Will Organize Sons of American Legion Squadron

Local Legion Post Sets Wheels in Motion for a Local Sons of the American Legion Squadron.

At a meeting of the eligible boys and their parents, held in Legion hall Tuesday evening, it was definitely decided to organize a squadron of the Sons of the American Legion in Andover. The organization was started at this meeting with 14 boys signing up for membership.

The Sons of the American Legion is a national organization, conceived and sponsored by the National American Legion in convention at Boston in 1931 and after a year's study was adopted by the National Legion in conventioon at Portland, Oregon in 1932.

Any son, adopted son and stepson of a member of the American Legion and such descendants of male and female veterans who died in service during the World War, or who died subsequent to honorable discharge from such service are eligible to membership.

The ground work for this organization has been very carefully studied out with a simple but impressive ritual and initiatory service, and a ten-point program of activities, namely: Patriotism, Health, Knowledge, Training, Honor, Faith, Helpfulness, Courtesy, Reverence and Comradeship.

Any boy wishing to join the Sons of the American Legion squadron who has not done so, should get in touch with any of the following Legion committee at once: Ralph Shaff, Ralph Burgett, Ernest Burdick, Harold Hardy, C. C. Backus. The charter will remain open for a short time for the benefit of others who may wish to become charter members of the squadron.

Following the business meeting, Dr. Common entertained the group with motion pictures of Andover scenes, the Baker-Shaff camp at Long Lake, and the National Exchange trip to Florida, Key West and Cuba. Refreshments were served by the members of the Auxiliary.

Regional Director Social Security Makes Statement

Unemployment Insurance Payments Not Deductible From Federal Old-Age Insurance.

Joseph D. Canty, manager of the Jamestown, N. Y. field office of the Social Security Board, today called attention to an announcement by Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, regional director of the Social Security Board for New York State, in which she stated that payments which unemployed workers receive under the New York State Unemployment Insurance Act will not be deducted from the payments they will ultimately receive, if eligible, under the Federal old-age insurance program of the Social Security Act.

Mrs. Rosenberg's announcement was made, Mr. Canty said, to correct erroneous belief on the part of some unemployed workers that such deductions were to be made, or were being contemplated.

"The payment of unemployment insurance," Mrs. Rosenberg stated, "is entirely a State matter, under a State agency, and has no administrative connection whatever with Federal Old-Age Insurance, which is altogether Federal in nature."

Mrs. Rosenberg believes that the misunderstanding as to the separability of the two systems may have arisen because most workers in the State are covered by both, and payments under both are based on past earnings reported by the employer. Also, she pointed out, the State agency uses for unemployment insurance administrative purposes the worker's Social Security account number assigned him under the Federal Old-Age Insurance program.

Densmore—Clarke

Miss L. Naomi Densmore of Oswayo, Pa., and Decatur M. Clarke of Independence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Clarke, were united in marriage at Independence, Mar. 5, 1938, Rev. Walter L. Greene officiating.

Jack Dolan in Batavia Veterans Hospital

Jack Dolan, who has been in ill health for the past year, and for the past week has been seriously ill, was taken to the Veterans hospital in Batavia Tuesday by Earl Dawson. Mrs. Dolan and James McDonough, commander of the local American Legion post, accompanied him.

No reports have been received, other than that he stood the trip very well.

Centralization of Schools Making Rapid Progress

Nearly 100% of Favorable Signatures From Many School Districts. They See Many Advantages.

It is gratifying to report that during the past few weeks rapid progress has been made in the perliminary step necessary for the establishment of a central school district in the Andover area, namely, getting signers from the voters in the rural districts to petitions requesting that a central district be established. The Commissioner of Education has ruled that a central district will not be laid out until he has been assured that a majority of the rural people in the whole area want such a school.

An active committee of Andover citizens and members of the board of education have been at work studying the possibilities and advantages of the central school plan and presenting them to the people of the rural districts. Meetings have been held in many of the rural districts at which facts about the proposed centralization have been given and opportunity afforded for asking questions.

Many of the rural districts have already signed up in large majorities. The Elm Valley district turned in a petition with 73 voters' names affixed—nearly 100 per cent. The Cobb District petition was signed 100 per cent.

A few districts are still showing hesitancy, but it is expected that these will fall in line with the great majority of voters from other districts. It is not necessary to get a majority of signers in each district, just in the whole area.

It is expected that petitions will be completed and presented to the Commissioner of Education by April 1. If it meets with his approval the district will be laid out and then the proposition will be put to the vote of all the people in the district who are school voters.

