LOCAL AUTO CLUB WILL "CARRY ON"

Members Vote Against Merger With Wellsville Club. Will Add Insurance and Bail Bond Next Year!

At a meeting of the membership of the Andover Automobile Club, held in Firemen's Hall, Friday evening, it was decided to retain the Andover club instead of merging with the newly organized Wellsville club.

The officers of the Andover club feel that they can give their members the same advantages that the Wellsville club is offering for a lot less money. There will also be some changes in the club program for another year. In the first place the dues will have to be $5 a year, as that is the minimum dues any club can charge in New York State. The club will offer the same towing service it has now, the Motordom magazine, the bail bond feature and the insurance for $5 per year. The Wellsville club is to charge $7.50 for the same service and anticipates a raise in the near future to $10.

The only thing that seems to be standing in the way of the program as outlined above for the local club is the matter of maintaining a membership large enough to hold its charter. A club has to have 100 members to hold a charter, the Andover club now has over 90 members and the opinion of the membership last Friday evening was optimistic in regards to getting the needed three or four members.

The direct benefits to the individual member from the outlined program of insurance, bail bond, towing service, etc., is well worth the price of the club dues, to say nothing of the benefits the motorists receive by supporting a "watch dog" in Albany, to keep an eye out for any legislative move that would work more financial hardships on the already overtaxed motoring public.

If you are not a member of the Andover Club, think the club benefits over a little and see any of its officers who will gladly give you detailed information on the working of the club. It is well worth $5 a year to you.

ADOPTS NEW PLAN OF COMPENSATION

Allegany County Invites Town and Village Boards to Join With Them in Mutual Insurance.

Belmont, Nov. 24. — Allegany county supervisors committed the county and such towns and villages as elect to join with it in the establishment of an assessment plan of compensation insurance, to begin January 1st, along the same lines as that followed in Steuben, Chautauqua and other counties under state law, at Friday afternoon's short session. The ways and means finance committees had been busy during the forenoon and continued work after adjournment at 3 p. m. in the hope of submitting a budget for adoption Saturday and concluding the 1934 annual session.

When Friday's session opened Supervisor Harry E. Goodrich, Richburg, introduced W. L. Nuttall of Sherman, Chautauqua county, a supervisor there for 32 years and present chairman of the finance committee of the board, and he was given the privilege of the floor. He and his son, H. A. Nuttall, were in Belmont for a few hours on business.

Mr. Nuttall told of efforts in the building of a $135,000 court house in Mayville. He said the annual budget there was over one million dollars three years ago, was cut 28 per cent two years ago and ten per cent last year. Unpaid taxes are a problem there, with the county borrowing funds to cover the lack of such payments. Too many residents there are depending on relief in his county, said Mr. Nuttall. Their morale has been badly lowered by the depression, he believes.

Compensation Resolution

The resolution covering compensation insurance, introduced by the highway committee, of which Supervisor Ray S. Deck of Independence is chairman, was seconded by Supervisor John N. Thompson of Angelica. It read as follows:

"WHEREAS, Section 50, Subdivision 3-A, of the Workmen's Compensation Law empowers the board of supervisors of Allegany county to adopt a plan for mutual self-insurance on the assessment plan with the towns and villages within the county which elect to participate in such plan for the payment of compensation to the employees of the county and of the several participating municipalities including volunteer firemen to the limits fixed by Section 205 of the general municipal law, and

"WHEREAS it is the desire of this board of supervisors to enter into such a plan with the towns and villages within the county, now, therefore be it

"RESOLVED, that this Board of Supervisors offers to enter into such a plan with the towns and villages within the county, now, therefore be it

"RESOLVED, that this Board of Supervisors offers to enter into such a plan with the various towns and villages which elect to participate with the county in such a plan, and be it further

"RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be delivered by the clerk of this board to the various governing bodies of the towns and villages and be it further

"RESOLVED, that such governing bodies of the towns and villages file a copy of their resolution with the Board of Supervisors on or before the 20th day of December, 1934 and be it further

"RESOLVED, that such resolution adopted by the various governing boards shall specify that they agree to enter into such a plan in accordance with the law, and be it further

"RESOLVED, that the Board of Supervisors reserve the right to withdraw its offer to enter into such a plan unless they deem a sufficient number of municipalities have agreed to participate in the same."

Plan Explained

A detailed explanation of the plan was made by Clerk Denzil G. Perkins, who was chairman of the highway committee during investigations into it. He answered questions of members about its workings.

