JAMES P. CANNON TAKEN SUDDENLY

Life-long Resident and Merchant Succumbs to Heart Attack Friday Morning at His Residence.

The Grim Reaper dealt Andover a most stunning blow Friday morning, June 29, 1934, when news was received of the passing of one of her most prominent and esteemed business men in the person of James P. Cannon. He had been at his post in the Cannon stofe all day Thursday as was his custom. In this store his life has been passed, entering it with his father, Patrick Cannon and then with his brother, John E. Cannon and for a number of years past in his own name, building up a highly successful mercantile establishment, a reputation as a model merchant, a square dealer and a dependable, honest, upright citizen. For 45 years he has served Andover people at the same store.

At about 11 o'clock Thursday night Mr. Cannon was taken with a sudden heart attack. A physician was called and he was relieved and it was believed that he had won the fight for life. But about 6 o'clock Friday morning it was thought another attack occurred, and he passed quietly to his eternal rest. The cause of death being given as angina pectoris.

Mr. Cannon has always been heartily back of every movement for the advancement of Andover and the good of the community. He has always identified himself with every organized effort to better our home town. He loved his Andover and her people. Genial, kind-hearted and a friend to all mankind. In his passing it seems that a part of Andover has been taken from us. He surely was a big part of this community. No one could be more generally or genuinely missed than will he.

James Patrick Cannon was the son of Patrick and Mary Delaney Cannon and was born in Andover, N. Y., June 22, 1871. He received his education in Andover schools and passed his entire 63 years of life as a resident of this village.

In 1906, Mr. Cannon was united in marriage with Miss Sara Riley, who was at the time a member of the faculty of Andover High School.

Besides his wife, the deceased is survived by a daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Cannon and a son, Edward R. Cannon; a sister, Mrs. Jesse S. Phillips of Bronxville, N. Y., and three brothers, John E. Cannon of Andover; Attorney William G. Cannon and Prof. Franklin D. Cannon of New York.

Mr. Cannon was a member of the Blessed Sacrament church, Knights of Columbus, Elks, Chamber of Commerce, Maccabees, Woodmen and Wellsville Country Club.

James P. Cannon was a great lover of music. It might well be said of him that music was his hobby. He was the organizer and leader of Cannon's Orchestra, a musical organization that gained much credit for its technique. He was a skilled violinist, and was happy when directing his orchestra that for nearly 40 years delighted not only Andover audiences with their sweet melody, but those of other towns in Western New York. This orchestra was the first one in Andover to play their music entirely by note. Besides his work with his orchestra, he was possessed with a beautiful tenor voice and was one of the members of the Eutopia Club that all Andover people remember with great pleasure.

Funeral services were held at the Blessed Sacrament church Monday morning, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Herman Gerlach, assisted by Monsignor E. J. Rengel of Olean, Monsignor P. C. Tracy of Wellsville, Rev. Charles McHugh of Olean, Rev. J. J. Sheehy of Buffalo whose combined pastorates in Blessed Sacrament church cover the past 35 years.

Interment was in Gate of Heaven cemetery, Andover.

The relatives from out of town attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse S. Phillips, Miss Mary Elizabeth Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Phillips of Bronxville, N. Y.; Franklin D. Cannon, William C. Cannon of New York; Peter Myles, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lindsay, Mrs. Mary Cannon of Buffalo; Dr. and Mrs. Harry J. McMahon, East Aurora; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Riley of Watkins; Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Riley and family of Geneva.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our most sincere thanks and deep appreciation for the many kindnesses of our neighbors and friends.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL FOR FARMER

Roosevelt Ends Speculation Over Fate of Moratorium Measure by Giving it His Approval.

President Roosevelt Saturday ended speculation over the fate of the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium bill with the announcement that he had signed the measure.

One of the broadest acts yet passed for the relief of any class of debtors, the bill would allow debt-burdened farmers a five-year moratorium if they are unable to reach a satisfactory arrangement with their creditors.

