Huge New York Farm Plan Is Outlined by Roosevelt

Land Grappings, Soil Surveys and Weather Aid Urged in $330,000 Three-Year Program.

Silver Lake, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Governor Roosevelt, in a speech here today announced a new farm programme. The proposal would extend to the farm what regional planning will do for the city.

The Governor proposed a survey to cover three years at a cost of $110,000 a year. The programme would include:

Preparation of complete weather data.

Classification of land for forest, agriculture or recreation.

Extensive soil survey, including assembling of detailed maps.

Preparation of charts of land best adapted for vegetables, forest and pastures.

Governor Roosevelt said:

"It is appropriate in the center of the important agricultural areas to lay down a part of the agricultural programme for the coming year.

"People will remember that on the initiative of the Governor's agricultural advisory commission an important programme of farm tax relief was put thru at the last session of the legislature, this was in the nature of an emergency programme. The result of which could be made of immediate benefit to the farmers of the state. The relief from highway taxes, the regulation of the grade crossing elimination, contributions by the localities, and the increased State aid for small rural schools will save the agricultural taxpayers many millions of dollars every year from now on.

"The same agricultural advisory commission has again been in session, taking up this time one of the important steps for the all time improvement of agricultural production.

Soil Survey Needed

"It is a fact not generally realized that the State does not know what its agricultural possibilities are. In other words, no complete survey has been made for the purpose of making definite plans for the more profitable use of each kind of land.

"There are dozens of different kinds of land in the State and it is not stretching the point to say that a very large percentage of agricultural lands is now used for the production of the wrong kinds of crops. The commission proposed, therefore, that the first step must be to complete the soil survey of the State. For many years past co-operative work has been going on between the State and Federal Government but it has resulted in the survey of less than half of the counties of the State. At the present rate of procedure it would require 30 years to finish the soil survey.

"It is therefore the first step in the programme that this soil survey shall be speeded up so as to complete the whole state within the next few years.

Will Save Millions

"This will result is knowledge of the kind of soil and every county and every neighborhood and every farm will save millions of dollars during the lifetime of the incoming generation. For example, it is said that more than half of the orchards of western New York are planted on the wrong kind of soil.

"If knowledge of these soils had been available millions of dollars would have been saved the fruit growers of that part of the State. With increasing specialization in crop growing, it is essential to know what soil is best adapted to each crop.

"With this soil survey there should go hand in hand a complete survey of the climatic conditions of the State and it is a fact little recognized that one county may have conditions of climate very different from an adjoining county, so different, in fact, that the effect on the same crop will be marked. This climatic survey applies not only to general crops, but especially to orchards and vegetables.

Vegetables Important

"Most people know of the great success of our State in growing fruits of all kinds, but it is less well known that in the last census year the vegetables produced on the farms of New York represented one-fourth of the total value of all farm crops and that the State led all the other States.

"The third step in the survey is to take an inventory of all of the forest resources of the State. While it is true that the State is consuming far more lumber each year than it is growing it is also true that thousands of owners of wood lots are unable to obtain a dependable market for their forest crops. In other words, we are losing at both ends, not growing enough timber, and at the same time not getting what we should get for the timber which we have.

"There has been much talk and some legislation on reforestation of the waste lands of the State, but we have little detailed knowledge of where that land is, what its boundaries are and what kind of trees should be planted on it for the best returns. For the above reasons the governor's agricultural advisory commission feels very strongly that the next important step in the advancement of agriculture in our state is to make a complete survey. This cannot be done in one year but the work can properly be started at the next session of the legislature.

Cost $110,000 a Year

"For the first three years the total cost of the various projects will come to about $110,000 a year. These projects fall into the following diseases:

1.—Completion of the soil survey including preparation of detailed maps.

3.—Classification of land for agriculture, forest, recreating or residential purposes.

4.—Survey of the present uses and best adaptations of land including orchards, vegetables, forest, pastures.

5.—Studying the cost of producing milk under the various existing systems of dairying.

