LOCALS SHUT OUT FAST SCIO TEAM

Sunday's Game Seemed More Like Ball Playing on the Part of the Home Team.

The Andover ball team clicked more like a ball team ought to behind Pete Howland's hooks here Sunday, against the Scio team.

Manager Gath surely shook up the line-up, as will be noted from the score for the game and the shake-up proved successful for this game anyway.

Howland pitched a fine game, shutting out the visitors and allowing only five scattered hits, no two of them coming in the same inning and only once did Scio get a runner as far as third base.

A. B. Richardson Dead

Word was received in Andover Thursday morning, August 9, of the very sudden death of Augustus B. Richardson of Fort Worth, Texas, Wednesday.

Mr. Richardson was planning on a visit north to join his wife in Connecticut and also to visit his sister and family in Wellsville and Andover friends.

Mr. Richardson was a former Andover resident and Erie station agent for some years. He has many friends here.

FIRST TO THINK OF CHILDREN

Public Officials, Supervisors and Friends Gather at Health Camp at Cuba Lake for Annual Dinner.

More than 40 Allegany county public officials, supervisors and district and county TERA workers were pleasantly entertained last Thursday evening at the Cuba Lake children's health camp by the Allegany County Public Health and Welfare Association. Dinner was served in the new dining room just built and the new wading and bathing pool constructed this season was inspected by the visitors. Supreme Court Justice Bernard B. Ackerman of Belmont and County Judge Walter N. Renwick of Cuba were among the guests, as was District Attorney Ward M. Hopkins of Cuba. The lake was a beautiful sight from the commanding height of the camp location with its summer cottages, docks and pavilions alight.

Robert H. Bartlett of Cuba and Tulsa, Okla., chairman of the camp committee when the camp was first opened 14 years ago, presided at a brief session following the meal, in which he told of the 1,200 children cared for since the work was begun and of the 800 children under its supervision in 1933, a number of whom have been wards of Children's Court, some of them admitted to the camp.

This year 51 little girls and boys were cared for during the first three weeks of the camp, beginning July 9th, while 48 others are there until August 18th. These were submitted after careful medical examination as undernourished and in need of upbuilding food and proper health habits.

Mr. Bartlett felt the work was of great importance and helpful in avoiding greater expense of care in coming years. He expressed the gratitude of the organization to the supervisors for the financial aid given the camp work, the helpfulness of TERA officials and engineers the Cuba town officials for gravel and hauling, and to contributors over the county.

Mary Ann O'Boyle of Andover, play director, outlined the daily routine of camp life, Supervisor Frank L. Gere of Cuba, chairman of the health camp committee, and Mrs. Frank W. LeClere, executive secretary of the association, spoke briefly of the work for the children of the county.

Atho Mr. Leonard Horan of Elmira, field representative for the State TERA, was present, he did not speak but he has complimented Allegany county on its thoughtfulness for its child life. It is first in his district, covering eight counties, to apply for TERA help for children, thus helping to make its future citizens more independent thru better health. Other counties have sought aid to build homes for the aged, or hospitals, etc., good in themselves, but not as preventive a measure as upbuilding child life.

JAMES YOUNGS IS JAILED FOR DEBT

Languishing in Jail Because He Had Not Paid Markus Judgment for Damages of $10,000.

The danger of driving an automobile without liability insurance is illustrated by the plight of James Youngs of Belvidere, a civil prisoner in Allegany county jail, confined there on a body execution.

More than one year ago Youngs was driving in Cattaraugus county when he met with an accident in which Mrs. Gladys Markus of Olean was injured. He was sued for $7,500 in Supreme Court by the injured woman and for $2,500 by her husband for loss of services. Without funds to engage counsel, Youngs did not defend himself in court and judgment was entered against him after the case went against the defendant by default. When he could not pay, a body execution was secured.

Attorney William R. VanCampen of Belmont has interested himself in Youngs' case and hopes to secure his release within three months thru appeal to the courts and a showing of the circumstances. Youngs' case is one of the few tort actions under which imprisonment for debt is possible in this country at present. Youngs owns a farm but does not operate it and has been employed in Wellsville.

Honey is going to be scarce this year. If your family likes it, better lay in a supply.

Mother and Her Clubs

by LAWRENCE HAWTHORNE

My mother's at the club today!
I don't know jus' which one;
But, anyhow, she's gone away
To have a lot o' fun!
She's got a dozen clubs, I guess,
An' every day or so
She's lookin' up some new address
Where she's supposed t' go!

When she's at home, she's busy, too—
She's always at the 'phone
Advisin' someone what t' do;
An' when she's left alone
She's writin' what the speaker said;
Or checkin' her accounts
T' find out why they're "in the red
In such absurd amounts."

Las' year my mother said that she
Was through for good an' all—
She simply wasn't goin' t' be
In any club that Fall!
But when she told 'em she was done,
An' all her friends got sore,
She kept her place in every one—
An' joined a couple more!

HARVEST HOME DAY THURSDAY, AUG. 16

Fine Program of Speaking and Music is Being Arranged. Chicken Pie Dinner at 12 Noon.

The day of days that this community always looks forward to as one of the finest of the summer events, Harvest Home, will be observed by the Andover Presbyterian church this year next Thursday, August 16.

This is home-coming day for all Andover people, who have learned to love and enjoy the pleasant occasion during the 57 years since its institution. People have learned to attend it because of the many pleasant memories it has brought them and the opportunity it affords to again greet our many old friends and neighbors, for we know they are all to be here on that day.

The committees of arrangements are now all busy looking out for all the details that will tend to make the 1934 Harvest Home the best one ever held, so every one may rest assured of a fine day and a successful and happy time.