Mr. Roosevelt approved the bill on June 28, but delayed making his action public so he could explain his reasons for signing it.

He said the legislation was in some respects loosely worded and would require amendment at the next session of Congress.

"Nevertheless," the chief executive concluded, "the reasons for signing it far outweigh the arguments on the other side."

Has Faith in Farmers

"There has been a serious lack of understanding of its provisions," Mr. Roosevelt said, "and it has been alleged that insurance companies and other mortgages will suffer severely thru the use of this law by farmers to evade the payment of debts within their capacity to meet.

"I do not subscribe to these fears.

"I have sufficient faith in the honesty of the overwhelming majority of farmers to believe that they will not evade the payment of just debts."

He added that "contrary to the belief of many uninformed persons that this is not a general or wholesale moratorium privilege."

The bill, first advanced by Representative McKeown, Democrat, of Oklahoma, would enable farmers who try to reach a debt settlement thru county conciliation commissions to ask federal courts that they be adjudged bankrupt.

Method Set Forth

The conciliation commissions were authorized during the Hoover administration, but advocates of additional farm debt relief claimed they have helped the producers very little.

After the farmer begins bankruptcy proceedings, the court is to appoint appraisers to arrive at the "fair value" of his land and chattels if liens are held against them.

If that appraisal is satisfactory to the lien holders, the farmers may pay off the indebtedness over a six-year period at rates of interest which begin at one per cent. on the total and gradually rise to five per cent.

Any creditor may block the settlement if he desires. But if he does, the Federal court is authorized to give the farmer a five-year moratorium. During that time the debtor would keep his place and pay a "fair rental value" to be determined by the court.

Will Stop Foreclosures

This rent would be divided among the creditors.

At the end of the five-year period the court may make a new appraisal of the property and the farmer could still be relieved of his debts if the lien holders accept that valuation and it is paid. Otherwise, foreclosure may be resorted to.

"In the actual operation of the law," Mr. Roosevelt said, "it do not believe that losses of capital will greatly exceed, if they exceed at all, the losses that would be sustained if this measure were not signed."

The president said the measure "will stop foreclosures" and that the mere threat of its use should speed the refinancing program of the farm credit administration.

"It will prevent deficiency judgments," he said, "a form of liability which, in the judgment of many thinking business men, ought to be abolished entirely."

A "REPLY" THAT ANSWERS NOTHING

Feeble Attempt Made by Cuba Patriot to Justify Scheme of Unloading Cuba Lake on County.

Editor Cassar R. Adams, in his last week's Cuba Patriot, published what he calls a reply to our recent editorial, "Does Allegany County Need Cuba Lake?" Really, we were disappointed in Mr. Adams' "reply." We thought he could do a better job than he did, for he did not attempt to reply to but one statement that we made. He very charitably says that we were ill-informed, but he failed to point out in what respect we were so ignorant. But he does insinuate that he himself is the original and only wise guy, that he knows it all. Being so wise, Cassar, why have you not told Allegany county people in your "Largest Weekly Newspaper in Allegany County" all about the effort being made to saddle Cuba Lake on to the shoulders of its long-suffering taxpayers of the county, without their knowledge or consent, and not leave it for the "little fellows" to do?

Editor Adams' great stress in his "reply" was made upon our suggestion that the supervisors put it up to a vote of the taxpayers of the county to say whether they wanted this Cuba Lake with all the responsibility that goes with such ownership, or not, by saying: "There is no provisions in the statutes permitting Allegany county or the Board of Supervisors to call a referendum on any proposition." No. Probably not. Neither is there any provision in the statutes prohibiting Allegany county or the Board of Supervisors to call such a referendum. Therefore we are back to the starting point. The supervisors can do as they wish in the matter. If they want to know what the taxpayers think of this proposition all they will have to do is to ask them for their opinion and we opine that they will speedily find out. But we dare say that the promotors of this scheme will never allow the supervisors to hold such a referendum. They know full well what the verdict would be. If the Board of Supervisors are mindful of the wishes of our now overburdened taxpayers they will at least postpone this wild scheme until times are better.