"I have long been interested in the general subject of city and of regional planning. The present proposed survey of the whole State is merely an intelligent broadening of the planning which heretofore has been localized. It is a study for a State-wide plan which will include the use of every acre in the whole State.

First Time Tried

"So far as I know, this is the first time in the United States that the city or regional plan idea has been extended to take in the whole state. It will, therefore, be of great interest to everyone who realizes the importance of looking ahead, of using our resources to the best advantage.

"I am particularly happy that the Governor's agricultural advisory commission has looked at this big subject in such a broadminded way.

"The survey which they propose and which I heartedly endorse is necessary before we spend millions of dollars which might otherwise be wasted. It is a good business-like proposition and will in the long run save the agricultural population and also the city dwelling population many millions of dollars thru the more economical production of our forest resources. I am confident that there will be virtually unanimous support for this excellent program from all parts of the State."

POPULAR ANDOVER COUPLE ARE WED

Miss Katherine Dean Bride of E. J. Dawson in Rite at Blessed Sacrament Church.

One of the season's prettiest wedings took place Wednesday at 9 o'clock a. m., in Blessed Sacrament church, where many friends and guests of the bride and groom assembled for the marriage of Miss Catherine E. Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Dean of Andover and Earl J. Dawson, son of Mrs. Margaret Dawson, also of this village.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Maxwell of Buffalo cousin of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Charles E. McHugh, pastor of Blessed Sacrament church, and was followed by a nuptial high mass, sung by the Rev. Charles Maxwell. The vows were said before the altar, which was decorated with phlox and golden glow.

Later a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Chestnut street. The parlors were artistically decorated with sweet peas, golden glow and ferns.

The bride was lovely in white satin gown, fashioned bouffant style, with uneven hem line and ruffles edged in tulle. She wore a hat of horse hair trimmed in white satin, matching her gown with slippers to correspond and carried an old fashioned bouquet tied with wide satin ribbon.

The bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Dean, sister of the bride, wore a yellow georgette trimmed in ecru lace with a jaquette to match and a large picture hat, and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses.

Emmett Dawson, brother of the groom, served as best man, and the ushers were Francis Dean, Howard Leahy, George Dean and Harold Howland, all of Andover.

After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson will reside on Main street, Andover, where Mr. Dawson is established in the undertaking business.

Pre-nuptial events included a variety shower at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Mead, and a linen shower at the home of Mrs. C. L. Lynch.

The News extends hearty congratulations and the best of wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Dawson.

WOULD ESTABLISH COUNTY LIBRARY

Scrap Local Libraries Costing Thousands of Dollars to Make Room for Large County Library.

An effort is being made by a blind-appointed "committee" to arouse sentiment in Allegany county for the establishment of a County Circulating Library, to be located at Wellsville.

Most of the county newspapers, being naturally for everything that has the semblance of progress stamped upon its brow, are being urged to champion the cause of this county library and help to create favorable public sentiment for the project among our citizens.

This proposition sounds well and reads good. But of what earthly benefit to the people of Allegany county would a circulating county library be to our people, which they are not already receiving? Of course, we realize that it might possibly benefit Wellsville a trifle by having the library located there. But we do not believe that the good people of Wellsville are selfish enough to wish to put an added financial burden on the already overburdened taxpayers of this county just to give them another family or so to feed, and to draw a little trade from those who would be drawn to their village because the library is located there.

There is today a splendid free library in nearly every town in Allegany county large enough to be classified as a village. From these libraries any citizen may draw books at his pleasure for himself or his family. We doubt if there is a family now living in Allegany county who could not draw books from some well-stocked local library if they chose to do so. We do not know how other libraries in the county are conducted, but we do know that in Andover any one, whether living in the village or the country miles from town, are urged to avail themselves of the privilege of the library.

It may be that there are counties in the state of New York that really need such a county circulating library, because they do not have local libraries from which to obtain their reading. But that surely is not the case in Allegany county. For not only does most of the various villages have well stocked and well-managed local libraries of their own, but in each village where there is a local high school the state makes them sustain a school library and the state each year grants generous appropriations from which these school libraries can be maintained in ample condition and in a first class manner.

