REACH THAT GOAL

This week opens the 1938-39 basketball season with two games. Altho neither of them are league games, the team is still working toward one goal: that of winning. Thruout the next few weeks the goal in every game will be to win.

This goal cannot be achieved by any one member of the squad or by the squad alone. How can it be? By co-operation!

Co-operation means working together for one purpose.

Who must work? The squad, the student body which must be present to support the squad, and the townspeople who can help by giving the student body a band.

The purpose? To win! To put the team of Andover High to the top by continued, ceaseless effort.

Start from the first to reach that goal which comes with the end of basketball season. Basketball season does not end it make the end of the goal, for you can use it in life as a successful finish line. Apply the spirit displayed in basketball to life.

Eight Reasons

WH[illegible]

1. It [illegible] such a good impression upon the teacher, thus [illegible] improving the chance of a [illegible] grade in the subject.

2. It is a tremendous aid to [illegible] thinking and to clear speech, especially in a foreign language.

3. It is such a habit among doctors, lawyers and prominent social leaders while at work or in public.

4. It is a great aid to personal charm and beauty, giving one the nonchalant contented air of a cow.

5. It is so especially becoming to people with greased hair, and dirty fingernails, and crooked heels.

6. It is such excellent training for tooth-pick chewing and tobacco spitting in later life.

7. It is such clear proof of one's democratic relationship to the lower animals, showing that what enters one's mouth is at all times more important than what goes into one's head.

8. It is a fine mark of distinction, proving that one can always secure promotion whenever the seats become too small, and that one can go to school six, eight and even 12 years without so much as even learning what decent classroom citizenship means.

THINK IT OVER!

Andover Outclasses Jasper

The Andover High School basketball team outclassed Jasper, the last year Steuben county class C champions, Tuesday evening at the Andover gymnasium by a 31 to 11 margin. Using the superior speed and height the Andover team took the lead at the start and were never headed. The score at half time was 13 to 3.

In the third quarter the team began to "click" and piled up a large score to put the game on ice. In the last quarter the second and third teams went in and played the remaining part of the game. Jasper came back and outscored Andover this quarter 7 to 2.

The team played well on defense and at times showed a good offensive game. Briggs, Joyce, Fullerson and Saunders were high scorers for Andover.

The line-up for the game was as follows:

Andover	Fgs	Fts	Pts.
G. Joyce, f	5	0	10
L. Fullerson, f	2	0	4

Andover Clashes With Almond

On Friday night the purple panthers will match themselves against the Almond basketeers. This will be the second encounter of the new season and the local boys will be out to win their second game.

The Almond team is an experienced one and will be waiting to avenge two defeats from the last season. In the opening game last Tuesday the panthers displayed a need for improvement in offense.

It is hoped that the team will be able to return to its last season form in this next encounter

Season Tickets Go On Sale

Beginning Monday of this week, basketball season tickets went on sale in the Junior-Senior home rooms. These tickets are issued for pupils only and give them admission to all home games for 75 cents. There are seven home games scheduled for the season with a possibility of an eighth.

At the "pep" meeting held in the high school gymnasium Tuesday morning, pupils were urged to buy a season ticket and support their team by attending every game.

Red Cross Drive

The original object of the Red Cross societies, a general name for a group of organizations found thruout the enlightened parts of the world, was solely to render aid to the sick and wounded on the battlefield or in the hospitals in time of war. Nations are not usually in a state of war, and not many years after the Red Cross was organized, it found opportunity to exercise in humanitarian impulses in relieving distress due to great calamities such as earthquakes, great fires or floods.

The President of the United States is president of the Red Cross Society, but its detailed operation is in the hands of officers of a committee whose chairman is named by the President. Every dollar given to it must be accounted for to government officials.

During the last few weeks, townspeople and faculty members have joined this organization which is performing such a noble mission in the world.

Christmas Operetta December 20

Snow reminds us of winter, winter reminds us of Christmas; Christmas reminds us of plays and exercises, and this reminds us of the two act operetta entitled "The Gift of the Magi," to be presented Tuesday evening, Dec. 20.

The cast includes about 50 grade children with additional support from 13 high school students. Some of the main characters include Virginia Loring, Arthur Temple, Donald Hardy, Virginia Joyce, Donald Northrup, Elaine Pope, Mary Baker, Victor Clark, and Susan McAndrew.

It is reported to be a very entertaining and well produced operetta which calls for a large attendance. It is being directed by Miss Evelyn Lloyd, music supervisor.

"Pep" Meeting Is Held

Tuesday morning a "pep" basketball meeting of all high and junior high school students was held. Mr. McGee announced that he wanted to see a large crowd at the Jasper vs. Andover game Tuesday night, and in future games this season.