Rates charged would be the same as those paid established companies at the inception of the plan and cases would be revived by state compensation adjusters. Assessments would be levied according to the assessed valuation of the towns and villages participating. Committees would be set over districts before which claims would have to come and the supervisor of the town affected would become a member of that committee. These points were brought out in discussion.

An unexpected friend to the plan was found by Supervisor Nutall, who had remained for the session. When called upon he explained that some such plan had been working in Chautauqua county for five years and that savings to some towns had reached as much as 75 per cent of former costs. Practically all towns participated. A Jamestown insurance man looked after its workings for the county and towns on a part-time basis.

Several supervisors stated their towns were now ready to enter into the plan.

Copies of the resolution were given each supervisor for consideration of town boards.

The mileage for the trip was 1,430 miles with an expense covering all gasoline, oil, lodging and meals of $33.64.

Thanksgiving

Cause For Thanksgiving

It seems to us that, as a nation, our most profound cause for thankfulness this Thanksgiving Day is that we have got over being afraid. If we read the signs of the times aright, a new courage is possessing the people of the United States; the moral courage to make the best of things as they are and to try by our own efforts to make them better.

Not everybody, of course, has got out of the habit of leaning on Government for help instead of trying to help himself. But it seems to us that we meet fewer timid souls who throw up their hands and declare that there is no use trying, than there were in evidence a year ago.

Nobody will contend that we have yet reached the era of "good times." It may and probably will take a long time yet to clear away the last vestige of the depression, but few are any longer afraid that things will keep on getting worse.

If we compare what we have to be thankful for with what our forebears who established Thanksgiving Day had, we can count ourselves immeasurably blessed. They had literally nothing to be thankful for except that for a whole year they had escaped starvation! The fear of famine was always present before them. Here in America nobody has been permitted to come within imagining distance of starvation, and one of the great problems we have been trying to solve this year is how to reduce our national surplus of food.

Compare our situation with that of the rest of the world and we can find plenty of evidence that it is every American's duty to give thanks this Thursday for greater measures of comfort, liberty and the means of happiness than the people of any other land enjoy.

Those are things to think about this week.

UNION SERVICE AT BAPTIST CHURCH

United Thanksgiving Service to be Held Thursday Morning. — Special Music.

There will be a united Thanksgiving service held in the First Baptist church on Thursday evening at 10:30 a. m: Thanksgiving sermon by the pastor. Scripture reading by Rev. W. C. Pero and prayer by Rev. W. L. Greene. Special music will be rendered by the union choir.

Violin solo by Mrs. Baker.

Cello solo by Miss Williams.

For the Puritans of the Massachusetts Bay Colony in the cold bleak year of 1621, it was a famine year. The poor Colonists had been fasting for many long lean months, waiting for a ship from England with provisions. In the month of February it arrived, so the day was turned into a day of prayer and sincere thanksgiving. They went to church before they partook of their Thanksgiving dinner, to give thanks to their Heavenly Father for all blessings.

A cordial invitation is extended to all in our community to participate in this service of Thanksgiving.

Andover Odd Fellows at Friendship

The third degree team of Andover I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 786, journeyed to Friendship last Thursday evening and conferred the degree for that lodge.

The Andover lodge conferred the degree in their usual fine manner, receiving many compliments upon the work. A fine supper was served by the Friendship lodge following the degree.

There were 32 Andover Odd Fellows present at Friendship, 27 of whom made the trip in "Jim" Wentworth's new school bus. This was the first time the degree team has traveled by bus. The plan worked out so well, however, that future trips will undoubtedly be made in the same manner.

ANDOVER ATTORNEY WINS DROUGHT CASE

Jury Favors Tenant in Portville Case Involving Hay Shortage Caused by the Drought.

Possibly the first case in this vicinity to be submitted to a jury involving the question of the shortage of hay because of the drought, between landlord and tenant came to trial at Portville, N. Y., recently.

About two years ago Samuel Ward moved his family from Belmont to work a farm of 400 acres with 30 cows on shares in the town of Portville, and at the expiration of the term November 1st a dispute arose over the settlement.

The owners of the farm, Howard C. Young and Gertrude Stowell as plaintiffs, brought action against Mr. Ward and because he was moving back to Allegany county, took advantage of that section of the law which allows attachment proceedings where a person moves from the county with intent to defraud his creditors, altho apparently such was not the condition in this case, and attached a tractor and other personal property of the defendant.