We have been informed by those who profess to know that the grand idea these promoters have up their sleeve is to ask the Allegany County Board of Supervisors for an annual appropriation of from $7,500 up for the establishment and maintenance of the county library. That a library truck is to be purchased by a tax of ten cents a head on all school children in the county. It may be that our august Board of Supervisors will be mesmerized by pretty faces wearing altruistic smiles to the extent that they will vote to increase the taxes of Allegany county people sufficient to meet this appropriation, but we do not believe that they are foolish or senile enough to do so.

We are told that the library scheme is for the purpose of giving the rural people the privilege of the library. Then, in the same breath, that "the pooling of funds makes possible the purchase of technical books ordinarily too expensive for small libraries." Who ever heard of rural people demanding technical books? Just ask the local librarian what class of books rural readers call for. It looks more to us as the some one wanted the rural people to pay for technical books for highbrow living in villages to read.

Before the Andover News can consistently support this project or publish its propaganda, which will tend to scrap all the fine local libraries in the county, we will have to be shown where it will be an improvement and benefit to our people over the already splendid library service they are now receiving.

ANDOVER BOYS AT CAMP SMITH

Accompanied Company K., 108th Infantry to Peekskill and in Camp Five Days. All Had Fine Time

The following Andover boys were at Camp Smith, Peekskill, from Thursday until Monday, playing with the Co. K., 108th Infantry band of Hornell: Oliver Kemp, Harold Bixby, Carol Ruger, Ralph Williams and Malcolm Brundage. Gerald Hann and Harold Lehman, also members of the band, being members of the company, are in camp for the regular two weeks stay. George Simpson and Charles Ackerly of Alfred were also included in the band.

The boys report a delightful trip and time during their five day stay at the camp. The trip of 670 miles was made by motor, making a caravan of eight autos. On the trip to camp they crossed the Bear Mountain Toll Bridge, which is one-half mile in length and affords a wonderful view up and down the Hudson river for miles. They were all housed together while at camp, which added to their pleasure.

While in camp, the boys visited West Point to view an evening parade and saw the 107th Infantry, which bordered the 108th, put on an evening parade for Governor Roosevelt's inspection. They played a concert at the camp Friday night, guard mount Saturday afternoon for the 108th Infantry and Sunday night played again on the 108th campany street receiving many compliments from high officers on each occasion.

The band numbered 43 pieces, including Harry Williams of Hornell, director.

WINNING FAME AT TRAP SHOOTING

Edson Langworthy Broke 193 Pigeons Out of a Possible 200, at the Elimination Contest at Vandalia

A. L. Bloss, listening in over the radio Monday evening to a musical program from WLW, Cincinnati, was surprised when, in the midst of the program, the announcer took the mike and began to give a list of the 20 who had that day qualified for the National Grand American Handicap Trap Shoot tournament being held this week at Vandalia, Ohio. Mr. Bloss was still more surprised to hear the name of E. C. Langworthy of Andover, shooting a score of 193 out of a possible 200, thus qualifying for the national event yesterday and today.

Mr. Langworthy is an enthusiastic trap shooter and is passing the week at Vandalia, attending the tournament.

Everyone has a side-line hobby. Some fish, others hunt and many camp. Edson Langworthy shoots clay pigeons and is mighty good at it too, taking many prizes and getting a real kick from the sport.

Graf Zep Winding Way Around the Earth

Now on Its Way From Tokio to Los Angeles.—Most Astonishing Trip in History.

Lakehurst, N. J., to Friedrichshafen—Friedrichshafen to Tokio—Tokio to Los Angeles—Los Angeles to Lakehurst.

That is the itinerary of the Graf Zeppelin in its round-the-world trip—the most ambitious journey in the skies ever planned, two-thirds of which has now been successfully completed. Expected to land at Los Angeles this week.

The dream is becoming a reality.

Just as Magellan circumnavigated the globe for the first time in a sailing vessel, Dr. Eckener now is circumnavigating it for the first time in an airship. Another maker of history.

