RANDOM RALPH By SHOTS SHAFF

It sorta looks like the powers that be are going to whack off a chunk of trout fishing on both ends of the 1940 season.

Owing to the prolonged drought in this state last summer, there is going to be a shortage of trout in the streams, that is sure.

There were plenty fish trapped right here in Dyke creek above the Stearns Crossing. I myself saw at least 15 legal fish dead in one hole and some of them well over a pound. There were some three and four inch trout put in these streams last fall to grow up if possible, yet none of these will be legal size of seven inches in 1940.

The new proposed season opens on May 1 and closes July 31st, nearly a month off each end of the season.

For years the pickerel and great northern pike season has opened on May 1st, then ten days later the wall-eyed pike season opened. Now there is some agitation to get the seasons to open on the same date, either May 1st or 10th. There seems to be something about the later spawning season of the wall eyes is the reason for the later season. How about having the trout and all the rest open May 1st exclusive of bass? Say if they started that, there would be more howls from fishermen than there is now over this split license and yet they have been certain factions asking for this split license business for years and now hear them yell.

Next Friday evening is Club meeting night. I hope there is a good turnout, to get fish and game line-up for next year by Gardiner Bump.