Central School Offers Advantages To Rural Districts

The central school plan offers many advantages to the rural districts as well as to the village district. Under the central school plan the rural people have a high school of their own to which they may send their children and in the running of which they have some voice through a board of education that is elected at large from the entire area. This central high school can provide many more advantages, a large building with manual training shops, cafeteria and other rooms, many added courses and higher paid teachers, and transportation for all children, all at state expense through the much increased state aid that central schools receive.

The central school provides the advantages of graded instuction for all 7th and 8th grade pupils and for all grades, if the district wishes it. The rural school, however, cannot be closed except by a vote of the people in that individual district.

In a central district there is a closer bond of union between the rural and village people and the plan gives to the rural boys and girls educational advantages that only city pupils have had heretofore, and it provides these advantages at very little increased cost to the districts.

Alice Baker on Music Club Program

Mrs. Alice Rogers Baker participated in a very pleasing and talented manner in the musical concert given Sunday afternoon at the Nancy Howe auditorium in Wellsville. Mrs. Baker has studied for the past two years under the celebrated Edwardo Barbieri at Rochester and is first violinist in the Auburn Symphony orchestra of 70 pieces and frequently a violin soloist with the orchestra. Her violin classes now number 78 pupils.

Receives Invitation to Attend Milk Discussion Meeting at Albany From Commissioner Noyes.

William Woodruff is in Albany today (Friday) attending a conference at the request of Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets Holton V. Noyes, for a general discussion of the surplus milk situation in New York State.

Commissioner Noyes in his invitation stated that the conference would discuss the question of whether it was practical and feasible to undertake a general co-operative farmer movement to regain control of surplus milk by enlarging farmer owned plants. This will take the surplus milk now flooding the New York market and making it into cheese, at home, reclaiming the cheese industry.

In part Commissioner Noyes said: "I consider the matter of so much importance that I am writing this personal invitation to you and others interested in the welfare of our farmers I urge again that if it is possible you attend so that we may have the benefit of your helpful council."

Mr. Woodruff was also honored the past week by an invitation which came with a re-order of Woodruff cheese from the National Press Club of Washington, D. C., to attend the "Old Timers" dinner put on in the National Press Club auditorium on March 18th. The invitation came thru C. A. Hamilton, treasurer of the club.

The Andover fire department met last Friday evening for their regular monthly meeting. The most important business of the meeting was the nomination of officers.

It was voted by the company to hold a special meeting Tuesday evening of next week, March 15th, at which matters of importance will be brought up.

Following the meeting the boys enjoyed refreshments. A fine new grill, presented the department by Benjamin & Burdick of Andover, was used for the first time in preparing the lunch and proved a valuable and much appreciated addition to their kitchen equipment.

Maple Products Higher In Price This Season

Maple Sugar Industry is Money-Maker For Farmer At a Not Busy Season, It is Shown.

As the time draws near for tapping the sugar bush, all producers will be pleased to learn that the price established for syrup in drums is higher than for many years this season. Natural Sugars, Inc., of New York City has announced prices as follows:

Fancy syrup	13c lb.
No. 1	12c lb.
No. 2	10c lb.
No. 3	9c lb.

with one-fourth cent additional on all grades for syrup testing 37 baume test, and one-half cent per pound if it tests 38.

A. O. Kemp of Andover is buyer for this company in this section.

While the price of nearly all farm products is much lower than a year ago, maple syrup happens to be the exception, and it will pay the farmers well to tap every available tree. This company has built up an enviable reputation for square dealing with the producers and their business is increasing rapidly.

I. H. Gilfillan, field representative of the company for New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, reports that he has over 1,500 drums out on the territory which he covers. With an average year for production, they will all be filled which means about 75,000 gallons of syrup.

Less than half the maple trees in this area are being tapped. There is always a market for maple syrup and it is a cash crop. While the ice storm two years ago did considerable damage, it was not nearly as bad as people thought and it would seem to be a short-sighted policy to cut down the sugar bush. Farmers in this vicinity, as well as nearly every other syrup producing section, who are manufacturing syrup in a businesslike kind of way, with modern, fast-boiling equipment, are making money. In the long run it is up to the producer. If he isn't afraid of a little hard work there is money in making maple syrup and maple sugar.

Reduced Fire Insurance Cost

A. L. Bloss of the Henry Stephens Insurance Agency has been able to obtain a material reduction in the cost of fire insurance on property outside the village of Andover and within two miles of the corporate lines.

Such property will hereafter be in Class C instead of Class D, as now charged. This will make a reduction of 66% in the cost of fire insurance to those residing in this territory. This reduction was made possible because of the service of the Andover Fire Department in protecting this area.