The trip was to take 22 days. Leaving Lakehurst, N. J., on August 8, Dr. Eckener has finished the first lap of his journey in the record time of 55 hours, keeping up an average speed of 75 miles per hour, and reached Friedrichshafen without mishap.

When the trip to Friedrichshafen was successfully completed, Dr. Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin, had to turn down literally hundreds of applicants who wished to join the passenger list for the remainder of the world trip.

The journey back to Germany had so conclusively proved the comfort and safety of this mode of travel that persons hesitant before had lost all their fears.

The second lap of the journey, from Friedrichshafen to Tokio, involving a non-stop flight of 6,600 miles was most dangerous of all. For this long flight the dirigible was groomed until it was in perfect shape. This lap of the trip, Dr. Eckener has achieved in 100 hours. Practically no weather information was available on this trip, as the Zep moved east of the Moscow metropolitan district. Siberia and Northern China are uncharted from the airman's point of view, and disaster might go unreported for days.

There are many arrangements for safety, including an extra emergency landing gear for the long trip. In Tokio arrangements had been completed for the reception of the Zeppelin.

At the end of the round-the-world journey the Graf will be immediately refueled and is scheduled to leave within several days for the home port at Friedrichshafen. All members of the crew and passengers are confident that the entire journey will be completed without a hitch, and speak admiringly of Dr. Eckener's carefulness in regard to every small detail of comfort and safety.

World Tour of the Graf Zeppelin

This map graphically illustrates the route of the Graf Zeppelin in its tour around the world now in progress.

COUNTY FAIR IS BETTER THAN EVER

New Features and Fast Races at Angelica Fair, Held August 28th, 29th, and 30th.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed to insure that the Allegany County Fair for 1929 will be the best one ever held. The dates for this year are Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 27, 28, 29 and 30.

In order to show their appreciation of the wonderful patronage received from the people of Allegany county, the fair directors have tried in every way to improve the fair this year. More money is being spent for horse races.

For free attractions this year, the great Captain Cody has been engaged to make a balloon ascension and double parachute drop each day of the fair. He will use a monster balloon 48x70 feet and as it ascends he will perform on a trapeze until at a height of about 5,000 feet when he cuts loose and drops, using two parachutes. An exclusive importation direct from her European triumph will appear at the Allegany county fair this year in the person of Mlle. Lydia Diaz, a splendid artiste, beautiful of face, form and performance. Mlle. Diaz is the only lady in the world doing backward and forward somersaults on the wire. Laddie Lamont has a comedy, equilibristic act calling for the greatest amount of skill and dexterity. Lamont appears on the top of a single ladder 15 feet high and maintains his balance by skillful teetering tho at times his ladder is almost motionless. An amazing array of hazardous feats on the swinging trapeze are presented by Emil Matys, who has been rightly dubbed the "Demon of the Air." An extremely odd and very original European number is offered by Tamnoll who has a very diversified act in which he has been entirely revised and introduces successfully, juggling, hoop rolling, balancing and acrobatic ground tumbling.

Another night of fireworks has been added and the people can enjoy fireworks, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

The premium list has been entirely revised and new classes added. The Grange exhibits have been increased to six and the premiums have been increased for Farm Products, Fruits, Grains, and Culinary Departments and it is expected that the main hall will be filled to overflowing.

Entries are now being received in the livestock departments and indications are for one of the finest displays we have ever had. Work is going forward rapidly on the repairing of the buildings and two new rest rooms are being equipped with sanitary plumbing in order to assure the fair patrons the utmost comfort possible.

The midway has been laid out and the concessions already booked indicate the largest midway ever on the fair ground. The entire fair ground has been rewired and a larger transformer installed in order to supply electricity necessary for the three abreast merry-go-round, ferris wheel and chair plane engaged this year.

Keep Fido in Nights

Supervisor Potter says every dog has his day but none have their nights any more. Since the dog quarantine in Allegany county.

It matters not that your dog is properly licensed. You must keep him confined from sundown to an hour after sunrise every day. There has been appointed two dog wardens to hunt down stray dogs. They are good shots too. So if you like Fido just keep him in nights.
