited went on exhibition in Jamestown today, 30,000 people at stations east of there had inspected this train. At all stops they had great difficulties in controlling crowds.

L. C. PROBERT.
Vice President, Erie Sys.

At Wellsville this beautiful train was in charge of Passenger Traffic Manager, C. C. Howard and he was much pleased with the great interest shown and the large number of people present at the station. The train was all that had been said about it, wonderful equipment and the new type of lounge car, day coach and new Pullmans were greatly admired by the spectators. People were present from Andover, Alfred, Genesee, Pa., Allentown, Bolivar, Scio, Belmont, Friendship, Cuba and other nearby towns and there is no question that the Erie Limited will prove very popular with the traveling public in this section when it goes into regular service between New York and Chicago on Sunday, June 2nd.

Two thousand and forty-four people actually passed thru the train at Jamestown, N. Y., on May 16, and during its stop in Wellsville and it is apparent that Wellsville showed the greatest interest in the new Erie Limited of any town of its size along the line.

Price for April Milk $2.61 Per 100 Pounds

New York, May 21.—A net pool price of $2.61 per 100 pounds for 3.5 milk at the 201-210 mile zone will be paid members of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc., for their April milk, according to an announcement from League headquarters.

This is 36 cents per 100 pounds higher than was paid for April milk in 1928, and 17 cents above the return of April, 1927. Last month's price is also 45 cents above the average for the seven years of the pool operation.

Past Grands Council

The regular annual meeting of the Past Grands Council (I.O.O.F.), of New York, will begin its session at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, June 3, at I. O. O. F. Hall, Andover.

Representatives will be present from the various district Councils throuout the state.

In the evening Past Grands Council No. 1, of Allegany District will hold a meeting and the degree will be conferred upon a class of candidates.

Flowers Wanted

Anyone having flowers that they are willing to contribute for use in decorating the graves of war veterans, are requested to bring them to the Village Hall, Thursday morning May 30th, where a committee will be in waiting to receive them at 9 o'clock.

LAW ENFORCEMENT COMMISSION NAMED

Not One is Recognized Leader of Drys or Wets. One Woman on the Board.

Washington, May 20.—George W. Wickersham, Attorney General in the Taft administration, has been selected by President Hoover as chairman of the National Law Enforcement Commission and will have associated with him nine other lawyers and one woman, representing all of the major geographical divisions of the country.

In announcing the personnel of the commission late today, White House officials said Mr. Wickersham would call the group together here later in the week to map out a preliminary program for the work which is expected to last upwards of two years and which is regarded by the Chief Executive as the most important task confronting his administration.

Other members of the commission are:

Newton D. Baker, secretary of War in the Wilson administration and chairman of the National Crime Commission.

Frank K. Loesch, of Chicago.

Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard Law School.

William I. Grubb, federal district judge for the Northern District of Alabama.

Monte M. Lehmann, of New Orleans.

William S. Kenyon, United States Circuit Judge.

Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe College.

Announcement was made that appointment to the commission had been tendered to Associate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, of the United States Supreme Court; Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State; Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, of Government Counsel in the celebrated oil prosecutions, and Benjamin Cordoza, Judge of the New York State Court of Appeals.

Four Decline

Because of other commitments, these four men declined appointment. The president had hoped to have Justice Stone as chairman of the commission, but unofficial information is that the jurist concurred in the view of Chief Justice Taft and other associates that the highest court should not have representation on the commission.

In making his selection, Mr. Hoover did not name a recognized leader either of the drys or the wets, although there had been suggestions from some of the leaders of the prohibition forces that he do so. In general, the public careers of those named have not been identified with either the dry or the wet cause.

At the outset, at least, members of the commission will serve without pay. Congress has failed to make any appropriation either for salaries or expenses. The cost of the exhaustive inquiry, which the commission is to make, will be considerable and Congress will be asked for the necessary funds either at this session or the regular one beginning next December.

The Chief Executive has conferred with a number of the members of the Commission who are familiar with the work he has in mind. This consists of a thoroughgoing survey of the whole subject of law enforcement, including enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, with a view toward a reorganization of the whole federal judicial and enforcement machinery.

