Rev. Lucien H. Kerns, Pastor

Morning worship at 11:30. Sermon "The Secret of a Truly Happy New Year."

Sunday School at 10:40.

There will be no meeting of the Young People's Society this week. Owing to the Christmas night celebration, all the dates have been moved up one week. They will meet at the manse on January 8th.

The choir will meet at the church for rehearsal on Friday at 7:30 p. m. We hope that all those who served so faithfully and well for the Christmas programs will continue thru the New Year.

Plans are being perfected for the annual congregational meeting which is to be held on Sunday, January 8 in the church. There will be holy communion in the morning worship, followed by a fellowship dinner, with the business meeting around the tables afterward. All who have membership in the church or who contribute in any way to its support or who have children in the Sunday school are cordially invited to attend.

Again we call the attention of parents of young children to the service rendered by the girls of the Young People's society who are present each Sunday morning in the Sunday School rooms to care for small children while the parents attend the worship service. If you have been absent because of the care of your child, bring him with you. He will have a chance to play with others of his own age and will be well cared for.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Edward J. Cory, Minister

10:30 a. m., Public Worship. Sermon by the pastor, "A New Year's Message."

Let us start the New Year right by renewing our interest in sharing in the fellowship of the church. Nothing is more necessary today than the permeation of life with the spirit of true religion. Let our New Year's resolution be to go to church each Sunday morning unless prevented by sickness or emergencies. We are well aware that in order to meet the requirements of the immediate future as individuals and communities, we need moral and spiritual force more than physical and militant force. Let our church going become a habit to which we dedicate ourselves to become more efficient in our own life, and in service for others.

11:45 a. m., Church School. A new spirit in attendance at the school can be secured by a determination to assist in every way possible the superintendent and teachers. That which tends to disorganize our church departments of work is irregularity both in attendence and desire to do all possible to help forward the work in order that we may make the most permanent impression on the community life. We expect to see a good percentage of our school membership present on Sunday.

The Christmas party of Thursday of last week was a very great success in every way. There was an unusually large attendance and a happy spirit prevailed throughout. A very interesting program of music and readings was rendered. Candy and presents were distributed in which the children and adults had. Teachers put paster were also well remembered. Thanks are due to the Laydies Class for the [illegible] worship of the evening and [illegible] many men for the [illegible] provided.

CHRISTIAN AND MISSIONARY ALLIANCE

Rev. H. E. Wilson, Pastor

Prayer meeting and Bible study on Thursday evening, home of Will Youmans at 7:30 p. m. A very interesting study on the Life of St. Paul is now under way and great interest is being shown in the set of notes prepared for the study and all are cordially invited to attend and trust that we shall see many of you. This week's lesson brings to us the events between the 10th and 12th chapters of Acts, the happenings in Jerusalem and preparation for the first missionary journey. All come and bring your Bibles.

Young People, Friday evening is your night and the leader is Miss Katherine Perry with the meeting at her home. Cars will come and pick you up if word is given to the pastor. The cars will start at 7 p. m. Lesson is the second in the two-part series on "What is Prophecy", this is the beginning of 52 lessons on Bible prophecy and all should have a good foundation in this vital subject so as to thoroly understand it. All are cordially invited to attend.

New Year's Eve will find a "watch night" service in the Grange hall from 10 o'clock to midnight, a group of young people from the South Side Baptist church of Hornell will be with us to have part in the service. The leader for that night will be Miss Ruth Walton. Plan now to spend this night with us; see the old year 1938 "out" and the new year of 1939 "in" with us. A cordial invitation is extended to all church members to worship with us in Andover and vicinity.

Sunday School at 1:45 p. m., in the Grange hall. This week sees a new quarter beginning and all should start the new year off right by sending their children to Sunday school and coming themselves, so do your part and be in your class this coming Sunday. Lesson is on "Peter Called to Serve," the first of the character study on the Apostle Peter. All cordially invited.

Afternoon worship immediately following at 3 p. m., at which time the pastor will bring a New Year's message, "Our Resolutions to Man or God!" All invited to worship with us and immediately following we will observe the Lord's supper. This service is open to all.

Evangelistic service at 7:30 p. m. A stereoptican lecture of the Holy Bible will be presented entitled "Old Book Finding New Friends." A silver offering will be taken to defray expenses. All are cordially invited to find out how the Bible is sent forth and to whom it is sent to and by whom. Come on Sunday night and learn with us, all are cordially invited to attend and worship with us on this evening of the first Sunday of the New Year.

