MISCELLANEOUS.

"Treating."

There is one social custom that strikes us as unusually absurd—namely that of "treating." It is peculiar to America. Travelers say that one may go all over the continent of Europe, of Asia, and of Africa, and not see a man except an American, except an American, except an American.

The Frenchman is quite social enough, but when they go into a restaurant, each man pays for his own dinner, and when they go into a saloon, each man pays for his own drink. But when they go into a saloon, each man pays for his own drink. But when they

Success.

Success in life is rare. Far than it is, if the world knew what it really is. The majority of men and women, under the light of the sun, do not understand the real meaning of the term. For the vast majority are content with the acquisition of a few dollars and the possession of a few things, and they are content with