This year several short addresses from representatives of pioneer families of the church will be among the interesting features on the program. You will want to hear them and will regret it if you do not.

There will be a splendid band concert by the American Legion Band and numerous vocal and instrumental selections including solos, quartettes, etc.

One of the things in life that gives us the incentive to enjoy our being is the privilege we have to meet and greet one another in social gatherings such as this Harvest Home gives us the opportunity to enjoy, where we may visit with our old friends and make worthwhile new friends. For over a half century Andover people have learned to make good use of this beautiful custom.

The chicken pie dinner will be served promptly at 12 o'clock under the great Harvest Home tent and church parlor. And such a chicken dinner as the ladies of the Presbyterian church, with 50 years of experience can always produce!

Make all your arrangements to come to Andover early in the day and remain until after the last attraction on the program will be concluded. Some sort of sports program will be ready to entertain you at the new athletic field after the program at the church lawn has been concluded. There is to be something doing every instant from 12 noon until evening.

Firemen's Convention

The largest crowd in the history of Wellsville, it is claimed, gathered there for the convention Friday, of the Southwestern Association of Volunteer Firemen.

The parade was spectacular as company followed company in glittering uniforms of both firemen and their attending bands and auxiliaries.

Eden fire company was awarded first prize, $20, as the best appearing company in line. Second prize, $10, went to Holland fire department. Ripley hose company $25 for traveling the longest distance and Franklinville $20 for the largest number of men, 54, in line.

For Allegany county, Angelica fire department best appearing company in line; Friendship department second, with honorable mention for Scio, Cuba and Fillmore companies.

Andover fire department and the American Legion Band received many compliments as they passed in the parade. The boys certainly looked fine as they left town enroute to Wellsville and much to their credit came home looking the same, which is more than we would venture to claim for some of them.

Gowanda was selected to entertain the 1935 convention and East Aurora for the 1936. Judge Benjamin Milne of Cheetowaga was elected president of the Association.

Rain Makers

Besides being able to produce fine music, the American Legion Band have established a reputation for rain-makers. Every Thursday since the band began their concerts it has rained. The village Board says it is worth the price of admission to get the rain.

So, should you be given the opportunity to assist the band in the near future, remember all of their philanthropic deeds in making your donation.

NEW STATE ROAD NOW IN PROSPECT

Also New Bridge Across Genesee River at Belmont is Promised, Beginning This Fall.

Opening of bids for the construction of the new Phillips Creek-Belmont state highway, nine miles long, completing the route from the county seat to Alfred has been advertised to be held August 17th by the state highway department. A new route will be followed, surveyed to the north of the present circuitous road following the stream.

State highway engineers have assured Belmont town and village officials that a new bridge over the Genesee river in that village is to be built, beginning this fall, possibly as early as October. An ornamental cement structure befitting its scenic location beside the curving dam which holds waters still and saves further washing of highway and residence lots within the village is promised. The state will take over the detour across the new Genesee street bridge and over a light bridge across Phillips Creek near its mouth and will shore up the last-named structure to make it safe for heavy traffic during the period of construction on Schuyler street.

Resurfacing of the Belmont-Belvidere state road and the building of a stretch of concrete thru "cio, with the new work noted above will keep some workers busy in the county hub for some months.

SELFISH FEW ARE SEEKING CONTROL

President Says Private Interests Are Entrenched Strongly. Trying to Exploit National Resources.

Glacier National Park, Mont., August 5.—President Roosevelt in his first talk to the nation since his territorial inspection tour asserted tonight the government was just beginning its fight to save the resources of agriculture and industry from "the selfishness of individuals."

"We have won the greater part of the fight to obtain and to retain these great public properties for the benefit of the public, Mr. Roosevelt told the nation in this great park of the government. "We are at the threshold of even more important a battle to save our resources of agriculture and industry against the selfishness of individuals."

Develop Power Sites

The President spoke from Two-Medicine Chalet after a circle of this park of miniature glaciers and natural beauty.

"People understand, as never before, the splendid public purpose that underlies the development of great power sites, the improving of navigation, the prevention of floods and of the erosion of our agricultural fields, the prevention of forest fires, the diversification of farming and the distribution of industry," he said.

"We know more and more that the East has a stake in the West and the West has a stake in the East, that the nation must and shall be considered as a whole and not as an aggregation of disjointed groups."

Development of the national parks "has not been a simple bed of roses" the President asserted.

Fight Protective Groups

"As in the case in the long fight for the preservation of national forests and water power and mineral deposits and other national possessions, it has been a long and fierce fight against many private interests which were intrenched in political and economic power. So, too, it has been a constant struggle to protect the public interest once cleared from private exploitation at the hands of the selfish few.

"We are definitely in an era of building, the best kind of building—the building of great public projects for the benefit of the public and with the definite objective of building human happiness.

"I believe too, that we are building a better comprehension of national needs."

Provide Small Farms

Reviewing briefly his visits Friday and Saturday to the Bonneville, Ore., and Grand Coulee, Wash., power projects, Mr. Roosevelt expressed confidence that "many families in the days to come * * * will thank us of this generation for providing small farms upon which they will at least be able to make an honest and honorable livelihood."

The President pointed out to the national park service as "an example of efficient and forward-seeing governmental administration." A permanent park policy, he said, had never been undertaken by any other country "in such a broad way for protection of its natural history treasures and for the enjoyment of them by vast numbers of people."

"There is nothing so American as our national parks," he declared. "The scenery and wild life are native and the fundamental idea behind the parks is native. It is in brief, that the country belongs to the people, that what it is and what it is in the process of making is for the enrichment of the lives of us all."
