TRIM CLOTHES FROM TRIM FINGERS

A well-kept shape means more than a figure free from bulges. An attractive figure must also be clothed in neat clothes to present that desired trim appearance, says the New York State college of home economics. Skirts that bulge in the back, wrinkles that pull a garment out of line, and sleeves that are out of shape at the elbow, all add the impression of pounds and years to the figure.

To keep clothes neat and trim requires thought and care while they are worn, as well as careful cleaning and pressing. Dresses, coats or suits that are thrown on chairs, hung on nails, or allowed to slump to the floor in a closet, soon show the result of careless handling. Each time a garment is taken off, it should be hung in place carefully. The hanger should correspond to the line of the shoulder. A padded hanger is especially good for certain clothes that show every mark, such as velvet dresses.

Clothes should also be worn carefully. Wrinkles that run across the middle of the front of a coat may be caused by sitting down in a tightly-fitting garment, before it has been first loosened. Buttons and buckles may pop off rapidly no matter how tightly they are sewed on, when a garment is pulled off with too great zeal and speed. Unfortunately, some of the material of the garment also may come with them.

Bulges in sleeves generally come from unnecessary leaning on elbows, while bulges in the back of coats and skirts may come from too much sitting or incorrect sitting. Take off your coat at the theatre instead of sitting on it. Be sure that your skirt has not been put on in too much of a hurry. This frequently causes that bulge in the back.

Recipe for the Week
VANILLA CARAMELS
(A Delicious Christmas Candy)

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
¼ cup butter or mayonnaise
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup light or coffee cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Combine all of the ingredients but the vanilla. Place over a low heat and bring slowly to the boiling point, stirring frequently. Cook slowly until a little of the mixture forms a firm ball in cold water. Remove from heat and add vanilla and turn into a greased pan six by six inches. Cool and cut into one inch squares. Makes about 1½ pounds.

Bridge Tables

Stronger and more durable than those offered in the past.

Some genius found a way to make them better and sell them cheaper. Worth $1.75, but we offer them as a holiday special at $1.19. Come in and see them.

Daily Household Hints

1.—Don't turn off the water faucets with all your strength, as it is very hard on the washers and means new ones soon. Turn off the spigots so that all the water has stopped running and then stop turning.

2.—If the percolator becomes stained inside, put one teaspoonful of borax, some soap chips and hot water into it and then boil. Rinse thoroly with boiling water and dry well.

Oilcloth Runners

Three by six feet—this week at 99c.

Many hot-headed people have cold feet.