"Loyalty – What Is It?" By Rev. E. J. Cory

Nov. 30, 1938.

Dear Editor:

We have come upon strangely discriminating days. There are almost as many interpretations of loyalty as there are patriots, and one wonders whether principle is the standard of judgment or the cause which is served. It is true that a good man can in some respects glorify a bad cause, but only when he is ignorant that the cause is bad. It is one of the mysteries that good men are blind to the faults of others, and of causes which they serve. They may perhaps go on the basis that if you count your friends' faults you will have no friends left. It is not, however, the plan of wisdom to go about with eyes shut, simply to preserve the peace, and give no occasion for tumult. Ordinarily, bad causes are served by bad people, and good causes by good people. A great many people, however, will serve a cause whether it be good or bad, just because of the publicity they can get out of it. They do not want to be considered self-seekers, and would rather their motives remained unquestioned, and yet they cannot avoid the inevitable verdict of the crowd, finding themselves ultimately with a tarnished reputation.

People will sometimes seek to justify themselves by the popularity of the cause, forgetting that popularity does not of itself give virtue to any cause or enterprise. That is just what confronts us today. We yet have to learn the lesson that the majority is not always right. The standard is not the bigness or loudness of a cause, but the principle by which it is governed. Judged by the tests of history, it certainly would appear that the real heroes have been in alignment with minorities. I cannot see any sound reason why a majority must be supported when the whole past of civilization has secured its chief contributions from heroes and heroines who have labored either of themselves or with mere handfuls of helpers. This looks as the, while a cause or enterprise has been carried, yet the chief motive has been to carry an ideal, a principle or a truth. The great men of history have not stayed by a cause when it has ceased to support and advance their ideals. They needed causes in order to spread their ideals but that to which their lives were devoted were the ideals of truth and right with which their minds and hearts burned and labored. I wonder what would happen if we made the proper discrimination in these perplexing political times. A vast majority support a political party because of the cause only. The question of ideals does not enter in. Simply likes and dislikes of a selfish character are considered. Loyalty according to the real standards, is left in the lurch. It is but a name used in the defense of a fetish, some foolish idea contained in the slogan "Our party must win."

It is now nearly 20 centuries since the days of the great Master of men, and we have come no nearer to the supreme art of submitting ourselves to the truth for the truth's sake, than the people of that time. Esau still yields his birthright for a mess of pottage. With regard to things to be done, the enforcement of law, the elimination of politics from religion, the upholding of the rights of free speech, the defense of the ideals of our great Republic, what kind of material are we developing to even begin to do justice to these requirements? A way must surely be found by which no person can make any mistake as to the real meaning of loyalty, which in our judgment is a firm uncompromising stand in favor of the truth as a principle, upheld and advanced by institutions which place nothing in the way of its proper recognition, and make possible its extension everywhere. With this spirit ingrained, working in the individual, the family, the community, no mistake would be made as to the attitude to be taken towards great questions in politics, religion and the like, and the sidestepper, the meddler, the place-seeker and the knocker would be monstrosities of the past. Right would triumph, and the truth come into its own.

Sincerely yours,

EDWARD J. CORY.

Oil Paintings of Justices In New Court House

Oil painting portraits of four former and the present justice of Allegany Supreme Court grace the walls of the new court house.

Former County Judge Walter N. Renwick, Cuba, was chairman of the committee in charge of placement of the pictures. The portrait of Supreme Court Judge Bernard B. Ackerman was placed in the main courtroom. It has not been the custom heretofore to honor any supreme court judiciary in such a way during his lifetime. The other four portraits are: the late Judge Charles H. Brown of Belmont; late Judge Martin Grover of Angelica, Hamilton Ward and Hamilton Ward II, both of Belmont.

Local Happenings

Frank Holmes is recovering from a two weeks illness.

Mrs. Francis Krusen entertained the Thimble Club at her home on Water street, Tuesday afternoon.

The Home Bureau will hold their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. H. S. Livermore Thursday, Jan. 12. The lesson will be on the making of games and toys.

William B. Manley, 79, president of the Bank of Belfast is Allegany county's oldest active banker. He is a veteran of 57 years in the banking profession.

A watch night party will be held at the Baptist parsonage this coming Saturday evening. An entertainment of games will be followed by a watch night service from 11:30 until 12.