We take exception to the caption Adams placed over his article, for it is false. The News accused no one of "chicanery" in this connection. We simply called the attention of the taxpayers of the county to what was going on. We thought and still believe, that they are entitled to know what is being done with their money.

Here is Editor Adams' "reply," which replies to nothing. It simply is a feeble attempt to give a bit of Cuba Lake history. It will interest some:

No Politics in Cuba Lake Project

"J. Harvey Backus, editor of the Andover News, evidently was wearing vine leaves in his hair when he wrote the editorial, reprinted on page 1 of this week's issue of The Patriot, charging everyone but himself and his journal with ulterior motives in the creation of a county park commission to take over Cuba Lake from the State of New York.

"J. Harvey, who may have just heard of the movement and was thus unprepared, made a faux pas in writing on the subject on which he was so ill-informed.

"In the first place, no one is trying 'to put one over' on Allegany County or its citizens; and secondly, there is no provision in the statutes permitting Allegany county or the Board of Supervisors to call a referendum on auy proposition.

"Thus, before Harvey's movement is started it encounters the impossible. However, while the effects of his tirade will not be felt generally over the county, the editor of The Patriot believes the Cuba Lake project will gain nothing but support if the true facts, not hallucinations, are given.

"Cuba Lake, a state-owned reservoir, was put under the jurisdiction of the Conservation Department of the State of New York when several "down river" politicians of Harvey's present affiliation attempted to steal it, legally, for their own profit. With the formation of the State Council of Parks, a division of the Conservation Department and the seperation of state-owned lands into districts believe that those days are gone. This group, according to its own admission, has no interest in Cuba Lake and would be glad to have it off its hands to devote its entire time to the preserve which A. T. Fancher of Salamanca brought into being. For that reason the commission and the council of parks would turn it over to any political subdivision able to accept it.

"When the commission made its offer to representatives of the Cuba Lake Cottage Owners' Association at Buffalo, these men canvassed the situation. Present state laws permit any county to set up its own park commission, but long-drawn-out legislation would be required for the Town of Cuba to accept Cuba Lake. While Cuba Lake is almost wholly within the limits of the Town of Cuba, there are not more than 30 of its cottages owned in Cuba, while about 50 per cent of them are owned in Allegany County. Thus, the project is not a local but a county one. Local friends of the Lake also felt that the Town of Cuba might be accused of 'grabbing' Cuba Lake for its own benefit, while the charge would not hold true if the Board of Supervisors accept it, rather than allow it to be drained as the commission would like.

"The entire movement for a change in ownership of Cuba Lake has been sponsored by the Cuba Lake Cottage Owners' Association, and not by Cuba politicians, as Mr. Backus charges. The disaster which he predicts has no parallel in fact, for the State of New York has in 15 years collected about 30,000 more in rentals than it has expended in maintaining the lake in its present condition. It is true that cottage owners would like some return for their money, but their demands are nothing if not reasonable, and it is not unlikely that these improvements can be made and a substantial profit earned for the county annually.

"Engineers have stated that the Cuba Lake dam is stronger than the hills which surround it. Outside of highway work, which has already been approved by the county, there is no work to be done at the lake, with the exception of repairing valves in the outlets in the dam. It is planned to send a diver down to estimate the cost of these repairs before final acceptance is made from the state.

Mr. Backus' article failed to state that both the state park commission and the council of parks would drain the lake if they had their own way. Cottage owners pay county taxes on an assessed valuation of more than a third of a million dollars. Should Allegany county cut off its nose to spite its face just to appease a Democratic editor's opposition to a Republican-controlled county or board of supervisors? If so, they are poorer business folk than The Patriot gives them credit for being."