Upon the trial it developed that the principal controversy was over the clause in the lease which provided that the tenant should leave the same amount of hay as found on the premises at the beginning of the term. It also appeared that the farm had heretofore always produced hay sufficient to feed the stock, and that the shortage of hay, the defendant claimed was not contemplated by the conditions under which the lease was made.

The plaintiffs claimed a shortage of 30 tons. It was conceded on the trial that there was some shortage of hay but a surplus of straw.

It appeared that the lease was drawn by the plaintiff's attorney, Judge Walter N. Renwick, in accordance with the plaintiff's direction who afterwards submitted it to the defendant who accepted it without consulting any lawyer, the lease was very strongly worded in favor of the plaintiff and technically would seem to require the defendant to leave the required amount of hay without regard to the shortage caused by the drought.

The defendant contended that the drought caused an emergency condition prevalent thruout the country which required farmers to resort to different and unusual feeding conditions, therefore it was proper to substitute straw for feed and use straw and other materials for bedding.

It was conceded that Mr. Ward had secured and cared for the hay and other crops in a proper manner and the defendant presented his case to the jury on the theory that right and justice should prevail. That the conditions were unusual and beyond his control and that so long as there was sufficient fodder including straw to winter the cattle, he should be relieved of the enormous burden of supplying the deficiency in hay.

The plaintiffs argued for their rights under the constitution be strictly enforced and the defendant came back with the statement that emergency conditions even caused the United States government to repudiate its agreement to pay in gold.

At the end of the trial, which lasted about five hours the jury brought in a verdict of no cause of action which not only relieved the defendant, but required the plaintiff to pay the cost of the action, and the attachment proceedings.

William H. Mountain, Jr., of Olean was attorney for plaintiffs and Crayton L. Earley, attorney for defendants.

SHOULD CHECK WINTER FEED NOW

Better to Know Just What Feed Situation is Now, Says Allegany Farm Bureau Agent Foster.

Dairy farmers in Allegany county are taking stock of their winter feed supplies to determine if they will have a sufficient quantity to carry their livestock thru the winter, says Earl C. Foster, County Farm Bureau agent at Belmont. The drought of last summer reduced the hay crops to 30-50 per cent of normal and many milk producers are faced with the problem of knowing what to do. Will they sell cows, will they buy hay or make other adjustments?

As Mr. Foster points out, before any adjustments can be properly made, an inventory of the available feed supplies and what the livestock requirements are is the first essential. Many dairymen in Allegany county have already made an accurate appraisal of their feed supplies. They have listed the tons of hay, straw, silage, corn stalks and other roughage on hand. They have taken into account the number of cows, heifers, bulls, calves, horses and sheep they must feed. Since dairy cows will require for the winter at least two tons of hay or its equivalent, they can easily figure if their available feed supply will be sufficient.

One farmer who recently checked up on his feed supply found that he had 10 tons of hay, 3 tons of oat straw, 3 tons of corn fodder and 50 tons of corn silage in his silo. His livestock consisted of 15 cows, 6 heifers, 1 bull, 4 horses and 3 calves. There was his situation—60 tons of roughage and 29 head of stock to winter. In feeding value in terms of hay, this man had but 30 tons. His livestock needs were about 60 tons. He had about half enough roughage to carry his stock until pasture next spring.

The point which Mr. Foster brings out is that farmers should find out as early as possible if they are short of home-grown feed for the winter. It is much better to know as soon as possible the situation is, rather than wait until next February or March to make the required adjustments which are sure to be necessary upon many farms of this county.

Chautauqua Saved For Future Service

It is good news that friends of "Chautauqua" have come to the aid of that famous institution, so that the outlook is good that it will be able to pay off its debt of $750,000 and continue the cultural work which it began 60 years ago.

The assembly grounds on the shores of Chautauqua Lake, with its neat cottages, amphitheatre and other public buildings has been one of the most attractive spots in Western New York.

Andover, in years gone by, boasted a Chautauqua Circle which, with its instructive and enjoyable programs, was one of the best, finest and most beneficial organizations ever in our village.

We also had those who owned cottages at Chautauqua Assembly grounds and Chautauqua diplomas well decorated by seals for extra work, were owned by many of the members of the society.

The News bespeaks for it future success as one of the worthwhile institutions and pleasure spots of the state.