The cheer-leaders then led a few cheers which could be heard very plainly after the second or third try.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the Andover High School song.

Season Tickets for Adults to be Offered

As a result of a popular demand for season tickets for the basketball season by townspeople interested in following the local high school team, a season ticket will be placed on sale next week to cover the remaining six or seven games of the season.

This adult season ticket will give admission to all home games and will cost $1.00, thereby making a considerable saving over the single admission price. The owner's name will be written on the ticket which is non-transferable. The season tickets will be sold by pupils in the upper grades and high school and a free season ticket will be given to every boy or girl selling five tickets.

Audiometer Test Reports Show Good Hearing

Reports of the audiometer tests for hearing given recently have been received from Mrs. Mary White of Rochester who gave the tests, and indicate that 97 per cent of the pupils in the school have normal hearing.

Of the 299 pupils tested, only eight showed defective hearing. These eight pupils who show some hearing loss will be further examined by the school physician who will make recommendations.

All pupils above the second grade were tested; the test is not adaptable to very young children in the first two grades, altho several second grade pupils were given special individual tests.

The cold weather in school seems to bother the boys more than it does the girls altho lots of the girls put their coats on.

I see George Joyce has taken his ear muffs out of the moth balls.

The French class had to play "Simon says" in French in order to keep warm, or wake up after vacation.

Plans seem to be in full swing to make the first girls' play day a success.

Now Bud Dolan has a pretty blue sweater. I take it that he didn't want to be outdone by Louis F.

The few "Life" magazines in the library are seeing a lot of use. It seems to be the favorite among the students.

The cheer leaders want new uniforms. How about it?

For a while, Jack Saunders didn't know whether he could sign his name or not on the list of those who wanted to go to the Hi Herald party.

Due to the lack of school last week there are few comments to make about school affairs, so I refer you to the Winchell column entitled, "What a Day!" and written by Syble W.

In this way the students [illegible] prepared for emergencies.

Grade News

Christmas Is Coming!

So the eighth grade's calendar plainly shows. This fine piece of workmanship was drawn by Paul Dunham and Chester Perry. It is really something worth traveling down there to see.

The first, second and fourth grades respectively, lead pupils this week when Charles, Frank Conner and Georgianna Howard served as Wellsville May they be Wellsville as all a Andover.

The sixth grade has started in on a competition contest for spelling. The names are not yet decided, the aspirants are Jerome Chilson and Craig Snyder.

It seems if a week can't go past without the seventh grade doing something. Here they are again with a poem worthy of higher praise and written by Norma Conner.

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving should mean a lot to folks like you and me.
More than a drum stick, and potatoes and gravy,
I like to think of the Pilgrims in the days of yore,
When they landed on the old New England shore
And all the hardships that they stood
And how they prayed even when times were not good.
Then I think of all the things I have and do,
I bow my head and say why I am thankful too.

Guess Who

Her hair? Is it red?
Oh! No! No! Is it blonde?
Oh! No! No! Just a pretty little brunette.
Her eyes? Blue.
She sits in the seventh period study hall and works faithfully on her home work. She has two brothers. One carts her around in the car. Can you guess yet? Well, here's a tip: She pals around with Betty Greene. I'm sure you know now. If you don't you can find out in next week's guess who.

Last week's Guess Who—Mrs. McGee.

English Student Writes Story

The following story was written by Marion Steadman:

"BENNY STEPS OUT"

My mother was very old fashioned. She dressed us kids well, but she was very fussy. I can remember it just as well as if it were yesterday, the night that Ma let Benny, my oldest brother, step out. Benny was nearly 20 years old and it was high time he was stepping out. When he was walking on the street with Ma, if he even looked at a girl he would get his ears boxed. This particular night there was a party at the school house and each boy had to invite a girl. Well Ma told Benny that he could go to the party if he got home at 10 o'clock. Pa didn't have anything to say in the "bossing" of us kids. When he did try to get a word in edgewise, Ma would yell at him, "Elmer, shut your mouth." Sometimes he wouldn't say a thing and she would yell at him just the same.

When Benny got ready to go, he put on his best suit which was a green and white check one. Ma made him wear his woolen hat to keep his ears warm. He was to take the Wilson girl who lived about a mile from us. Her mother was old fashioned too, but Benny and Jane made a good pair.

Ma got generous and gave Benny a quarter and told him not to spend it all in the same place and not to forget the little kids at home. She told Pa to walk down the road a short way with Benny, to see that he didn't step in any mud. Pa jumped at the chance to go. They had only gone a short distance when Pa asked Benny if he had any money. Benny told him that Ma gave him a quarter. Pa searched his pocket and took out a handful of change and gave it to Benny. Altogether he had a dollar and a half. He also told Benny to stay out as long as the rest of the boys stay and then to come home. He said that he would settle with Ma.