BANK SCHEDULE NOW EFFECTIVE

New Fair Practice Schedule Now Operating—Service Charge Made for Handling Certain Accounts.

The schedule of fair trade practices, governing the operation of member banks of the Alegany County Bankers Association went into effect July 1st, setting up a state of new service charges.

Under the fair trade practices, as outlined by the association and placed in effect, a service charge made for the handling of checking accounts which fall under specific minimum balances.

If the minimum monthly balance account drops below $50 there will be a flat charge of 50 cents for the month. This 50 cent charge will permit five free debit items—checks or withdrawal receipts—and one additional debit item for each $10 additional balance.

A minimum balance of $50 or over will allow five free checks; $60, six free checks; $70, seven free checks, and so on. On accounts where there are no checks or debit items during a month, no charge will be made, regardless of how small the balance is.

The Allegany county banks are among the last in New York State and other parts of the country to put into effect a fair trade practices schedule.

Andover Man is on Chautauqua Program

The name of C. Huber Watson of Andover appears on the Chautauqua program this season. He speaks at the Smith-Wilkes Hall, Tuesday, July 31st at 8 o'clock p. m., on the regular weekly program of the "Bird and Tree Club," of which Mrs. Thomas A. Edison is chairman. The title of Mr. Watson's lecture will be "Nature's Masterpiece—the Bee."

Following the lecture, an out-of-doors demonstration of bees will be given with an observation hive which Mr. Watson will later "set up" for Mrs. Edison at her summer cottage, the Miller Cottage. Her father, Dr. Miller, was one of the principal organizers of the Chautauqua Assembly.

DR. FREDERICK BRUCE HUTT

NAME HUTT TO SUCCEED RICE

Noted Minnesota Professor Takes Charge of Cornell Poultry Department, Succeeding Prof. J. E. Rice.

Dr. Frederick Bruce Hutt of Minnesota succeeds Professor James E. Rice as head of the poultry department at Cornell. Dr. Hutt was professor of animal genetics and poultry husbandry at the University of Minnesota before coming to Cornell. His appointment took effect July 1st.

Professor Rice retired on June 30 after serving for 31 years as head of the department.

The appointee brings to Cornell a wide experience in poultry, including both the practical and research phases. He has owned and managed poultry farms since the age of 12. He worked as a poultryman at the Ontario agricultural college, Ontario, Canada, in 1916 and 1917, and paid all college expenses by raising poultry on his father's farm from 1919 to 1923.

Dr. Hutt obtained his degree of bachelor of science in agriculture from the University of Toronto in 1923; his degree of master of science from the University of Wisconsin in 1925; and his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Edinburgh in 1929 where he specialized in animal genetics and poultry breeding. In addition, he has studied at other institutions.

Many Experiences

Positions held by him in the past have been numerous. He lectured in poultry husbandry at the University of Manitoba and was extension poultryman at the same university from 1923 to 1927. During the years 1928-29 he was assistant professor of poultry husbandry at the University of Minnesota, associate professor from 1929 to 1931, and full professor of animal genetics and poultry husbandry at the same institution since that time. Added to this, he served as extension poultryman in his first year at Minnesota, thereby becoming more and better acquainted with the practical problems of poultrymen. He has had about five years in actual extension work.

In 1929, Dr. Hutt was awarded the research prize of the Poultry Science Association for the most significant research during the year. Overloading Truck Drew $15 Fine

Claude E. Parks, Jasper, driver of truck and load weighing more than 13 tons over the Genesee river bridge at Belmont, posted for bail eight tons. June 20, appeared before Justice Frank D. Welch, Friday, by his attorney, Floyd Whiteman of Hornell, pled guilty and paid a fine of $15. Circumstances surrounding the case were somewhat different than those when Philip Lucci, Buffalo driver, hauling 21 tons, went thru the bridge June 5.

State officials are moving to reduce the weight of some of the weak bridges along highway routes and the two arrests at Belmont are serving as a warning that posting of weight limits means what it says.
