AndoverHighSchool TIDBITS

The basket ball season of the Andover High School opened Wednesday, Nov. 27th, when the boys' and girls' teams went to Belmont. The games were the opening ones in the new Belmont gym. Even tho both teams met with defeat they put up very good games. Both teams suffered greatly from the loss of their last year's regulars.

Both teams have good material yet to be developed.

Black Ants Valuable to Worry Coco Louse

"Without Black Ants No Coco" reads a sign posted at the entrance of a great plantation in central Java.

It does not go unheeded, for the natives hand in some four million nests of these little creatures every year, and receive payment in return. These black ants live only upon trees infested by the white coco louse.

Neither the louse nor the ants injure the trees. The real enemy is a certain beetle whose name is Helopeltis, which also attacks the tea plant. It has been found that when the black ants are present the Helopeltis fails to injure the trees. Apparently this sap-sucking pest is disturbed by the activity of the ants, for the latter do not attack the beetle.

This is why the black ants are protected. Food is provided for them by picking the white coco lice from the shells of the fruit, where they congregate, and placing them on the coco trees to attract the ants and disturb the beetles.

Rude Rural Rhymes

DISCIPLINE

The Greeks and Romans though, I guess, some god begrudged men happiness. The olden omen is not lost, men knock on wood what time they boast. I should be scared were life too air, with naught of ache and naught of care. Nor need I this belief explain by devils that delight in pain. I'm called to reach a certain height before my life shall end in night. The goal for me is God-decreed, most wise and kindly is His rede. The road that lingers on the plain to that high point cannot attain. The steeper is my present climb the easier my later time; the longer is my level ramble more sharply pitched the final scramble. I grow most rapid in pain. When streams have flooded some fair plain and turned them to their course again, you all have seem on fence or tree a bit of grass or like debris to show how high the flood has been before the river called it in. Never man has higher grown than the trouble he has known. Where sorrow swept me cold and dark there is my soul's high water mark.—BOB ADAMS.

"Corn" or "Maize"

An English writer says: "What a pity it is that we cannot come to some agreement with North America about 'corn and 'maize.' Corn with us means wheat. Across the Atlantic it means maize. So when I read, as I have done just now, that paper has been successfully made from 'corn stalks,' I don't know what is meant. On this paper a daily journal has been printed in the state of Kansas. This looks like being a discovery of far-reaching consequence."