When 10 o'clock came and Benny didn't come, Ma began to just rave. Pa told her that it wasn't any use to say anything because he told Benny that he could stay out as long as the rest of the boys stay and then to come home. He said that he would settle with Ma.

Benny got home around 12 o'clock. When he came in, he expected to be struck over the head with a rolling pin, but instead she came up to him and said, "Did you have a good time, Benny?"

Benny nearly dropped right out of his shoes. Pa came into the kitchen and said, "Well, Benny, it kind of looks as if I was going to be boss around here for a while now. I had a good talk with your mother and she found that she did have a soft spot in her heart for you."

Ma said, "Benny, do you want to take Jane Wilson to the show tomorrow night?" Pa began to laugh and so did Benny. They sat up talking for about an hour. Then they all went to bed, happy for the first time in years.

Movie and Radio Guide

Radio—

"Mikes in Bellevue Hospital Tonight."

Famous old Bellevue hospital in New York will welcome CBS announcers and microphones to one of its floors for interviews with nurses on duty in another "Americans at Work" program. WKBW will broadcast it tonight at 10:30 p. m. There have been very few broadcasts directly from a hospital and the planned interviews will be unique in style and subject matter. This program will greatly benefit girls who are planning to become nurses.

It might be a good idea for the "jitterbugs" of Andover High School to listen to the Camel Caravan program of WKBW and CBS on Tuesday evenings. Not one of the students can deny that Benny Goodman has swing. Now that "jam-sessions" are becoming popular everywhere, why not try one out in Andover some Tuesday night?

Movie: "Now and Forever"

Next Friday and Saturday, Shirley Temple will return once more in "Now and Forever." With a good supporting cast, she makes this movie one of her most outstanding ones. The second feature for this night is "The Old Barn Dance," a Western.

"Hold That Co-Ed" will be at the theatre on Sunday and Monday. You will hear Marjorie Weaver and George Murphy introduce some new hit songs, besides seeing typical college life and football games.

What a Day!

THANKSGIVING NEWS

Don't tell anybody, but it was heard that Miss Cappuccilli ate too much turkey!! (Was she the only one?)

Betty Greene had a merry day indeed! She went visiting and had a misfortune while returning home. A wreck!

Miss Barrett took advantage of her vacation. She spent most of the day in peaceful slumber. It might be said that after such a feast many others followed her example.

The report that D. Farwell went skating after dinner.

Someone told that Robert Perry and Harold Rice had more than their share of dinner.

Miss Lloyd is glad Thanksgiving only comes once a year.

Carolyn Brundage of Greenwood was a guest of Mary Teresa Burns Friday and Saturday.

Sophia Kohut went to Canaseraga for her holiday. During the time she visited friends in Rochester.

Kathleen Howland enjoyed her vacation. She and some friends motored to Buffalo Wednesday and returned Friday.

Montrose Greene spent the day at his grandfather's home at Wellsville.

Bethel Millspaugh went home to Whitesville for the vacation.

Coretha Mead was lucky. She went to the show to complete her day.

Marion Burgett and Thelma Ahrens partook of the same chicken Thursday. Would you believe they both could eat a poor chicken?

Lyle Ordway stayed home next to the fire as the storm didn't seem very inviting to him.

Gerald Dolan slept the greatest part of the day.

Leo Nobles worked all day in a drug store.

Someone told that Don Lynch "stuffed" himself to capacity.

Anyway the vacation was a joyful time for most people. If your names are not included this time, well . . . . .

So long 'til Christmas!

DISH FOR THIS WEEK

Holiday Left-overs

The week after Thanksgiving or a similar holiday is usually a time of cold turkey sandwiches, of chicken soups or curries of creamed turkey or chicken on toast. Another and very delicious way to use up left-overs is:

Turkey (or other fowl) Rice Custards

¾ cup of cooked chicken or turkey, cut in small pieces.
¾ cup of rice, cooked and seasoned
Salt, to taste
Paprika, to taste
One cup of milk
Two eggs, beaten
Nutmeg

Mix fine-chopped chicken or turkey with an equal amount of cooked seasoned, dry rice. To each cupful and a half of these combined ingredients, add salt and paprika to taste, one cupful of milk, and two beaten eggs.

Heat this mixture over hot water, then put it into buttered custard cups. Set the cups in a pan of hot water, dust grated nutmeg lightly over the tops and bake the custards in a moderate oven until they set. Serve them hot.

To serve with the rice custards, the New York State College of Home Economics suggests this luncheon or supper menu: turkey rice custards; salad of celery, shredded lettuce and fine-chopped onion toss lightly together with French dressing; buttered toasted rolls and cranberry jelly; iced apple and cranberry sauce with [illegible] cookies; tea or coffee.
