CORNELL FARM WEEK HAS FINE PROGRAM

Annual Gathering at State Colleges February 12 to 17 of Interest to Whole Family.

The New York State colleges of agriculture and home economics are planning a varied and comprehensive program for this year's Farm and Home Week, February 12 to 17. Foremost among the topics to be discussed is the economic problem, and of especial interest to women are discussions on family finances given from the homemaker's point of view.

W. I. Myers, governor of the farm credit administration, gives an address on agricultural credit. Dr. Myers, who was graduated from Cornell University in 1914, was a member of the staff of the agricultural economics department of the university until last November, when he was appointed governor of the farm administration to succeed Henry Morgenthau, Jr., who became acting secretary of the treasury.

Dr. G. F. Warren, head of the department of agricultural economics and farm management, gives four lectures during the week. Monday he gives some suggestions to young farmers. On Wednesday, he discusses methods of organization for doing the world's work. Thursday, he talks on prices of farm products, and Friday he analyzes the monetary situation.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt speaks on Thursday and Governor Herbert H. Lehman gives an address on Friday. F. A. Pearson, professor of prices and statistics, discusses gold and prices, and the price of gold and commodities in various countries. E. H. Thompson, president of the federal land bank at Springfield, Mass., tells about the facilities of the federal land bank.

The dairyman, the poultryman, the producer of cash crops, the vegetable grower, and the fruit grower, will each have a complete series of lectures covering the entire week, says Professor R. H. Wheeler, who is in charge of arrangements. Also, a large program is planned for the livestock man interested in beef cattle, sheep or swine. Those interested in general farming may choose from the more than 400 lectures, forums and demonstrations scheduled.

A few outstanding topics on the agricultural program are: Credit for farmers; dairy production credit associations, Dr. V. B. Hart; control of disease in dairy cattle, Dr. W. A. Hagen; what proved sires have done for the experiment station herd at Geneva, Professor A. C. Dahlberg; the hatchery code and what it means to the poultry industry, Professor J. E. Rice; what is ahead for the potato grower, Daniel Dean, of Nichols; the revised potato grades: their meaning to New York growers, H. S. Duncan of the state department of agriculture and markets; choosing the orchard soil and site, Professor A. J. Heinicke; the progress of Cornell pasture experiments, Professor D. B. Johnstone-Wallace; demonstrations of killing a beef and a lamb, Professor R. B. Hinman and C. D. Schutt; and demonstrations in crossing plants, Professor A. F. Fraser.

The problems of the consumer are emphasized in the program for homemakers arranged by the New York State college of home economics. Lowering food costs, managing on a reduced income, and judging values in buying, are some of the questions scheduled for discussion. Practical means of saving money, time, energy and health value in the preparation of foods and the selection of clothing, and in household management are suggested.

A round-table discussion on what makes a good day for the rural family is a feature of Tuesday's program. Dr. Ethel B. Waring of the department of family life is chairman. Participants in the discussion will be representatives of the colleges of agriculture and home economics, of the department of hygiene of Cornell University, and of the state departments of health and education at Albany.

Dr. Kurt Lewin, noted child psychologist from the University of Berlin and at present a member of the faculty of Cornell University, will present motion pictures on some of the "whys" of a child's behavior, and will follow the pictures with a discussion.

The nursery school with its attractive toys and equipment will be an inspiration to many of the women. Arrangements are being made for visitors to observe the children under ordinary nursery school conditions.

Included in the large number of home economics exhibits will be those on: home-made play materials, reconditioned furniture, foods for the baby, vegetables for the home garden, and clothing made by the students of the college.

For the farmer or homemaker interested in the home growing of flowers and shrubs, a complete program for the week is arranged by the department of floriculture. Topics for the program include: design in the small flower garden; fertilizer for lawn trees; the control of some pests of ornamentals; and succulents for house plants. Miss Lucile G. Smith gives a lecture-demonstration on the arrangement of flowers.

Dog Owners' Notice

Dog licenses for 1933 expired on December 31, 1933. The 1934 license for is due January 1st. License can be issued to cover the period from January 1 to December 31, 1934. Every dog must wear a tag of the current dog license year. A dog without such a tag is not protected by law and no action can be maintained for his injury or destruction.

An unlicensed dog may be seized and killed and the fact that a dog is without a tag is presumptive evidence that the dog is unlicensed.

Dog licenses must be obtained from the clerk of the city or town where the dog is harbored or kept.

License fees: Male dog $2.25; female dog $5.75; spayed female dog, $2.25. These amounts include clerk's fees.

No license can be issued for less than the full license year.

The owner of a dog who fails or refuses to obtain a license for the dog as required by law incurs a penalty of $10.00 and costs.

The enumerators of towns and the police departments of cities are required to prepare in January of this year a list of dog owners. The omission of the name of an owner from the enumerator's or police list will not excuse the owner from obtaining a license.

If you owned a dog last year and do not own one now, so advise the clerk of your town or city.

Dog licenses in the town of Andover are issued by A. L. BLOSS, Clerk, P. O. Address, Andover. 4

HOGS ARE CHEAP
SOURCE OF FOOD

New Cornell Bulletin Describes the Care and Killing of Porkers in Detail.

Healthy hogs, selected for farm slaughter, may weigh from 150 to 250 pounds, and should be kept off feed from 12 to 24 hours before they are killed, says R. H. Hinman of the department of animal husbandry, at the New York state college of agriculture.

Hogs that are thrifty and reasonably fat produce good meat, he says at from four to ten months of age.