The local telephone operators held their annual Christmas party at the office Friday evening. The time was passed playing games and the exchange of gifts which was followed by refreshments.

The license of Edwin E. Perkins of Wellsville was revoked for driving while intoxicated and the license of Jay S. Scott of Friendship was revoked for reckless driving, according to the latest report from the Motor Vehicle Bureau.

The sweet and haunting carols that have been the priceless possession of the ages, those charming phrases of song and melody which echoed thru the homes and churches in our community added much to the Christmas festivities.

The many friends of Miss Doris Robinson of Alfred will be glad to know she has improved from her recent operation and able to be with her family at the home of her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hann of Andover for Christmas dinner.

Thru the thoughtful individuals and the many organizations in Allegany county the "believers" in Santa Claus and the grown-ups have been made happy who otherwise might be without holiday cheer. Each year more effort is made that all children who might not be well supplied with toys and candy are remembered.

We have noted thru the papers that eggs are being classified by their weight rather than by size.

Plans for the senior ball at the Friendship central school materialized and it looks like the largest ball ever held in that town.

The production of crude oil rose a slight degree beginning the week of December 17. The output was however lower per barrel than produced last year at this time.

Mrs. Avery Mead was hostess to the L. L. Bridge club Tuesday evening at her home. Honors went to Miss Emma Folsing and Mrs. Florence Bloss.

At the regular meeting of Andover Odd Fellows Tuesday evening, the degree team conferred the third degree on a class of four candidates from Friendship.

The Eagle Scouts of Seneca Council are looking forward to their annual reunion to be held this Thursday at the Olean House. Judge Orla E. Black of Salamanca will be the speaker at the dinner.

About 80 attended the Baptist Sunday School Christmas party held in the church parlors Friday evening. Games were played and refreshments served. Gifts were distributed from the Christmas tree and a very enjoyable time reported.

John Matylas, Bolivar, is in the Mountain Clinic at Olean seriously injured when his light car struck a heavy oil tank almost headon early Christmas morning near Portville. X-rays revealed a fractured skull. He is a 1937 graduate of Bolivar central school and was editor-in-chief of the "Gusher," year-book also a member of the senior band.

Continue Toy and Game Making

Dr. Margaret Wylie, child specialist of the Cornell University college of Home Economics, will visit Allegany county January 5 and 6 and teach lesson No. 3 to local leaders in the course on the making of home games and toys. On the 5th the lesson will be held in the Wellsville Methodist Episcopal church and on the 6th in the Cuba-Rushford. Both meetings to begin at 10.

Where There is Light There is Health

"Where there is light there is health." In order that the phrase may be given a meaning we are asking everyone in Allegany county for a five minute period on New Year's Day, preferably before you eat your dinner, to please light up your Christmas decorations dedicating them to the health of the undernourished and underprivileged children of Allegany county and expressing the hope that they thru the sale of Christmas Seals will be given a chance to improve mentally, physically and morally so as to have an equal chance to become healthful citizens of the county, state and nation. Let us all remember to do this.

The general postoffice department under a special ruling this year for the first time permits the use of Christmas seals on the front of letters until January 15th. Until that date, won't you please continue to use the seals for "Health Greetings" in 1939.

Fire Prevention Hints

It never pays to use oversize fuses. A fire may result. An extension or lamp cord under a rug may wear and cause a short, resulting in a blaze. Never answer the door and leave an iron which is turned on. This has caused a loss of hundreds of homes. A carbon-tetrachloride extinguisher is the type to use on electrical fires as it is a non-conductor of electricity.

Held on Burglary Charge

Of the nine prisoners in the county jail at Belmont over Christmas was Ignatius Mikolajezyk, 20, single, unemployed pipe fitter, Olean, arrested in that city Saturday after an investigation of a robbery of the Cuba G.L.F. mill-store office Friday night. After an examination before Justice of the Peace Benson L. Smith, Cuba, the accused was ordered held for grand jury consideration of a charge of burglary, third degree and committed Saturday to the county jail. The office had been pretty thoroly ransacked and papers removed from files, etc., evidently in a search for money.

The man under arrest paid a $25 fine and $12 restitution for petit larceny at Humphrey, N. Y., in 1936 and passed 100 days in the Little Valley jail after conviction of assault, third degree, at Portville in October, 1937.
