That any dung-lock, an enough sight meaner)
That play show the little fines began;
Skriggins yew know is writin for The San,
A lyin, scandad-nough, black-malin shoes
As character-destroyer hard tew beat.
Its cellice 'a care that afters yelps
At decent people; an of all the wholps
From the old kennel, (Oline of the San,)
Skriggins is sartinly the meanest ene.
Jesue of coarse, pow've read all that ere lingo,
Parportin tew ba writ in San Domingo,
In which the fire is tucked is nouty thickly,
An sich like. I have recently diskirered
Who wit them letters. It was that while livered,
Long legged, punkin headed, red-eyed pup,
Jebanaphak K. Skriggins. Ille gama's up
For this time the'; I mot him Friday night,
Hawing the proofs with me in black an white,
I called the pup a forger an a libr,
An it expected he get mad as figh,
An bit we pooty hefty on the succere,
Vilich slighthally ruised my Bloeneze.
I kinder put my hard sout, and Phat Skriggins
Had just the blackest eye in them air diggins.
The argumin's was kept up with some sperit,
Until I d gin him his Reward of Merit.
I knocked noat is front text, upon thim twice,
Palled out his hair,—which freed the pup from Nee,—
An then. I yew of givin him a warnin,
For time tow come, put tother eye in mearnin.
He looked outpry when we seperated.
For my own part, I was'at much clusted
At my autocess. I lots a paper coller,
A good brase watch-guard,—wuth a halfa dollar,—
Besides Fd almost spille my bran new close,