Professor Hinman believes hog-raising for food, under ordinary conditions, is an economy move for farmers. He estimates that less expense is involved, as compared with the price paid for fresh or cured pork; and the farm family can get the meat of its choice.

In killing hogs, Professor Hinman recommends a cut about two inches deep on a small animal and about five inches on a large one. The cut is made from in front of the breastbone and continued back toward the lower jaw. A common butcher knife will do the job.

A new Cornell bulletin describes the home butchering process. It takes up selection of hogs for butchering, care before killing, tools and equipment needed, sticking, scalding, cooling, and cutting the animals.

A free copy may be obtained by writing the office of publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y. Ask for E-272.

Old Allegany Heart Throbs

Belmont's new bridge across the Genesee River has been held up by the finding of quicksand in the foundation areas and by high water.

Little Genesee has the biggest deer story yet. Henry Slade tells of counting 35 on the Lewis and Stone farms west of the Shawmut tracks. It is thought they strayed across the state line from Pennsylvania.

Bolivar restaurants, back in 1895, were being plentifully supplied with wild partridges brought in by farmer boys who were usually paid 70 cents per pair.

Little Genesee boasts a poinsettia plant ten years old in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Bell. It is six feet high and had six blossoms at Christmas time, one measuring 12 inches across. The plant thrives outdoors or in.

Bolivar is to have a new street lighting system on Main street which will do away with its unsightly poles on that principal thorofare.

Hinsdale, Cattaraugus county, is to have a water system and give up dependance upon private wells and springs.

Whitesville and Genesee, Pa., are all "het up" over basketball with teams from each place having won one game. The rubber is in prospect.

Alfred's town board expects to pay off the last bit of indebtedness in 1934.

Friendship saw Mrs. Amy Burdick, long-time Alfred resident, now 87 years old, cook a dinner all herself and serve five guests, Jan. 2nd.

Belfast is pleased over the improvement in the health of Attorney Edward Rutherford, who, tho still confined to his bed, has been able to see some friends and clients.

Andover farmers were getting 60 cents per bushel for potatoes and $10 per ton for hay at this date in 1904.

The Belfast Blaze estimates that nearly 100 Allegany county residents are wintering in Florida.

Allegany county farmers owning their lands in full have decreased in number 684 in ten years, says the United States census bureau.

Hume's justice of the peace, John Kopler, removed from office in June last by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, has again been elected to the office by the voters of that town who recorded their confidence by the largest vote given any candidate for that office. He is also Republican town committeeman, Red Cross chairman and a leading funeral director in that section.

Friendship's town board is handling welfare work itself without remuneration since the resignation of Miss Ina Britton, a paid worker.

Inavale Grange and Cuba Grange held a joint installation of officers at Inavale, Saturday evening. Cuba Grange installing staff doing the degree work.

Wirt boasted a big hog 40 years ago. Fred Carryer butchered one weighing 539 pounds and worth about $32.

Fillmore reports injury to L. H. Jamieson by his Holstein bull which went mad in the pasture and attacked him, pitching him against a fence and knocking him down. His cries for help were heard by the hired man who drove off the animal. The bull was sold—for beef.

Cuba plans for an elaborate celebration of President Roosevelt's 52nd birthday January 30. Funds will be given to the Warm Springs Foundation for infantile paralysis. A presidential ball is to be given.

Angelica has a hotel. The American Hotel, with beer and liquor licenses, has been opened by DeForest F. Gibson.

Cuba is not trifling with drinking CWA workers. Eight were discharged for buying liquor and appearing in public intoxicated. They may not be restored to welfare lists, too.

Allegany county fair directors hold their annual meeting at Angelica, Jan. 22nd.

The world's population is about two billion.

BAKERS' STORE NEWS
Published by Baker Bros. Hardware, Andover, N. Y.

The honeymoon is over when she serves him hot tongue and cold shoulder.

Bad Habits
How silently they approach, how slyly they attach themselves, how tenaciously they cling and the first thing you know they assert themselves and demand control of this that or the other.
That is exactly the way our people established the present custom of buying a large portion of their food, ready to place on the table, and it has become an expensive, dangerous and indolent manner of feeding ourselves and our children. The increasing prevalence of cancer, appendicitis, colitis and many more obscure human ailments are directly traceable to our trying to exist on food of which very much is not fit for human consumption. Our pure food laws are more inadequate than those that apply to the collection of income taxes.
Every family may have a part in breaking up this very bad national habit by preparing all foods in your own household. Don't be a lot of guinea pigs—save health, save money, become happier and more contented and above all, feel that you are having part in a crusade against an evil that threatens the very existence of our entire nation.

Electric Mixers
Fascinating and efficient but the price is enough to wreck the budget of many cooks who would just love to own one.
If that is your condition your next best bet is a Taplin Beater, which has free wheeling, three speeds ahead, automatic gear shift, no vibration and the steering post is enameled a beautiful Cobalt Blue.
Made to sell at 75 cents, a special close out quantity purchase allows us to offer them at the attractive low price of 35 cents or three for one dollar.

The Daily Mess
Do you dread its preparation? Does it tax your energy to think up dishes that will inspire the family appetite? Has the job lost it zest? If so you are trying to get along with tools that are out of harmony with the job.
May we suggest that you put new life into the family work shop with several pieces of 1934 Atlantic Enameled Ware, new in shapes and the color harmony is very pleasing, being the soft gray that will become so popular this year.