The President's own views on what the commission is to do were given expression in his address to the Associated Press in New York City a month ago. He said:

"Every student of our law enforcement mechanism knows full well that it is in need of vigorous reorganization; that its procedure unduly favors the criminal; that our judiciary needs to be strengthened; that the method of assembling our juries needs revision; that justice must be more swift and sure."

In the same speech he said he wanted to select on the commission "high-minded men, impartial in their judgment, skilled in the science of the law and our judicial system, clear in their conception of our institutions," and added:

"Such a commission can perform the greatest of services to our generation."

If your house looks bare and uninviting, plant trees, but not too many, and not squarely in front of the house.

SUPERVISORS VOTE NEW BOND ISSUE

$250,000 Authorized by Board, to Carry on the Highway and Bridge Construction Program.

The supervisors of Allegany county met in special session at Belmont Monday evening, the board being called to order by Chairman E. E. Fenner, of Alfred, and with the exception of one or two members all were present at the roll call.

The most important work before the board at this session was the issuing of highway bonds to the amount of $250,000 to pay cost of construction on improved highways and bridges and enable the county to carry on this important work this year. The bond issue will include the unpaid portion of highway cost.

Two hundred and fifty bonds of the denomination of $1,000 with interest at 4½% to 4¾% will be issued by the county about June 1st.

Several resolutions on bridge construction were presented and referred to the committee on bridges.

Following the evening adjournment Mr. Paul D. Kelleter, of the New York State College of Forestry of Syracuse, gave a short talk to the members of the board, calling their attention to the new law passed by the legislature this year, where the state offers aid to counties in forestry work. Any amount up to $5,000 appropriated by the county for exclusive forestry work by the county will receive an equal amount from the state.

Application must be filed with the state before January 1, 1930, for the amount to be expended the following year.

This state aid would give an opportunity for Allegany county to start in with county forestry plantations and as Mr. Kelloter stated, some counties are putting in 50 to 100 acres in each of the towns in a county as demonstration forests while other counties are making large plantations up to 600 in one piece. The state, however, will not stand for paying a high price for forestry land and the maximum is around $10 per acre, while much land has been bought as low as $3 an acre. To restrict floods, it is suggested that trees should be planted at the head waters of watersheds if possible.

Mr. Kelleter stated that representatives from the State College of Forestry would be glad to examine any land at the request of the supervisors and report as to what trees would be best adapted to the land.

Only informal action could be taken Monday night, but Chairman Fenner stated that he would appoint a committee on forestry at Tuesday's session.

BRINGS BACK BANNER

Andover High School Judging Team Wins Award at Alfred.

With 48 schools and 144 contestants entered in the annual Stock Judging Con est at Alfred, last Friday, Andover took second place and was awarded a banner which is on exhibition at the local High School.

The team was composed of Robert Smith, Alvin Edwards and Conrad Church. The average team score was 78 1-3, only eight points behind Honeoye, the winning team in this group. These young men are to be congratulated for their excellent showing and Mr. Robinson, who is coaching them, should be commended for the type of work he is doing in the extension courses in agriculture which he is giving in the Andover High School. Smith, Edwards and Church are all members of the class in agriculture which is being sponsored co-operatively between the Board of Education of the Andover High School and the State School of Agriculture at Alfred.

1929 POLITICAL CALENDAR OUT

Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn Gives the Dates for All Political Events for This Year.

Albany, May 21.—Things will begin to hum politically in this state a bit earlier this year than usual. Voters who will be unavoidably absent from home on registration days next fall, may avail themselves of the provisions of central registration beginning on June 1 and running to September 10. A political calendar just issued by Edward J. Flynn, Secretary of State, giving all the important political dates for the year, shows that the fall primary will come on September 17 this year, while General Election Day falls on November 5.

Office seekers may start in securing signatures to petitions as early as July 2, while the designating petitions can be filed between August 13 and August 30. There are no changes this year in the number of signatures required for petitions. State and judicial conventions may be held this year as early as September 25. Registration in New York City runs from October 7 to 12 inclusive, and elsewhere throuout the state where personal registration is required, the same is scheduled to take place on October 11 and 12, 18 and 19.

