Closing Date for the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program Sign-Up

Belmont, N. Y., May 16. Closing date for participating under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program has been officially announced by A. W. Manchester, director of the program in the Northeast. The date set is May 31, and all types of farms are included in this order. After the 31st of May, the acceptance of an application for payment may be refused, if a farmer has not filed a work sheet prior to that time. Farmers may file a work sheet by calling at the Farm Bureau office at Belmont any time between now and May 31st. There will be no extension of this time.

In Allegany county a total of 1,105 farmers have filed work sheets, as compared to over 1,400 filed during 1937. Of these 1,105, 350 farms are classified as "A" farms, the remainder being "B" farms. "A" farms are those that county committees set an allotment for—and in Allegany county they might be described as commercial potato, and wheat farms.

The Allegany County Agricultural Conservation Committee have met and set allotments on "A" farms. Just as soon as they have approval of these allotments from the state committee, notices of these allotments will be sent to participating "A" farms.