Primaries fall no less than eleven Supreme Court judges will be elected as well as members of Assembly and various county and city officials. Secretary Flynn will send out all election supplies to the various boards throuout the state within the next week or so.

Found Carrier Pigeon

When Wm. Childs went to the state barn in Andover, to prepare for the day's work one morning last week, he discovered a young carrier pigeon laying dead on the cement mixer. The pigeon had leg-bands with these numbers: On one "AL, B, 721, Aug. 28," on a metal band. On the other leg was a rubber band, upon which were the numbers 257 on one side and 754 on the other.

Undoubtedly this was one of a flock of racing carrier pigeons belonging to the Finger Lakes Racing Association of Auburn, which were liberated at Cuba Saturday, May 11. There were some 50 birds in the flock.

Dr. Campbell Memorial Day Speaker

The Thomas M. Lynch Post, American Legion, has secured Dr. Gilbert W. Campbell, professor of education and philosophy of Alfred University as Memorial Day speaker.

CLINIC DISASTER AT CLEVELAND

Miss Lenora Dean Writes Mother, Telling of the Terrible Accident.—Told By One Who Was There.

The terrible accident in the clinic at Cleveland has appalled the whole country. Miss Lenora Dean, whom all Andover people know, is teaching but a few blocks from this ill-fated hospital and writes her mother, Mrs. William Dean, telling of the awful accident as follows:

No doubt you have read of the terrible disaster we had here last Wednesday. It is all we can think of or talk of since, and seems to get worse as people who thought they came thru it all right are being stricken daily every since. One girl thought she was all right, acted as bridesmaid at a wedding that night and died the next day. Another young fellow came here for examination from out of town, hung out of a second story window until rescued and then helped in the rescue work himself. Later he drove 150 miles to his home and the next day died. This clinic isn't but a little way from where I live. On my way from school I went up there. You should have seen the crowds of people and the traffic jams, altho it was five hours after it happened. You couldn't get very near as policemen stood about ten feet apart all around the building.

The building doesn't look bad at all from the outside, except for windows being out, but in some rooms you could see ceilings hanging while others looked all right. You couldn't get very near as po- search work and diagnostic purposes only, and the hospital proper was an adjoining building. Specialists in every line were housed in this clinic and Dr. Crile the goitre doctor was one of the owners. He was operating in the hospital at the time it happened. He did five major operations on Friday so I guess it didn't affect his nerves any and he is an old man too. The old time films are very combustible and they say they had some 20 years old there. One pound of them will make six cubic feet of gas and there were over two tons stored there. It certainly was caused by someone's carelessness, and of course all kinds of investigations are being made. One theory is that it might have been caused by a powerful electric light which hung near and that would give out a lot of heat, also a steam pipe was in the room. This room was ventilated into others and of course the gas went thru the ventilators to all the rooms. One hundred and twenty-four are dead and 50 are seriously ill in hospitals and about 50 who were known to be there have not reported, probably are at their homes but doctors say that even two weeks might pass without one's noticing any bad effects.

It must have been a terrible time for anyone who had relatives there. They were rushed to the nearby hospitals, undertaking parlors and the morgue and nobody knew who anyone was or where they were sent and some were a long time finding their own. The priests from St. Agnes (her place of worship) were there doing what they could and I saw Father Murphy coming home from there after school was over and he looked so white and strange. Yesterday's paper said that gas had never been encountered before and not even used during the war. Rescue workers said it was worse than a war time gas—patients would apparently revive, open their eyes and then suddenly expire and their bodies turned yellow and green. Many more were killed then in the Lorain disaster and in such a small area. So many that were killed had just taken relatives or friends there for examinations and were only waiting for them. And where would one feel more secure than in such a place, surrounded by the best medical skill in the country. So many that you talk to had some acquaintance in it or had been there earlier in the day or were planning on going. People have certainly received an education in x-ray films.
